Fur Trapping $275,000 Business In Southern Part of Province

MAPLE — Lucrative fur trapping is not confined to the far northern vastnesses. Some 2,500 part-time or week-end trappers in the southern region of the province are now harvesting an annual crop of furs netting them about $275,000.

"Trapping today can be a pleasant recreation as well as one that pays a nice profit for the length of time involved," says J. S. Dorland, assistant senior conservation officer for the Lake Simcoe district whose headquarters are here.

Mr. Dorland gives an illuminating account of part-time trapping in Syiva, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests bi-monthly review.

"At first, I though I had walked in on a business men's meeting," says Mr. Dorland in his article "Trapping, A Business" "Well, I had. They were business men. Their business—trapping.

"The men were not a bit like what most people imagine trappers are. These clean-shaven, well-groomed chaps who roam our swamps and streams in search of furs have, with the help of the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Department of Lands and Forests, turned a part-time job into a profitable business.

"Throughout the major part of Ontario today, trappers are formed into associations called trapping councils. They meet at least once a year with Department officials to discuss various techniques in trapping, pelting, and marketing their furs. At these meetings they also view pictures on wildlife and demonstrations on the proper methods of skinning and stretching their furs. In general, the meetings allow discussion on any topic which would be of benefit to the trapper.

"In the southwestern region, these part-time trappers do their trapping in their spare time, or arrange their vacation to that it coincides with the open seasons. Sometimes they are jealously called Sunday or weekend trappers. But, them what you will, they are now harvesting furs that net them approximately $275,000 a year.

"Pocket money? Well, in some cases it is. But let's take a look at two brothers, one a business executive, the other filling a lesser role in industry, in their spare time, they harvest aproximately $1,000 worth of fur each year within a ten-mile radius of their homes.

"Also, there is a farmer who controls a marsh where, in a few weeks each year, he may average a little more or a little less than $200. These are only two cases where, with proper knowledge and some initiative, much more than pocket money is the reward.

"Through the years, trapping has been thought of as a man's job. However, books on early history of our country speak of the hardy women-folk who worked traplines when their men were ill, with-standing all the loneliness and hardships of a wilderness trapline the same as a man could.

"Today, with the wilderness gone in the southern part of the province, and the hardships modified considerably, we still have women trapping fur-bearing animals.

"During 1951-52, a young woman in the Lake Simcoe district successfully worked a trapline, harvesting more than the average number of mink and muskrat usually taken by men. This year, another young woman, not to be outdone by her trapper husband, is trapping muskrats.

"The thrill of trapping these small fur-bearers along our streams and marshes can be felt only by those who enjoy such pastimes. Of course, you have to have the know-how.

"Trapping successfully does not mean just setting a trap anywhere. A certain amount of knowledge concerning the animal's habitat, habits, proper method of setting traps, baits, scent to be used, animal track language, pelting, marketing and a full understanding of nature are essential. To obtain this knowledge is not necessarily a long drawn out affair. Last year, a young lad who had trapped just two years previously took near top market prices for his mink and muskrat.

"Although the fur prices today have not kept in line with other commodities the fur-bearing animals such as mink, raccoon and beaver have steadily increased throughout the southwestern region. Muskrat, which took a sudden decline a few years ago, is again on the increase. Travel on any highway will show one how plentiful the skunk is.

"To become a part-time trapper, a person must be a British subject at least 16 years of age and a resident in the area in which one desires to trap. An applications should be made to the local Conservation Officer accompanied by a fee of $5 to cover the cost of a resident trapper's licence. Coincident with the application being accepted, a licence will be issued. Then, having first obtained permission from the landowner on whose property the trapper intends to trap, he or she is in business.

"At the close of the trapping season, the trapper must report to the Department of Lands and Forests the harvest of fur and to whom the fur was sold. In this way, the Department can compile its data on the species and number of fur-bearers taken in each area. These data assist in forming policy on when, where and for how long seasons should be allowed so as to avoid any possible chance of trapping any one species out of existence."

Canadian 'Hate Sheet' Succeeded in Misleading PC Senator Says Croll

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator David Croll says a Canadian "hate sheet" succeeded in misleading Senator Felix P. Quinn (PC—Nova Scotia).

Senator Croll, Ontario Liberal, told the Senate Wednesday that discussion of the Stratford Festival in the Senate Tuesday was "a hellyful of smears."

Senator Croll spoke after Senator Quinn corrected a statement he had made Tuesday when he asked the government leader, Senator Walter Aseltine, to take steps to have the Stratford Festival cancel a scheduled appearance next week of U.S. poet Langston Hughes.

In support of his allegation that Mr. Hughes was a "blasphemous creature" Senator Quinn on Tuesday quoted from a publication called the Canadian Intelligence Service, whose head-quarters started with a one-paragraph reprint of a Toronto Globe and Mail theatre-page item of June 14.

RETRACTS STATEMENT

The senator today retracted his assertion that the whole Canadian Intelligence Service article was a reprint from The Globe and Mail.

"All the paragraphs purported to have been taken from The Globe and Mail, but the fact is that only the first paragraph was a quotation from that newspaper and the remainder of the article as I quoted was comment by the Canadian Intelligence Service itself."

Post office records indicate the Canadian Intelligence Service, a tiny four-page pamphlet, is monthly published at Flesherton, Ont., by Rev. Gerhard Lehmann, who said during the Tuesday night debate that they had been sent copies of the publication "gratuitously."

The article the senator read from the pamphlet described Mr. Hughes as the writer of an anti-Christian poem entitled, Good-bye Christ.

It began with a one-paragraph excerpt from The Globe and Mail's reporting Mr. Hughes' engagement to appear in connection with Stratford Festival series of jazz concerts. But the pamphlet did not mention the rest of its article as being other than its own viewpoint.

"I wish to repeat that this hate sheet misled one honorable colleague, as it was intended to mislead him, and as it is intended to mislead others."

Senator Croll said the Nova Scotia senator, however, still was leaving an impression he had created in his Tuesday night speech on the Stratford Shakespearean Festival is receiving $100,000 from the taxpayers.

"That, of course, is a gross exaggeration," Senator Croll said. The council's report showed the festival received $50,000 from the council during the last year to assist an early construction. Festival but also its music and film festivals.

The article's purpose had been to "smear the Canada Council and the Stratford Shakespearean Festival."

"These are two lovely and wonderful institutions that have been developed within this country in the past few years, which make all Canadians proud and the envy of the rest of the world. Any attack upon them, no probable colleague did yesterday and today, I think we can nip-toe out of this very nicely; and I think I would express the general feeling of the Senate saying that we have had a bellyful of smears."

Any UN Action in Mid-East Hedged by Technicalities

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Whatever action the United Nations pursues in the Middle East crisis, for now will be hedged by legal technicalities.

Under the UN charter any country can take measures of self-defence if it feels itself endangered from outside. But the interpretation of any such action varies widely and in direct proportion to the interests of the outside countries involved.

Thus Russia has in effect accused the United States of committing armed aggression through Tuesday's landing of American troops in Lebanon. But less than two years ago, Russia stood accused by the U.S. and the rest of the free world for taking the same action—not involving bloodshed and brutalities—during the Hungarian revolt.

The UN charter clearly states that the internal affairs of any country are not subject to intervention by the world organization. But in the case of the Korean War in 1950 it did work when the aggressor nation of the day was encountered their forces to combat the aggression. Communist North Korea and stayed to battle the opposing "volunteers" from Red China.

There has been talk in these crucial days of a possible appeal spearheaded by the U.S., to deal with the latest outbreak. Washington has justified its Lebanese landing by the Lebanon government's call for help. But to help embattled Iraq, the U.S. forces now in Lebanon would have to cross the territory of Nasser's United Arab Republic to reach Iraq across speedily. And the U.A.R.'s Syrian member could justifiably call this an aggression.

Whether the legal line will be crossed by a chalk line is the big problem now.

Then there is the question of the Security Council, the UN's official peace-keeping body which can be called into session without any special authorization by the UN General Assembly, carefully skirted the Iraqi threat in the first meeting on the alleged problem of Lebanon which has been on the council's books since it broke out in the early spring.

A negative vote by any of the big powers is a council veto, and Russia has used this to frustrate resolutions by the U.S. and Russia facing it, such a veto is inevitable when the cold war is concentrated.

KOREAN PRECEDENT

The alternative following such a veto is action by the calling on behalf of any of the major powers, of an emergency session of the UN General Assembly, where a two-thirds majority vote prevails and the veto is inoperative.

But there again technicalities come up. The assembly has no legislative powers, but only "recommend" or "call on" in the event of aggression. But in the case of the Korean War in 1950 it did work when the angles were played right. That is the assembly called on the UN members to help South Korea and stayed to battle the opposing "volunteers" from Red China.

Mackenzie King Biographer Dies In Nova Scotia

Official biographer of the late prime minister Mackenzie King, Dr. Dawson died in hospital here Wednesday night at the age of 63 with only the first of a projected three-volume work on the former Liberal chieftain ready for publication.

Funeral arrangements were not known immediately.

Dr. Dawson was widely known as a Canadian historian and political scientist. His writings had won two Governor - General's Awards.

He was vacationing at his family home in his native Bridgewater, N.S., when the fatal illness overtook him. He lived most of the year in Ottawa, but spent many summers in Nova Scotia.

It was learned that at his death, he had completed the first volume of William Lyon Mackenzie King, 1874-1923, and begun work on the second. The first is in proof-reading stage.

MADE OUTLINE NOTES

In Ottawa, one of the four King literary executors who chose Dr. Dawson as the biographical successor said the professor had made outline notes for all three volumes.

F. A. McGregor added that a successor will be chosen and work on the volumes continued.

Mr. McGregor said Dr. Dawson proved himself to be a fine historian as well as a political scientist through his work on the biography.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States army blasted a Jupiter intermediate - range ballistic missile 1,500 miles across the Atlantic today and recovered its nose cone after a successful re-entry from space.

The recovery of the nose cone was announced about two hours after the missile thundered aloft from this Atlantic coast base.

It was the second time a full-scale IRBM nose cone survived the fiery dive from space through earth's atmosphere at a speed of 19,000 miles an hour and was recovered.

Officials announced that the re-entry vehicle, the first one on the sealed problem of Lebanon which has been on the council's books since it broke out in the early spring.

Free World's Oil Situation Better Than in Suez Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — Arab nationalists in Syria, Egypt and Iraq could cause a lot of trouble for western Europe's industry by the flow of much of the Middle East's oil in reinitiation for the American move into Lebanon.

But the free world's oil situation today is a lot less tight than it was during the Suez crisis, when closing of the Suez Canal and sabotage of one of the Syrian pipelines to the eastern Mediterranean caused a petroleum crisis in western Europe. Many western European countries were forced to ration oil supplies.

For one thing, there is a large surplus tanker capacity available now for any emergency.

For another thing, there currently is available, according to estimates of industry officials in New York, a large unused production capacity in the U.S., Venezuelan and Canadian oil fields.

American oil industry officials also estimate that west European countries, which learned the hard way in the Suez crisis, are keeping fair sized oil reserves on hand.

Here are some figures:

Total oil production of the non-Communist world has been running at 15,000,000 barrels a day during the last 12 months. Of this, 4,000,000 barrels a day are produced in the Middle East.

About 900,000 barrels a day flow to market through pipelines which cross Syria and Lebanon to the eastern Mediterranean. Arab nationalists with or without the connivance of their governments could stop this flow very easily—as they did during the Suez crisis —and Lebanese rebels already have threatened to do this.

But hanging over the heads of any Arab hotheads who think they could bring the West to its knees by cutting off Arab oil is about 2,500,000 to 2,000,000 barrels a day of unused capacity in the United States, Venezuela and Canada.

The flow of wells there has been cut back or is being held in reserve because of oversupply on the world markets. In a major crisis this production could be turned on and in time transported to western Europe to meet oil needs.

And, as American oil men point out, if the West needs Arab oil, the Arabs need Western money just as much.

Farm Laborers Dragged From Beds, Assaulted

CHATHAM (CP) — Two middle - aged farm laborers were dragged from their beds Wednesday night and assaulted and robbed by a pair of bandits who fled with $66.

August Najoras, about 50, is in satisfactory condition in hospital with head and chest injuries. Ignac Santa, also about 50, did not require medical attention for the head injuries he received at the hands of the robbers.

Police say the two were aroused from their sleep by a knock on the door. Santa got out of bed and went to the door and as he opened it a fist was thrust through the opening striking him in the face. The door was forced open and the two men, unarmed by the occupants of the small cabin, entered. The thugs beat up Najoras, tied the cabin and made their getaway by car, and many wounded."

Lloyd Meets With Dulles On Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd met with President Eisenhower at 4:30 p.m. EDT to review the crisis which has sent U.S. and British troops into Lebanon and Jordan.

Lloyd, accompanied by defence chief Sir William Dickson, arrived here at 10:56 a.m., and after conferring with Sir Pierson Dixon, leader of Britain's United Nations delegation in New York. He had flown overnight from London.

Hockey Referee Stabbed, Miner Held for Murder

Teck Township Police Chief Edward Dyment said Robinson, Kirkland Lake resident, 35, both of Kirkland Lake, and associates Kenrick and McCullough were in McCullough's room when a fight broke out.

Sergeant Detective Smith said he met Robinson, a home-made knife in his possession, walking in the hand, coming down the hotel stairs. He quoted Robinson as saying: "I was vicious," while handing him the knife, handle first.

A neighbor said Robinson was a "quiet, well-liked person" who played with the Canadian Army in the Second World War.

"He was a good hockey referee," said the neighbor.

McCullough was born in Oshawa and moved to South Porcupine 15 years ago, a trusty for the Canadian Liquid Air Company, he refereed for the last six years in South Porcupine Mines Senior Hockey League.

He is survived by his wife, the former Betty McIntosh, a teacher at Whitney Public School, and daughter, Betty, 14.

Hotel manager Stan Brown said McCullough was a regular guest, had registered a couple of days earlier.

Hannigan said McCullough invited him to come to his room and have a few Robinsons, whom he had met at a ball game. Later Robinson said he was leaving home and left. Hannigan said, while Mrs. Robinson was present, Robinson wanted to finish a drink. Robinson returned, however, within five minutes.

Another friend, who was in the room earlier, said a number of people dropped in but that there was no formal party.

He would probably ask for an immediate adjournment after Robinson entered his plea.

Refiners Will Not Support New Pipeline

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal refiners have lined up solidly against proposals to help solve marketing problems of the hard-pressed Prairie operators by building a new pipeline to transport crude oil from Western Canada to this rich market area.

Canadian Petrofina Limited, affiliated with a Belgian oil company having international operations, told the Borden energy commission Wednesday that oil operators on the Prairies are going through hard times, but added they went into the business with their eyes open." They should not now be asking for government help.

"It's up to the producers to solve their own problems and to improve their own conditions. There will be some lean years, but they're part of the game," said President A. C. Campo of Petrofina Limited.

He contended private enterprise cannot reasonably expect governments to come to its rescue when times are bad and allow it to operate freely when times are good.

Mr. Campo said that even if Petrofina Limited decided to build a pipeline and to operate it as a common carrier, the project probably would not be profitable for his company to take over-all responsibility at this time.

USES KUWAIT OIL

The Canadian Petrofina refinery, started here in 1953, was originally designed to use crude oil from the tiny Persian Gulf sheikdom of Kuwait. The company said the difference in cost between Kuwait crude and North East could not be offset under normal conditions.

"Canadian Petrofina made a large investment in its refinery here. However, the plant was built to handle Kuwait crude and to benefit from its low price."

Mr. Campo said his firm is "vitally interested" in increasing the Canadian market produced oil. It plans to construct a refinery to process Prairie crude in Ontario as soon as the volume of its sales warrant it. He believes he expected this to occur in 1961 or 1962.

Preference Given to CBC-TV In Coverage of Royal Tour Annoys Press Photographers

VICTORIA (CP) — Preferential treatment to CBC television photographers when Princess Margaret reviewed ships of three navies Tuesday threatens to bring protests from newspapers and news agencies.

Thirteen leading print press photographers emerged from what they called a "black hole of Calcutta" below decks of HMCS crescent and found that CBC television cameras had been focusing on the princess and the fleet for more than an hour.

The photographers were released from the sailor - guarded mess for a three-minute period of photographing the princess. Later they were permitted to take their pictures from the hole and were allowed on the bridge as the ship approached port.

The photographers were not allowed to carry their cameras equipment into the mess room. When they went aboard they were told they would be permitted to stow their cameras in a separate cabin.

Newspaper reporters were not permitted on the ship.

ASKS INVESTIGATION

In Ottawa, a member of Parliament, Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena) asked for a investigation of the treatment of the press photographers. Secretary of State Noulan said he expects Defence Minister Pearkes will make a statement after he returns to Ottawa from Victoria Thursday.

All accredited press photos Margaret's tour in B.C. were in the hands of provincial officials. Arrangements were made by Vancouver, however, were subject to approval by Buckingham Palace Rayner.

Net result of the restrictions was a good CBC television program and skimpy photographic coverage by newspapers.

Generally press arrangements for the tour have run smoothly.

There were photographer protests after the princess left Ottawa. Government House Monday because camera fans were allowed on the train while press photographers were herded about by Deputy Provincial Secretary E. A. Pennington and Assistant Commissioner W. W. Judge of the RCMP.

House Approves More Loans To Farmers, Now 120 Million

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons has passed legislation providing of more loans to farmers—up to a maximum of $120,000,000—and moves into high gear on the appropriating legislation.

It also passed Wednesday four other government measures of relatively minor importance, give municipalities the right to levy rising death duties on estates and brieftly touched on several bills making technical changes in the program of cash advances on farm-stored grain.

Bills which received third and final reading and were sent to the Senate for its approval included:

1. Two bills implementing commitments for expenditure of double taxation on incomes between Canada and Belgium and Canada and the Belgian territories of the Congo and Ruanda-Urundi.

2. A measure authorizing the release to Nova Scotia of 16 hectares of land in Cape Breton Highlands National Park, to be used for a Nova Scotia power development in return the federal government receives five hectares of land around the historical site of the Samuel de Champlain habitation at Port Royal, N.S.

DEBATE FARM LOANS

The most extended debate of the half-day sitting Wednesday measure boosting the capital stock of the Canadian farm loan board to $6,000,000 from $4,000,000.

Since the board can lend up to 20 times its capital stock, the bill means that its lending capacity will increase from $120,000,000 to $80,000,000.

The bill does not change the terms under which loans are made, a factor that prompted a position member to request longer repayment periods, lower interest rates and higher loans.

Finance Minister Fleming replied that the government is taking a comprehensive review of the Canadian Farm Loan Act, the Farm Improvements Loan Act and the Veterans Lands Act to see how the three can be expanded in scope and improved in their administration.

Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) said the legislation will not ease the need for farm credit, especially in sections like Northern Ontario where an unpaid family farm costs about $45,000.

Sent for Trial

BRANTFORD (CP) — Allen Goldrick, 37, of Hespeler, charged with the armed robbery of the Bank of Montreal in St. George last October Wednesday was committed for trial by judge and jury.

Arthur Charles Moreland, 36, of Galt, was sent for trial June 19 years in Kingston penitentiary for his part in the holdup, was brought here Ib testify as a Crown witness.

Moreland said that Goldrick had been his partner and that Goldrick had taken the bank and escaped with more than $2,500.

Goldrick was also identified in court as the gunnerly Beir of Toronto a bank teller at the time of the robbery.

4-H CLUB WEEK

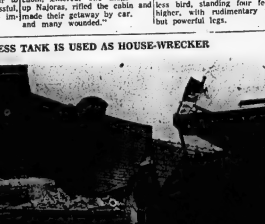
OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs announces 1958 National 4-H Club Week will be held Nov. 15-30, with celebrations centred in Toronto. The council also announced its 1959 annual meeting will be held at Toronto May 4-6.

Canadian Forces Ready To Move Into Lebanon

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian troops are ready to move into Lebanon if the United Nations decides to send a force there, Defence Minister Pearkes said today.

Mr. Pearkes told the Commons that Canada has been asked to provide a unit for the UN force, but he refused to say how many troops would be involved.

He said the request was received Tuesday night.



Mr. Pearkes said the Canadian troops would be drawn from the Canadian contingent in Germany.

He said the troops would be flown to Lebanon by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

GUNLESS TANK IS USED AS HOUSE-WRECKER

Though it has been retired from duty with the armed services, this Sherman tank does as much damage without guns as it ever did for the army. The tank belongs to Harrisburg, Pa., contractor Oscar Light, who uses it to demolish houses. The tank can knock down a house in three minutes, which is homewrecking on the grand scale.

MADOC JUNCTION

Eggleton WMS, W.A. Holds Union Meeting

MADOC JUNCTION — On Thursday the annual summer union meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A., Mission Band and Baby Band was held at the church in the afternoon. There were 10 adults, 17 Mission Band members and five Baby Band members in attendance.

Mrs. Forde Stapley presided over a program which she and the Baby Band leader, Mrs. Murney Kirkey, had prepared.

For the opening hymn, "Jesus Loves the Little Children," was sung with Miss Joanne Reide at the piano, after which a prayer was read by Isabelle Frest and a lovely poem, "A Mother's Prayer," by Mrs. F. Stapley.

Sharon Reide, Beverley Stapley and Sheila Clarke sang, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer," and "Johnny's Opinion of Grandmothers" was given by Glenn Stapley.

Lloyd Clancy gathered the offering which was dedicated with prayer by Mrs. C. Fitchett, and a poem was read by Diane Frest.

Another lovely hymn was sung by Lorraine Matthews, Sharon Reide and Cherrie Matthews.

A poem "Grandmother's Day" sent by Mrs. A. Andrews, was read by Mrs. Fitchett, after which Miss Annamae Clarke rendered a lovely solo, "Take Time to Pray."

Mrs. Stapley, on behalf of Mrs. Kirkey and herself, thanked all who had assisted on the program.

The children, under the guidance of Mrs. Maurice Clancy, enjoyed playing games on the church lawn. Later, the children were asked to be seated in a large circle and the ladies of the W.M.S. and W.A. served abundant refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, candy and lemonade.

It was decided to hold the August meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. at the church in the evening, on Thursday, August 14th. Mrs. Harry Clarke was appointed to prepare the program.

Little visitors, who are holidaying here and assisted on the July program were Lorraine and Cherrie Matthews, Brampton and Valerie and Ronald Wilson of Peterborough.

BURY LIQUOR

ST. LOUIS (AP) — More than 1,400 bottles of liquor and wine, caught in a warehouse flood recently, don't get a private burial because they have been contaminated. "I'd rather not say where we're going to bury it," said Roy Kiergan, a deputy federal marshal. "We want this to be a private funeral without too many mourners."

Stork Stalls Johnson Trip To Giants

TORONTO (CP) — The stork foiled the machinations of the National and International baseball Leagues Wednesday.

Johnson was expected on the West coast in time for the Giants game against Philadelphia Wednesday but neither team knew what had become of him between Toronto and San Francisco.

Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Toronto club received a phone call from Mrs. Johnson Wednesday night saying it was her fault her husband was late in reporting and that he would take the first available plane out of his home town Montreal, for the San Francisco.

Mrs. Johnson is expecting a baby at any moment.

Soccer Players Are Expelled For Smuggling

VIENNA (AP) — Severe punishment was meted out by Bulgarian Communist authorities against eight soccer players accused of smuggling.

The players, from the teams Satvila and Kokonolly, were expelled from the soccer association or barred from playing for one year. Two players, Peter Parev and Metchka Dimitrova, were decived of their title "champion sportsman."

The two teams also were barred from international matches for one year.

Harness Double Paid $647,10

TORONTO (CP) — The spotlight was on trotters rather than pacers at Old Woodbine Wednesday night as one of them helped set up the largest daily double of the year, a whopping $647.10.

The big double was completed by Safety Man 2nd owned by Miss J. Fourrier of Hull, Que., and driven by Omer Knight.

The seven-year-old gelding returned the $647.10 for the second race after the pacing mare Vicky Todd, owned and driven by Jack Keeling of Waldemar, Ont., had won the first and paid $38.90 to win.

The Fort Erie Stakes drew 15 entries and was divided into two divisions, each of which went two heats. Hi Jinnet, owned and driven by Harry Bigger of Fruitland, scored a first and a second in its division, finishing behind Master Volo, owned and driven by Alan McKinney of Toronto.

Leafs Shave Game off Royals' Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The coming weekend could well decide the International Baseball League pennant.

It could habit Toronto Maple Leafs, defending league champions, into a tie, with Montreal Royals, currently leading the loop, or give the Royals plenty of elbow room.

The Leafs, recently beating their heads against a stone wall while attempting to gain some ground on the Royals, shaved a game off Monday's lead Wednesday night with a 6-4 win over Buffalo Bisons in Toronto while the Royals were being beaten 5-2 by the Red Wings in Rochester on Jimmy Mann's pitching, the circuit's hottest team at present. The Leafs made eight victory in the last nine games—a 6-4 decision over Richmond Virginians—to remain two games behind third place Rochester. Columbus Jets and

Champ Says He's Impressed With Harris' Unbeaten Mark

MONTICELLO, N. Y. (AP)—Floyd Patterson says he expects Roy Harris to be a tougher opponent than Pete Rademacher was when he last defended his heavyweight boxing title a year ago.

Patterson and his manager, Cus D'Amato, will leave for California Friday.

"I expect Harris to be tougher than Rademacher," the champion told reporters. "I expect every fight to be tougher than the one before and I expect to be in better shap."

The champ, who has lost only one of 34 pro starts since he returned home with the Olympic middleweight title in 1952, says he never has seen Harris in action.

"The only thing I know 'about' him is that he is unbeaten. That is enough to impress me.

"I will be prepared to go 15 rounds if I have to. Certainly, I'll go for a quick knockout if I get a chance."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California athletic commission Wednesday reaffirmed its approval of the heavyweight championship boxing match in Los Angeles between Floyd Patterson and Roy Harris after promoter Bill Rosensohn testified Al Weill was entirely out of the picture.

After that, the commission suspended the manager's licence of Weill, who piloted Rocky Marciano, former heavyweight champion. Commission chairman Dan Kilroy asked that the licence be permanently revoked.

Although there was no discussion on the motion for temporary suspension, Jack Hirch, the commission's executive officer, said Tuesday Weill was less than frank at a recent hearing at which he unsuccessfully sought a promoter's license.

Weill sought to promote the fight between champion Patterson and Harris at Los Angeles, Aug. 18. The commission turned him down on June 24th.

The commission Wednesday also overruled a protest of the Miami Beach, Fla., athletic commission which complained Harris should not be allowed to fight Patterson until he had fulfilled a contract to meet Willie Pastrano there.

Would Play Allan Cuppers For North American Title

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The Eastern Hockey League Wednesday admitted New York Rovers as a seventh member. But it refused to take an any of the members of the ailing International League or play as interlocking schedule with them.

The International is down to three clubs—Louisville, Ky.; Toledo, Ohio, and Fort Wayne, Ind. —and they had representatives at a meeting here. So did Troy, Ohio, which is considered virtually out of the International. Cincinnati and Indianapolis are out of the International for at least a year because of trouble in raising an aren.

The directors of the two leagues decided to hold a post-season playoff between their league champions with the winner of that series to challenge Canada's Allan Cup champions.

In Chambly, Que., president Bob LeBel of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said he saw no reason why the winner of an EHL-IHL playoff could not challenge the Allan Cup holders—but not for the Allan Cup.

"If it is feasible to have such a series, I see nothing wrong in proposing one. We must help amateur hockey, and we would like to help those two leagues."

He said he was under the impression the Allan Cup itself can only be challenged for by teams playing in a Canadian league, but the Allan Cup winner could possibly take on the IHL-EHL winner for a North American championship.

But George Dudley, CAHA secretary-manager, saw little chance of such a series. In a telephone interview from his Midland, Ont., home he said:

"It would run so late in the season it couldn't be a success. We've ended early in May recent years. I don't think our teams would curtail their program."

Temperamental Bolt Forgiven After Apologizing to Brass

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

HAVERTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Two major disputes — Bolt vs. brass and match play vs. medal —still raged today as the most controversial of 40 Professional Golfers Association championships opened at the snug little Llanerch Country Club course in this Philadelphia suburb.

The affair of Tommy Bolt, which exploded into a major controversy when observers realized that the national Open champion might be barred from America's No. 2 pro tournament, was settled rather amicably Wednesday night.

A rather embarrassed set of PGA officials, who hadn't expected the routine disciplinary action to assume such proportions, let Bolt off with a stern warning and an extension of his probation from one year to an indefinite period.

Tommy penitently apologized for his past misbehavior, said it wouldn't happen again and reiterated his new philosophy of calmness and self-control.

Bolt previously had been fined $500 for picking up in two tournaments on Long Island, N.Y., recently and for making uncomplimentary remarks to the sponsors. The meetings here were to decide whether he should be given further penalties for violating a probation imposed on him last December.

Cleared for this tournament, Bolt—swinging Tommy was rated among the prime favorites to be on hand ready to tee off for the first round in the company of two Texas starr, Billy Maxwell and Fred Haskins.

The field of 166 was rated as one of the strongest ever assembled for any one tournament —better even than that of the national Open.

But it still was possible to stir up lively arguments on whether the PGA should have switched from its traditional match play to the 72-hole stroke play competition and whether the switch would restore the tournament's prestige.

Lack of Time May Put Brakes On Passage Pro Sports Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators backing a bill to give organized sports considerable leeway under the anti-trust laws were reported concerned today about its chances of being enacted this year.

The measure already has been attacked as too sweeping by some members of the Senate antimonopoly subcommittee.

Two in particular, Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Dem-W. Yo) and John A. Carroll (Dem-Colo.), have told witnesses for major league baseball they ought to backtrack and accept some restrictions in the bill passed by the House of Representatives.

The subcommittee continues hearings today, with former Senator Edwin Johnson, Colorado Democrat, and Bill McCarthy, general manager of the Nashville Vols in the Southern Association, scheduled to testify.

Johnson is a former president of the Western League and now owns stock in the Denver Bears of the American Association.

Chairman Estes Kefauver (Dem.-Tenn.) said he expects to call spokesmen for pro football, basketball and hockey next week. With time running short this session, lengthy hearings and any effort to revise the bill extensively might end any chance of its passage.

Fifty senators, headed by Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.-Mo.), have co-sponsored a bill just like the one passed by the House. They make up a majority of the Senate, but their bill still faces some picking apart in the subcommittee.

QUESTION PROVISION

Kefauver, O'Mahoney and Carroll have questioned a provision that would give the four sports the authority to limit television and radio broadcasts of their games.

Kefauver said "It is difficult to find the right balance" between the interest of TV sports fans who want to watch at home for free and ball clubs having serious at the gate because those fans do stay home."

Baseball commissioner Ford Frick testified Wednesday that in 10 years "there will be no television problem because there will be no baseball" if major league telecasts go unchecked. Minor league franchises are being wrecked by the competition from television, Frick said, and the majors depend on the minors for the development of players.

George M. Trautman, president of the minors, said the broadcasting industry "has been pretty brutal with us." The minors have been in a steady decline since 1950, Trautman said they need restrictions on big league telecasts to survive.

Harness Racing

OTTAWA (CP)—Divorce, from Buckingham, Que., won the invitation mile pace at Connaught Park Raceway Wednesday night. Driver was Yvon Daniel.

Second place went to True Sue of Pakenham, Ont., with Billy C. Lew of Schomberg, Ont., third.

MONTREAL (CP)—Navy Song won the featured $2,000 pace at Blue Bonnets Raceway Wednesday night covering the mile course in 2:10 1-5 seconds.

Alex chief esme in second while The Monarch C was third.

Horses from Ontario won two $1,200 pacing events. Jack Gendron drove Mr. Griff from Orono to victory in one with a time of 2:11 3-5 for the mile. Leeoff from Arnprior, with Dr. John Fiedler at the reins, took the other in 2:12 2-5.

In a $600 D pace, Keith Waples brought Miller's Ann from Schomberg across for first money. Time for the mile was 2:13 4-5.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A bevy of pint-size softball diamond veterans start down the tough playdown trail this week in quest of their second consecutive Ontario championship.

On their windbreakers they proudly display "OASA 1957 Peewee Championship" crests. It was the first Ontario title for Lee Culhane's gallant little peewee clan. On three other occasions they have been "bridesmaids."

For seven years, Booth's peewee youngsters have proudly carried the banner of Belleville minor softball to the faraway championship pastures. In that time they won the city championship, and represented their home town in the OASA playdowns.

However, Old Father Time exacted his toll. In his inexorable flight the Booth peewees outgrew their classification. It was either breaking up the team and starting from scratch with a brand new squad of peewee-agers, or going into a higher category.

Coach Culhane decided to keep his champions intact. He felt their experience as a team would stand them in good stead, besides, as one cocky bantam said, "The bigger they are, the harder they fall."

They entered the bantam fold. They took to the older category like a swim-hungry duck to water. Entering the city bantam league they swept through a five-game schedule undefeated. Now they stand confidently on the threshold of a new softball adventure. They face their first tough test probably this week when they meet the Oshawa bantams for the Eastern Ontario championship. Dates of the games will be announced as soon as released.

The 1957 peewee championship team is intact, augmented by three players added this year. Four of the players were members of the 1956 peewee eastern champions. A few are holdovers from the 1955 squad.

As a coach Culhane has done a marvellous job since he took over the post on the inception of minor softball in Belleville eight years ago.

He has steadfastly stuck to his beloved peewees throughout the years, working hand in hand with his generous sponsor, Howard Booth of Booths TV and Radio. He has refused other coaching jobs, preferring to remain with the youngsters he has nursed and trained in the hope of bringing to Belleville its first minor softball championship. He realized this ambition last season.

As was said before Time took its toll season after season from the peewee ranks. Culhane carefully studied his substitutes, making sure they would fit into his scheme of things before taking on the applicant. That he has met with more than average success is evidenced in the fact that he has produced champions seven years out of eight of operation.

His coaching modus operandi seems to hold good in bantam as it did in the peewee division. He has annexed his first city bantam title undefeated and is extremely confident his young charges will go a long way down the new playdown trail, if they do not bring home the championship bacon.

"I am not worried nor are the boys," he said. "They are not nervous or excited and are taking their new status in their stride. They are, all of them, veterans of many a championship campaign and they feel the bantam safari for championship honors will be no tougher than those they tackled before."

However, Culhane is nursing a secret wish as he readies his proteges for the tough trail ahead. He hopes there is a dearth of right-hand batters in the foemen's lineups. For he has not got a starboard-side flinger on his pitching roster.

The three young moundsmen who have carried the Booths through an undefeated season are lefthanders. One is the "veteran" Lorne Fitzpatrick, who is a holdover from the 1956 peewee squad. Another is Jim Rose, last year's star flinger while the other is Dave Lynch.

So there you have it. More power to their young elbows.

In the peewee ranks the Lee Grills team will carry the city banner in the OASA playdowns.

OSHAWA HERE FRIDAY

In an effort to keep his Tabbies in top form for the combat playoffs, Manager Bob Temple of the Rebels, is bringing the starry Oshawa Junior "A" softballers here Friday night for an exhibition tilt at the CNRA Park. The Motor City youngsters are last year's OASA Junior "A" champions and should prove a tough nut for the Cats to crack. Game gets under way at 6.45.

WRESTLING

Bobo Brazil is thinking of wearing stilts or in lieu a pogo stick, in his bout with the giant Paul Bunyan in Memorial Arena tomorrow night. The 410-pound mountain hunk of brawn and muscle towers some eight feet six inches, exactly two feet above the agile Bobo. Just how he will use his deadly hoiks-hook on Bunyan head is hard to guess unless step-ladders are permitted as standard equipment.

Then there are the cocky villains of the ring, Big Ed and brother Dan Miller who tangle with Lord Layton and Vic Christie in the semi-final tag-team bout. The Millers are as cornery as ever and vow they will flatten Layton and Vic in record time. The fur should fly in this one.

Yvon Durelle Retains Empire Light-Heavy Crown

Wins on Ninth-Round TKO After Holt Unable to Fight; Seeks Title Bout With Moore

MONTREAL (CP)—Yvon Durelle's capacity for taking punishment apparently has equipped him for the British Empire light-heavyweight boxing title.

The burly New Brunswick fisherman retained his crown Wednesday night when Mike Holt, the South African challenger, narrowly ahead on points, failed to answer the bell for the ninth round of a scheduled 15-rounder. Durelle weighed 173½, Holt 168.

In Vancouver, promoter Earle Kaiani said Moore has tentatively consented to a title fight in Vancouver in September with Durelle.

Kaiani said he phoned Moore in San Francisco after learning the result.

The promoter said Durelle had already indicated he would like to meet Moore in Vancouver but the bout depended on Durelle winning Wednesday night's fight. He said details of the proposed match have not yet been worked out.

But before Holt gave up because of sheer exhaustion, Durelle knew he had been in a fight.

Holt appeared to have collapsed between the fourth and ninth rounds. He said afterwards in his dressing room that he couldn't get his breath in the fourth round and later at the end of the eighth. A badly bruised and swollen finger rendered his left hand—his best—almost useless.

BOTH KNOCKED DOWN

The match zipped along at a slugfest and continued that way until the end. Both fighters were knocked down once. It kept the crowd of 5,025 on the edge of their seats all the way.

Holt took a seven count in the third round when Durelle sent him to the ropes with a staggering left, followed by a short left and a right.

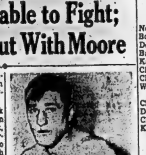
Durelle was knocked down in his own corner in the seventh by a right hook. But he bounced back and there was no count.

It was a display of savage courage in humid, 85-degree heat. Neither man gave any ground, standing toe to toe after all the way.

Flet Lourens, Holt's manager, said the weather affected his man as much as anything.

"The weather was devastating," he said. "Our country is hot but not so humid. It was the weather that got him."

Durelle's manager, Chris Shaban, said after the seventh Durelle told me he was losing the strength in his arms. But I could see Holt's reserve was dwindling even faster than my boy's."



He said the fight was a "lot tougher than we expected."

Both fighters praised each other's punching ability. Both were blood-spattered at the end of the bout.

Durelle, 32, was bleeding freely from a cut above his left eye, suffered in the late rounds. Holt was bleeding from the mouth and nose.

GAVE RUGGED SHOW

Durelle's ruggedness saved him from possible defeat. He took all the 36-year - old South African could serve up and waded in for more. He landed good, hard blows when it appeared he was in trouble.

YVON DURELLE

Scoring for the eight rounds was:

Judge Bobby Leitham 77-76 for Holt; Judge Johnny Cow 76-74 for Holt and Judge Reno Ouimet 77-73 for Holt.

The Canadian Press had it 76-75 for Holt.

Gross receipts for the fight, held in the Montreal Forum, were $21,000 with a net of $18,000. Holt and his manager are to leave Saturday for home. They arrived here a week ago.

Holt and Lourens both said they want a re-match with Durelle, but they would like about a month in Canada before the fight to get accustomed to weather conditions.

WOULD COME BACK

"I'd love to come back," said the South African champion. "If I did, I might do a little better. If I had a bit more time."

Holt won the second, the fifth to the seventh and tied the fourth and eighth rounds. He first, third and sixth clearly were Durelle's.

Holt was in his deepest trouble in the third. He barely managed to hang on when he was tagged as he came up after the seven-count. When the bell rang several seconds later, he didn't appear to know where his corner was.

HAS BEST TIME

INGERSOLL (CP) — Beatrix Creed, owned and driven by Allan Elliot of Strathroy, turned in the fastest time of the day in capturing the first heat of the Merchants Pace in the Ingersoll Turf Club's 13th annual twilight race meet Wednesday night. Beatrix Creed stepped the mile in 2:12 2-5 in the first heat of the $200 event and was just one second slower in winning the second.

Chicubs Snap At League Leaders' Heels

Sweep Series With Redlegs As Other Contenders Fade; Lumpe Homer Wins for Yanks

By ED WILES
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who's going to crack first in that National League race?

While three of the so-called contenders fade away, Milwaukee and San Francisco are stepping along just a half game apart, and the suddenly competitive Chicago Cubs are at their heels.

The Braves kept that half-game edge with a 6-5 decision at St. Louis Wednesday night after blowing a 4-0 lead. Just .008 percentage points behind are the Giants, who whipped Philadelphia's flailing Phillies 9-2.

The Cubs kept their third-place perch, 3½ games behind Milwaukee, by running up a five-game streak for the first time this season, sweeping their second doubleheader in four days with comeback 5-4 and 7-5 decisions over Cincinnati.

That gave the Redlegs a seven-game losing string, and they escaped the cellar only because of Pittsburgh's 7-4 victory over Los Angeles.

HOMERS DID IT

Solo homers by Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews, who hit a pair, gave it to the Braves in the fifth against reliever Chuck Stobbs (10-3) as the Cards slipped five games behind. Mathews' first homer and Billy Bruton's first of the season helped Warren Spahn to a 4-0 lead, but the Cardinals took over with a five-run third capped by Ken Boyer's grand slam.

Spahn, now 11-6, needed more help after the fifth for his 30th victory over St. Louis. He got it from reliefer Don McMahon, who came on with the bases loaded in the eighth, and leftfielder Andy Pafko, who made a diving catch on Don Blasingame's long liner to end the eighth.

Things were easier for the Giants. They counted four runs in the second, three of 'em unearned. Johnny Antonelli, who hit a two-run triple in the deciding second, was his 12th with a nine-hitter and had the Phils blanked until the seventh. Willie Mays cracked his slump, getting three hits for the first time since June 6, one a two-run double.

The Cubs, held to four hits for eight innings, won the opener with four consecutive hits off Harvey Haddix and loser Hal Jeffcoat in a three-run ninth inning. Bobby Thomson's two-run double put it away. Relievers Glen Hobbie and Don Elston didn't give the Reds a hit over the last 5 2-3 innings of the nightcap (7-5) winning his first since May 30.

In the nightcap, the Reds made use of their 11 hits good for a four-bagger, with Pete Whisenant hitting two solo homers. But the Cubs bunted through with three hits in the eighth. Winning reliever Bill Henry singled home the tying run and Taylor Phillips counted the clincher. Brooks Lawrence (6-7), who also gave up Ernie Banks' two-run 34th homer, lost his third in a row.

The Pirates, who like the Phils are on their last trip to the coast for the year, took over fifth place as Hank Foiles clouted a three-run homer. - Bill Mazeroski and Frank Thomas added solo shots. It was No. 36 for Thomas, the NL leader, and his seventh at Los Angeles. Bob Friend needed relief help, but won his 11th, giving up Duke Snider's eighth homer- which stretched the Dodgers' string of run-by homers to 19 before they ended it in a three-run eighth.

TO STUDY FACILITIES

TORONTO (CP) — Board of control has ordered a study into facilities needed to stage the 1963 Pan-American Games in Toronto. A report will be prepared sailing out the cost of preparing a site and what revenue might be produced.

The only race surin mention-ing in the American League is the chase for the home run crown. But that one's a pip.

There's only a four-homer gap between Boston's Jackie Jensen, the leader with 27, and defending champ Roy Sievers of Washington and early leader Bob Cerv of Kansas City, tied with 23. Mickey Mantle of New York, the hottest of all, is in between with 24.

Cerv, banged up with a broken jaw, broken toe and bruised hand of late, led the pack with 14 at the end of May, but has hit only nine since. Jensen has hit five since May, taking the lead with it in June. Mantle has hit 20 since May, swatting 10 in 18 games this month. Sievers has hit 18 since May, five this month and three in two days to overhaul Cerv.

Sievers, who led with 42 last season, ripped a pair of two-run shots Wednesday night, the second a two-out drive that capped a four-run ninth as the Senators beat Cleveland 7-6.

The other sluggers failed to hit as the Yankees defeated Detroit 8-5 on Bob Turley's three-hitter, Boston beat Kansas City 9-2 and Baltimore split a twi-night pair with Chicago, winning 6-5 after a 5-1 White Sox victory.

Turley, the winningest pitcher in the majors this season, won with on a three-run, fourth-inning homer by Jerry Lumpe, who had three of the Yankees' eight hits. Jim Bunning beat Turley in a strikeout duel but lost his sixth after winning five in a row, two over the Yankees. The lean Tiger righthander fanned 10 for a total of 31 in three games against New York.

Turley, who gave up a two-run homer to Frank Bolling in the second inning, struck out nine and became the first AL pitcher to top 100. He has 106. The only other hits he allowed were singles by Harvey Kuenn and Charley Maxwell.

Ike Delock needed relief help, but won his 12th in a row, ninth this season, for the Red Sox. Ellie Murry Dickson had the Sox blanked on one hit until a four-run sixth capped by Jensen's two-run double.

Southpaw Jack Harshman (7-7) drove in four runs with a pair of two-run white beating Chicago with a nine-hitter, shutting out his ex-mates without a hit after the fifth inning. The other Oriole nightcap runs came on Gene Woodling's seventh home run as Bob Keegan (9-3) lost in relief.

Dick Donovan (5-10) won the opener with his third consecutive complete game. He allowed seven hits. Milt Pappas lost it in a two-run second on RBI singles by Billy Goodman and Nellie Fox.

The Senators, given a 3-1 lead on Sievers' fifth homer, rallied in the ninth. Dan Mossi and loser Ray Narleski (10-7).

Minor Baseball

The Dodgers overcame a 4-0 first-inning deficit to shade the Braves 8-7 last night in a seven baseball game at Alemite Field.

Denard pitched the victory, allowing seven hits while fanning ten. Moffat took the loss also giving up seven hits and whiffing a pair.

Denard and Brenton each had two hits for the winners as they roared back from the early deficit with five runs in the third and two in the fourth. Ethier had four hits including a double in a losing effort. Boomhower had a pair of singles.

Sprinters Grab Spotlight In Unofficial Early Opening Of British Empire Games

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF, Wales, (CP) — The spotlight is on the short-distance runners in today's unofficial early opening of the British Empire Games. But they have a long way to run before anyone wins a medal.

Because of overcrowded entry lists, 111 of the Commonwealth's finest athletes will be on display at the outdate prize of half a crown a ticket at Cardiff Arms Park more than 36 hours before the Duke of Edinburgh declares the Games officially open.

The object of the exercise is to whittle the field in the 100 and 440-yard events to manageable proportions for the opening day of the lightly packed schedule of the four days devoted to track and field on the Games program. Of the 63 sprinters and 40 quarter-milers, 36 will be left in each event after today's heats.

Four Canadians are down for 100 yards and three more face the starter in the 440. Canadian track officials are confident that at least six will get through the initial stages without difficulty.

TOP CANADIAN

Heading the four Canadian sprinters is slender Mike Agostini, who won the event at the 1954 Games in Vancouver as a representative of Trinidad and who shares both the games record of 9.6 seconds and the world record of 9.3.

Agostini, now a resident of Vancouver, is likely to run up against Australia's Hector Hogan, who also has covered the distance in 9.3, before the event is decided Saturday. But the odds are against them, as drawn together in one of today's 11 heats.

Red-headed Stan Levenson of Toronto, who was treated with Agostini at 9.6 when the 1954 champion nosed him out at this year's Games trials in Saskatoon, also is regarded as virtually certain to advance, as is Eric Cameron of Yorkton, Sask., who has run the 100 in 9.8.

Pete Stanger of Montreal, who came to Cardiff to run in the 120-yard hurdles, will try his luck on the flat to limber up for his specialty, which doesn't come up till next Thursday.

EQUALLED RECORD

Best of the three entries in the 440 on past performance is Terry Tobacco of Cumberland, B.C., who has covered the quarter mile in 46.6 seconds, equalling the Canada-Empire record of South Africa's Malcolm Spence.

Along with Spence, he'll have to contend with Jack Salabury of England, who won the event at last Saturday's Amateur Athletic Association meet, and Australia's defending champion, Kevan Vosper. George Shepherd of Port Colborne, Ont., and Doug Clement of Vancouver are the other two Canadian quarter-milers.

The winner of this event literally has to run a mile before his name goes into the record book. Like the sprinters, the 400 men will go through two rounds of heats and a semi-final before the six survivors fight it out for the title next Thursday.

London Majors discovered Wednesday night it takes more than 17 hits to win a ball game.

Majors pounded Oakville Oaks' hurler Ross Paton but couldn't produce the necessary runs as the Oaks took a 9-7 victory and moved back into a tie with Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen for first place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

CAN YOU QUALIFY FOR A BETTER POSITION ?"

We now have a number of vacancies in our sales staff due to promotion and expansion in the POINT ROPE & TWINE division of Dominion Textile.

This offers a better than average income in a dignified selling field, providing the sale of the only conditioner - humidifier - cleaner - heater unit on the market today. This product is now well known and accepted by thousands of satisfied customer satisfaction, in turn providing additional company growth.

This is a commission proposition with incentive bonus plan. Those we select for training is given at full pay. Company assisted sales assistance and guidance is given to those we employ.

Twenty to 50 years of age preferable. Must have a minimum of previous sales experience helpful but not essential. Only the willingness to learn and the ambition to succeed is necessary.

Application can be made in confidence to Box Number 667 Intelligencer or apply in person to newly opened offices beside the Bell Telephone office in Brighton at 1.30 P.M. sharp on July 18, 21 and 23, when our general sales manager will be interviewing prospective applicants. J17-19

Carmel

CARMEL — The Daily Bible School opening is being conducted on in the church hall at Carmel under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. R. J. McCrea, for a week, with good attendance.

A number of Girl Guides are attending camp for ten days at Bass Lake. All wish them every blessing and health while away.

Sorry to report Mr. Harvey Hoonan had the misfortune to sprain his ankle recently. Harvey was quite busy and this will no doubt hold up the work at different farms. All hope he will soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Dafoe spent Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lawrenson, of Southview Ave., Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wilson and boys of Ottawa, have been holidaying in and around Carmel and Foxboro. They called on Mrs. Sarah Dafoe and Mr. Charlie Brimmell and family. They visited Mr. and Mrs. C. Brimmell and Ruth on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hollinger of Foxboro, called on Mrs. M. Dafoe Sunday afternoon.

Miss Carolyn Thompson, who has been working in Toronto for some time, was taken ill suddenly and underwent an appendectomy in a Toronto hospital recently. All wish Carolyn a speedy recovery.

Miss Doris Clasbee who has been holidaying with friends in Omemee, has returned home.

The Girls' Gardens, 4-H Club project, are all coming along fine.

Mrs. J. B. Patterson spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. D. Williams and girls at their cottage at Oak Lake.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER, Thursday, July 17, 1958 21

Mr. Tweedy by Ned Riddle

ANSWER

At least 1,500 U.S. soldiers, flown from Germany to southeast Turkey Wednesday, were poised to support the 5,400 marines at Beirut and offshore with the 6th U.S. Fleet. Reports of troop-carrier planes winging south across Austria indicated that more than the 1,500 men announced in Washington actually were on their way, and at least 11,000 were expected to be moved from Germany to the Middle East.

Moscow urged withdrawal of the American forces from Lebanon and announced that military maneuvers would begin Friday in Russia's southern provinces bordering pro-Western Turkey and Iran. The area lies 400 miles from Turkey and the United Arab Republic's Syrian province from Beirut, and 400 miles across Iran from Baghdad, Iraq.

Iran's 110,000-man army was already on the alert.

IN FULL CONTROL

Reports from Baghdad indicated the new government, which has lined up with Nasser, was in full control in the capital. Baghdad radio confirmed that Faisal had been killed in the revolt, along with Crown Prince Abdul Dah, Premier Nuri Said of the Iraq - Jordan Arab Union and other pro-Western leaders.

In Beirut, rebel leader Sadi Hiran was quoted by Damascus radio as pledging a fight to the end to drive out the U.S. Marines and said he would seek aid "from any source."

Salam Wednesday ordered his men to cease fire against the Lebanese Army as part of the "common fight" against the two enemies and observers said today that resentment over the presence of the marines in the last 24 hours had transcended the rebel-army split.

Some influential military leaders were believed to have been angered by the call for American military assistance and want the Americans to get out.

Salam warned this morning that the marines should stand by to avoid "even greater events."

Opposition papers said the rebels might try to form an interim government."

Opposition politicians said they would back the July 24 presidential elections in the chamber of deputies, declaring:

"It is not fitting that we should hold elections when the whole country is occupied by foreign forces."

The statement tossed cold water on the hopes of some that the marines might end the crisis.

In his broadcast to Jordanians Hussein gave no clue as to his next move. He said Jordan's army, built around the crack Arab Legion, would fight to the end. It would "concentrate on strengthening the internal front."

He said this would help Jordan fulfil its duties and "if God wills it, succor and help the Arab people East from international communism, blasphemy and corruption."

1957 EVENTS RECALLED

The King reviewed events since the April, 1957, crisis in Jordan when he threw out his first premier, Nasser movement.

"The ambitions of international communism have reached our country through certain Arab leaders who have themselves to the devil" — became Communist tools for the destruction of Arab nationalism," he said.

"Jordan was one of the first objectives of these leaders who wanted to make her appropriate Communist base in the Middle East. But their efforts failed and Jordan remained as a stepping stone for the rescue of the Arab world from Russian hirelings and Moscow agents.

"Then Lebanon was subjected to evildoers from across the borders. But we never thought that their next step would be Iraq."

Hussein said the Arab unity was a complete surprise for Jordan and the world. He expressed hope that Iraq's would still stand united to save their country.

The young Monarch said it was natural that after Iraq, the "traitors" would direct their efforts against Jordan to smash her existence "by allowing Israel to take over the west bank while the east bank will be dragged under Red colonization."

43 CANADIANS STILL IN IRAQ

One Canadian known to be in Iraq during the rebellion is Leonard Peacock of Orillia, Ont. A civil engineer, he is scheduled to leave in August. Seventy-seven other Canadians are believed to be in the strife-torn country.

SMITH WILL MEET

There was no Commons discussion on how wholehearted is the Canadian government's support for the U.S. action in Lebanon and Jordan. Pearson has described as "necessary" in view of the "sudden and alarming" developments in Iraq.

A statement of the Canadian position made on Tuesday's meeting of the UN Security Council in New York by John Holmes, Canadian representative, will state for external affairs.

He said that if the U.S. intervention at the request of the "duly established" government of Lebanon can "check the violent disorders and enable us to help the Lebanese people to find political rather than military solutions to their troubles, I believe that it will have served a useful purpose."

CAT CATCHES SNAKE

JULIAETTA, Idaho (AP) — Gene Groseclose got up to let his cat in Monday night, then went back to bed. On came pain on the bed. Out went Groseclose like a shot. Wiggling on the cat's lawn was a two-foot rattlesnake.

Many Gifts Presented to Future Bride

The evening was spent playing games with prizes going to the winners.

Miss Carol Pearsall read an appropriate address to Jean, Brenda Jeffery carried in a lovely decorated basket, filled many times with beautiful gifts.

Jean thanked her friends and invited them all to come and see her when she was married.

The hostess served dainty refreshments, assisted by her mother, Mrs. E. Pearsall, her sister, Mrs. W. Jeffery and Brenda Jeffery.

Rawdon

RAWDON— Mrs. Milton Hagerman is convalescing at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Smith, Sidney township.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Scott and Sharon are holidaying at the home of her sister, Mrs. Earl Clayton, and Mr. Clayton, Milwaukee, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks, of Carmel, and Mr. and Mrs. Alex Glover, of Belleville, recently enjoyed a holiday in Montreal.

Mr. John Hay has returned home from a holiday with his son and daughter at Fenella and Warkworth.

Mr. Victor Taylor, 4th concession, is a patient in Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

A number of relatives and friends in this area gathered at Wellman's Cemetery on Monday afternoon when Mrs. Percy Jackman, the former Bessie Elizabeth Bailey, was laid to rest. Rev. James Stevenson officiated at the graveside. Mrs. Jackman and her late husband resided for many years on the 6th concession Rawdon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carlisle, Marlene and Donna, attended the Sharp — Spence wedding at Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brooks and family are holidaying at Pringle Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Barlow have returned home from a month's holiday to the prairie provinces. They accompanied their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Barlow, and daughter, Ruth, of Ottawa, to Edmonton, Alta., where they visited another son, Dr. Hedley Barlow.

On July 3 they all attended the wedding and reception of Dr. Hedley Barlow and Miss Gertrude Mjolid at Swift Current, Sask.

Tommy Mills, Northport, spent last week with his cousin, Douglas Potts. The latter enjoyed a birthday celebration.

Miss Joyce Williams spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith and family and attended the WMS party at the hall.

Members and friends of Wellman's Lodge, Tanner Lodge, and Springbrook LOL attended the glorious twelfth celebration at Madoc on Saturday.

Mr. Herman Tucker, Tweed, is spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Hubbie.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, July 18, 1958

Aries (March 21 to April 19) A most ideal day to be very friendly with the right people and to outline to them the very practical plans you have which they could work out with you. P.M. have a fine evening and do not be stingy with your affection for cherished ones.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Endeavor to complete all outdoor chores early today so that you can concentrate on home and its partners. Tonight is then excellent for a wonderful social evening at home to increase prestige and feeling of well-being.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Early morning visit to your beautician is wise today. It will then be possible to feel at ease with the important people you must see today, make a fine impression. Tonight will also be a happy evening of social accomplishment.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Your most cherished hobby tie comes up today with marvelous ideas for you that are far above average. Make certain you understand every detail outlined. P.M. get that big idea started constructively and enthusiastically.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A great day for activity outside, getting caught up with files and correspondence, gathering vital data, making out statements, etc. P.M. spend a quiet evening with true pals or family members. Be happy and content.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A.M. hours splendid for getting advice of an expert on matters of appearance and increasing general well being. P.M. take a Big-wig to dinner and charm him or her into releasing the support you need and deserve. Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Act upon that good hunch that tells you concerning the release of your present abundance and general happiness. Had Backache; Food Upset Stomach, Always Tired

"Many Days I Ached All Over," Says This Man — Tells of Relief by Taking Syniona.

"There is a definite improvement in the way I feel since I've been taking Syniona", said Mr. George Moore, 297 Hibernia St., Stratford, Ontario—in a recent report.

His Experience

"Previously I had to be careful of what I ate as I would suffer with gas, indigestion and sour acid risings afterwards. I became irregular and constipated because I had no appetite. My stomach was so nervous, my condition seemed to be all on edge, so I couldn't get my proper sleep at night. I was always tired and subject to those nagging headaches.

"But this is all changed since I've used Syniona. Although I eat heartier meals, indigestion doesn't trouble me, backache and the other symptoms have disappeared. I sleep like a log, have plenty of energy, look forward to each day and am not always tired as I was before."

Easy to Take

If you suffer from faulty digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness, backache or rheumatic pains and you feel you need a laxative, you should take Syniona. You'll be pleased. The chances are that you, too, may find the relief you desire.

Museum Displays Pioneer Crafts

TORONTO — Canada's romantic past is featured in six exhibitions at the Royal Ontario Museum this summer. The displays range from primitive Canadian Indian art which few city dwellers have seen before, to pioneer weaving and the famous McCrae models of pioneer life.

These finely detailed models of pioneer dwellings, equipment and machinery were made by the late J. McN. McCrae. A selection of the models was chosen for the Canadian exhibit at the Brussels World Fair.

The Early Ontario Weaving Room shows the loom and weaving equipment of Samuel Pentland, a weaver who lived near Goderich, Ontario, about 100 years ago. There are excellent examples of pioneer weaving, and a piece of cloth is in place on the loom.

Other displays show examples of early Canadian blown glass, and early Ontario Georgian furniture.

Primitive Indian art is being shown in the lower rotunda of the Museum's main building. There are water color facsimiles of Indian pictographs, or rock paintings. They have been made by artist Selwyn Dewdney, commissioned to record this Indian art by the Quetico Foundation, the Royal Ontario Museum and the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. Little is known about the source or meaning of the rock paintings, but weather and vandalism have led to the destruction of many fine examples in recent years. The present project is an attempt to record all of the existing rock paintings in Ontario for further study.

The Canadian Gallery of the Museum, at 14 Queen's Park Crescent, is currently showing an exhibition of the work of Cornelius Krieghoff, Paul Kane and W. H. Bartlett — three painters of pioneer and Indian life in Canada.

The summer exhibitions will be on display until September, with the exception of the rock paintings which will be replaced in August by a showing of C. W. Jefferys' drawings of pioneer life.

NASSER PAYS MOSCOW SURPRISE VISIT

New World War Threat Exists Says Russian

Urges Security Control 'Slap Down' Britain, U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations Security Council drew nearer today to a showdown vote on the Middle East crisis but failed on the world body to "slap down" British-American "aggressive action" there.

Soviet Delegate Arkady Sobolev, speaking shortly before noon, asked the council deal immediately with Russia's motion calling for withdrawal of the U.S. and British forces now in Lebanon and Jordan.

He alleged that these forces were attempting to restore the old colonial regime in Iraq, "which has been only a political fiction since July 14" when revolutionary factions overthrew the government of King Faisal. Agreement was being prepared by Britain and the U.S. against the new Iraqi government and "those who planned this should be slapped down."

The Security Council should take a decisive step to eliminate the threat to the world war which is very definitely existing in the Middle East today", the Soviet delegate concluded.

RUSSIAN NOTICE

Russia gave notice Thursday that it probably failed to block its appearance at the morning session. It was understood that Japan might veto it, too, if the Russian or American resolutions were passed.

Also speaking at the morning session were the representatives of Lebanon and the United Arab Republic. The Lebanese delegate called on the U.N. almost for support in his country because the small UN observer group in Lebanon was limited in its activities. He alleged that members of this observer group were unwilling to take the risk of being fired at.

LANDINGS UNNECESSARY

The U.A.R. representative said that the British and the American landings were unnecessary as the situation in Iraq was now back to normal and city further Intervention in the Middle East would constitute a threat to peace.

Omar Loufti, the U.A.R. ambassador, said the world had threatened his country with direct attack and that Egypt already was attacked by troops under U.A.R. control.

The threat was made earlier this week by U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare in Cairo, he said.

HOUSE DIVIDED ON RECOGNITION OF RED CHINA

Minister Anticipates Increased Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons appears divided on the question of trade with Communist China and the related issue of diplomatic recognition of the Peiping regime.

But H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) said the first step toward that goal should be diplomatic recognition of the government on the Chinese mainland.

Opposition Leader Pearson has in the past spoken of the expanded trade with all Asian countries, including China. However, Liberals now took part in the day's general debate on trade department estimates appeared non-committal.

At one point, Cheeley W. Carter (L—Burin-Burgeo) said a good case can be made either way on the question.

"If there ever was one point on which we have divine guidance this is it," Mr. Carter said, adding that self-interest was not enough to determine Canada's course.

TO SPREAD COLD WAR

A Communist country's trade was based on only one consideration: to win the cold war and spread its philosophy.

Trade with Red China was only one of the points mentioned by Mr. Churchill in a one-hour review of Canada's external trade, during which he said that 1958 exports are running ahead of last year's record of almost $5,000,000,000.

Mr. Churchill said it now is obvious that Canada will exceed its export target of 300,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour in the crop year ending July 31. Exports up to July 9 were 297,000,000 bushels, compared with 346,000,000 bushels in the comparable period of the 1956-57 year.

At the same time, Canada was paying special interest to its trade with West Indies Federation, its newest Commonwealth partner.

Mr. Churchill said Canada's improved position was due mainly to larger grain deliveries to communism sales and stepped-up exports of base metals to the U.K.

Export trade was vital to Canada, providing the livelihood of one in five of Canadian citizens. Exporters were vigorous and imaginative in meeting the challenge. Canada's trade deficit was dropping.

SAYS DISTORTED

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A few showers can be expected in Southwestern Ontario today and in Southern Ontario Saturday. Another band of rain and cloudy skies is moving across Northern Ontario from west to east today and will bring showers and occasionally a thunderstorm to most localities of Northern Ontario today and Saturday.

In black are Lebanon, where U.S. Marines landed, and Jordan, where British paratroops arrived. Dotted lines mark boundaries of United Arab Republic territory in Egypt and Syria. Diagonally shaded is Russian frontier where Moscow says land, sea and air forces will hold manoeuvers. (AP Wirephoto).

Last Water Link Closed by Strike Of Ferry Officers

VICTORIA (CP) — Officers of Black Ball ferries went on strike at 5 a.m. today in an attempt to bring to head their demands for wage increases.

The strike cuts off the last water link between Vancouver Island, with its 250,000 residents, and the British Columbia mainland. The only other ferry service operating is between the island and Washington state.

The provincial government has called for volunteers to man the ships on an emergency basis.

AIRLIFT SUGGESTED

In Ottawa, Lionel Chevrier, suggested in the House of Commons, the organization of an RCAF and commercial plane airlift for Vancouver Island.

The former liberal transport minister put the suggestion in the form of a question to Labor Minister Starr, who replied there had been no discussion as yet by the government on that point.

Earlier, Mr. Starr said an export investigation is being made today for the labor department.

Black Ball ferries, which operate between Horseshoe Bay and Nanaimo on Vancouver Island, were taken over June 23 by provincial government order under emergency provisions of the Civil Defence Act after the Provincial Association of Marine Engineers and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild threatened to strike.

POSTPONES TRIP

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Embassy said Thursday that Premier Nikolai Mendikhov has postponed a trip he had planned to make to Niagara Falls, N.Y., to Buffalo this weekend. The official said "unexpected things have come up."

Britain and U.S. Continuing Mid-East Military Buildup

AMMAN, Jordan (CP) — The West's military buildup in the Middle East continued unabated today.

The United States sent another 1,700 Marines ashore at Beirut, raising the total force in Lebanon to more than 5,000. The number President Eisenhower originally said would be landed.

The first stage of the British airlift of troops from Cyprus to Jordan neared completion. A second stage, involving heavy equipment and an undisclosed number of reinforcements was to follow.

More U.S. troops were reported being airlifted to the trouble packed area from NATO European bases and also from Morocco. Size of the forces were not given.

The U.S. now has about 2,000 paratroopers at the NATO base at Adana, in southern Turkey.

The U.S. also said that Saudi Arabia has refused permission to allow American tanker planes to fly over its territory with fuel supplies from the Persian Gulf for Jordan. No reason was given.

London announced that troops of the 16th Infantry Brigade left Britain for Cyprus. They would be used as replacements for the first unit into Jordan, and also be available for a quick airlift to the Middle East mainland if needed.

At the same time, a spokesman for the British intelligence service said King Hussein of Jordan and his key advisors would have been assassinated Thursday by U.A.R. agents if British troops had not been sent in.

On the sea, the Royal Navy ordered the 43,000-ton aircraft carrier Eagle into the eastern Mediterranean, joining a submarine squadron, three destroyer squadrons and an amphibious warfare group already in those waters.

The Eagle's navy added two aircraft carriers, a heavy cruiser and 16 destroyers to its fleet which had landed 3,400 marines on the Lebanon shore Tuesday.

The French cruiser de Grasse, accompanied by three destroyers and a supply ship, anchored off Beirut, Lebanon, on what was described officially as a precautionary visit to protect French material and mineral interests in that revolt-torn country.

In London, the House of Commons approved the sending of British paratroops to bolster King Hussein by a vote of 314 to 38. British troops were welcomed by the Jordanians.

But opposition to the U.S. landing in Lebanon sharpened. Within the tiny republic itself, almost two-thirds of the parliament was reported opposed to the landings.

Some deputies — including government supporters complained that they had not been consulted before President Camille Chamoun asked President Eisenhower to send in troops.

Princess Watches Gas Well 'Flared' And Prospector Panning for Gold

QUESNEL, B.C. (CP) — Interesting visitors to Princess Margaret toured British Columbia's vast Peace River country by air. They saw mountains, rivers rolling some 900 miles by air, car and train.

Despite temperatures in the high 80s, the princess appeared to enjoy herself throughout the gruelling day which began with a two-hour flight to Fort St. John, B.C., from Vancouver in an RCAF C-5 transport.

Outside Fort St. John, the princess watched fascinated as a Canadian Transmission Company natural gas well was "flared" for her benefit. As escaping gas was ignited with a roar, a huge orange flames went high into the air.

At Fort St. John, the princess was treated to a demonstration of gold panning put on by veteran prospector Alec Moffatt.

After recovering three sizable nuggets, Moffat, appearing much like the legendary gold-seeker in his red beard, presented them to the princess.

Princess Margaret is is stirred a wild west rodeo at Williams Lake, in the Cariboo country, today. She will then fly to the Okanagan for four days.

She arrived at this small lumbering community Thursday night following an 80-mile train ride south from Prince George. The Pacific Great Eastern Railway train spent the night at a siding outside Quesnel.

The princess was accompanied Thursday by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross of B.C. The princess's 100th anniversary is the occasion for her first visit to Canada.

At Fort St. John, where she inspected the Westcoast Gas sampling plant and the partially-collapsed Alaska highway suspension bridge, and at Prince George, the princess wore a white hat and sleeveless dress. She had on a white petal hat and navy blue walking shoes and carried a pale blue tulle stole.

Thousands of people saw and cheered the princess, mostly as she drove by in an open convertible.

She made brief motor tours of the four towns. At Prince George she had dinner at the Mrs. Margaret Seymour, 103.

MACMILLAN WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE ON PARTY LINES

Solemn, Restrained House Debates Move

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan has won a vote of confidence from the House of Commons, supporting his government's action in sending British paratroops into Jordan.

The prime minister told the House Thursday night that the decision followed secret reports that the United Arab Republic was plotting to overthrow Jordan's King Hussein.

A tense and anxious House, voting on strict party lines, supported the government 314 to 251 after an emergency three-hour debate on Middle East problems.

The announcement of the result was greeted with a round of cheers from the Tory side, while benches reminiscent of the roars that greeted similar votes at the height of the 1956 Suez crisis.

But unlike the bitterness of the exchanges in 1956, the House was conducted throughout in a solemn, restrained manner rarely seen in the Commons since the end of the Second World War.

LABOR CRITICISM

Replying to fears expressed by Labor party leaders that the government was relying too much on the United States and that the action could lead to a third world war, Macmillan said: "The arrival of the U.S. troops in Jordan was the most difficult he had ever been called on to make.

"Of course there are dangers. If there were no dangers it would not have been difficult to make this decision."

Only at the end of the debate was there any evidence of some of the fervour of the Suez exchanges. And it was the prime minister who had seemingly gone out of his way to express sympathy for the opposition's uneasiness, who introduced a controversial note.

Recalling that the Opposition had decided against dividing the House the night before at the end of the debate because of the United States landings in the Lebanon, he remarked jokingly:

Cool, Pleasant Weather Seen For Weekend

TORONTO (CP) — The weather will be cool and pleasant over most of Ontario this weekend, although rain or thundershowers are forecast for some regions Sunday morning.

The public weather office said shower and thunderstorm activity will develop in the southwestern portions of the province will spread east-southeastward to the Kingston-Belleville resort areas Saturday morning. There is a likelihood of more clearing Saturday afternoon.

Prospects for Sunday are much brighter. A large high pressure area now over the Prairies will move across the Great Lakes on Sunday giving a cool and pleasant day in most parts of the province. The Hallowell region on Sunday will be partly cloudy, cool and somewhat windy.

Crowds Toss Ink and Stones At U.S. Embassy in Moscow

Some demonstrators, shouting slogans, tried to force an entrance into the embassy.

The British Embassy also was besieged by angry crowds which chanted slogans and passed resolutions through the railings to embassy secretaries Thursday.

The stone-throwing began after successive delegations of Moscow workers had called at the embassy this morning to present protests to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson condemning American landings in Lebanon.

Most of the demonstrators gathered before the embassy detached themselves from a crowd of 75,000 Muscovites who marched past on their way to a Communist party rally a quarter of a mile away.

An air rifle pellet was fired through one of the downstairs windows but no one was hurt.

The glass-littered street was roped off and guarded by police as it marched past.

The unruly crowd filled the street before the embassy and made a mass of humanity stretching for half a mile in either direction.

Lower floor windows of the American Embassy were quickly smashed and, as projectiles, continued to hit the front of the building, glass was smashed on the floors above.

Members of the mob carried placards and banners bearing American democracy," "U.S. gangsters," "hands off Lebanon" and "tar and feathers for Dulles."

The demonstrations are reminiscent to Communist China, East Germany and in London.

In Peiping, several thousand Red Chinese paraded outside offices of the British charge d'affaires demanding the immediate withdrawal of Anglo-American forces from the Middle East. They shouted "British and U.S. hands off Jordan, Iraq and Lebanon."

In East Germany, Communist-led crowds defaced the American flag at the U.S. military mission in Potsdam and spat on the flag "American go home." An estimated thousand broke into one of the British mission and tore down the Union Jack. There were no reports of violence.

In Berlin official sources said the United States and Britain almost certainly will protest the Potsdam demonstrations to Russia. Britain and the U.S. have accredited the Western allies hold Russia responsible for protection of their interests in East Germany.

In London, Iraqi students attacked the Iraqi embassy demanding officials should express sympathy for the new republic and up in Baghdad in Moodsy's revolt. They carried placards with such slogans as Hands Off Iraq and Hands Off the Lebanon.

START MANOEUVRES

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (Reuters) — Bulgarian land, sea and air force will start manoeuvres Saturday in the Bulgarian part of the Rhodope Mountains, Belgrade radio reported. But 17-year-old Susan Cassels of Toronto, had a different version.

"We would all have liked to have been the last debutante, but Sandra was obviously set on it and there's no much point to argue about it," she said.

Miss Southam, in an interview today, said:

"Somebody had to be the last debutante. I just happened to have been the last person sitting on the sofa in the picture gallery. I do not believe there was any pushing on my part or any favoritism on the part of anybody else as to who would be the last.

"And it was not intentionally planned that a Canadian girl should be the last, it could have been a girl from any Common wealth country."

Sees Khrushchev On His Way From Yugoslavia

Must Have Left Yacht, Caught Albanian Plane

CAIRO (CP)—President Nasser of the United Arab Republic conferred with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow Thursday on the Middle East and reached "a complete understanding" with him, it was announced here today.

A meeting took place Thursday in Moscow between President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the U.S.S.R., said a statement from the president's office.

"The two leaders exchanged views on development of U. prevent international situation and the Middle East problem and reached a complete accord. An atmosphere of amity and understanding prevailed during the meeting."

The meeting of Khrushchev and the president of the United Arab Republic came as a complete surprise here.

Nasser had been reported sailing home aboard his yacht after a 12-day visit to Yugoslavia. He left Brioni on Monday, the day pro-Nasser elements seized power in Iraq.

Egyptian papers said Nasser is due in Damascus today for talks with the United Arab Republic capital of the U.A.R. province of Syria. The agency said he needed time to see different ministers.

The news also caught Yugoslavia by surprise, reports from Belgrade said. Informants there headed Albania for Communist Albania after leaving Brioni and was picked up there for the flight to Moscow.

They said Nasser gave no inkling of plans to see Khrushchev and in fact created the impression of getting cooler toward the Soviet Union.

Nasser's visit to Yugoslavia was generally interpreted as a show of independence from the Soviet Union which has denounced Tito as a traitor to communism.

Yugoslavia supports Nasser in the present crisis. Regardless of Russian support, Yugoslavia hurried to recognize the new regime in Iraq.

In London, The Evening News speculated that Nasser "possibly asked, or was offered, terms of help from Russia in stabilizing the position of the new Iraqi republic."

The Soviet Union has already recognized the rebel regime in Baghdad.

House Briefs

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill said in the Commons Thursday night he hoped the federal government will be able to announce in a "very short time" its plans for assistance to small business.

Defence Minister Pearkes informed the Commons Thursday he believes none of the Scandinavians served in Egypt with the United Nations Emergency Force are at a United Nations base camp in Lebanon. He told a questioner that when the situation became sufficiently clear, steps would be taken to get the Canadians out of the region.

Mr. Pearkes said no request for such a ship has been made. There are about 100 Canadians in Lebanon, 87 in Iraq and nine in Jordan. No casualties have been reported so far.

Lake Carriers Oppose Welland Canal Tolls

CLEVELAND (AP) — The U.S. Lake Carriers Association president, Howard Stover, Pittsburgh, Pa., has asked the state department to appeal to Canadian authorities to keep the Welland Canal toll-free.

Last month the toll committee of the St. Lawrence Seaway development corporation approved charging vessels passing through the canal a toll of two cents a registered ton of cargo in bulk plus two cents a ton of general cargo.

The proposed toll "is not reasonably related to the purposes for which tolls are authorized, namely to defray the cost of keeping waterways open," said Lake Erie," Spencer said in a statement.

Like other Great Lakes connecting channels, the Welland always has been toll free, and the proposed tolls for vessels that are not in seaway traffic "will place a burden on the United States and Canada of more than 72 years standing," Spencer declared.

He pointed out that 75 percent of the traffic through the Welland Canal originates in Lake Ontario and is not St. Lawrence Seaway traffic.

Sly 'Little Wink' Given Philip By Toronto Deb Being Presented

LONDON (Reuters) — A 20-year-old Toronto debutante presented at court Thursday by Prince Philip "a little wink," a London newspaper reported today.

The Daily Mail reported that Miss Sandra Southam, the first debutante presented at Buckingham Palace, had admitted baiting the Queen's husband by winking.

Sandra was last in line at the final presentation ceremony. The Queen, recovering from a sinus attack, was unable to attend.

Asked how she achieved the honor of being the last debutante to make her curtsey at court, Sandra said: "Well, they sent someone . . . and I was just it."

Seeks Water And Gets It, To His Sorrow

PETERBOROUGH (CP)— Elliot Little dug for water at his cottage on the shore of Rice Lake and got more than he bargained for.

The well blew in a 15-foot gusher of water which for a time threatened to flood him. Since then eight loads of fill, a lawn roller and some heavy rehab have failed to control it but water still continues to pour out.

A pool 12 feet deep has formed and is continuing to grow. With his cottage on the verge of inundation, Mr. Little has called in engineers to stem the flow.

Trade Purchases About the Same As Last Year

Some cheese buyers have stated that the Trade has purchased a much smaller quantity of cheese this year, while on the other hand the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board has purchased much larger quantities than it did last year. The records from January 1st to June 30th show that in 1958 the trade purchased 16,393,344 lbs., and the Cheese Producers purchased 3,444,515 lbs. and for the same period in 1957 the Trade purchased 14,758,378 lbs. while the Cheese Producers purchased 2,300,109 lbs.

This proves that, in spite of rumors to the contrary, there is very little difference in the quantities of cheese purchased by the Trade and the Cheese Producers in the first six months of this year as compared to the same period a year ago. According to Dominion statistics for the first half of this year, production in Ontario has decreased two per cent while in Quebec the reduction is 25 per cent. Canadian production figures show a decrease of nine per cent, or nearly three and three-quarter million pounds.

Diefenbaker Sure That NATO Studies Crisis

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today he is sure the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris is giving consideration to the Middle East crisis.

However, the sole Opposition Leader Pearson in the Commons here got no direct indication on the information that he could be told about actions of the NATO council.

Mr. Pearson, as a former external affairs minister, should understand the situation.

Mr. Pearson replied he only asked the question because of newspaper reports that various members of the council, including a Canadian, indicated the matter is under study.

Egypt Claims Israeli Troops Being Massed

CAIRO, (Reuters)—The Egyptian government-sponsored Middle East News Agency said today Israeli troops are massing along the Syrian border.

The agency said it was learned that Israel had also ordered general mobilization in accordance with a plan to co-operate with King Hussein of Jordan to carry out "the imperialistic plan to occupy the Arab east."

Author-Doctor Laid to Rest

TORONTO (CP)—Funeral services for Dr. Marion Hilliard, well known Canadian obstetrician and gynaecologist, were held today and among those in mourners were men who were some of the first babies she delivered as a young obstetrician. She died Wednesday at 56.

Dr. Hilliard's ashes will be interred in the family plot in Montrose, Ont.

Active pallbearers were Dr. Joe Hilliard of Toronto, Wentworth Myers, Jr., of New York, Bob Blatchford of suburban Scarborough, Fraser MacDonald and Wake Wynn, both of Toronto.

In his eulogy, Canon John Frank of St. James Cathedral read the foreword of a book published by Dr. Hilliard on her retirement last year from the Women's College Hospital. Entitled Marion Hilliard, Physician and Friend, the book contains the names of hundreds of former patients:

It says: ". . . Whose skilful hands have been the world's first sure, strong cradle for the thousands of new babies born in her care; whose understanding, yet challenging voice has spoken wise counsel, replacing ignorance with knowledge, and fear with courage, for thousands of women who have been her patients; whose love of God and for God has been her freely - communicated gift to the men and women of her church, her country and her world."

Obituaries

MRS. PERCY JACKMAN

STIRLING—Mrs. Percy Jackman, the former Miss Elizabeth Bailey, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bailey of Rawdon, Ontario, passed away suddenly in Peterborough on Friday, July 11th, 1958. She lived on the sixth concession of Rawdon for several years and last year went to Peterborough to reside. Her husband predeceased her five years ago.

She leaves to mourn, one daughter, Mrs. Melville (Aileen) Andrews, Peterborough; one son Gerald William Jackman of Ida, Ontario, and two grandchildren: two sisters, Mrs. J. W. (Molly) Hay, Peterborough, and Mrs. D. N. (Kathleen) Bunnell of Crescenca, California. One brother and one sister are deceased, Mrs. Milton (Myrtle) Green, fourth concession Rawdon and Mr. C. Bailey of Stirling.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon, July 14th, at the Kaye Funeral Home, George Street, Peterborough, with Rev. James Stevenson officiating.

The bearers were Messrs. Walter Scott, John Rainie, Carman Nix, George Watson, Will Dracey and Clarence Tucker.

The funeral cortege proceeded to Wellman's Cemetery in Rawdon township, where interment was made.

Iraq Continues To Supply Oil In Normal Way

BEIRUT (Reuters) — Baghdad Radio announced today that the new Iraqi regime will "respect its obligations" toward foreign oil interests.

The radio said that the government has taken the necessary measures to protect oil installations in Iraq.

In Beirut, an Iraqi petroleum company spokesman said that oil was still being pumped through normally to the Tripoli refinery in north Lebanon.

St. John Corps Always Ready For Emergency

One of the nine agencies participating in this year's Belleville United Appeal is the St. John Ambulance — an active and integral part of the community.

The Order of St. John — the world's oldest existing welfare organization — dates back some 900 years, and has continuously served the Canadian people since the latter part of the 19th century.

Today, as always, the tradition of St. John is carried on locally by regular and cadet classes designed to train youngsters and oldsters in the proper methods of administering to the sick and injured.

Summer days find thousands of people flocking to the beaches. Did you know that in Belleville alone, the Order of St. John has trained 200 people in the Holger-Nielsen method of artificial respiration since May 1st.

The Belleville branch of St. John Ambulance has 25 active voluntary members and 15 cadets on the alert for emergency home nursing or first-aid duty.

Summer days find the province's highways jammed with tourists and vacationists. The Order of St. John is nearby to lend assistance in case of a highway accident. Even in the Quinte district there are many first-aid posts adjacent to busy highways, manned by people trained to give emergency first-aiders of St. John.

The year's United Appeal objective is $85,000. October 14 will find scores of volunteer canvassers calling for your contribution.

Party Member Not Government Mailed Cheque

ST. BRUNO-de-GUIGUES, Que. (CP) — Quebec Liberal Leader Georges Lesage charged last night cited the manner of payment of a $25 cheque to a former Liberal organizer member as an example of how the Union National government uses provincial grants for patronage.

Mr. Lesage showed the cheque, made out to H. Bill Proudfoot, former member for Pontiac-Temiscamingue, to the rally of party supporters here.

Dated May 29, it was issued to Mr. Proudfoot as an agricultural grant. Under Quebec law, all farmers who buy a purebred bull are entitled to a $25 grant.

Mr. Lesage said Mr. Proudfoot received the mailed cheque not from the government of Quebec City, but from Raymond Johnston, Union Nationale member of the legislature for Pontiac.

Instead of getting it from the government as he was entitled to, he got it from the representative of the political party which is in power, Mr. Lesage said. It is in this manner that the Union Nationale uses normal government payments as instruments of patronage, he said.

Fox Which Bit Woman Rabid

TORONTO (CP) — Officials of the federal department of agriculture Thursday said the fox which Monday attacked Mrs. Howard Jones on her farm at Stouffville, eight miles north of here, was rabid.

The family was told by health authorities they will require daily shots of vaccine for the next two weeks.

A 14-man posse hunted the fox for two hours before Rev. Dow Sargent shot it. The carcass was taken to Bowmanville for study.

Engineer Saves Lives of Two

TORONTO (CP) — CPR engineer A. W. Livermore, 50, of London, Ont., is credited with having two men from death or injury.

Mr. Livermore slowed his train Thursday night when he saw a car stalled on a level crossing in suburban Etobicoke. The train ceased to a stop, pushing the car 36 feet along the track.

Sommers Trial For Bribery Equals Record

VANCOUVER (CP) The Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial, with millions of words of testimony and 1,000 exhibits on the books, goes into its 43rd sitting day today, matching the modern record in point of time for a criminal sextus court case.

The defence case has just begun. The trial is expected to go well into August. This would far exceed the other 43-day case, a gas combines trial two years ago without a jury. The longest assize court jury trial in recent years was 22 days.

Defence counsel Douglas Mck. Brown for B. C. Forest Products filed the 1,000th exhibit Thursday as he wound up examination of his first witness, B. C. Forest Vice - President Thomas Burgess.

More than 700 of these exhibits were filed by the Crown in its case against former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, H. W. Gray, John Gray and Charles D. Schultz. Also named in the Crown's indictment, now scaled down to 20 from 26 charges, are the C. D. Schultz Company Limited, Pacific Coast Services Limited, Evergreen Lumber Sales and B. C. Forest.

As the shirt-sleeved jury sweltered in the courtroom's 84-degree heat Mr. Burgess testified his Company never was involved in any conspiracy to bribe the former minister for a government timber licence as charged by the Crown.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, with the exception of western oils, was stronger today in light morning trading.

Trading was fairly active at the 200 but slowed down after 30 minutes. Volume at 11 a.m. was 882,000 shares, down from Thursday's 939,000 at the same hour.

Industrials were the big winners pushing their index ahead 2.09 to 459.67, a 1958 high and surpassing a mark set Thursday at the close.

Base metals were up more than a quarter point and golds only slightly less. Western oils were down a few decimal points.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line' the big gainer since the start of the Middle East crisis was hit by profit-taking today and dipped 4% at 61.

Western oils had gains outnumbered 2 to 1 by losers but a 50 point dip by Pembina at 9¾ pulled the index slightly off.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Prices of steers, heifers and yearlings were steady this week at the Ontario public stockyards.

Veal calf prices eased and hog prices were steady. Cows were actively at strong price and bulls were in good demand and steady rates. Lambs were in active demand at strong prices and sheep were steady.

Cattle receipts were some 800 head less than last week and some 1,400 head fewer than the same week in 1957. Receipts from Western Canada were 86 head, 102 fewer than last week. Shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughterers numbered two loads as compared with eight loads last week. There were no export to the United States.

Prices

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers were mostly 25¢ with sales to 24.50 and a few lot sold higher; good 22.50 — 23.50; medium 20.50 — 22; commons 17-20; good heifers 20-24 with some sales at 22; medium heifers 18-20; commons 15-18; choice fed yearlings 23-24 with an odd steer call to 26.50; good 22-23; good cows 16-16.50; medium 15-16; commons 14-15; canners and cutters 13-14; good heavy bologna bulls mostly 19.50; common and medium 15-18.

Sheep and lambs: Most good lambs were steady at 24 with closing sales up to 24.50; medlums and heavies ranged down to 20; commons 16-19; sheep 4-10 with some good light sheep at 12.

PRODUCE MARKET

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture on graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large 44; A medium 42; A small 39; B 37; C 30. Wholesale to retail: A large 49; A medium 47; A small 39; B 37; C 30.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 4 3-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds near noon today. Thursday's noon rate was 95 31-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.68⅝, unchanged.

TANK STARTS FIRE

TORONTO (CP)—An acetylene tank being used in construction of a new spill to an open-air school in west end High Park exploded Wednesday, setting the building on fire. There are no walls to the school. About 200 children playing nearby were herded away by firemen and workers.

BRITAIN and U.S.

Emile Bustani, a member of the premier's affairs committee, said only 35 of the 66 Parliament members supported Chamoun. A special session of Parliament to be packed, he said, was forecast.

Rebel snipers exchanged shots with some marines, it was reported, but there were no casualties.

Other demonstrations were held Thursday in Rome, Peiping, Damascus and Calcutta. The Indian demonstration was made up of a crowd of about 200, led by Communists, who shouted "Down with American imperialism" and "Hands off Lebanon."

Russia apparently joined the Middle East military buildup, starting manoeuvres of land, sea and air forces near the Turkish and Iranian borders.

Whether the manoeuvres would include additional forces sent to those areas — within easy striking distance of Middle East hostile spots—was not made clear by the Russian announcement.

NEW WORLD

The last such emergency call was in June of 1953 when the Korean War broke out. When the Suez and Hungarian crises coincided there was not simultaneously in 1956 the assembly was already in its regular annual session.

Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, president of the 1958 UN General Assembly which recessed last December, was summoned by an New York today to preside over a crisis meeting of that body's Security Council. Council's hands be tied by big-power veto.

Under the UN charter any one of the five big powers — the United States, Britain, Russia, France, Nationalist China — can override a Security Council resolution by voting against it. The last such veto occurred in April when Russia cast the only dissenting vote on an American proposal to condemn the Arctic colonial inspection by the two major powers.

Today the council had two diametrically opposed motions from these countries, along with the complication of a Swedish proposal constructed as a neutralist reconciliation of the landing of American troops in Lebanon, and by implication Britain's paratroop landing in Jordan Thursday.

Russia called on the council to order the U.S. and British forces withdrawn immediately. The U.S., backed by Britain and France, wanted the council to augment the present UN observation group in Lebanon into a peace - keeping force along the lines of the armed emergency force which evolved into the Egypt-Israeli border area after the Suez invasion and is still there today.

Canada, which had a big part in the inception of this force during Lester B. Pearson's tenure as external affairs minister, has backed the American proposal and was expected to have-that shouldered a Swedish request to join in that neutralist country's motion. Indeed Thursday night's calling on the council to suspend the activities of the small observer team.

The Swedish proposal was interpreted as a form of protest against the U.S. landing in Lebanon. Up till now the observer corps has held off from direct dealing with the American occupation force the Lebanese government had called on the U.S. to send as a protection measure against aggression by President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

Bridge Consultant Explains Work to Be Done on Structure

TRENTON — Work should get underway on the repair of the Sure and Highway 33 bridge by September 15 and would be finished by the middle of October, J. D. Lee, town consulting engineer, from Kingston told a special meeting of representatives of the council in the board room last night.

Mr. Lee was accompanied by John Ellis a bridge structural expert also working for the company.

It was explained to the councillors and Mayor Ross Burt that they estimate the cost of the repairs at about $68,000 and once finished the bridge would last for another 40 years.

In giving the details on the repair work to be undertaken Mr. Lee said the approach at the east end of the bridge would be built up about 4 inches to take away the bump when traffic passes onto the bridge. Raising the road this much would also add for the raising of the sidewalks on both sides of the street and would make the putting in of new sidewalks necessary.

In the actual repair work on the bridge it will be necessary to replace six of the trusses, sawing in each from the top of the bridge down through the bottom to make for the raising and putting on a new deck. Work on the piers under the span will call for the chipping and grinding off of the poor cement and replacing the cement as well as to cap them with aluminum.

REINFORCE CROSS BEAMS

They will also reinforce the cross beams by bolting them solidly to the stringers which the same will be done on the stringers which run the full length of the superstructure. By doing this it will cut down on the vibration and other movement of the span when heavy trucks hit it. They want this to keep the bridge as safe as also make it rigid.

Mr. Lee explained that putting the new rods down through the superstructure will eliminate any chance of the deck shifting in and would make it like a new concrete structure. The present clearance - will remain the same as this is controlled by the lower portion of the bridge.

He told the councillors the stringers are flexible and "all right — almost". There isn't as much stress on them as there is the floor beams. These, he said, are badly overstressed at about 40 percent.

BAD CRACKS NOTED

On the underside under the span he said, there was a bad crack noted in the one on the north side of the bridge whereas of the others are scaling. These will be fixed with new cement and aluminum. He said it would not be necessary to go under the water and check the cribbings as there was no evidence these are anything but in good condition.

He said a number of four - inch drains would be installed in the deck and the guard rails along both sides of the bridge would be replaced with flat sheets of metal. They would act as a guard to keep persons from falling off as well as to break the wind and water.

He told the council meeting they will be doing nothing about the lighting of the bridge.

He explained that cutting down on the elevation of the span would help to make the bulbs of the lights last longer and that there was no subsidy on the changing of the present lighting. The Ontario Department of Highways will be paying half the costs of the other repair work.

The last work to be done will be the painting of the whole structure and this, if done properly, will last for about eight years.

Consultant Will Call for Two Types of Tender

TRENTON — Whether the town bridge will be closed down completely or if one lane of traffic will be left open was not decided last night when a special meeting of council was called to hear the repairs which will be needed, and carried out this summer.

J. D. Lee, town consulting engineer told the council he will be inquire two calls for tender, one for the closing down of the bridge and another for keeping one lane of traffic open to at least vehicles of under three tons.

But in either case heavy traffic would have to be diverted over the 401 bridge. This may include buses, which travel between Trenton and Belleville as it was felt if they proceeded onto and over the bridge at a slow rate of speed it would not harm anything.

He said the closing of the bridge or the cutting of the traffic would only be for a period of about two weeks, while the new steel was being poured. He thought it would take this long to lift the old deck off and lay the new one.

HEADS U. S. FORCES IN MEDITERRANEAN

Four - star Admiral James L. Holloway, Jr., is senior commander of U. S. forces in the Mediterranean. He has a joint marine - army - navy - air force staff.

He suggested the town use a special cement, which would be ready to use 12 hours after it was poured and although it would be much more costly than ordinary cement it would not require an asphalt covering on top of it and it would save considerable in time.

The tenders would insist that time was a major factor and that a $300 per day liquidation penalty would be placed on the work.

He suggested that the tenders be out at the end of this month to give any contractor interested about three weeks to figure out the bid. He also suggested the entire job go to one contractor because the time element required for co-ordination to ensure a speedy and efficient job.

CONTRACTOR RESPONSIBLE

He said the contractor would be responsible for the control of the traffic on the bridge during the repair work and would be required to install mechanical traffic lights, which would be controlled by a man hired by them. They would also be required to put floodlights on the bridge during the night hours. Special arrangements would also be made to stop all traffic in case of emergency for the fire department, police and ambulances.

He said it would be the responsibility of the town to hire two inspectors to keep an eye on the work as it progressed and that they would be able to supply a man if this was required.

He told the council that the plans and documents are now in the hands of the provincial government and will be back in about two weeks at the most.

When the tenders come in he offered the services of his company to come and help the town figure look them over.

Present at last night's meeting besides the two engineers from the Lee Company were: Councillors Joe Gould, chairman of the Public Works Committee, Lloyd Lasby, chairman of the Finance Committee, Mayor Ross Burtt and town engineer Eric Alderney were also in attendance.

Welsh Society Seeks Financial Aid for Trip

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A group of Welsh-Canadians Thursday decided to ask aid from the federal government to get back to Wales for a visit this summer.

Members of the Niagara District Canadian Welsh Society learned Tuesday that their chartered flight scheduled for Thursday to Cardiff for the British Empire Games and annual Eisteddfod had been cancelled because money collected for fares had disappeared.

A warrant was issued for the arrest of Carmen A. Sernasie, 43, charging him with theft of more than $300. Sernasie, former travel agent, has not been located.

Thursday night the society decided to send telegrams to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Transport Minister Hees asking help to get alternate passage for the 64 persons hoping to make the trip.

Police said Sernasie, former proprietor of Sernasie Travel Bureau in Welland, had acted as agent for Trans-Canada Airlines with Wheeler Airlines. The airline said it received only $400 of the $20,000 cost.

Each of the prospective travellers had paid $320 for return fares. At Thursday night's meeting, society treasurer Mrs. Iris Sitar of St. Catharines collapsed and required medical treatment.

Minor Baseball

Belleville OBA midget league scored a single run in the bottom of the ninth to edge Wellington Intermediates 4-3 last night in an exhibition game. A return game slated for Wellington ballpark Sunday afternoon at two o'clock.

DiMarzo and Masterson hurled for Belleville, allowing five hits fanning 11, O'Halloran pitched for Wellington, giving up four hits, whiffing five and walking four.

Hunter, Skinner and Zakes led the midgets at the plate with two hits each. Bryant claimed a pair of safeties in defeat.

MANY THRILLS TO EXPLORE

Within easy driving distance of Belleville lies a wonderful network of lakes and rivers which offer many weekends of pleasure.

All one needs to enjoy this natural summer paradise is a boat, motor and trailer. With this equipment you can take your boat wherever you can drive your car — for a month or a weekend.

Booth Marina, located on the Belleville, Trenton road, has a wide choice of marine equipment which even the ultimate budget can afford. For surprisingly little you can purchase a "package outfit" — boat, motor and trailer — with no down payment required.

SAFETY SLOGANS USELESS?

If the President's Committee for Traffic Safety in the U.S. is correct, we have been wasting our time, and considerable space, with many of our editorials concerning the accident toll on the highways of this province.

Unless Ontario motorists are a different breed of cats from their cousins south of the border, safety slogans mean little or nothing to them. The average driver, the Committee has learned from preliminary findings of a pilot project, is insulted at the mere suggestion that he does not drive safely. This same average motorist, while he waxes indignant about speeders and drunken drivers as "rat killers," is always ready with a ready list of exonerating circumstances if he faces a charge of being a speeder or an impaired driver.

Continual harping on the number of traffic deaths is pointless, the committee believes. Most people believe that death is not the worst thing that can happen in a car crash. Stronger safety appeals, it suggests, might well be based on fear of the long-lasting physical pain or permanent injury to the driver and his family.

The committee offers no substitutes for the present safety slogans it holds useless. The fact that many people fear injury more than death, though, will suggest some alternative approaches. Slogans based on this fear, though they might be more productive than "Slow Down and Live," would not seem to be the most efficient method of capitalizing on the situation. Perhaps traffic courts could be given the power to make attendance at a hospital one of the conditions for suspended sentence for traffic violations in certain categories. Then, while people may not fear death for themselves, most adult drivers would dread it for their children. Attendance at the funeral of a child killed in a traffic accident might drive home a lesson. Most appealing of all would be a child crippled in an automobile accident, a counterpart of the "Timmies" who have done so much to focus the attention of the public on the plague of polio.

Perhaps none of these suggestions has any great value. But if the Committee is correct, then are not time and effort being wasted by continuing to endeavor to promote safe driving by the type of campaigns now commonplace throughout this continent?

SEASONAL UNEMPLOYMENT

A national conference at Ottawa is seeking to find ways of solving the problem of seasonal unemployment.

We don't suppose it will help much, but we can tell them to expect the way to reduce winter-time unemployment to its lowest possible level in Canada.

It is to eliminate summertime unemployment. If everybody is working in summertime, some things which ought to get done will not get done.

And then some of these things will be attempted during the winter months, even if it is not an ideal time for the work.

But so long as there are people unemployed during the summer months, there is certain to be a serious unemployment problem during the winter.

That, at any rate, is the way things appear to us.

A CIVIL ANSWER TO AN UNCIVIL QUESTION

"What right has this Chinaman got to represent the Canadian people?"

Every question, even a question voiced in such intemperate language as this, deserves an answer.

So we shall provide Senator J. W. deB. Farris with the answer.

"This Chinaman" has a right to represent the Canadian people because he happens to be Douglas Jung, elected Progressive Conservative member of the House of Commons by the people of Vancouver Centre.

It is quite even probable, that when Mr. Jung expressed the view that Canadian youth delegations visiting Russia were "hand-picked, well-briefed by their governments, politically immature and naturally very biased" he was not accurately representing the opinions of the majority of the Canadian people.

But then we hope that the Liberal Senator from British Columbia is not accurately representing the view of the majority of the Canadian people when he refers to Mr. Jung as "this Chinaman."

THE CHEERFUL MAN

I met a cheerful man today
And stopped to chat with him awhile.
"Why is it, you are always gay?
Why is it that you always smile?"
I asked him, "Have you never known
A disappointment or a woe,
And has no plan been overthrown
That you had hoped would be a go?"

"Sure thing!" he said. "I've had my woes.
I've had two fortunes wiped [illegible]
But [illegible] of
All [illegible] happened yesterday.

I've had my plans go wrong, and I
Have pressed my lips to sorrow's cup,
But when I'm down I never cry—
I spend my time in getting up.

"That's why you see me smiling now.
I may get knocked down, now and then,
But you can wager, anyhow,
That I will soon jump up again!
There is no easy road to fame;
To win success is quite a chore.
Why, hoist the big men I can name
Have failed a dozen times or more."

The Fate of Humanity

By Bertrand Russel

Those who wish to lead the world away from the abyss towards which present policies are leading us have a very difficult task before them. They have not only to think of measures which would be beneficial, if adopted, but they have also to face the practical political problem of finding measures which populations and Governments may be willing to adopt and of discovering ways of advocating such measures, both in the East and in the West, in spite of the opposition of the authorities and of most of the organs of large-scale publicity.

I have already spoken of the abolition of tests, which, of all the measures that are desirable, is the one that is nearest to acceptance. But more important measures for the preservation of peace are not likely to be concluded until there is, on both sides, a much greater realization than now exists of the necessity of co-existence makes the continuance of hostile feeling futile and dangerous.

There will have to be, on both sides, a change of mood. Neither should reach fruitful conclusions and should be deeply reluctant to show the wickedness of the other side. It is the duty of all who have at heart the survival of the world to do everything in their power to persuade both sides that co-existence is the only alternative to non-existence, that the hope of victory is a fatal illusion, that armaments, so far from affording protection, only increase the danger of all.

We hear much talk of "the Great Deterrent". Such talk ignores all the lessons of history. Armaments always lead to war and almost invariably ended in war. Nothing in the present case justifies a different result from the present armaments race. Mr. Aneurin Bevan and Mr. Baldwin, Conservative Prime Minister, not a Quaker or a pacifist by any stretch, spoke words on this subject as long ago as the year 1932. In those days it was very dangerous thing. It is quite true that it may act as a deterrent for a time, as a threat against war, but it is much more likely to make them want to increase armaments to protect themselves against the terrors that they know may be launched against them. We have to remember the fact that science is still in its infancy, and its potentialities are incalculable and inconceivable.

Nothing can be clearer to him, not even himself.

The psychology of an arms race is quite simple and straightforward. A arms against B, and B arms against A. Each side is persuaded that their own armaments are purely defensive, while those of the other side are intended for attack. Each side concludes that it must have a lead in being stronger than the other side, and neglects the fact that in justifying this lead in the otherside. Fear inspires hatred. Hatred inspires impatience. Impatience inspires the unwarranted hope of victory. In this way the danger of war becomes unbearable, and war breaks out.

In spite of what psychologists tell us, men do not learn from experience and their landlord seems involved. If they are to be halted in the dreadful descent towards the abyss, the first necessity is to cool their passions and revive some consciousness of their common interest.

It is deeply unfortunate that events occur which are a stimulus to hostility and to a kind of self-righteousness which, even when justified, is not very useful. The treacherous judicial murder of Nagy and his friends has profoundly shocked the non-Communist world — and rightly so — but it has given to Communists the conviction that a treaty will not be observed and that no sense of moral suspension exists which makes evasion almost impossible. Even in this country there seemed a possibility of more friendly relations between East and West, but this hope was dashed by the brutal suppression of the Hungarian revolt and by the fantastically insane escapade of the Anglo-French-Israeli Expedition.

The harm that it done by such incidents extends far beyond the incidents themselves, since it facilitates an attitude of pious indignation which the necessity of co-operation is forgotten. The danger remains even when the horror is justified, but the psychological difficulty of preserving what for co-operation easily becomes insuperable. For this reason, even more than for any other, bad behaviour on the part of any one of the Great Powers can cause wise policies to be abandoned.

If existing situations could be achieved, various measures which are now difficult would become possible, even apart from practical politics. Agreed disarmament is perhaps the most urgent of these, but there are others that are scarcely less important. Disengagement in Central Europe might greatly diminish the risk of war. What would be best would be evolution by both Russia and the Western powers of a neutralized area in Europe not belonging to their respective blocs. But, short of this, the establishment of a neutral zone embracing (say) Eastern and Western Germany, Poland and Hungary, would be a great boon.

Any measure of this sort, if it is to have a chance of being adopted, must be made so as to give no real advantage to either side. It should like to see an agreement among all the Powers to submit every dispute to a small body of authorities and, there for one side, three for the other, and three neutrals.

The United Nations was intended, when it was formed, to be an impartial International Authority to which disputes could be submitted without danger of bias towards either side. It does not, at present, fulfil this function. China, the most populous state in the world and likely, within a few decades, to be the most powerful, is not a member, and its place is occupied Communist countries cannot regard the United Nations as impartial. If the United Nations is to fulfil the purposes for which it was created, it must embrace all states, and the veto must be abolished.

The United Nations, or some similar body, must gradually acquire the functions of a World Government in all that concerns peace or war. The problem that has to be solved is not merely that of avoiding war for a few years or a few decades. It is that of avoiding serious war for ever. Knowledge, once acquired, is not easily lost. Whatever methods of disarmament may be adopted, nuclear physics, chemical warfare, and chemical warfare will remain possibilities, and may be resorted to at any time by any power that inflict breaks out. It is therefore imperative, if we wish the human life to continue, to devise machinery for the permanent prevention of great wars. The only machinery that seems possible is a single Federal World Government possessing a monopoly of all the more serious weapons of war. Until such an institution exists, no nation will not be safe from the more horrible consequences that scientific skill has brought forth.

Europe and America have been accustomed to regarding themselves as the only important or important power. But this is a situation which cannot long persist. Asia contains more than half the population of the world and is likely, very soon, to contain much more than half. It is industrializing very fast, and is no longer prepared to accept Western dictation or superior to its own.

It is not to be wondered at, if western countries, including Russia, have incurred the contempt and hatred of Asia. The policy of Sukarno of Indonesia has elsewhere aroused much sympathy. Of the politically-conscious Asians in a letter to the New Statesman on June 28. No one can safely be the masters of European descent, including Russia, and the claiming the right to exterminate the uncommitted populations of the world as an accidental by-product of their own frenzied lunacy: —

"We utterly deny (he says) the right of the West to continue imperilling us and our future. We utterly deny you the right to cause cancer in our children. It is past time for the Asian Commonwealth and anti-Communist alike, to draw back from the brink of international moral bankruptcy. It is explicitly your task to utilize the skill and technique of your science for peaceful purposes."

Will the West listen to such pleas? Or shall we continue to prate of our lofty Christian morality, on the one hand, and of our determination to free the workers from ancient bonds, on the other, while we callously prepare, not only our own extinction, but that of all who are not dominated and aloof from our Dance of Death?

I do not know whether this will be, but I do know that it is the supreme and most urgent duty of all who realize the gravity of rational thinking and humane feeling to devote their utmost energies to the awakening of populations and their rulers.

We are leading the world towards destruction, with lofty watchwords on our lips. Russia with noble though mistaken purposes in their hearts. Those among us who are not actively to blame are, as yet, a minority in both contending camps. But we are all in great danger that we are in the right, and, if we are deluded, wise and courageous. There is good hope that we may prevail.

Executives Defined

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

From Washington comes word that the United States Labor Department has ruled for the purpose of the Fair Labor Standards Act that anyone who makes $80 a week or more shall be deemed an executive. At the rate some workers are paid, there must be a lot of executives who have discarded white collars for overalls.

Mr. A. W. Johnson of Rochester, N.Y., an old Sidney township boy, is visiting friends in the city and vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elvins of Toronto are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elvins, Herchimer Avenue.

A citizen was fined $3.10 and costs in police court this morning for allowing his cow to run at large.

Shortly before eleven o'clock last evening, fire was discovered in Mr. J. H. Mills' tailor shop on Front Street. The blaze was extinguished before much damage was done.

Shoppers Suspicious

New York Herald-Tribune

Shoppers are suspicious in some directions and not in others, To illustrate:

The sales staff of a Pittsburg store tried for six hours to give away $1 bills in return for a dollar. Only six out of 60 accepted. Then silver dollars were marked down to 50 cents. A woman carefully looked over and handled the money. "These are old; no wonder you've got them on sale." Another customer said: "I can't spend it today. Will you have them to-morrow?"

The store manager commented: "Maybe if we raise the price to $2 each they'll think they will be able to dispose of them."

Positive Approach

YOUR OWN PHILOSOPHER

Whether we are conscious of it or not, we all live a certain philosophy which is individual to each of us. We shape it as we will.

Our personal philosophy naturally must be made up from observation and unique experiences. There is no way that we can get from books although a certain amount is gained from mental absorption. Books once were men, so to some extent do we inherit from them.

I am reminded of the visit of a former classmate of Dr. Samuel Johnson in college. Years later he visited the old Doctor and this is what his friend told former schoolfellow had to say: "Well, sir, Dr. Johnson, you are a philosopher. I have tried too in my time to be a philosopher; but I don't know how, cheerfulness was always breaking in!"

Well, the best thing about a philosophy of your own is to create it and to trust it from day to day. It will take you over many a rough spot, and give you assurance and confidence to meet in any emergency. It will not always be to be trapped by yesterday.

It will give you a richer spiritual vision reinforced by every good deed and effort on your part. The personality that you build will have its silent influence on a multitude of people, and you contribute to your own happiness and joy.

Having a personal philosophy of one's own is something like being in accord with a constitution of its own.

To Your Good Health

AIR-CONDITIONING SHOULD KEEP AN OFFICE COMFORTABLE BUT NOT COLD

"Dear Dr. Molner: We have a group of girls working in offices with air-conditioners. We have developed bronchitis. Even though we wear light wraps in the office, we are still breathing this cold air, so it doesn't relieve the condition. Of course, this is excellent for the air-conditioning business but hard on the people working in the offices. Will be watching for your reply. — Not signed."

Since you didn't sign your letter, I don't know whether you deserve an answer, but I suppose, you were afraid I'd print your name. Well, I would not. I don't. I don't make your names known to anybody, and sometimes I even change the initials if I think further annonymity is warranted. So let's get back to air-conditioning.

I don't think abrupt and sharp changes in temperature are very healthy but neither do I think any of you get bronchitis from breathing this cold air." You breathe air that's a few degrees warmer when you go outside in winter. The difference is that in winter you bundle up when you go out. You go out into cold air, but you don't suddenly chill yourself.

The answer to air-conditioning, to my mind, is very simple. Use it to keep an office comfortable, but don't overdo it. Air-conditioning in my office, I like it. But I have it regulated so that I simply find it comfortable and comfortable when I enter the office. It doesn't give me a sensation of being cold.

By the same token, when I go out again, it isn't a matter of moving into a sweltering hot blast in comparison. The difference of a few degrees between the inside and outside is maintained, and I simply don't think that air-conditioning is going to cause anyone trouble.

IT FLIVVED ONCE TOO

After all, the only difference involved is the temperature of the air, plus the fact that the conditioner may or may not (but usually will) filter a lot of dust out of the air. So it ents in colds to cover handling.

MAN IS DIFFERENT

The grass withereth, the flower fadeth, the animal kingdom comes and goes. As growing things fade, they are replaced by others. The animal dies and is consumed in the process of living in there, or, if it happens to be a pet, is sometimes buried. But all these things remain—not only at the base inanimate and non-human category.

But with man it is not so. Here we are dealing with an entirely different being; we are dealing with the thing that makes him different is the possession of the immortal soul. What is this soul? No one can answer that question, but every church has a carrier of it, and got that he and all other human beings have a soul. Furthermore, for this fireworm truth.

I believe that this soul lives on forever.

This is itself gives dignity to the whole of human life. It sets up a goal for us which is worth consumed in the process of living. It is keeping with the designs of God. Mankind man has a soul. This concept does not only of the base inanimate and non-human category, but of all religion; it lies at the base of all true ethical systems.

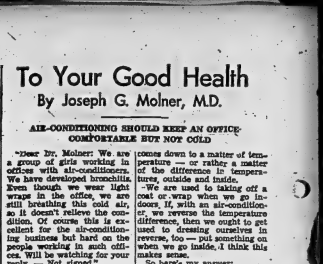
It is the source of human aspiration. It is the thing that keeps us going when we are inclined to lose heart and give up. A soul is a thing that would be worth living. Life here is preparation for eternal living.

We have a soul. The whole of life is made different as we ponder this awesome truth.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Leaning on the rail of one of the few passenger steamers still plying our inland tourist lakes, I was shocked to be greeted, from the wharf at which we were momentarily tied up en route, by a hobo.



A real bum. He had on an old, shapeless cotton hat stained yellow by age and rain. His sleeveless shirt was tattered and hung up at the back. Faded blue jeans, ravelled at the ankles, and dirty bare feet completed the wretched his costume. He had a three day growth of grizzle stubble.

"Hi, Greg, old boy!" he shouted up, familiarly, and much to the surprise and shock of other fellow passengers along the rail.

I stared down at him disdainfully. What wreck from the past was this?

Then I penetrated his summer disguise. He was one of my very good friends, a prosperous insurance executive, and one of the most dapper men in all Canada during the eleven months of the year in which he is a business bent. From August first right through the June 30th next following first, he is literally stiff with fashion and sartorial rectitude.

But for one whole month, he is a beach comber, a tramp, a hayseed, a rube, a hobo. Or so put it another way, he is relaxed.

Compulsory Form of Hog Marketing Strongly Opposed At Meeting Held at Stirling

The opposition side to the question of the July 25th vote on the Ontario Hog Producers' marketing scheme was heard by approximately 150 Hastings county farmers Thursday evening as they listened to Mr. Theodore Parker of Perth County, provincially known crusader against the marketing scheme.

Representation from all parts of the county was seen at the meeting held in Stirling Community Hall which saw farmers asked if they approved a compulsory form of marketing which would allow hogs to be sold through only one channel.

In support of the marketing scheme by those in attendance was very plainly divided with the after-meeting general discussion seeing the issues privately bruised.

Chairman for the evening was Belleville district drover Dick Cranston who assured that he and two other district drovers had assumed the responsibility of bringing Mr. Parker to Stirling.

Mr. Cranston denied the rumor that a "clique" of district drovers has brought Mr. Parker into the area.

"It is absolutely untrue" he said. Just three men were responsible for bringing in Mr. Parker to give you the first opportunity to hear the other side of the question."

He introduced Mr. Parker as a farmer, never a hog shipper, who just "didn't like to have his arm twisted."

Mr. Parker charged inefficiency on the part of the executive of the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board and the purchasing co-operative, which he said had operated at a loss of $47,700 during 1957.

OPERATED IN RED

Hog assembly points throughout the province had operated in the red, while at one assembly point in Simcoe no hogs at all were received, yet the point was still being maintained.

Mr. Parker was especially critical of the compulsory aspect of the hog producers marketing scheme and claimed on July 25th would abolish all competition among hog buyers and would establishone man or one board as the only buyer of hogs in Ontario.

At the outset Mr. Parker denied that at any time had he ever received any money or support from the packers. "I just don't like to see the farmers used by the Hog Producers' Association", he said.

He quoted Mr. Chas. McGinnis, president of Ontario Hog Producers, as stating in a Western Ontario speech that hog assembly points were a "temporary but necessarily expedient" in the hog marketing scheme, because of certain malpractices by the hog buying business.

"But they are still opening new assembly points, one of them just recently at a cost of $11,000."

He claimed operation of these assembly points in Western Ontario had sharply reduced the number of buyers. At Smithfield alone the buyers had been reduced from three to one, yet competition was supposed to be the life of trade.

"Compulsory selling has not been satisfactory in Western Ontario and that is the reason Mr. McGinnis made the statement," he said.

CLAIMS EXCESS COSTS

It was charged that the Marketing Board and its hog buying co-operative had run up over $100,000 in excess costs.

"A 'No' vote on July 25th would do away with these costs," he said.

Going that the Supreme Court had ruled the marketing scheme invalid, he said that at no time had the marketing board had an approval vote from the producers. Contrary to statements by marketing board officials that those in opposition to the scheme were "travelling the left side of the road." Mr. Parker said it was rather those who did not go along who were operating legally and thus were on the "right side of the road."

He made it plain it was the compulsory aspect of the scheme which he opposed. "The co-operative could be a good organization with the right management and without compulsion," he said.

"The Association wants to get control of all the hogs, wipe out opposition, and then down would go the price of hogs."

He cited one instance where he said the co-operative had refused a higher bid for hogs until an order for 3,000 from one packer had been filled. The next day the price went up nearly two cents.

Mr. Parker was also critical of marketing scheme regulations under which he said the owner had no control over where his hogs went.

AGAINST COMPULSION

The speaker claimed the marketing board had not been satisfied with their charter which called for voluntary support, but "went off the deep end", and tried to make marketing compulsory.

If the board had operated in a business-like manner it would not be in debt as it is, was the claim.

"I approve of what is good, but am opposed to compulsory selling and to dictatorship — that is what you have got in the marketing co-operative."

Mr. Parker claimed as untrue Mr. McGinnis' statement that United States pork was being imported into Canada and then was being repacked and sold as a Canadian product.

"It just can't happen", he said reading import regulations which prevented this. He also noted port exports to the United States far outweighed American imports. Figures for the first seven months of 1957 showed imports to be but 206,358 pounds while exports amounted to 22½ million pounds.

Mr. Parker said that similar plans to the hog marketing scheme had been proposed in Great Britain and in Denmark but had been defeated because competition among buyers was considered essential if producers were to receive best prices for hogs.

In a question period Mr. Parker was asked by one farmer how he arrived at the assumption that under the marketing scheme hogs were not sold to the highest bidder.

In reply he said if this were the case the price would not be the same. "There would always be a variation in price so the statement must be phoney," he asserted.

ASSOC. WOULD LIVE CLAIM

Another farmer asked what would be the position of the producers' association if there was a "no" vote to the marketing scheme.

Mr. Parker denied that this would mean the association would be wiped out. "This is an unfair statement," he said. "The Board could still operate on a voluntary basis."

A Foxboro district farmer complimented Mr. Parker on what he termed "good detective work" in ascertaining the marketing board financial position. He said producers were entitled to know where their money was going and said he was sure that all the speaker had said except that the marketing board executive were illegally operating bandits.

"A better description would be parasites, they are bandits and are not legal."

He said Mr. Parker should be commended for his interest and time free of fee enterprise.

The commission which local drovers receive from packing plants was a question which caused sharp comment.

Drovers present generally admitted they were paid by the packing houses but at the same time claimed they were working in the farmers' interests. The commission which drovers receive from the packers was not divulged with farmers being plainly informed "it was nope of their business."

One speaker supported the drovers on the question noting that if a farmer felt a drover was getting too much he could always go to another drover.

BASIC PRINCIPLE

"That is the basic principle of free enterprise," he said.

And Richard Cranston, chairman for the evening, commented there was nothing to stop any farmer from becoming a drover if they felt the drovers were making that much money.

A new Canadian whose accent betrayed him as a Hollander, asked why co-operative packing plants were not established in Canada the same as in the Lowlands.

He was told that a co-operative plant had been established in Barrie but the hog marketing board had refused to sell it hogs "and would do the same with any other co-operative."

Co-operative packing house owners were very unhappy over the situation, it was stated.

SISTER SAVES BOY'S LIFE

Nine-year-old Lucien Potvin has his sister, Alice, 13, to thank for his life. Against his parents' orders he went swimming in the river near his Ottawa home but one of his sister's friends ran to tell Alice that Lucien, who could not swim, was wading out to deep water. Alice arrived to see him being carried downstream by the current. She managed to save him by grabbing him by the hair as he struggled helplessly.

HOUSE DIVIDED

For example, he said, the minister's figures showed a drop in imports of capital goods, such as heavy construction equipment, indicating a decline in national development. The high wheat export figures included Colombo plan shipments—through gifts and loans to India and Pakistan—and not just sales.

Outside factors and not necessarily better salesmanship by the minister accounted for higher exports. For example, there had been a wheat crop failure in Australia last year and Argentine wheat output also had dropped. Drought had hit the cattle country of the U.S. Southwest.

"You didn't divide the House when the United States took action against the Lebanon with the full support of the United Kingdom. Now you say you will divide the House when the United Kingdom takes action in Jordan with the full support of the United States.

"If it is not right to vote against America, why is it right to vote against this country?"

It was one of the prime minister's most effective speeches since he took over leadership of the Conservative government from Sir Anthony Eden in January, 1957. He received a prolonged ovation from Conservative benches as he left the chamber.

Opposition Leader Hugh Gaitskell said there was a danger of Soviet forces becoming involved with Western troops in the Lebanon and Jordan.

Aneurin Bevan, the Labor party's spokesman on foreign affairs, said: "The government may have taken a long step toward plunging this country into war."

Macmillan said his own feeling was that the British action in sending troops to Jordan had in no way "reduced the possibility of reaching some kind of agreement with Russia."

"I cannot foretell what the future holds in the Middle East but I believe it cannot be worse than if we had stood aside and hoped for the best."

Petite Eskimo Miss Likes Blubber, Liver

By BOB TRIMBEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — A petite Eskimo miss who knows how to throw a harpoon and drive a dog team now flies over the Canadian Arctic wilderness of Northern Canada as an airline stewardess.

Ann Witaliuk, 22, who was born on a lonely island in James Bay, has lived in southern Canada for six years and qualified as a nurse's assistant. But in an interview she said she still likes blubber and seal liver.

She joined TransAir Limited this spring after she "fell in love" with the stewardess while a passenger on the airlines' inaugural flight from Churchill to Montreal. She earned her wings May 13 and now is nearing the end of a 90-day probationary period as a stewardess.

Miss Witaliuk was born in the frame house of her grandfather on Cape Hope Island in James Bay, 500 miles northwest of Ottawa.

CONVENT EDUCATION

She got her early education at a convent operated by the Oblate Fathers and Grey Nuns at Fort George, Que., on the coast of Hudson Bay, and at Moosonee, Ont. At 16 she went to Hamilton to take a course as a nurse's assistant at the academies there. She has been home only once since.

Last summer she was nurse and registrar on the department of transport icebreaker C. D. Howe. Flying south she met the stewardess.

"Once when I was alone I tried to harpoon a seal," she said. "I really wounded it and it escaped with the harpoon."

Bay of Quinte W.A. Conference Covenes at Albert College

By MRS. W. G. MacLEAN

The ivy-covered walls of Albert College, with its collegiate gothic architecture, lent a new atmosphere to the meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Women's Association of the United Church of Canada held on July 14th and 15th of this week.

Over 70 officers and representatives from the eight Presbyteries registered for an intensive "Leadership Day," when officer duties and study techniques were presented by conference officers. The Christian fellowship of the meeting in the beautiful College chapel was memorable, and the meals served in the impressive dining room greatly appreciated.

The new study packet for the year 1958-59, "Our Church," was presented in the hope that all Woman's Associations would give it careful study at their meetings during the coming year. Programs include such topics as "The Church," and "Civic Life"; "Summer Activities in Christian Education"; "Conference of Men and Women"; "The Meaning of Lent", and "Easter Joy", which is a stimulating and informative manner.

The conference president, Mrs. W. G. MacLean, presided at each session and the program for "Leadership Day" was in charge of the chairman of leadership education, Mrs. A. A. Crowle.

BIBLE STUDY TECHNIQUE

An interesting and rewarding technique in Bible study was demonstrated, when the gathering was divided into small groups, given specific passages of Scripture to discuss under leadership. The look for the related character of the passage to its context; translate it into terms of ordinary speech and find its central point; place it in the context of the Christian message as a whole. What specific message is it meant to convey?

Reports from each group were brought back to the whole after ten-minute discussions.

Excellent posters which may be borrowed from her, were used by Mrs. N. Jacobs to accentuate her points in presenting Co-operation with Christian Education."

It was found that the interest of the W.A. in this work was responsible for the formation of such a committee in the church in some areas. All such work also as father-son banquets, choir fetes, done by the W.A., should be reported on the annual report form, as well as caring for children while parents are in church.

Treasurers were instructed that an audited report should always be presented to the annual meeting. The treasurer should also prepare and present an annual budget if no financial secretary. If special project or donation is made by a group, all funds should be turned over to the W.A. general fund, earmarked for the project. "Other Projects" on the report form should mean only a donation to the Extension Fund.

GROUP MEETINGS

All group meetings should begin with devotions given with thoughtful preparation and feeling. The Prayer "Would Be In My Stead" was recommended as benediction, rather than the somewhat over-used Mizpah; there are many other suitable benedictions to be preferred. A certain sum of money should be set aside each year for the parsonage; a committee of three or more members should pay an annual visit at the convenience of the minister's wife, to discuss needs for decorating and furnishings; all churches desire an enjoyable home for their minister. Mrs. H. H. Webb is parsonage chairman for conference. Visiting and Christian fellowship was stressed as the way the church can reach out to strangers in the community; warmth and friendliness is related to the witness and teaching of Jesus; the smile, the warm handshake, a friendly tone, go far in making the newcomer feel one of the group.

The chairman of Christian citizenship shall direct the thoughts of members of W.A. to problems of national issues as temperance, housing, C.A.C., United Nations, health, and the helping of those people lately come to our country. The retiring president was represented as a good choice for nominating chairman.

Careful thought was given to the use of proper parliamentary procedure especially the, making of motions which are first moved, seconded, then followed by discussion and voting; according to W.A. constitution any one member may speak only twice to the same motion when it is before the meeting.

The importance of literature in church work was evidenced by the fine display which was ready for examination and purchase. Interest was directed especially to how to develop better leaders; how to be a modern leader; ten steps to leadership, as well as to the new study packet.

W.A.'s were urged to give careful thought to such a project as sending one or two young people regularly to Christmas or Easter holiday periods at Five Oaks, that they may gain the great benefits of the atmosphere and Christian teaching of Five Oaks.

RETREATS

W.A. groups or members who would themselves be interested in attending a retreat or weekend at Five Oaks, such as the conference has generously arranged, are requested to get in touch with Mrs. Bennett, Marysives. Such retreats are arranged each month at a cost of $10.00 which includes meals, overnight accommodation and transportation. The privilege of sitting in and participating with some of the outstanding speakers and ministers of our general council is invaluable.

The executive of the Bay of Quinte Conference W.A. met July 14th at the College, with Mrs. Ivan Wills in the chair. Mrs. F. Dunnett, president of Cobourg Presbytery, W.A., in a thoughtful devotional challenged the members, using the parable of the talents, to use the talents entrusted by God, few though they seemed to be; a single stone is nothing, but many together make a cathedral. We have not the experience to judge, the paltry thing may prove important; our efforts, through God, may be not doubled, but increased one hundredfold.

DISTRIBUTION CENTRE

It was announced that through Dominion Council we go in to the new distribution centre where all literature for all organizations of the United Church will be distributed. After Oct. 15 all orders will be received there; consignments of sample literature for orders at special occasions will be sent out as before. Officers should promote literature and make people acquainted with what is available Presbytery reported months on the progress in organization in their areas.

Mrs. F. Samis, president of Peterborough Presbytery, stated this Presbytery is 100 per cent organized. A recent trip to the Maritimes and Newfoundland has been made to promote organization there. It was gratifying that women are progressing from the narrower interests of the Ladies' Aid to the broad interests and service of the new Woman's Associations. Reference was made, too, to the day when the W.M.S. and the W.A. organizations will work together.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED

Great care was given to the planning of the program of the semi-annual meeting of the Conference W.A., which is to be held in Trinity Church, Smiths Falls, on Monday, September 29th, at 9:30 a.m.

Warm appreciation was expressed to the staff of Albert College for the use made possible for the purpose of the conference, and a donation was made to complete the furnishings of the second room by the Conference W.A. in the new addition. The ladies were greatly interested when taken on a tour of the college, including the new addition which was viewed with pride.

Some W.A. groups report the donation of substantial bursaries through the principal; the Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, D.D., each year to assist certain students in their education in this school, which provides leadership and teaching at the secondary school level to approximately 200 students.

The college also serves by allowing inter-denominational organizations to use it during vacation period, where groups of 100 to 150 can be accommodated.

This college was founded in 1857, and throughout the century the importance of Christian principles have been stressed in every aspect of life there.

Music Pupils Pass Recent Examinations

The following pupils of Mrs. Harold Elliott, A.T.C.M., R.M.T. of Stirling, were successful in the 1958 music examinations held by the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto:

Grade VIII — Linda C. Wellman, Bonarlaw, first class honors, (February exam.); Carol Mae Burgess, Stirling, Grade V —Lois Irene Morton, Harold R.R. 2, Grade III — Jane L. McCarthy Marmora (Feb.), honors; Susan J. West, Stirling, (Feb.), honors, Grade I — Sue Anne Bastedo, Stirling, first class honors; Paul G. Bailey, Stirling R.R. 1, first class honors; Shirley A. Potts, Stirling R.R. 3, honors; Domarese J. Orser, Stirling, R.R. 1, honors.

All who tried the examinations were successful.

Wedding

MOORE — TURNER

A lovely double-ring, summer wedding was solemnized recently at the parsonage of Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, by the Reverend James C. Tastcott, pastor of the church when Joyce Doreen Turner, of Belleville only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lawrence Turner became the bride of Robert Allen Moore, also of Belleville, only son of Mrs. Allen Moore and the late Mr. Moore.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Ralph L. Turner, the bride was radiant in her bridal gown of white chantilly lace over pale blue satin, fashioned with bouffant, waltz-length skirt and molded bodice with rounded necklines and elbow-length sleeves. She wore a coronet of seed pearls, elbow-length veil of French tulle illusion, white bracelet pumps and carried a bouquet of red roses set in white net, and tied with white satin ribbon.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. Betty Ross, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, was attired in a two-piece ensemble of blue linen, with beige accessories, beige feather hat, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Jay Ross, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was prettily adorned with white, blue and pink streamers knotted with simulated flowers, while pink and white peonies, delphiniums and other assorted summer flowers were arranged in large white baskets.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by red, white and pink roses in silver bowls, and silver candlesticks with the base outlined by roses.

The bride's mother wore a grey-flecked, white linen and matching dress ensemble with white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations, and the bridegroom's mother, who assisted in receiving the guests, was gowned in a beige linen two-piece ensemble, with white accessories, and corsage of bronze roses.

For travelling to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, N.Y., and north through Orillia; Algonquin Park and back by Georgian Bay and Bancroft, the bride chose a beige sheath embroidered at the round neckline in white, matching beige duster coat, white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore are residing at 12 Cedar Street, Belleville.

BABY UNHURT

SHOTTS, Scotland (CP)—Edith O'Connor, 19-months-old, pushed open a window while her 19-year-old sister was doing the housework, and fell 30 feet to the ground outside her home in this Lanarkshire village. The baby was unhurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen Moore are shown following their recent marriage in Bridge Street United Church parsonage, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Joyce Doreen Turner, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lawrence Turner of Belleville. The groom is the only son of Mrs. Allen Moore and the late Mr. Moore, also of Belleville. (Photo by William E. Bilton, of Belleville.)

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Dorothy T. — My husband and I are in our late 30's with grown and married children. We are one of children over the weekends, but are alone nearly every evening of the week.

Recently our TV set was on the blink and I made a startling discovery. My husband and I didn't have a word to say to one another. The home was so quiet after evening it was unbearable. My husband dozed in his chair and I had the fidgets. I don't like to read much because I get too restless. Any time I tried to say something to start a conversation, my husband just said, "Mmm."

To me it is a terrible thing that we should have lived together for nearly 40 years and have nothing to say to each other.

Henry T. — I don't see why anyone should have to make conversation with his own wife. It's bad enough you have to go around with your tongue wagging in company. Why say anything if there isn't anything you really want to say?

My parents were very quiet people. They used to sit together all evening — Mom knitting or sewing and Dad smoking his pipe, just thinking or reading the papers — never saying one word to each other. They didn't see anything wrong with it. I think they probably really enjoyed themselves that way.

In my opinion there is too much useless bla-bla going on in the world today. People are afraid of being quiet, they may have to think or something.

The Council: We agree with Henry that "people are afraid of silence and feel called upon to fill the silence with senseless talk.

Radio, TV and movies have contributed to our lack of independence resources and to the feeling of anxiety we experience in the absence of quiet, but they are by no means the only factors.

One additional factor is the lack of respect in today's world for individual thinking and craftsmanship. Henry's mother found great satisfaction in her quiet concentration upon the creation of articles of dress or ornament, and his father had enough respect for his own opinion to wait quietly which to mull over the world situation or personal and moral problems in his own head.

Today we don't know what to do with a quiet moment because we can so easily buy our material necessities and our ideas ready-made. As a matter of fact, we feel useless and guilty when we are not buying or doing something.

Another source of the fear of silence is connected with the idea of death. Silence often suggests the ultimate silence and this makes many of us feel quite uneasy. Strong religious faith, which involves a deep acceptance of natural order and a belief in inherent value, is an antidote to this fear.

Dorothy should not feel she and her husband are out of touch with one another because they do not make conversation. Only those who have very little in common must cling to talk as a lifeline — holding on to the conversation even when there is nothing to say.

If quiet in itself disturbs Dorothy, she should, however, look in the directions we have indicated — handiwork and independent thought to gain a feeling of fulfilment in apparently empty hours, and faith to sustain her in the face of the fear of death and futility.

GOOD MANNERS

— By Mrs. Beeckman —

TODAY'S HINT ABOUT COURTESY

Courtesy works both ways . . . it does the other person good, and it does you good. Try it and you'll see!

AN CORRECT WEDDING ATTIRE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married in mid-October, 4 o'clock in the afternoon. A large, formal church wedding; bride formally dressed; six bridesmaids, formally dressed; six ushers, flower girl and ring bearer. What type of attire do you think would be correct for the men in the wedding party to wear for this formal afternoon wedding with the bride and attendants formally dressed? I think the groom and his attendants should wear cutaway coats and striped trousers, and I must say I've always admired this attire. But the bride's mother claims that cutaways and striped trousers are not correct. She suggests dull white jackets.

— Groom's Mother

"Dull" it certainly would be . . . and completely incorrect . . . for the men in the wedding party to wear white jackets at 4 o'clock a wedding. It is incorrect for men to wear white dinner jackets before 6 o'clock in the evening, at the very earliest. You have the right idea . . . the men in the wedding party should wear formal daytime attire, cutaway coats, striped trousers, and formal accessories, at this large, formal church wedding in the afternoon. The bride and her attendants are to wear formal attire . . . therefore the groom and his attendants should wear formal attire. Your son, the prospective bridegroom, is the one who makes this decision, talks it over with his bride-to-be (she'll be pleased and proud, I'm sure!), and then informs the best man and ushers. Today it's easy and inexpensive to rent all the details of this formal attire . . . that's what most male wedding attendants do.

What we would like is a list of the quantities of foods for 21 persons . . . such as peas, corn, applesauce, juices, fresh celery, cabbage, tomatoes and beets; milk, bread, butter, soup, cereal fruits, salmon for salmon loaf . . . thank you . . . E.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

FRIDAY

Seafood au Gratin (see Wednesday); Duchess Potato Cakes; New Carrots; Quartered Tomatoes with Sliced Cucumbers; Sour Cream Dressing; Individual Fruit Salads (see Wednesday); Crackers and Cheese; Coffee.

Answers A mimeographed manual entitled "Feeding Twenty Campers" from the Nutrition Division, Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, one of which I have and can't part with, would be ideal for you. Write for it. I think the Department of Agriculture at Parliament Bldgs., Toronto, has a supply of it too. I think your sample, Tuesday and Friday menus are excellent and sound quite professional. You are away to a flying start. One 103-oz. tin of peas, corn, applesauce, juices, canned fruits is adequate for one meal of any one of these items. Buy these from a wholesale grocery.

I think you should base your purchase of vegetables on a 25-person amount for those boys have voracious appetites and this is one good inexpensive way to fill them: When washed, trimmed and cut, allow 2 1-2 quarts carrots, cabbage and beets. The amount of tomatoes depends on their price. Seventeen quarts of milk will be the minimum; 4 loaves whole wheat, 4 loaves enriched white bread per day; butter or margarine—1-2 to 1 lb., according to your budget; jam — buy in 100-oz. tins condensed — one for lunch or supper would be very generous and allow second helpings. The recipe for

SALMON LOAF

(For 20 to 25) 8 cups salmon, canned or cooked, flaked (4 1-lb. tins), 4 cups soft bread-crumbs, 2 teaspoons each salt and grated onion, 1 teaspoon paprika, juice of 2 lemons, 8 eggs, 2 cups milk (note: reliquefied skim-milk powder may be used in all cooking). Mix in order given, pack into greased baking dish or dishes, stand in pan of hot water in oven. Bake at 350 deg. until loaf is firm at centre — about 30 to 35 minutes. Good hot or cold.

Question: . . . please send recipe for 1 loaf of white bread — could I use potato water?— Marion M.

Answer:

ONE LOAF WHITE BREAD

(Private) One-half package of granular yeast, 1-4 cup lukewarm potato water, 1-4 cup of boiling hot potato water, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 teaspoons sugar, 1 1-3 teaspoons shortening, 1 cup mashed potato, 2 cups sifted flour (or enough to make medium stiff dough). Soak yeast in lukewarm water with 1-2 teaspoon of sugar 10 minutes. Stir. To boiling water add salt, remaining sugar, and shortening. Cool to lukewarm, then to it add yeast liquid and mashed potato. Stir in flour. Knead 3 minutes. Let rise until doubled. Knead again. Shape into loaf and let rise in pan, until doubled. Bake at 400 deg. F. 35 to 40 minutes.

Late Day Selection

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A happy find is the dress-up dress that is as good for such late-day occasions as teas, cocktail parties or weddings. Here is one such treasure, the fabric a navy blue silk chiffon. The line is modified chemise to a low-placed band of velvet, where a bubble of chiffon forms the flounce. The neck and armholes are banded with velvet.

The Experts Say

Care Should Be Taken Choosing Ballet Teacher

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — No dancing instruction at all would be better than incompetent teaching of ballet, says Celia Franca, artistic director of the National Ballet Company here.

Mothers should choose ballet instructors for their daughters with the same care they would choose their doctor," said Miss Franca. "You wouldn't go to a surgeon who hadn't been to medical school, so don't go to a dancing teacher who is not fully competent."

Parents should check the qualifications of the local teacher with the Canadian Dance Teachers' Association before sending the children to dancing school, the suggested.

SUMMER SCHOOL

She gave this advice as she sat in a dusty office over a big fruit and vegetable market in Toronto ("the noise and litter remind me of Covent Garden in London") where she is running a summer school of ballet subsidized by the National Ballet Guild of Canada. The school has opened for eight days.

There is no truth at all in the belief that a child should start to dance as soon as possible. She began at 4½, and this is far too young. Six is 'a better age, though children can be taught rhythm and to act nursery rhymes earlier."

But no child should be allowed to perch on the points of her toes before she is 11. "Getting up on points too early can result in curvature of the spine, fallen arches, collapsed instep, bunions and weak ankles," she warned.

Among current students are a husband and wife, a mother and two daughters, and a dozen young men.

RAGGED LEARNERS

The youngest student, Janice Drew of Niagara Falls, Ont., is only nine, and obtained special permission from her school principal to attend. Vivian Nedra of York, Man., is 14.

Mrs. Ann Truffen of Saint John, N.B., and her daughters Crystall and Cathie are studying together. So are Mr. and Mrs. Len Stepanik of Edmonton. Mr. Stepanik began dancing two years ago at a school run by the girl who now is his wife.

Gilles Castonguay, 21, Montreal, and Ann Nelson, 21, of Vancouver, quit their jobs to attend the school. Ed Nichols, 20, of Guelph, Ont., was formerly in the RCAF and Don MacKinnon of Fort William is a 17-year-old school student.

Achieve Tenth Of Temperature For H-Power

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States scientists have generated temperatures of one stimulated 10,000,000 degrees centigrade—almost twice the previous record high reported by the United States—testimony released by a congressional subcommittee today reported.

Dr. J. H. Williams, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of research, told of the development of recent hearings on AEC requests for supplementary appropriations for its various activities.

Williams said scientists at the University of California radiation laboratory, an AEC facility, have achieved the high temperature in research aimed at duplicating the powerful hydrogen fusion reaction for peaceful use.

He said this is about 10 per cent of the temperature that would be necessary to sustain such a reaction for power purposes—and is thus "well along the road" to the temperature objective.

Scoharie

SCOHARIE — Friends and neighbors were saddened to learn of the passing of Mrs. Matt Green in Prince Edward County Hospital on Tuesday morning. This is the third death in the home in the past nine months. To all the family sincere sympathy is extended.

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A portrait of Sir Wilfrid Laurier presented to Prime Minister Diefenbaker in June, after last hanging for 25 years in an out-house, is not the genuine painting it was thought to be.

A National Gallery expert has determined that it is an expertly-done reproduction of the original painting by Canadian artist C. W. L. Forster almost 60 years ago.

It was an honest mistake by the donor — Walter Dayis of Brighton, Ont.—after two experts had said the portrait was an original. A spokesman at the prime minister's office says the portrait will hang at 24 Sussex Drive, the prime minister's official residence.

The last place it hung — for some 25 years—was in an outhouse behind a building that had been a schoolhouse for generations in Ontario's Prince Edward County.

It was believed previously that the portrait was a preliminary sketch rather than a finished work itself. But doubts were aroused when three experts put the middle age up in the capital area.

A National Gallery authority, who had said after cursory examination before it was presented to the prime minister that the print could be the artist's original sketch, has since reversed himself. He decided it is only a reproduction.

GIVEN BY MP

The portrait was presented to Mr. Diefenbaker June 25 by Mr. Davis through the member of parliament for Hastings-Frontenac, Ben Thompson (PC—Northumberland).

Mr. Thompson said Mr. Davis and Mr. Diefenbaker was an admirer of Laurier—although the one is a Conservative and the other was a Liberal—and that the other prime minister had met Sir Wilfrid as a boy.

Mr. Davis declared it to the prime minister, and Mr. Diefenbaker accepted it gratefully.

Mr. Davis paid $2 to the gasoline station attendant for the portrait when he took it in the out-house in 1955. He took it to a Toronto art dealer who told him the portrait could be a sketch by the artist.

Mr. Davis kept it wrapped in newspaper until having it cleaned and framed in preparation to present Mr. Diefenbaker.

Prince Edward County was the home of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canada's first prime minister and a Conservative.

Mr. Thompson conjectures that about 1911, the year Laurier was defeated in a major election, Conservatives "went out and nailed it to the wall, remembering that this is good enough for you."

SNAPS NUDE WOMEN

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Scores of Santa Barbara women were photographed half nude—without their knowledge — when they undressed for tuberculosis x-rays, police report. The pictures were taken through a one-way mirror at the county tuberculosis and health association office by Hank Haradon, the association's executive secretary, police said. He was arrested on a morals charge.

All Parties Approve Idea Of Mid-East UN Police Force After Long Debate in House

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — All-party approval has been expressed in the Commons to the idea of a United Nations police force to bring about withdrawal of British and American troops in Jordan and Lebanon.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Thursday the government will give "every encouragement and assistance" to the UN to that end. His statement came after Opposition Leader Pearson asked whether the government would give "strong support" to the emergency force idea.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue, though regretting the British decision to land troops in Jordan, also called for UN action, which he said "all members of this House" support.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Argue both described the British intervention in Jordan as "interim" action.

The prime minister warned that forming an emergency force will be no "simple" matter because of the big-power veto in the UN Security Council and the result is a need for the two-thirds majority in the General Assembly.

It is thought here that Canada would be virtually certain to contribute if another UN emergency force is set up. For some time a "standby" role for such events has been assigned to the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, based at Gagetown, N.B., now training at Camp Petawawa.

AFTER SMITH LEFT

Mr. Diefenbaker's Commons statement came shortly after External Affairs Minister Smith flew from Ottawa to Washington, where British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and U.S. State Secretary Dulles were holding urgent conferences.

From Washington, Mr. Smith will go to New York Saturday for talks with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

The prime minister's statement in the Commons today was that Commons questioning has been dominated by Middle East developments resulting from the unexpected military coup last Monday which overthrew the pro-Western government of Iraq.

The United Nations reacted Tuesday to a landing the first of 3,000 marines in Lebanon and Britain followed suit today by landing 2,000 airborne troops in Jordan.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who told the House he was notified Thursday "in the early hours of the morning" of the British decision, quoted British Prime Minister Macmillan as saying the move was in response to an urgent appeal from King Hussein of Jordan.

BRITISH DECISION

The British government, Mr. Diefenbaker said, decided that "if law and order were not to collapse in the Middle East, the appeal of Jordan's king had to be met, and the position held until the United Nations could devise some alternative system of security."

"I am sure that members of the House will fully appreciate that in the circumstances the U.K. government had no alternative, but to act as it has done, in a way that connection it had the full support of the U.S. government."

At another point, the prime minister said Canada's representative at the security council is being instructed to consult closely with Anglo-U.S. representatives, and other council members, "upon measures" for UN action which will achieve stability in the Middle East.

Pearkes Denies Photographers Locked in Mess

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes has told the Commons that "at no time" were press photographers locked in a mess aboard HMCS Crescent during Tuesday's fleet review by Princess Margaret off Victoria, B.C.

Mr. Pearkes was replying Tuesday to Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena), who Wednesday asked for an investigation into reports that 13 news photographers were locked in a mess aboard the Crescent for 3½ hours.

The account given the Commons by Mr. Pearkes differed in some points from press reports.

The minister said the photographers were "accommodated" in the chief petty officer's mess on the destroyer escort, which carried Princess Margaret.

He said all had been previously advised of the limited facilities that were available because the Crescent is an operational ship.

GIVEN "AMPLE ACCOUNT"

During the cruise the photographers were given "ample opportunity" to take pictures of the princess. Also they had two periods of seven minutes each in which to film passing in review, but because of limited facilities these had to be taken in turns, three photographers at a time.

Press reports quoting the photographers said they had been locked in a small compartment on the ship during the 3½-hour voyage and that at the time of the review were let out three at a time for three-minute periods to take pictures. The photographers said they could see virtually none of the ceremonies.

78,675 Farmers Eligible to Vote On Hog Scheme

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board announced today that some 78,675 Ontario farmers are eligible to vote in the July 25 referendum on the present hog marketing plan.

With the completion today of the revision of preliminary voters' lists in the 620 townships affected, the list has been declared closed for the purpose of the vote. No person whose name is not on the final list will be entitled to vote.

Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said both he and the board had endeavored to make sure that the final list was as accurate as was humanly possible.

"We are anxious that everyone entitled to vote has an opportunity to do so," he said. "Equally, we do not want names on the list who are not hog producers."

ACT CHANGE RECALLED

The minister recalled that until the amendments to the Farm Products Marketing Act in 1957 there was no statutory requirement to take a vote of the producers on the question of a marketing plan although an expression "of opinion" could be taken by petition or mailed ballot in some form.

"Since 1953 when producer approval became obligatory on all marketing plans, there have been at least two proposed plebiscites on the hog plan postponed for reasons beyond the control of the board due to litigation in the courts," he said. "It is therefore most important that Ontario hog producers indicate clearly and positively their approval or disapproval of the present marketing plan which was inaugurated in 1953 but not fully attempted until 1957. I sincerely urge them to exercise their franchise on this important issue."

Polls will be open July 25 in each township from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. local time.

Canada Losing Export Markets Commission Told

MONTREAL (CP) — The Borden energy commission has been told that Canada is losing export markets because "a political football" has become one of the gas export question.

Glenn E. Nielson, president of Canadian Husky Oil Limited, told the commission that unless the federal government acts quickly, Canada might lose rich U.S. gas markets.

"With respect to oil, we are not only seeking markets in the United States, but we are critical of the U.S. for not playing big brother in protecting oil.

"At the same time, we are sitting here with tremendous reserves of natural gas, unable or unwilling—to reach a decision on gas export policy."

MARKETS AVAILABLE

He said markets that have been available in the Chicago-Minneapolis-Milwaukee area, the Pacific northwestern states and California are gradually being supplied from other areas "while Canada tries to decide what action should be taken."

Mr. Nielson said many independent oil companies were in danger of going out of business if only market outlets for crude which Canadians can exercise some control.

He said the only hope for Prairie producers was the construction of a pipeline to serve the rich Montreal market area with Prairie crude.

Hussein Courageous Fighter Against Force to Kill Him

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Hussein Ibn Talal took the Jordan throne in 1953. He was 17, seemed more interested in tinkering with a sports car engine than in the politics of a troubled state.

But King Hussein, now 23, has become a man, a courageous fighter against a force that is out to kill him, as it did his cousin, King Faisal II of Iraq.

That force emanates from Cairo and Damascus.

He has opposed Gamal Abdel Nasser's program for an Arab unity pitched to extreme anti-Westernism.

In the past, Hussein has had the support of the United States, British and Faisal's Iraq. Now, in what perhaps is his most serious crisis, Hussein has western support again. But Iraq has fallen.

By opposing Nasser and his United Arab Republic Hussein often has put his life in danger. Cairo's potent Voice of the Arabs has broadcast many a suggestion that Hussein should meet the fate of his grandfather, King Abdullah, assassinated by Arab nationalist terrorists.

Hussein, then 15, witnessed the murder of the old man as they visited the Mosque of Omar in Jerusalem, gold city in 1951. Nationalists claimed he had plotted to make peace with Israel.

Hussein has proclaimed himself king of the Arab Union of Jordan and Iraq to succeed Faisal. This young federation was formed as a counterpressure to Nasser's republic of EGYPT and Syria.

Hussein was a favorite of his grandfather Abdullah. Most of his schooling was British, first in a missionary institution in Amman, run by an Anglican bishop and then at Harrow in England.

Hussein, like Faisal II, is of the Hashemite dynasty which traces its line directly to the prophet Mohammed. Britain played a strong role in re-establishing the family after it helped the Arab peoples break loose from Turkish control after the First World War.

"FIGHT TO DEATH"

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Maj. Gen. Gamal Feisal, head of the United Arab Republic's 1st Army, has pledged "a fight to the death in every yard" if there is any aggression against Syria. His speech followed extensive maneuvers by American marines landed in neighboring Lebanon.

Jordanian Army 'Fairly Loyal' To King Hussein

LONDON (Reuters) — Gen. Sir John Glubb, who commanded Jordan's Arab Legion for 17 years, says he believes the Jordanian army still is "fairly loyal" to King Hussein.

Attempts by Arab nationalists "to go for young officers with secret propaganda" did not seem to have succeeded, Glubb said in a television interview Thursday night.

But he declared that the West was rapidly losing the friendship of the Arab world because Western nations did not realize the importance of propaganda.

"Colonel Nasser and the Russians have a regular technique for disseminating ideas . . . to stir up mistrust and hatred between the Arab countries and the West," he said.

The general, who was retired by King Hussein two years ago, said the Arab nations were in an "an awkward dilemma."

"They dislike Communism and they do not want to be dominated by the Russians but they have been very much fed up with the propaganda to develop hatred against the West."

Tornadoes Upset Auto, Rail Cars

WINNIPEG (CP)—Tornadoes struck southern Manitoba and northwestern Ontario Thursday, hitting a car and overturning freight cars.

The Manitoba twister picked up a car carrying a man and five children at Vita, Man., and laid it down facing in the opposite direction. No one was injured.

Seven cars of a Canadian National freight were blocked from the track and dumped on the side of the right-of-way near Minaki, Ont., a CNR spokesman said there. The tornado then overturned 10 freight cars on a siding at Tebo, eight miles west of Minaki. No one was injured.

LAW SEGREGATES BLOOD

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Gov. Earl Long signed new segregation law Wednesday requiring blood plasma be labelled according to race. The bill, which goes into effect July 30, does not apply in disaster areas or in individual cases where physicians decide an emergency exists.

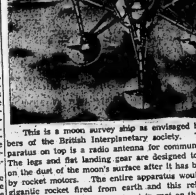
HALT OBSERVERS

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — No more Swedish United Nations observers will be sent to Lebanon because of the changed conditions there, it was officially announced Thursday.



Goldfine Out Of Witness Box

To the end of his eighth day of questioning, Goldfine maintained: "I did no wrong."

Chairman Harris of the House of Representatives subcommittee said the committee will push for a contempt of Congress citation because of Boston industrialist's real estate million-aire's refusal to answer certain questions.

Crossroads of Commerce

SURVEY SHIP FOR THE MOON

This is a moon survey ship as envisaged by engineer members of the British Interplanetary society. The sleve-like spartus on top is a radio antenna for communication with earth. The legs and flat landing gear are designed to allow it to settle gingerly on the dust of the moon's surface after it has been lowered gently by rocket motors. The entire space vessel would be enclosed in a gigantic rocket fired from earth and this relatively small ship would be able to move from spot to spot on the moon's surface.

Collapse of Suez Campaign Gave Nasser Prestige, Power

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The co-operation of Britain and the United States in the current Middle East troubles is in sharp contrast with their reaction to the Suez crisis of 1956.

It may be an overemphatic action to say that the new intervention wouldn't have become necessary if the British, American and French had been allowed to drive home their campaign in 1956.

But there's no question that the collapse of that campaign, partly in the face of American opposition to it in the United Nations, gave Gamal Abdel Nasser the prestige and power on which he's been riding ever since.

The Anglo - French expedition was, of course, an armed attack while in the present situation American and British troops have been invited to Lebanon and Jordan by the governments of those countries. The 1956 action caused shock and revulsion in the free soul - searching in Britain and France.

But Sir Anthony Eden, then prime minister of Britain, stoutly defended the campaign as "right" in defence of legitimate interests. He said it opposed a "Moscow-Cairo axis," led to the concept of a United Nations Emergency Force and enabled greater understanding among France, Britain, the U.S. and Canada.

Sir Winston Churchill said the expedition kept the world from "slipping into chaos and Russian domination."

Nasser, a Egyptian president, snatched victory from defeat and started on his campaign to establish the United Arab Republic, bringing Syria and Yemen under his domination.

Through techniques sometimes subtle, sometimes not so subtle, Nasser has assumed the role of a symbol around which a pan - Arab support can gather.

Unless the revolutionary Iraq government fails, Nasser will have added a new, rich country, with large oil resources, to his U.A.R. and destroyed the rival Jordan-Iraq Arab federation.

It's obvious that Nasser could not achieve all this without help, and that the help came from what Eden called the "Moscow-Cairo axis."

General Graham Will Review CD in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Howard D. Graham, retired chief of the Canadian Army general staff, will review Metropolitan Toronto civil defence arrangements early next month, Alderman Dan Summerville, chairman of the Metropolitan civil defence committee said Thursday.

The federal government recently assigned Gen. Graham to review Canadian civil defence policies and programs. Conferences with provincial and municipal leaders form part of the survey.

Results are expected to be submitted to the government prior to a federal-provincial meeting on civil defence.

Mr. Summerville said a successor to Inspector William Koop-man who resigned several months ago as Metropolitan civil defence co-ordinator, will not be appointed until policy is clearly defined by the senior governments.

He rejected a call for an emergency meeting of the committee by Controller Jean Newman because of the international situation.

Controller Newman said: "This is such that no one would know whether to leave the city or where to go."

HALT OBSERVERS

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — No more Swedish United Nations observers will be sent to Lebanon because of the changed conditions there, it was officially announced Thursday.

Smith Says Canada Prepared To Provide Troops for UN

WASHINGTON (CP) — Tri-diplomatic talks were on tap today as the three powers sought to find a way to end the flaring Middle East crisis.

The three-way discussions developed out of a hurried flight from Ottawa late Thursday by Canada's External Affairs Minister Smith to, as he put it, "assess" the international situation with U.S. Secretary Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Lloyd and "see if we can't forward the future."

Confronting the three diplomats was a turbulent Middle East situation created by the landing of U.S. marines in rebellion-torn Lebanon Tuesday and the movement of British troops into the invasion-threatened state of Jordan Thursday.

The Canadian minister announced the international situation "grave" in an airport interview, but added that he was prepared to provide troops for an emergency United Nations police force and promptly went into conference with the British foreign secretary.

Diplomatic sources said Smith hopes to assess British and American thinking on Middle East and UN developments in preparing for separate military actions and see if some solution can be reached.

Today, if Dulles' busy schedule permits, Smith plans to confer separately with him. Dulles had an afternoon appointment with a senate committee which may prevent the two from conducting bilateral talks.

However, all three — Smith, Dulles and Lloyd — plan to meet tonight at dinner in Chevy Chase, Md., a suburb of Washington, before Smith flies to New York to take part in the UN Security Council debate arising out of the American intervention in Lebanon.

Thursday night, Smith dined with Lloyd at the home of Lord Home, acting head of the British mission here. No statement was issued following the dinner.

Durelle Willing To Meet Holt In South Africa

By the "old guy," Durelle, 38, was referring to 40-plus Archie Moore, the world's light-heavyweight champ.

Relaxing in his hotel room after Wednesday night's gruelling battle with the South African challenger, Durelle was told the Trauvaval National Sporting Club had called an offer for a return bout with Holt in Johannesburg later this year.

He was asked what he meant by the "right price."

"For one thing I haven't received the cable yet,' Durelle replied. "But that sort of thing is up to my manager anyway. I handle just the fighting end."

WANTS QUICK TRY

Holt, in the dressing room after the fight, a thoroughly beaten challenger, said he would like another crack at Durelle. He was willing to fight in Canada but he said he wanted more time to get accustomed to climatic conditions here before meeting Durelle. He arrived in Montreal only a week before the fight.

The French-Canadian fisherman from Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., retained the title when Holt—already ahead on points—was unable to answer the bell for the ninth round of the scheduled 12-rounder.

It was scored officially by the Montreal Athletic Commission as a ninth-round technical knockout.

Commission secretary Gerry Gosselin Thursday night announced the ruling of the six-member MAC. The decision overrules an earlier report which scored Durelle's win as an eighth-round TKO.

The commission's reason for its decision:

Holt was on his feet when the eighth round ended. The bell for the ninth sounded, to officially start the round. Durelle answered the bell, but the South African did not, therefore Durelle won in the ninth.

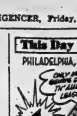
Fight Manager Still Open To Indictment

NEW YORK (AP) — Hymie Wallman's hearing before the New York State Athletic Commission Thursday was adjourned until Sept. 19 at the request of the district attorney's office.

Wallman, a fight manager whose license recently was suspended, has appeared before a grand jury investigating boxing which later indicted Bert Grant, a boxing judge, on charges of accepting bribes to favor Wallman's fighters.

Although Wallman on July 7 mailed his license as a manager and second to the commission and asked they be cancelled, the commission refused to accept them. Wallman was called in for a hearing scheduled to start Thursday, to show cause why his licences should not be revoked.

Wallman, through his attorney Michael Kern, claimed he no longer was under commission jurisdiction after turning in his license. Julius Helfand, commission chairman, overruled him and intimated he still was subject to the state ring body.



POSTPONE DISCUSSION

HAMILTON (CP) — Board of control Thursday postponed for two weeks discussion on a park board proposal for a large Civic Stadium at a cost of $750,000. Controller Leslie Parker, who asked for time to study the plan, said there was opposition to the scheme and that the public and city council needed to be well informed of all details.

Lucky Day for John Erwin When Drafted Into Army

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The luckiest day in John Erwin's life came just a year ago when the draft blew him into the U.S. Army.

John, who quit Indiana University to come to New York to study for a theatre career, had managed to get three parts in off-broadway shows. Then he was drafted.

He was assigned to the 4th Infantry band and shipped to Germany. One day he read that the American firm was going to make a television film about the school Medal of Honor winners among Second World War infantrymen. John wrote to the producers a letter, and wangled a leave in which to visit them in Munich.

Result: He was cast to play the lead in two of the series, and later was cast for a third one.

"I've played a Red Cross field director, a captain and a chaplain so far," says Erwin, "and when I go back to Germany in a couple of weeks, I'll be playing in more of them."

FOR FALL RELEASE

The series, for fall release, is called Citizen Soldier. It already has been syndicated among 35 TV stations and 300 more stations are expected to be sold before the fall season starts.

Meanwhile, however, shows in which Erwin appears have been given some Hollywood previews, with the result he has received two offers under TV work.

"And I'm the guy," he says with a grin, "who thought it was going to be ruined by taking two years out in the army!"

Kerwin, Scanlan Fight Tonight In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Irish flat fighters are few and far between these days. Perhaps the best to come along in recent years is Bobby Scanlon, a handsome young lightweight who fights his first main event in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Scanlon, only 22 and from Buffalo, never has lost a bout. He has won 28 and fought one draw in 29 professional starts.

Gale Kerwin, the gabby Canadian who tells you "I'm just a wee puncher" is Scanlon's opponent in the Garden match, scheduled for 10 p.m. EDT. There will be the usual network radio and television coverage over NBC.

Although Scanlon has been made favorite at 7 to 5 on his fine record, there is a chance they will go into the ring at even money, Kerwin might turn out to be the classier ring tutor.

Kerwin has been seen locally against better than fair competition, but he has yet to earn a nod against Johnny Busso last October and lost a decision to one many friends. Later he whipped Jimmy Archer and Stefan Redl in the Garden. He hasn't fought since March when he broke even in two matches with Davey Dupas in New Orleans and Ottawa.

Scanlon in Ottawa but now living in Valley Stream, N.Y., the home of his manager, Al Lang, Kerwin has won 22 and lost four in his starts. He has six knockouts and was never stopped.

Scanlon started to move last fall when he beat two former world junior welterweight champions within two months. He knocked out Wallace (Hurk) Smith in 10 and outpointed Lauro Salas in 10 rounds. In 1956 he has stopped Luke Easter and won a decision over Bobby Rogers.

MUSICAL TALENT

Michael Balle, Irish-born musician who died in 1870, conducted the Drury Lane orchestra when only 16.

AT THE PARK — Michael Gwynn, the Frankenstein created in color by Terence Fisher, in "The Revenge of Frankenstein," co-stars with Francis Matthews. Monstrous piece, opens for its first showing tonight at the air conditioned Park Theatre. On the same program is "The Naked Spur," starring Robert Ryan and Janet Leigh. Andrews and Peary Guide.

Predicts Majors Will Cut Down On Bonuses

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick predicted Thursday the major leagues will act this year to cut down on extravagant bonus payments to promising young players.

Frick told a Senate subcommittee inquiring into sports legislation that baseball made a mistake last year in dropping its bonus rule without substituting some other provision.

The rule required a team to keep any player signed with a bonus of more than $4,000 for at least two years before transferring him out.

That meant many bonus babies had to sit on the bench for two years instead of going to the minors to get the experience needed for major league play.

Now that they can send out bonus players at any time, clubs have tossed money around to sign young prospects. Frick, calling it "a crazy thing," estimated payments this year have totalled more than $3,000,000.

Headhunters Operating in Area Where Movie Filmed

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — These days, a film actor has to be prepared to travel anywhere, even the headhunter country of the Philippines.

"It was originally called Blackburn's Headhunters," the actor explained, "but the Philippine government prevailed upon us to drop that title. They don't like to admit that there are any headhunters left in the Islands.

"But there are. They were operating in the area where we were shooting the picture. I noticed a news item in the paper before we left that the natives had captured eight heads."

Fortunately, the natives were not restless while the film troupe was there, and Keith encountered no trouble.

GOT 20,000 MEN

Blackburn's Guerrillas is the story of Lieut. Don Blackburn, an American army officer who helped train 20,000 Filipinos and Japanese conquest of the Philippines. He harassed the invaders until the liberation, amassing a force of 20,000 guerrillas. Now a colonel serving in South Vietnam, Blackburn returned to his old haunts to watch the filming and received a hero's welcome.

The film project is an extreme example of the Swiss effort to go to find movies in three times. The era of studio pictures and comfortable Hollywood stages is fast fading.

"We did most of our shooting in the mountains 200 miles north of Manila," Keith said. "We had no electricity, no running water, no newspapers. The area was so rough that we had to fly supplies the closest air strip."

Besides the fear of having headhunters nearby, the company was also greeted with the news that its caucus, armed with carbines, had escaped from a prison not far away. None was sighted.

Dow Finsterwald Grabs Lead In PGA Championship Play

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

HAVERTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, never known as a pugnacious young man or as an aggressive golfer, is acting as if he's ready to take on the entire Hebert family in a Professional Golfers Association return match.

Finsterwald, a slightly - built, conservative - minded 28-year-old, was runner-up last year in the final match play PGA championship. He took a 3 and 2 defeat from Lionel Hebert, a rotund, long-hitting 200-pounder in the final match. And the happiest man in the place when Lionel came through was his older and more famous brother, Jay.

Finsterwald didn't exactly have revenge in mind Thursday when he beat out both Lionel and Jay Hebert for the lead in the opening round of the first medal play PGA championship. But it must have given him a pleasant feeling.

All he would say after Thursday's round was: "It's nice to lead but they don't pay off until Sunday."

PAR STANDS FIRM

The predicted assault on Llanerch's 35-35—70 par didn't take place Thursday. The tough little 6,737 yard course, with its clinging rough and tiny greens, stood up well. After more than 100 top pros finished there were just seven scores under par and two even with it.

Yet there were 18 other players within five strokes of the leader and anyone who shot over about 76 was in danger of losing out when the field is trimmed to the low-scoring 60 and ties after today's second round.

Behind Finsterwald's 67 and Jay Hebert's 68 were the 69s posted by Lionel Hebert, 1957 Open champion Dick Mayer, tournament - tough Jimmy Demaret and Ted Kroll, and Felice Torza, the little guy from Aurora, Ill., who was runner - up in his first PGA championship five years ago. At 70 were Jackie Burke, the 1956 PGA winner, and Bob Crowley, Massachusetts Open champion from Weston.

Bill Eziniki of Winnipeg, former National Hockey League star now playing out of Lyndield, Mass., scored a 39-37—76.

Some of the other contenders included Cary Middlecoff, two-time open champion; Bob Rosburg, Art Wall and Don Whitt at 71.

Juveniles Drop Close Game

Frankford Legion Juveniles, the district's hope for the OASA Juvenile "C" championship this season, dropped an exhibition tilt to the Trentonians the other night by a 5-3 score.

The Juveniles have no league to participate in and have been playing only exhibition games to prepare for the playdowns. In a couple other recent games they lost a 13-12 decision to the Trentonians in 13 innings and took a 17-3 defeat at the hands of Belleville Sports Centre.

Wednesday's game was a tight one with the winners scoring two runs in the eighth to cop the decision. Ernie Curtis pitched five-hit ball for the Trenton club, fanning nine and walking one. Billie Dafoe hurled well for Frankford, giving up nine hits, whiffing six and walking three.

Elliott and Drake paced the winners at the plate with two hits each.

BEAVERS SIGN OLIVER

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Beavers of the Intercounty Baseball League have signed homebrew Murray Oliver, recently released by Batavia, N.Y., of the Pony League. He will play shortstop with Tom Oliver shifting over to second base.

Walker Selects International All-Star Squad

MONTREAL (CP) — Dixie Walker, manager of the International League all-star team to meet Milwaukee Braves in Toronto July 23, today selected 15 players and two coaches to round out his squad for the exhibition baseball game.

His player choices:

Outfielder Don Lassetter, pitchers Gary Blaylock, Cal Browning, Rochester Red Wings; second baseman Mike Collal, catcher Tim Thompson, pitcher Bob Tiefenauer, Toronto; outfielder Joe Caffie, pitcher Glenn Cox, Buffalo; first baseman Frank Herrera, third baseman Woody Smith, Miami shortstop Cleiis Boyer, outfielder Deron Johnson Richmond; catcher Dick Rand, Columbus Jets; outfielder Nino Escalera, Havana Sugar Kings; pitcher Tom Lasorda, Montreal Royals.

The team named by the fans:

Bob Feller, Jackie Robinson To Testify in Sports Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two former diamond greats, who toss words as easily as they once did baseballs, testify today before Senate sports investigators.

Bob Feller, the ex-Cleveland Indian whose fast ball had few equals, and Jackie Robinson, the Dodgers' star infielder when the bums were still in Brooklyn, take the witness stand as hearings resume on legislation to exempt professional team sports from anti-trust laws.

The Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee invited them to express their views on a bill passed by the House of Representatives to rid pro baseball, football, basketball and hockey of fears they may be violating anti-trust laws.

Feller now broadcasts baseball games. Robinson, personnel executive for a restaurant chain, has made a number of speaking tours.

Since then several subcommittee members have taken a cut at some of its provisions, particularly one that would allow professional team sports to regulate TV - radio broadcasts of their games.

COSTLY LITIGATION

Another witness before the subcommittee, Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (Rep.-N.Y.), one of the authors of the House bill, said there is no justification for subjecting professional team sports to the costly and complicated litigation typical in anti-trust cases.

"There is no grave threat to our economic system from the alleged baseball or football or hockey or basketball conspiracy which demands that sports be treated so severely," Keating said in prepared testimony.

He said the assertion by some critics that the bill would give precedented and extraordinary privilege . . . is the sheerest myth."

While chances increased that the subcommittee would bring out some kind of legislation before Congress adjourns next month, it also seemed likely members would tighten up the proposed anti-trust law exemptions.

GOLD CHAMPIONSHIPS

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Soaring Association Thursday announced its national championship will be held between July 20 and Aug. 9 in Brantford, Cum-Ottawa, southern Ontario and the United States are expected.

On the Tracks

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Unbeaten Tommy Lee won the $50,000 Starlet Stakes, richest race in the west for two-year-olds, before 28,000 fans at Hollywood Park Thursday. It was his fifth straight victory.

Tommy Lee, with Willie Shoemaker up, whisked into the lead and won handily from a California contender, Finnegan.

Monks Hood was third in the six furlong feature raced in 1.10 2-5.

SET FOR SEPTEMBER

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Former middleweight champion Gene Fuller and contender Joe Giardello will fight in Salt Lake City Sept. 8 or Sept. 10, promoter Joe Dupler announced Thursday.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Belleville District Softball League powers-that-be have decided to call off all postponed schedule games and call the regular season a day. They figured, and rightly so, there was not much point in going through token games since they had no bearing on the standing.

This means the Point Anne Cementmen finish on top of the loop ladder with Cobourg in second place. The Bobcats follow with the Trenton League Juniors in the fourth and final spot. Frankford, eliminated from district playoffs, however is reported to have affiliated with the OASA and will take part in the intermediate "C" playdowns.

Just how the OASA works its affiliations we do not know. The rule book says all teams must be affiliated by July 1st, but in the latest OASA bulletin which contains the list of affiliated teams there is no mention of Frankford. However, a note says "It is known that additional affiliations have been reserved, and are in transit to this office."

And while on the rules subject and in answer to several queries the OASA book of words says: "No player shall sign a certificate in any league after July 15 of the current year, nor sign another certificate unless properly released from former team, and must actually play in at least three games for the championship club in order to be eligible to play in the Ontario championships. Postponed, defaulted or exhibition games shall not be considered as a game played."

It is expected the district league playoffs will get under way as soon as the executive decides on dates. The Oz Painters will take on the Trenton Legion youngsters in one bracket, while the blood-and-thunder series will be that between the Belleville Bobcats and the Cobourg Merchants. There is no love lost between these squads and the two-of-three (subject-to-change) series will be for figurative blood. The finals have been earmarked a three-of-five affair.

As was mentioned before in this column, the league powers-that-be would be well advised to have the district league championship decided before the various clubs enter the OASA playdowns trail.

The playdowns for the various championships do not get under way before August 15, according to the book of words, and this should give the district league plenty of time to get its playoffs written off the books.

It is hardly fair to the clubs involved to stretch the district league playoffs beyond the dates of the OASA playdowns. Fan interest at that time is centred on the championship play with the outside clubs furnishing the attraction. Crowds at league playoffs drop off since Joe Fan has been seeing the same teams battle all summer, and he wants to save his softball shekels for the "money" games with clubs from other districts.

However, there should be some topflight softball when the league teams clash in their do-or-die series. As was mentioned before while both series will be hard fought, the fury-and-fireworks series will be battled between the Bobcats and Cobourg.

The Cats' bats did not raise any furore against the shoots of Jimmy Daye and Roly Campbell during the schedule, finishing with a won one, lost three record. However, Marne Robert Temple figures the playoff series will be a horse of a different color. He is optimistic to the extent that he feels not only will he be tops in the league playoffs, but will "go all the way in the intermediate AA playdowns."

The Cats' strength was struck a solid blow when it was learned Bryan Hull is not eligible for the OASA playdowns. Seems Robert played with a higher category team, the Point Anne industrial intermediates, last season, and that rules him out of playing with a club of lower classification.

However, despite stories that Hull has signed with the Trenton Juniors for OASA playdowns, a ranking source says he has OASA permission to play for the Bobcats in the district league playoffs. Hull's softball activities with the Trenton club, if such is the case, will be curtailed since he will report for training with the Chicago Black Hawks before softball activities cease unless Trenton is eliminated in the first grand slam.

Speaking of the Bobcats, they meet the starry Oshawa Junior "A" club at the CNRA Park tonight starting at 6.45. The Oshawa team has played as a unit since its peewee days. In 1954 it won the all-Ontario midget championship and has reached the semi-finals in every series since organization. Last year it reached the Ontario Junior "A" finals, being eliminated by Hamilton Tecumseh in the third game.

Coached by "Soup" Campbell, the Oshawa youngsters should be a hard nut to crack. The Cats will have to be on their toes in what looms as a nifty chunk of softballing.

Nips Nats for Five in Row As Yankees Trim Tigers 4-2; Giant Rally Clips Phillies

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco has revived those late - inning thrillers that helped the Giants win pennants in '51 and '54.

The Giants, a half-game behind Milwaukee in the National League race, have won 16 games in the last inning. That's a third of their 47 victories.

On their current home stand, they've won nine of 12, winning six by one run and five of those with clutch-hitting rallies.

They beat Philadelphia's falling Phillies 8-7 with three in the ninth Thursday. Two came in on Orlando Cepeda's double, but the clincher came home on a base-loaded wild pitch.

STAYS AHEAD

Milwaukee stayed a wink ahead of the Giants by giving the sidelong St. Louis Cardinals another beating. The Braves made-to-order third-place Chicago Cubs 3-2. Los Angeles hammered Pittsburgh 8-3.

The Phils broke a 5-5 tie with two runs in the ninth off reliever Don Johnson, called back to the majors from Toronto the night before. Phils' ace reliever, Dick Farrell, now 6-2, lost his record to the Giants with a couple of walks that Cepeda converted into runs, two more that loaded the bases and then an errant 1-2 pitch to pinch-hitter Hank Sauer.

Marv Grissom (6-3) won it for the Giants, who got home runs from Willie Mays and Leon Wagner. Harry Anderson hit a three-run homer for the sixth-place Phils, who have lost six in a row, five by one run.

WIN FIVE IN ROW

The Braves won their fourth in a row despite Stan Musial's two home runs, which scored the only runs pushed him past Lou Gehrig into the No. 3 spot behind Babe Ruth in the all-time extra-base hit list. Del Crandall and Wes Covington homered for the Braves, who beat reliever Jim Brosnan (7-7) on Mel Roach's sixth hit in the seventh. Lew Burdette (9-7), working in relief, blanked the Cards on three hits for five innings for the win. The Cards have lost five straight.

Pete Rodger, who had lost seven in a row in a plunge to seventh place, scored two on Frank Robinson's 11th homer, then got the winner on Roy McMillan's single. Reliever Joe Nuxhall (6-6) lasted through a 10-hit pitching job that ended the Cubs' winning string at five. Dave Hillman (2-1) got it.

The Dodgers made it on homers by Gino Cimoli, Don Zimmer and Gil Hodges that scored all but one of their runs. Bobby Shantz Willies won his sixth, but needed relief help.

Sports Centre Rallies To Beat Woodland

By PETER CARVER

The teams were deadlocked 6-6 at the end of seven innings. Woodland scored two runs in the ninth inning but Sports Centre roared back with three of their own.

"Sonny" Holoway and Jim Moreed shared the winning mound duties, allowing 9 hits, whiffing seven while walking nine batters. Ron Pointer took the rubber for the losers striking out only while passing four.

Fred Murray smashed two homers, a double and a single for Sports Centre while "Sonny" Holoway blasted a triple and a single. Warren Small contacted for a double and a single for the losers.

If any other Intercounty team is going to meet Belleville Oaks and Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, they will have to get going.

With less than a month left in regular play, the Oaks and Dutchmen are tied for the lead in the nine-team league, five games ahead of Galt Terriers and Guelph Merchants.

Both the leaders strengthened their hold Thursday night. The Oaks came from behind a three-run count to defeat Hamilton Beavers 9-8. Lethbander Jack Roberts, after a shaky start, went all the way for his fifth win against two losses.

The Dutchies scored their first win over St. Thomas Elgins with a 5-2 decision. Southpaws Bob Sealby and Bill Ankenman both went the route, each allowing eight hits. Ankenman hit a homer for the losers in the seventh. George Boniface and Charlie Mains tripled for the winners.

Bisons Thump Maple Leafs 11-4; Royals Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those high flying Montreal Royals of the International League are setting a torrid pace as they put away five wins in four of the teams.

The Royals, who have won 22 of their last 29 games, now lead the league by six full games.

Thursday night's double-bill bases-full single in the 10th inning broke a tie Thursday night and powered the Royals to a 7-6 victory over Rochester Red Wings. Jack Cochran won his seventh victory in nine decisions although he pitched just the ninth frame and gave up two runs.

Buffalo Bisons exploded with seven runs in the 15th inning to beat Toronto Maple Leafs 11-4 and Richmond Virginians edged Miami Marlins 2-1 in 10 innings.

Toronto's Ernie Broglio, making his first appearance at Toronto, struck out 15 batters for a club record. But it wasn't around when the Bisons tallied seven runs in the 15th inning after both clubs had scored four in the 13th. After Buffalo had tallied twice in the 13th, Rocky Nelson and Archie Wilson hit back-to-back home runs. Luke Easter his big first appearance at Toronto's home was his 29th, a long-ball figure.

Bob Chakales went the route for the Virginians, scattering 10 hits. Clarks Boyer led off the pay-off frame with a three-bagger and came home a moment later on a sacrifice fly.

Ont., B.C., Teams Favored In Interprovincial Tourney

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The golfwise who profess to read tea leaves, crystal balls and wouldn't budged today from the conviction that either Ontario or British Columbia will win the 1958 interprovincial team golf championship.

Past performance records support the crystal-gazers. The interprovincial competition dates to 1930 when it began as an Ontario-Quebec affair and has had 15 tournaments of the more modern and sophisticated variety. Ontario has won nine times and British Columbia five. Quebec squeezed in one win.

The 36-hole medal play competition for the eight four-man provincial teams will be played Saturday over Toronto's Scarboro course, and what might be termed home territory concededly could enhance Ontario's chance.

FAMILIAR COURSE

Although Scarboro is not the home course for any of Ontario's four players, it is no stranger to any of them.

There is recognized strength in the Ontario team, led by veteran Nick Weslock of Windsor. Weslock won the 1957 Canadian amateur title and only recently grabbed the Ontario amateur championship.

With him he has a crew of three youngsters, including one from last year's team, who have shown sound capabilities in tournament play.

The defending British Columbia team is led by Doug Balzo of Vancouver, who played on several cup teams including last year's winner at Winnipeg.

ANOTHER HOLDOVER

Bob Kidd, British Columbia amateur champion from Vancouver, is another holdover. In his first practice round Thursday, Kidd shot a four-under-par 67.

The well-liked dark-horse team this year appear to be Alberta and Quebec.

The Alberta contingent is led by Doug Silverberg of Calgary, who has played on seven consecutive Alberta teams. He shot a 74 in his practice round.

The teams began checking in Thursday and all got in practice rounds.

Aggregate medal scores will determine each team's standing. Guesses of the aggregate needed to win have ranged from par 568 to another eight or 10 strokes higher.

Eight provincial junior champions will also wage a 36-hole match Saturday for the Canadian junior title.

Ceremonial Pageantry Splash Features Official Opening; Elimination Events Run Off

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — The sixth stadium, a right Canada earned edition of the British Empire Games opens officially today with a splash of ceremonial pageantry, but it already has behind it a shattered record.

Sprinters in the 100-yard and 440-yard events beat the opening gun Thursday as they ran off some elimination events to cut down the field. They featured the unheralded appearance of Tommy Robinson, a husky six-foot speiter and sole representative of the Bahamas.

Robinson, a premedical scholarship student at the University of Michigan, finished over the 100-yard track in 9.5 seconds, knocking one-tenth of a second off the existing Games record.

Robinson, who casually announced later that "I didn't enter myself," will be all alone with his country's flag when 1,200 athletes from 36 countries stage a colorful marchpast. The opening ceremonies and 70 minutes later when Prince Philip officially puts the show on the road.

Canada's scarlet blazers and light blue trousers will be the first seen entering the 40,000-seat good territory or hustling to good cover during these times. If you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

WON'T TURN PRO

KINGSTON (CP) — Ron Stewart, Queen's university senior football team captain and high-scoring backfielder, Thursday announced he would not play professional football and would remain at the university this fall. Stewart, sought by Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders of the professional Big Four league, said he would continue in the law course at Queen's and would seek his degree.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Farong trotted the mile in 2:07 Thursday night to win the featured $2,000 ninth race at Blue Bonnets Raceway.

The Midshipman was second and third was Ted Genesee.

Russ Caldwell drove Lunchburg Lady from Kemptville, Ont., to victory in a $1,800 C pace. Lunchburg Lady stopped the mile in 2:11 3-5.

Flighty Don Johnson Flops In National League Debut

SAN FRANCISCO (AP — Don Johnson, a much - traveled pitcher, finally made it to the National League.

The big righthander (6-2, 200 pounds) in 11 years of baseball has played on five leagues—American Association, American, Pacific Coast, International and Texas-Oklahoma.

His record reads like a travel folder: Kansas City, York Yankees, Portland, Ore., Sacramento, Calif., Washington, St. Louis Browns, Chicago White Sox, Baltimore and Toronto. There was a two-year army stretch in there, too.

Now he's a San Francisco Giant and the way they're going Johnson figures he might be on his second world series ride. He was with the Yankees in 1947 when they won the series.

"This is the best break I've ever had," he said Thursday. "This club has a chance to win the pennant. We're just one-half game behind and a hot streak might carry us all the way."

When Baltimore sold him to Toronto May 30, Johnson said his son said he thought his major league days were over. "I never thought I'd get another chance," he said.

TWO GOOD SEASONS

But he posted a 17-9 record in 1956 and an 18-8 mark last season. This year after losing five in a row, he's won seven of his last 10. He had three consecutive shutouts.

Johnson's National League debut Thursday was a flop. With the score tied 4-4 in the top of the ninth against Philadelphia, Johnson relieved. Johnson retired only one batter. Nevertheless, Don said, "I brought my luck to this club. I haven't been on a losing team since Baltimore."

Giant reliefer Marv Grissom got one out and then Philly Giants bounced back to win 8-7.

Manager Bill Rigney said he intends to use Johnson as a reliefer.

"That's fine with me," said Johnson. "I pitched in relief in spring training and I'll do whatever it takes to get some of that world series dough."

Must License Nursing Homes After April 1

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's 2,000 private nursing homes will have to be licensed and meet government standards to participate in federal-provincial aid to indigent aged patients, Welfare Minister Cecile said Wednesday.

Starting April 1, 1959, the province will pay up to $80 a month to persons in private nursing homes who are unable to pay maintenance costs.

Such a home will need a license from the municipality to maintain minimum standards and removal of hazards.

The welfare department sent an approved by-law to each municipality with licensing regulations which will require removal of fire hazards, inspections, adequate floor space and proper staff in relation to the number of patients.

Municipalities now pay full costs of caring for such patients. Under the new arrangement the provincial and federal governments will pay on a 50-50 basis, with municipalities paying $30 a month for each patient.

Roslin

ROSLIN — Sunday school picnics were held recently at Victoria Park, Tweed, when the Roslin United Sunday School held their picnic, held their annual picnics on Wednesday and Thursday respectively.

The Rev. D. L. Woodward and Mrs. Woodward, Dr. and Mrs. Valerie, spent the past week at the Anglican Church Camp, Bonnechere.

Dr. J. D. and Mrs. Empson, Heather Jane and Johnnie, have been holidaying at their cottage at Oak Lake for the past two weeks.

While away, Dr. Hall, of Trenton, has been assisting Dr. J. Harsh with the practice. Dr. and Mrs. Hall are residing in the village.

ASKS UNDERSTANDING

PARIS (AP) — France, after being left out of the big power talks going on between Britain and the United States in Washington, has appealed for close U.S.-French understanding. Maurice Couve de Murville, foreign minister and former ambassador to Washington, said Thursday such understanding is indispensable in the face of peril on all sides.

Sunday School Lesson

Home Life and the Nation

By ROY L. SMITH

One of the most promising aspects of the contemporary scene is the widespread interest that is being shown in the preservation of the American home.

HOME IS A FOUNDATION

There can be no hope that the life of the nation will ever rise any higher than the level of the life that is to be found inside the homes of that nation.

If the home life of a nation is corrupt, if there is injustice in the treatment the husband accords the wife and mother, if there is a spirit of rebellion among the children in relation to the discipline of the home, if the little ones are being trained in law-breaking by their parents, then the nation must pay the price of this evil.

HOME IS A SCHOOL

The home is a school where-in children are taught the principles and the social adventures which subject the children from the home — all these are enemies and must be declared such.

It is inside the home that the child learns his first lessons in faith. It is for the home that he shows his first reverence. It is within the home that he first learns to live cooperatively. It is the authority of the home that he first learns to respect.

This means that the religion of the home is of the utmost importance, and there can be no more serious sin against childhood than the neglect of religious principles.

This Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 20: "Justice in the Family," Leviticus 19:33; Proverbs 3:20-33; Mark 10:2-16; Ephesians 5: 21 — 6:4; 1 Timothy 5:8.

trained for the responsibilities of citizenship. If they are inducted in unjust ways, or prepared to assume unjust attitudes toward one another, then they will condemn injustice when they have matured and are assuming their duties as citizens of the state.

ENEMIES OF THE HOME

In spite of the vast importance that attaches to the home, it is being attacked on all sides, and some of the most serious social ailments with which we are afflicted arise from the fact that the foundations of the home are being undermined.

Anything that contributes to alcoholism in the home is an enemy to be combatted; anything that reduces sex to that and pleads for license is an enemy of the home and society.

The television show which makes it more difficult for a father and mother to maintain the moral standards of their family in the guests who introduce vulgarity into the home life, the advertising which weakens the moral authority of the home,

Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Mrs. M. Sanders returned home on Friday after enjoying a two months' holiday with her son, Sgt. Neil and Mrs. Sanders and Mary Ann, who live in St. Mawr, Belgium, crossing by S.S. Nieuw Dutch Airways from Amsterdam with a brief stop in Iceland.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Purtelle celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on July 17th.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Leavens were weekend guests at the home of his brother, Mr. Jack Leavens and Mrs. Leavens at their cottage, Muskoka.

Mrs. Earle Purtelle has returned to Kenden Park after spending holidays with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Purtelle.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Turpin have been holidaying at the Hodgson cottage, Gibsons Road.

Mr. Bernard Wright is attending summer school at Queen's University, Kingston.

Weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mallory were F/O Ronald Bell and Fit. Cadet Douglas Mallory from the RCAF Station at St. Hubert, Quebec.

Misses Diane Hubbs, Margie Babbie and Nancy Ward left last week for camp at Bass Lake, near Steenburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Medhurst of Hamilton, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Talcott.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bender of Toronto, were Saturday guests of his sister, Mrs. Bert Walters and Mr. Walters.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pooley enjoyed a motor trip to Algonquin Park on Sunday.

That Wheels Right to the Job!
PORTA-MIX
★ PLASTER
Quicker Mixing
Easier Pouring
Faster Handling
● COMPLETELY PORTABLE — PORTA MIX moves right to the job and pours the mix where you want it. Provides uniform mixing action and handles dozens of jobs. You get a capacity of more than 1½ cubic feet of even mix when unit is tilted back on handles for upright mixing.
● EASY POURING — Mixer has wheelbarrow-type frame that tilts forward for easy pouring over a splashproof spout. It takes only one man to operate it at maximum output. Shorter work cycle boosts production 50 percent. PORTA-MIX out-performs any mixer of comparable size.
● LIGHT BUT RUGGED — PORTA MIX has sturdy all-steel construction yet weighs less than 100 pounds. It has waterproof, arc welded seams. Carefully balanced design makes it easier to handle. It's compact enough to fit inside the trunk of a standard passenger car. An entirely new concept in mixing.
● ONE MIXER FOR EVERYTHING — Use PORTA-MIX for concrete mixing with standard blades attached inside mixer drum. Mortar or plaster can be mixed by using special slip on blade attachment which fits into front of motor mounting frame. It has stationary blade extending inside drum.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, July 19

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Inspect your house, your warranty deeds, other securities, your wardrobe, garden, etc., and see that all is in perfect order as you would like it. This gives a sense of real satisfaction and a feeling of security. Be thorough.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Get to tonsorial parlor, beautician in early hours for that glow to your appearance that is so essential. Later you can be with important business people or admired friends for a most worthwhile day of fun or increasing finances.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — It is proper that you give home affairs your undivided attention today. Be as courteous and kind to close ties as you are to other persons, show your affection. Tonight, bring your friends to own home and have a delightful evening.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — An ideal day for visiting, whether in or out of town, and for shopping for those little added touches to wardrobe or house that make you appear very smart. Also, catch up on correspondence and see those important persons too busy during weekdays.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Make the repairs needed to increase value of your real estate and beautify, make more valuable any other possessions you may have. Set up more workable bookkeeping system, and in P.M. have a lovely time with a good pal.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — A perfect day for thinking in terms of self, toning up system and appearance so that you radiate health and happiness. Then be very sociable, meet new people of worthwhile sort and be a joy to your usual and devoted comrades.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Take time today to study better ways and means of accomplishing the small daily duties that will lop off time and save energy. Excellent for helping the downtrodden, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — If you pocket your pride and go to successful and dynamic acquaintance for good ideas and financial support now, you will gain much. Then in P.M. be mentally minded and have a marvelous time with good friends.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Delve into matters of pollution, other matters that will give you greater prestige and fame. Good day to get an A-1 credit rating, too. Be at as great a use to the general public as you possibly can.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Finally it is possible to get that needed date at your fingertips which will improve your efficiency and worth. Much will be found in your newspaper, other periodicals. P. M. you will meet an important person.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Imperative today you make collections, pay indebtedenses, look into the matters, etc. Then see that you devise a more efficient modus operandi. P.M. be very romantic and also be kind to a bosom pal of long standing.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — The opportunity is present for long conversation with one associate on some venture not yet completed. Good day for conferences with personnel for better relegating individual jobs. This should be a most satisfying day.

If your child is born today ... The remarkable child born today will have a most precise and capable mind, and from earliest childhood will insist upon order and immaculate surroundings. A place for everything and everything in its right place. Give a most thorough education for the great designer, medical healer, the truly big business person are all in this fine chart. Be a splendid example yourself to young budding genius.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

Play Safe While You Drive!

Keep alert—chew gum

Avoid traffic jitters and driving drowsiness. Chew gum while you're behind the wheel. Chewing helps relieve strain and tension—helps keep you feeling fresh and alert for safer driving.

Chew any brand of gum you like but chew while you drive. Naturally, we recommend refreshing, delicious Wrigley's Spearmint Gum—for lively, satisfying flavour and real chewing enjoyment.

PICTON

Berry Growers Alarmed at Fruit Dumping

PICTON — Raspberry growers here are alarmed over the importation of this fruit from the Buffalo, N.Y., area, for both canning and freezing.

Yesterday, Prince Edward Farm Union sent telegrams to the Inter. Provincial Farm Union headquarters in Ottawa and C. A. Milligan, MPP (Prince Edward-Lennox) urging that immediate action be taken to stop the dumping of American raspberries at what they term disaster prices.

Speaking for the Union here, Donald Campbell said importation may mean a price of 20-21c quart by the weekend, though the marketing board had set a price of 25c to be paid Ontario growers.

These berries are being brought to the Quinte district before the local crop is even on the market and it may have a very disastrous effect, said Mr. Campbell who stated the local crop, due to ideal weather conditions, is a bumper one.

Many Warnings And Some Bullets Fly In Mid-East

Hear Nasser Asked Reds To Hold Off Any Action

BEIRUT (CP) — Britain and the United States consolidated their Middle East military buildup today while warnings, threats and demonstrations marked the solidifying opposition from the Communist and pro-Nasser Arab blocs.

President Nasser of the United Arab Republic, fresh from a surprise meeting with Premier Khrushchev of Russia, told the West that aggression will be met with aggression.

At almost the same time, the U.S. revealed that it has told Nasser's government that any attack on U.S. forces in the Middle East by U.A.R.-controlled units "would involve grave consequences."

STEP UP AIRLIFT

In the West's military buildup, Britain was airlifting infantry troops from Britain to Cyprus and it continued to fly heavy equipment to its 2,000 paratroops in Jordan, and reports said several soldiers will be sent there from Cyprus shortly.

The U.S., which raised its marine force in Lebanon to more than 6,000 Friday, announced that 100-unit jet plane striking force has been established in southern Turkey. Military transports still were flying men and material to NATO airfields in Turkey from Europe.

A force of about 2,000 U.S. paratroops began arriving here early today from Turkey. The airlift was expected to be completed late today.

The paratroops were equipped with rockets and light artillery.

Large - scale demonstrations marked the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. A smaller demonstration took place outside the British Embassy. Crowds in other Communist bloc countries kept pace.

Nasser's forces met with the most warlike of Friday's flood of statement.

If Britain and the U.S. "antagonize us, we shall fight to the last drop of our blood," he told a cheering crowd in Damascus. He arrives after meeting with Khrushchev in Moscow in what was described as an air of complete understanding and friendliness.

He said the flag of liberation soon would be raised in Jordan, Lebanon and Algeria. "This is our path and motto."

Russia warned Britain and the U.S. that it could not stand by indifferent to what it called acts of aggression against Lebanon and Jordan.

The foreign ministry said Russia will have to take "necessary measures dictated by the interests of the security of the Soviet Union and preservation of general peace." But it did not spell out what those measures would be.

There was no mention of rockets or "volunteers" — the threat Russia made during the Suez crisis of 1956.

WARNING FROM PEIPING

Communist China in a note to the British charge d'affaires in Peiping told Britain to get her troops out of Jordan or face "extremely grave consequences."

The actual military setup in the Middle East showed little change during the last 24 hours for the first time since Iraqi rebels touched off the crisis last Monday.

Western military moves seemed aimed more at consolidating the forces they now have in the trouble-shocked area, and replacing troops taken hurriedly from other fronts, than at how to meet the sudden needs of the Lebanese and Jordanian situations.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: A rapidly intensifying disturbance in Southern Quebec will cause moist cool air masses to move down from Northern Ontario giving a cloudy and rather windy day with a tendency for light rain showers. Skies are expected to clear tonight as an area of high pressure moves into the Great Lakes region. Sunday will be partly clear throughout the province with temperatures close to 80 degrees and light winds.

BEIRUT (AP) — Lebanese refugees charged through the grounds of the American mission school today to attack the main building of the Lebanese government which houses the office of Premier Sami Solh.

Reports from the scene said rebels entered the compound and launched an attack on Lebanese security forces who were trying to set up wire barricades in front of the main government building.

While they were setting up the barricades the rebels opened fire and drove security forces back to the government building. The rebels did not close enough to throw two bombs inside the courtyard of the building, leaving a gaping hole in the front wall.

More shots were fired at U.S. Marines stationed near the port area in the Lebanese capital, but nobody was hit. The Marines did not return the fire.

Government sources reported that the Druse rebel leader, General Abdallah Yafi, received reinforcements from his mountain headquarters and was ready and may be planning an offensive.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Times said today that President Nasser of the United Arab Republic has been secretly told by Premier Khrushchev of Russia at their Wednesday meeting Thursday to hold off any action in the Middle East that might threaten peace.

However, the Times quotes reliable informants as reporting that Nasser asked the Soviet premier what kind of Soviet help could be expected if the Western powers attacked Syria or his new ally in Iraq.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuters)— The Lebanese government claimed Friday night that Syria was sending Egyptian Communist agents to sabotage and kill.

The government in an official statement issued "on very reliable source" inside Syria as saying that Communist agents were being recruited on orders from Col. Abdel Hamid Serraj, Syrian minister of the interior.

Sixty refugees already had been sent to Lebanon and more were being trained, the government said.

The government statement claimed that large-scale infiltration of men and weapons was continuing across the border from Syria and that some of the arms captured had been brought to Lebanon in Syrian army trucks.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An American diplomat reached Beirut today said that a dozen MiG jet fighters with Russian markings had been seen at Damascus airport.

The report said "a few transport planes" with Russian markings were also seen. The diplomat said Russia has supplied both MiG and transports to the United Arab Republic, which is Egypt and Syria but those presumably now bear U.A.R. markings.

ENGINEERS DEFY GOVT. ORDER TO OPERATE FERRIES

No Service Between B.C. Mainland, Island

VICTORIA (CP) — Striking engineers and officers on Black Ball Ferries Ltd. that maintain ferry service between Vancouver Island and the British Columbia mainland, Friday night defied a provincial government order to return to work.

The sailings of the Kahloke from Nanaimo to Horseshoe Bay and of the Chinook from Horseshoe Bay to Nanaimo were cancelled when crews refused to board the vessels. Passengers were stranded at both points.

The walkout, in defiance of the government which seized the line under the Civil Defence Act, began late Thursday over a wage dispute.

It was called for qualified volunteers to man the vessels.

The strike left the 250,000 Vancouver Island residents with no water transportation. The Canadian Pacific Railway's 10-vessel steamship fleet was shut down by a strike of the Seafarers International Union May 17.

At Black Ball's Horseshoe Bay headquarters, company chairman Alexander Hope said: "We are doing everything possible to get the ferries running. We don't know when that will be."

At both Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay company officials said sailings early today would go ahead as scheduled "if crews can be assembled."

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said he was confident engineers and officers would report for work. Referring to Nanaimo, he said the "only" reason for the tieup was that "even one engineer or officer of the ferries can't run without a full complement."

Labor Deputy Minister Dr. Dennis McKeown, business agent of the Association of Masters, Mates and Pilots, said the men will not return to work until an agreement is reached.

The government took over Black Ball June 23 when the engineers and Merchant Service Guild threatened strike action. Officers joined the strike against Black Ball and the two officer unions subsequently. In both disputes the SIU wants 2.5 per cent increase. The companies proposed eight per cent.

CAN FACE FINES

The officers and engineers face fines of up to $5,000 each for defying the act. However, they could get out of such a fine by dispute is illegal and have indicated they will fight it in the courts.

The dispute cropped up in the Commons Friday. Transport Minister Hees told Conservative MP Leon Crouse, former Liberal transport minister, that negotiations between CNR and CPR and commercial plane airlift to meet emergency needs in the Canadian Labor Minister Starr said he would look into it.

Princess Gets Taste of West Which for Time Was too Wild

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Princess Margaret visited British Columbia's wine country today and got a taste of the west that for a brief moment was almost too wild.

She got a slight shaking up when a cayuse bolted with two horses but the experience apparently did not unnerve her. A few minutes later she visited a rodeo, put away a helping of scrambled eggs and bacon and then asked for a second serving.

Williams Lake, a cattle town in the Cariboo Country, gave the touring princess a cowboy welcome Thursday during her 2½-hour stopover en route from Quesnel to the Okanagan Valley 150 miles she will spend four days.

She stepped into an old fashioned stage coach for a five block drive through the town to the railway station. But the two old plough horses pulling the coach suddenly reared back twice. The princess steadied herself by clutching a brace on the coach. Then she was carried at a gallop down the main street by the runaway horses. had reared three times while the princess was posing with a welcoming party at the railway station. Each time she reacted coolly to the situations "both economic and political, He added.

It will be up to modify these the obligations in a peaceful way in accordance with the requirements of the changing world."

Iraq has not announced the Baghdad pact," he said. "It has never been considered. We consider ourselves still members of the pact."

Our friendship for the United States is still the same. I can assure you that my government cherishes the warmest feelings for the United States."

He confirmed that Fadhil Jamali, sometime United Nations spokesman for the old Iraqi government, was awaiting trial. He also confirmed that King Faisal, Crown Prince Abdul Illah and Premier Nuri Said are dead. He said the new government in Iraq is "a government of the people, by the people and for the people."

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — After a sterling 6-day trip across British Columbia from Vancouver Island to the Peace River, Princess Margaret arrived Friday night at a secluded estate beside beautiful Lake Okanagan for four days of relaxation.

Despite the hectic pace, from tablecloth-snatching to cow-country farewells, the princess remained cool and fresh at the halfway mark of her B.C. tour.

Friday was the most crowded and noisy day so far for the fast-moving princess — and she seemed to enjoy it most of all.

The day started with a wild ride at Clinton, B.C., where she arrived by train at Williams Lake in the Cariboo country, rode for a mile in a pair of cowboy-driven horses in an ancient stage, ate a cow-hands' chuckwagon breakfast and watched bronco-busters bite the dust at a rodeo.

Then she boarded her luxury RCAF C-5 transport for the flight to Penticton, her first stop in the Okanagan, a picturesque orchard valley between the Coast and Columbia mountain ranges.

Mayor and Mrs. C. E. Oliver of Penticton were presented to the princess, together with officials from adjacent cities, municipalities and villages. The party toured the lakefront area and sped back to the airport.

A Pacific Western airlines plane took the royal party on to Vernon where it landed on Lake Okanagan. After customary presentations, the princess was driven on a 20-minute tour of the city and then to a hill overlooking Kalamalka Lake, the lake of many colors.

At Kelowna, where the party made another lake landing, 2,000 school children were on hand to greet the princess as she stepped onto a landing platform in front of the Aquatic Stadium.

The princess wore a lilac, semi-sheath dress with a full cover skirt, fitted at the front. The sweeping arc of her accordion pleated hemline was augmented by a two-strand string of pearls and diamond clip. Her only other jewelry was a bracelet matching the clip. Her hat was of ruffled lace and tiny flower buds.

A group of airline workers and Boy Scouts grabbed the airstrip as it sidled gently up to the dock and held it steady for the pilot to ease to disembark.

As soon as she stepped out of the door, the children, who had waited patiently in 88-degree heat for an hour, let loose with a roar of welcome.

The princess broke into a broad smile.

New UN Representative Says Iraq Still in Baghdad Pact

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — Hashim Jawad presented himself here Friday as the representative of the new Iraqi government and promptly told reporters he considers himself a member of the pro-Western Baghdad pact.

Whether Iraq will join the Egyptian-Syrian United Arab Republic is a question for the future, Jawad said, and is not being considered now. He said Monday's Iraqi revolution was purely nationalist and Iraq wants friendship with all Arab powers.

"There will be political parties, there will be elections and there will be everything that we have missed for the last 40 years," he declared. "We will have a welfare state."

He said the country, where the West has oil concessions, will live up to all obligations "both economic and political, He added.

Elderly Man Dies in Downtown Toronto Blaze

TORONTO (CP) — A two-alarm fire swept through downtown four-storey building of Regent Hotel, killing one man and destroying the offices of Radio Weekly, a weekly newspaper.

Dead is James Broughan, about 70, who was trapped in his tiny top-floor apartment. Police said he was asphyxiated by smoke.

Sam Boohmer, 28, who also lived in the room on the same floor, was not home at the time of the fire.

Cause of the fire and amount of the damage were not known. Firemen, building and the newspaper were owned by Ruby Investments Limited. It also contained a restaurant and a beauty salon.

GENERAL TRADE DEBATE SHOWS NO SIGNS OF SPEED

House Inaugurates Saturday Sittings

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons, inaugurating Saturday sittings in a timetable aimed at accelerating parliamentary business, today resumes a general trade debate that has shown few signs of speed.

In a day-long sitting Friday, discussion ranged over import diversion, currency convertibility, commerce with Red China and myriad other matters, leaving details of expenditure estimates still untouched.

Trade Minister Churchill reiterated opposition to suggestions that Canada seek an Atlantic free trade area, but agreed on the need for closer economic ties with North Atlantic countries.

The Canadian Government is aware, he said, of the danger that European countries might erect trade barriers against Canada but it had no fears. The new economic setup in Europe might mean greater purchasing power for Canadian goods.

Concern that the six - nation European common market might "shut out" Canadian products was expressed by Conservative Leader Pearson. He said it would be better if Canada took the lead in setting up what he called a "great Atlantic free trade area."

SUPPORTS PEARSON

Conservative Leader Hazen Argue supported Mr. Pearson, saying he was interested in finding how Canada can "associate herself with the common market, and with the proposed broader European free trade area.

Mr. Pearson and Mr. Argue both stressed the need for more western initiative to counter the Russian economic offensive, described by Mr. Argue as the greatest and most significant economic development in the past year.

Mr. Churchill replied that Canada is fully aware of the danger.

He also said one of Canada's big problems is the unfavorable price - cost and economic conference opening in Montreal Sept. 15 will be to "maintain Britain's progress toward convertibility" — free exchange of the pound sterling.

Two topics of party dispute, Mr. Diefenbaker and federal election campaign, gave the House some entertainment.

The question of whether Prime Minister Diefenbaker had proclaimed a policy of diverting 15 per cent of Canada's exports to the United States to Britain.

DENIES—BUT—

Mr. Diefenbaker—described Mr. McIlraith's statement on the subject—denied a press report that he had called a conference on an objective." But remarks later the prime minister referred to the 15 per cent objective as an objective.

The other point of controversy, which had rival parties thumping their desks alternately, involved Holmes later quoted from the CCF's Canada's economic prospects, prepared under the former Liberal government.

Canada, as Impartial Middle Power, Might Act as Mid-East Mediator

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Anglo-American intervention in Lebanon and Jordan has raised the possibility that Canada, as an impartial middle power with no international axe to grind, might be called upon to play a part as mediator.

That assignment no doubt would be viewed as a responsibility and a privilege. The fear in Canada probably is that, around the world, is that forces have been set in motion that may defy attempts at immediate mediation.

Meanwhile the Canadian government is taking a cautious, conservative attitude that shape events will take, and official comment has been brief and careful.

It would seem that Prime Minister Diefenbaker and External Affairs Minister Smith have wanted to indicate that the presence of troops in Lebanon and Jordan should be accepted as an interim, emergency action that could not last.

The positive statements they have made stress their determination that Canada do its utmost within the United Nations framework to help restore calm in the Middle East that would safely permit withdrawal of British and American forces.

There is a possibility that in some quarters Canada's attitude will be reported as one of unwillingness to accept a policy of armed intervention, because there has been no criticism of it.

Such an impression, if it gained currency among Arab states for instance, might make Canada less acceptable as a mediator.

On the contrary, however, there seems little settled opinion in Ottawa yet about the Middle East or the real objectives of the United States and United Kingdom in going into Lebanon and Jordan, and the real hopes these Middle East countries held when they invited intervention.

It is quite possible that Canada will not be given much choice of action except to use whatever influence it can away at the United Nations and in NATO.

Japan Is Trying To Prevent Meet Of UN Assembly

Mediation Is Attempted As Council Deadlocked

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)— The fate of a Japanese mediation attempt aimed at breaking off an emergency session of the United Nations General Assembly on the Middle East crisis appeared uncertain today.

Delegates conferred, however, on the proposal by the Asian power understood to involve a call on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to take such measures as he might deem necessary to protect Lebanon's independence and enable American forces to be withdrawn.

The Japanese made their bid in the Security Council after that 11-power peace - keeping body voted down opposing United States and British resolutions and also defeated a Swedish attempt to wash the UN's hands at least temporarily of responsibility for Lebanon's lately.

Sweden, supported only by Russia when its motion came to a vote late Friday, asked that the Security Council suspend the work of the small UN observer team which has been in Lebanon since June investigating the charges of revolt there.

PULLS FROM FIELD

Shortly after this motion was defeated 8 to 2, with Britain and the chairman of this observer group reported from Beirut that it was pulling out of its men from the field because last Tuesday's attempt by the UN to get the damaged the rebels' attitude towards co - operating with the UN observers. Lasso, the group leader, claimed that wreckage of the observers' cars and evidence in Lebanon may have collapsed because of the American intervention.

The Japanese proposal had not been officially spelled out today, but it followed more the lines of the U.S. resolution vetoed in the council by Soviet delegate Arkady Sobolev, Russia cast the only dissenting vote against the American call for extension of the UN's role in Lebanon like the UN truce supervision force resembling the UN Emergency Force which took up positions along the Egyptian border during the Suez crisis at the end of 1956.

The Russian "No" vote constituted the 5th Soviet veto in the Security Council. Seven delegates today regarded it as the most fateful of the Soviet vetoes to date. When the council acted in the Korean invasion of 1950 the Soviet Union was participate in the voting or even in discussions preceding it.

SWEDES ABSTAIN

Sweden abstained in the vote on the U.S. proposal. Nationalist China and the nine council members voted in favor. At the outset of the council the vote was 10 against Russia's call for withdrawals, forthwith of the United States, Britain and the British forces which landed in Jordan Thursday. Sweden abstained on this vote, along with Japan, Canada would be willing to see France and the U.S. on all three ballots, but delegate John Holmes later said he was sympathetic to Sweden's mediation suggestion. But was of the strengthen, not weaken, the UN position.

Smith, Dulles Lloyd Pleased About Parley

He declined to answer reporters' questions about the talks or their conclusions, but unofficial reports said all three participants were pleased with the results.

The only statement issued came from the British Embassy. A spokesman said the talks embraced "every aspect of the Middle East," and were held in "perfect harmony."

Smith attended a dinner with Lloyd and the British ambassador, Herve Alphand, at Dulles' residence Friday night. It was understood before beboarded a train for New York, where he will talk with the Soviet delegate to and with Canada's United Nations delegation.

BRING UP TO DATE

Officials said the French ambassador attended the dinner as a courtesy because he brought up to date on Anglo-American-Canadian thinking on the crisis.

Interrupting his part in the talks briefly, Dulles is reported to have told a Senate committee Friday that he thought the Soviet Union might make some move to encourage the United Arab Republic to act against U.S. or British forces in Lebanon and Jordan.

In the appearance before the Senate appropriations committee, Dulles said in a statement which was made public that the Soviet Union is behind a conspiracy from which even threaten the government of King Hussein in Jordan and endangered the governments of Lebanon and Jordan.

Statements attributed to Dulles by senators who were present to newsmen shed light on the problems with which Lloyd, Smith and he have been wrestling since they opened the emergency conference.

PRINCIPAL POINTS

The principal points which emerged from accounts given by the senators were these:

1. There were no present plans for Britain to intervene militarily in the situation in Iraq. Furthermore the killing of Faisal and his premier apparently has ended the revolutionaries last Monday had virtually wiped out the possibility of any counter revolutionary uprising.

2. The United States and Britain were awaiting evidence on the question of how the rebel leaders at Baghdad to see whether they would take a position friendly to the Western powers and the United Arab Republic backed by the Soviet Union.

3. There was no estimate to be made now or how long it would be necessary to keep the Anglo-American forces in the Middle East.

Nine U.S. Army Men Released By East Germany

HOF, Germany (AP) — West German police announced today the release of nine U.S. Army men held by Communist East Germany since Saturday.

They were handed over to Western authorities at the East German border town of Hirschberg and were taken to headquarters of their unit—the 3rd Armored Division in Frankfurt.

A total of 13,463 cheese, 9,096 of them white, were offered on the Kingston Cheese Exchange this week.

Of the white cheese offered the trade purchased 939 boxes first grade and 431 second grade while 7,849 cheese being left for the producers. Price for white cheese was 33 cents.

Of the 4,264 colored cheese offered the trade took 3,767 at 33c to 35 3-16c.

Blast Early To Beat Flow Of Traffic

Many people have been wondering why the Ontario Hydro Commission triggered an 8 a.m. blast that demolished a cofferdam in the St. Lawrence River at Cornwall on July 1.

They wondered why the explosion could not have taken place at a later time in the day.

The Ontario Intelligencer today is in receipt of a letter from James A. Hay, director of information of the Hydro, which explains the thing:

He said Mr. Blair: " . . . As a safety precaution it was necessary to close off Highway No. 2 during the blast. This could not satisfactorily be done during a period when the flow of traffic in the area was not heavy. The blast could have taken place at an earlier hour, but in view of the great public interest, it was decided to schedule the operation for 8:00 a.m."

The explosion of 30 tons of stone started the flooding of a 100-square-mile seaboard or lake just west of the Robert H. Saunders generating station. Cornwall was the unofficial opening of the Joint Ontario Hydro-State of New York Power Authority St. Lawrence power project.

FAMILY FUN ON A BUDGET

More and more families are learning that it doesn't require a lot of cash to enjoy themselves during the summer months.

For healthful, outdoor relaxation the age-old sport of fishing is finding favor with Mom and the Kids as well as Dad. Sunday afternoon you don't see the whole family relaxing on some pier or casting lazily in a boat — thoroughly enjoying themselves.

If you would enjoy an outing with your family, drop in to Booth Radio and Television Limited and select the tackle you need for all of them. Next summer sitting down with your payments can be as little as 50c a week.

Don't wait any longer!

DANIEL GALLAGHER

A resident of the Hastings County Home for the past five years, Daniel Gallagher, 32, died this morning in the Belleville General Hospital. He had been in poor health for the past three years.

Mr. Gallagher was born in Marmora township, the son of the late Francis Gallagher and Bridgit Farrell.

He resided at the Hastings County Home for the past five years, and prior to that in Marmora township for a number of years. He was a member of the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, Marmora.

Mr. Gallagher is survived by one sister, Mrs. Margaret Oulton of Toronto.

Minor Accidents Keep Police Busy on Friday

A rash of minor accidents kept city police busy Friday afternoon and evening with three such mishaps resulting in more than $100 damage.

Two-car collisions reunited at the corner of Dundas and Church when drivers identified as Edward Jorgensen, Kingston and Tony Hendricks, R. R. 4 Belleville were involved in an accident at the corner of Pinnacle and Victoria where vehicles driven by Robert Mackenzie, 66 Geddes, and J. Keith Onderdonk collided.

And on Bridge Street a resident reported that a car had been parked outside his home for the past three days. A check by police revealed the vehicle had been stolen from Camp Borden.

Racial Problem Well Portrayed In Odeon Film

The picture, yet to be released and screened by the Ontario Censors' Board, stars Xarifa Hilli, Sidney Poitier and John McIntire. It is being previewed by Odeon Theatres of Canada to get a cross-country opinion of it before its release. The chapel was conducted by Archdeacon J. B. Creegan, who also said the last rites in the Belleville Cemetery.

The Universal International production, filmed in Technicolor and Superscope on location in Africa, deals primarily with the thorny and many-pronged problem of Afro-Anglo relations.

In 83 minutes it endeavors to present both sides of the problem which centres around the Kedeeng family. One of the Africans to gain complete independence for their country from British rule, and the friendship between the two races, heightened by marriage, helps to prevent a fair solution to this problem.

NO SOLUTION OFFERED

Although the picture ends with no solution having been reached, it does leave a ray of hope that some solution will be found to the not too distant future. A strong undercurrent of Christian principle of brotherhood runs through this inspiring film.

The story revolves around a young, sensitive, dedicated Negro politician, newly-elected to the forefront of African self-directive council, and his efforts to bring about African independence without bloodshed. He is hampered by both his own disillusionment with European rule and by the fact that, although nominally head of the Hawks, an African secret underground movement, he is unable to control the hard core of natives of which his younger brother is a member.

Sydney Poitier, who portrays Obomb, "the Hawk," does well with this role of conflicting loyalties and plays the part of the sensitive, emotionally-torn youth with feeling and skill.

Co-starring with Mr. Poitier is dynamic Xarifa Hilli as Obomb's devoted wife. Although better known as a singer, Miss Hilli handles her acting role capably. Primarily a Negro dramatic soprano, Xarifa sings only one song in the film, "This Man is Mine."

NEGRO CAST

Among the numerous cast, the majority of which is negro, is the well known actor, Frank John McIntire, who portrays a deeply religious English missionary who is dedicated to bringing understanding between the races.

Filming the picture right in Africa—the locale of this controversial problem—and employing a good deal of native talent, makes this film doubly effective.

Spend Night On Bay in Swamped Boat

George Elliott, 46, and his son Garry, 13, who are living at Black's cottages on Highway 33 near Trenton, were rescued from the Bay of Quinte this morning after spending the night in their swamped outboard motor boat.

Police at Picton at Brighton said that the Elliott's apparently set out for a ride in their boat at about 8 o'clock last night as Mrs. Elliott was preparing supper in the cottage. While cruising around the west end of the bay their boat went wrong with the forward gear in the motor. Mr. Elliott attempted to throw the gear into reverse, but in doing so, the boat swamped.

The boat was spotted early today by Mrs. Norma Lewis, Dufferin Ave., Trenton, who was looking at the bay through binoculars.

After being hauled ashore the pair were admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital for observation.

Banks Pledge Continued Aid For Housing

In an Ottawa story Thursday, The Canadian Press said a brief from the Canadian Bankers' Association to the Senate banking and commerce committee hinted the banks might have to scale down their investments in housing.

Commenting on the CP story, E. J. Fraser of Toronto, vice-president of the association who presented the brief, said Friday that attendance would be drawn to the final paragraph of the brief. This said:

"It is probably unnecessary to offer the assurance that it is the intention of the chartered banks fully conscious of their responsibilities, to continue to co-operate in the improvement and financing of Canada's housing, in every reasonable way and, of necessity, in accordance with conditions existing and the legitimate call of their other obligations."

The CBA brief said that from March, 1954, to last June 30, the chartered banks had loaned more than $900,000,000 in housing mortgages, financing more than 85,000 dwellings from their own funds.

Because capital repayment by borrowers under the National Housing Act is slow during early years of their mortgages, it would be some years before enough capital is paid back to provide funds to be "relocated" on the same average scale of years last four years, Mr. Fraser said.

Banking officials emphasized Friday that this statement referred to "relocating" of funds previously committed — not to the use of additional funds that the banks can make available for home mortgages and home improvement loans.

Highways Dept. Builds Special Access Road

Highway department planning engineers didn't need after all when designing the cloverleaf interchange for No. 401 where it is crossed by No. 14 (Foxboro) highway north of the city.

That extra "leg" on the southeast and northeast quadrant which has puzzled motorists since completion of the cloverleaf interchange several months ago is ultimate use after all.

The highway "mystery" was solved Friday afternoon with a telephone call from Mr. Lloyd Walker, Ontario Department of Highways divisional engineer from Kingston. The third or middle "leg" on the easterly approach to the overpass is for the use of local residents turning south onto No. 14 from the homes east of the highway on North Park Street.

COVERS ROAD

When the 401 highway was constructed it covered up the former east-west road running between No. 14 highway and the rock quarry operated by Bolt Construction on the west bank of the Moira River. This being the case a parallel road to 401 had to be built to the east.

The normal four-quadrant cloverleaf approach would provide for traffic from the east to No. 14 highway only for northbound traffic. Traffic intending to turn east was forced to make a very sharp left hand turn. The "third leg" with a wide entrance angle was provided for handling that traffic.

It was pointed out by Mr. Walker that this method of providing entrance and exit for south turning traffic was possible only because No. 14 is but a two-lane road If No. 14 had been a four-lane road some other system of approach would have been necessary.

Mr. Walker's special solution of a local traffic problem." Mr. Walker explained.

Contracts are now working steadily toward the completion of the Trenton - Marysville section of 401 highway, with the official opening date of this section still tentatively set for some time in October.

"This highway will not be opened until shoulder work, guide rails and other safety features are completed," he said.

The eastern terminus of the Trenton - Marysville section of the road will be at what is locally known as Drummey's sideroad. This same road is being widened to standard highway width and will be paved from 401 to No. 2. The eastern terminus of 401 will be lighted at its intersection with Drummey's sideroad, it was stated.

A POEM by REXAIR

Let's clean the Rexair way.
Go through your house each day.
It's worth all you pay,
Takes all the dust away.
Throw you're valves over your Rexair
Dust vanishes from the air.
It's healthy and all clean,
The best I've ever seen.
Your air is filled with ozone,
Makes you feel you don't feel.
It bags as it blows,
Lets you see where stuffy nose
Went,
Wash your hair, but don't worry,
Rexair fan is a hurry.
Dishes, silver, and chime like
Christmas bells.
What? No! It's dry in half an hour or so.
No more old dirty dust rags,
Rexair cleans all the drapes.
Your pictures are dusted in water,
So hurry, get yours and do not falter.
It's not what the other's sin
It's not worry or its pain,
Takes odors out of the air,
You wondered what you smelled
Rexair.
It cleans and washes windows and floors,
It will even put wax upon your floors.
When the water is full of dirt,
Just empty out this squirt.
It washes the air as pure as rain,
Rexair cleans water and dust and grime.
The little Rexair is worth more than wealth,
The fern thing even cleans itself.
Now I'm interested
About my Rexair in my behest.

Aviation Affairs

Should Form Local Body To Discuss Civil Field

By DON HARVEY

Last winter's signs pointed toward a lively summer in aviation circles in the Quinte district with numerous people beginning agitating in little groups for a local public airport. Zone 3 of the Lake Ontario Development Association added fuel to the fire when it announced that a meeting of interested parties would be sponsored to see if this area could support an airfield. What happened to the survey report is anybody's guess.

Now that summer is here rarely is it that one hears people talking about last winter's rumors and dreams. Most of the aviation-minded folks who were sparking conversation with their fellows for a public airport in this district seem to have left the idea for a public airport in this district seem to have left the idea for a public airport in this district seem to have left the country.

But all the rumors and incidental conversations of a lifetime will not build a public airstrip. If the interest is still here, and I believe it is, then now is the time to form a group of people to study the situation and get some plans underway.

Peterborough is one up on the Quinte district. Some time ago the people up there became interested in the aviation and decided it was high time the Lift Lock City had its own airfield. What has happened? They are closer by far to the fulfillment of their dreams than we are. They have discussed the situation with the Department of Transport—and that is as it should be in the proper direction.

What people down here apparently are not aware of is that they have three possible sites for a public airport: Brighton, Mountain View and the RCAF Station, Trenton. Of the three, RCAF Station, Trenton, appears to be the best choice from economical and geographical viewpoints.

GOOD SITE

The Trenton air station is nicely located near the heart of business and industry in the Quinte district. There is a dense concentration of population within a radius of 50 miles of the airfield. It is one of the only things required to make an airport a profitable enterprise.

Before too many RCAF personnel take me severely to task, we should point out it is not suggested that both military and civilian aircraft use the same hangar facilities. They could be completely removed from each other but live in harmony like two peas in a pod. Proof that complicated RCAF-civilian set-up exists, can function smoothly and efficiently side by side, may be seen at Vancouver International Airport, Dorval Airport in Montreal and in several other places.

This year and part of next would not be the best times to inaugurate air service to the public in the Quinte district, at least not if RCAF Station, Trenton, harbors the terminal. As long as neighborhood skies are the habitats of a concentration of RCAF jet and single-engined training planes, it would be folly to ignore the safety factor and launch regular air service on a passenger-cargo basis from that field. Once the jets move away in 1959 and the RCAF's 426 squadron of four-engined North Stars arrive, the element of risk mid-air collisions would be reduced sharply.

SMALL SCALE

The Quinte district could not support, at present, an expensive airport, nor is it likely that Trans-Canada airlines or any of the other large airlines would consider Trenton an economical place to touch down. A local airport would have to be started on a small scale — then let it snowball if it will.

It may not have sounded very attractive to suggest a small scale public airport here, but in effect, such a thing would probably be more lucrative for the aircraft companies using the field and for district businesses and industries. It is unlikely that merchants in, say, Trenton or Belleville, would benefit from transient people using the airport as a jumping off point for Toronto, Ottawa or Montreal if TCA or some other major airline called at Trenton to pick up one or two passengers. But if several smaller companies, like Aircraft Rentals, Wheeler, Gananoque Air Services or Muskoka Air Trails, were to make Trenton a regular port of call, everyone might benefit. I do not believe there is any industry large enough in this district to interest TCA in sending down cargo aircraft regularly. But some of the smaller airlines would probably jump at the opportunity.

COMBINED DEPOT

The airport need not be used exclusively for commercial passenger and cargo service. A number of business executives already at RCAF Station, Trenton, as a parking lot for their private planes. And Trenton has a flying club. Belleville might start one, too. Other flying club planes have used the military facilities for years, and there is little reason why they could not be enticed across the field to a public area where they belong.

Where would be the best spot for a public depot within the perimeter of RCAF Station, Trenton? That question, of course, can only be answered accurately after engineers have completed their basic surveys.

On the surface, though, the best location seems to be in the vicinity of the 401 four-lane highway near the Quinte Drive — in Sidney Township. There is a gravel road running up that way and it should not be very expensive to have the Department of National Defence has acreage in that area that it might not be very difficult to talk the government into leasing a few acres for a public terminal. Then again, it might be impossible.

We must keep one thing very much in mind while considering the possibility of RCAF Station, Trenton. Quite often with the sweet comes something bitter. It should happen that if the DND does lease some of its land for a public airport it will also decide that the presence of a civilian activity on the same field as a military establishment might be detrimental to the efficient operation of the rest of the RCAF there. Therefore, perhaps the government would prefer to sell the installation or, if it is considering bringing in squadrons, the present use of the station for civilian purposes. A public airport may prevent its coming.

RCAF Station, Trenton, it may be recalled, was built in the early 1930s. Since then the economy of the Trenton area, especially, has been boosted by the Air Force influence. It is highly unlikely several hundred local civilian employees at the station or merchants in the Belleville — Trenton area would relish the prospect of anything happening at RCAF Station, Trenton, which would put a brake on the flow of dollars and cents currently going to them twice each month. Also, there is the proximity from the RCAF.

Although RCAF Station, Trenton, appears to be the most likely location for a public airport by location for a public airport from a strategic standpoint, perhaps it is not the most logical site.

However, there are two other possibilities: Deseronto and Mountain View. Of the two, the latter may be the most promising area as far as getting a lease is concerned, even if it is not as strategically located as RCAF Station, Trenton. All this discussion, though, should be ironed out by a group of interested citizens in consultation with the Department of National Defence and the Department of Transport.

GIVE FALSE REPORTS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The state department accused the government-controlled radio of Moscow, Prague and Damascus Thursday of deliberately spreading false reports of clashes between American marines and the Lebanese people. Press officer Lincoln White said that actually no incidents have occurred.

PRINCESS

After the noise died down, Lieutenant-Governor Errol Rea Ross presented Mayor R. F. Parkins, who in turn presented several prizes nearby Glenmore and Frankford. Russ Baker, president of PWA, was also presented to the principals and they talked for several minutes.

Huge baskets of gladioli were spread around the platform, and bouquet of cedar boughs and the same flowers were draped around the bridge railings.

Thousands of spectators packed the park surrounding the stadium, and thousands more lined the two route though town and along he four-mile drive to her residence, the home of Cmdr. J. Bruce Smith at Okanagan Mission.

The rambling home, Summer Grove Farm, is set on a 23-acre estate fronting on the lake. Here the princess will be able to rest, swim, play the piano and bask in the sun before continuing her B.C. tour.

STRICT RCMP SECURITY

For the Kelowna stay RCMP security regulations have been rigidly tightened.

Engineers have checked the beach area around the estate. The new bridge over the Okanagan river where the princess was to open today in one of her few public appearances in Kelowna, has been closely checked.

About 40 RCMP officers are on duty at the Smith estate, and others are scattered at strategic points throughout the city.

The extra-strict security measures follow the arrest last week of five members of the turbulent Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect who have been in Kelowna vowing to cause explosions.

Bishops Debate Bible, Bombs Birth Control

LONDON (Reuters) — The Bible, bombs and birth control were among the main discussion topics of 300 Anglican bishops who ended their 10-week all-faith Lambeth conference today.

The churchmen are to take up other subjects ranging from the prayer book to polygamy before their conference ends Aug. 10.

The primate of all Canada, The Most Rev. Walter Foster, said in the genius of the Anglican communion lies in holding a balance between that gives onlyy advice."

CANADIAN SUGGESTION

The first Lambeth conference arose out of a resolution passed by the Canadian general synod in 1865. They are held every 10 years.

Dr. Barfoot said "the Canadian delegation worked in secret-leved isolated placees, felt they were completely cut off by the outside."

"They needed fellowship one another and with the bishops in other parts of the world. That is why we are now meeting together in London."

There are 32 Canadian bishops, one of the total at the conference. Twenty-five new bishops have been created in Canada since the last Lambeth conference when only six came to London.

COMMONWEALTH TOLD

LONDON (CP) — The House of Commons was told Thursday there has been a "constant exchange of views and information" with other Commonwealth governments about the situation in Lebanon. C. J. M. Alport, undersecretary of state for Commonwealth relations, was replying to a question.

USE BALL AND CHAIN

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP)—A mother and elderly stepfather who shut their child up in a cage, chained around her 10-year-old son's neck worked wonders in making him obey, pleaded guilty of unjustified punishment of a child. Aug. 4 was set for sentencing.

Transport Stuck on Bridge Ties Traffic up for Miles

TRENTON — Traffic was tied up for miles on either side of the town bridge last night when the top of a load on a transport was too high for the last, overhead girder at the east end of the bridge. The transport was loaded with oil furnaces and covered over with a tarpaulin and was proceeding east on the span.

The driver of the truck said his load had just cleared the other overhead girders but when he came to the last one he felt a bump on the deck of the bridge and thought it would ride his load too high to clear the girder.

He decided to try to get under by crossing over to the left hand side of the structure but failed to notice the curbs there had been bent down. This had been done sometime ago by another transport.

In trying to get under it the peak of his load, another hallway back, caught on the girder and stopped the transport.

This left only one lane of traffic open over the bridge and another police officer, Const. Ross Kelly, was on the scene things were in general confusion with traffic moving only at a snail's pace.

Reports say cars were piled up as far back as the Dufferin Street lights on the west side of the bridge and back to the Twin Elms Motel on the east side.

To get the transport off the bridge it was necessary to let some of the air out of the trailer's tires and then have it forced its way under the girder. This resulted in tearing the tarpaulin in several places when it caught on the girder. On the last "bump" of the load a crowbar was used to pry the wooden crate on the oil furnace down to let the transport free.

The driver said he would take the load as far as Belleville and then have it forced under the bridge at Shannonville would be too low to let him pass under. It said he planned to unhitch the tractor and take it back to Toronto, where he left the load.

He did not know if the heavy rain which fell just after the transport had passed would do any damage when it went through the torn tarpaulin and onto his cargo.

Construction On High School Is Progressing

TRENTON — Construction work in Trenton is continuing in full swing with several projects progressing steadily.

The addition to the Trenton High School, which is expected to be finished in time for the opening of the next term in September is taking on the shape of huge cement walls now reaching towards the sky. The cement pillars and walls are being poured by the crews of Watson and Smith, contractors.

The addition to the Quinte Dry Cleaning plant, on Quinte Street, is being hurried along and is now getting the roof put on. The addition will be used for cleaning of furniture upholstery and rugs. Mr. Aziz says he expects the addition will be ready for use into by the end of next week at the latest. Miron and Lassing are the contractors.

The foundations for the first houses on the new housing development, off Sidney St., and near the Armouries, have been started and are now nearly completed. It is Mr. Gould's plan to make this development one of the fine ones in Trenton. It will consist of 22 houses — 11 on each side of the street — which will be known as Gould Avenue.

An addition to the town sheds on the corner of Ontario and Meyers streets is virtually finished. The last doors have been hung and all that remained to do yesterday appeared to be the painting in of the window sashes and glass. The cement floor, plumbing and electrical work have all been completed. The new building will be put into immediate use. A section will be reserved for a fire engine which will be moved there when the repair work on the fire hall there begins sometime in September.

MANY WARNINGS

Russia continued large - scale manoeuvres on the Iranian and Iranian borders, but Turkish and British spokesmen were there off as more or less routine.

"Russia normally holds manoeuvres here at this time of year," said a British military spokesman in Ankara. Turkey probably announced them this year for the propaganda value.

Nevertheless, the potent Turkish Army was reported hitting Soviet troops in the border — and with Russia — and its southern boundary — with the U.A.R. Syria and Iraq.

All military leaves were cancelled and transfers were stopped to keep units at peak efficiency.

At Beirut, there was a sign that Lebanese anger at the landing of U.S. marines was dying down. Adel Osseyran, speaker of parliament who Friday said that only about one-third of the 66 members of parliament supported President Camille Chamoun's request for U.S. military aid, announced he will call a special parliamentary session to discuss the marine landing.

Trenton Airman Squadron Leader

OTTAWA — Air Force Headquarters announced the recent promotion of Flight Lieutenant James C. Terrill, CD, 44, of Trenton, Ont., to the rank of Squadron Leader, effective July 1.

Squadron Leader Terrill was born in Hilton, Ont., and was educated at Quinte C.I. Trenton and Peterborough.

He joined the RCAF in June, 1937, as an airman and trained in the meteorological branch. In December, 1941, he was selected to attend the flying control course at Patricia Bay, B.C., and was appointed to a commission.

During World War II, he served with various RCAF Stations in eastern Canada on flying control duties and in August, 1945, was appointed senior flying control officer at RCAF Station Goose Bay, Labrador.

married on June 22 to Wing Commander Ian Hewson and the young couple will take up residence there.

SAME NAME

When two persons have the same name it can be embarrassing for one of them, especially if the other appears in court on a charge of driving a vehicle while intoxicated. This happened in Trenton last Tuesday when a Jack Wilson appeared before Magistrate T. F. Wills. It was not Jack Wilson of Murphy Street, Trenton, who appeared on the charge, but he has been the victim of curious glances by many people who know as well as his employer. It also caused considerable alarm for

Town Briefs

UNIQUE BRIDGE

TRENTON — J. D. Lee, continuing engineer for the town of Trenton, told representatives of the council on Thursday night that the town bridge on Dundas Street was unique. He said it was one of a few left in Ontario. He told the meeting, however, that it would be impossible to get bids on bridges in Ontario but this one is an unusual job. It is unique due chiefly to the amount of traffic which flows over it. The J. L. Cook Company designed the 401 Highway bridge which spans over the Trent River and Highway 33 just a few miles north of Trenton.

CHANGEOVER

Special arrangements will be made to have a fire truck at each end of the causeway stationed on the east side of the river when the town bridge undergoes repairs this fall. It is expected work will begin Sept. 15. Mayor Ross Burtt also told the consulting engineer the town could depend on assistance from the emergency hospital cases from the RCAF Station and No. 5 Repair Depot. The bridge will remain open to pedestrians at all times during the repair work.

GREETS DAUGHTER

Mrs. Chow of the Lotus Cafe in Trenton has returned from Toronto where he went to greet his 21-year-old daughter, Miss Tie Chow. Miss Chow arrived by air at 4 a.m. yesterday from Hong Kong, and is the first of Mr. Chow's family to come to Canada. Miss Chow will be his mother.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Give Matter Plenty of Thought Before Selling the Old Homestead

By THOMAS COLLINS

"Can you advise me what to do about a house when I retire?

"Satisfactory housing, I feel, is vital if a person is to have a y joyful life. Golden Years, I'm not quite sure what satisfactory housing is. Retired in September, I will come home to live with my sister in an eight-room house we have occupied for nearly 40 years. We own it. On our total retirement income of $55 we can go on owning it. But if is over 50 years old. It needs many repairs. As time goes on it will need m o r e and more repairs.

"We will not want to keep up with such work. Nor can we afford to have it done. Also, I h e house is in a changing neighborhood which is not as nice as it once was.

"A real estate man has appraised the house at $15,000. I wonder if we would not be better off to sell, then buy a small new house and have a new and easier life somewhere else. . . ."

THINK IT OVER

You've already half sold your house — haven't you? — or you wouldn't have called in that real estate man. He'll now go to the bank and tell you what think over these things:

First, understand that there is no rule about this sort problem. There are good, arguments for selling, always. A n d there are good ones for not. In the main, people who hold on to their homes are less unhappy than those who sell. They say: You'll note I said less unhappy, not happier. And this is the second point to understand: Your retirement isn't, housing. It's a reaching out for something you've always wanted; it's giving wing to what creative talents you have; it is something. Housing is not the end to anything, unless you're an undertaker. For you, honestly the means — and life's better — to an end.

SPECIFIC POINTERS

Now for the specific points in your letter:

Repairs: In a new house y o u will have to establish a lawn, plant your flowers, grow the vines, paint the windows, decorate the rooms etc., etc., etc. It is very likely that your new house will demand more work from you than ten years of repairs on the old home will. More expense, too, because you can't make do with the one you are living in. Eight Rooms: The new house you visualize would, we'll assume, be five rooms, with two bedrooms. That's a cut of three-fifths in your privacy, your opportunity not to be bothered. You and your wife will be bumping into each other around corners as you've never done before. Your condition since the accident,

A TIME FOR TRUTH AND FRANKNESS

The Toronto Star has called the landing of U.S. marines in Lebanon an "American Suez."

It is nothing of the sort. The difference ought to be self-evident. Britain and France fought their way onto Egyptian soil at a time when Egypt was being attacked by Israel. Their landing was bitterly opposed by the Egyptian Government, and indeed by the overwhelming majority of the Egyptian people. U. S. marines landed in Lebanon without firing a shot, at the urgent entreaty of the Lebanese government.

That does not mean, though, that the Lebanese landing may not eventually have much the same effect as the British and French adventure at Suez -- namely solidification of Arab support for Nasser. Already there are reports that resentment against the U.S. action is growing in Lebanon, not merely amongst the rebels but amongst factions which formerly were pro-Western.

Of one thing we can be sure -- the U.S. and Eisenhower were spending less than frank as to the reason for these landings. President Eisenhower said the marines landed to protect the lives of Americans. The Toronto Star says that is nonsense, that not one American had been harmed during the Lebanese revolt. The Ottawa Journal puts the U.S. action in its proper perspective. "U.S. marines have not landed in Lebanon to maintain Mr. Chamoun as president," it flatly declares in the opening sentence of a leading editorial. "They are there because of Iraq; because Monday's revolt in Iraq held implications and threatened consequences far beyond the fortunes of Lebanese politicians."

The Lebanese landing, and the later action of Britain in sending troops to Jordan at the request of King Hussein, would thus appear to be primarily an effort to prevent the consequences of the Iraqi revolt overflowing the borders of that country. Insofar as this is true, this is foreign intervention aimed at stopping foreign intervention.

Prime Minister Nehru has described it as unadvisable and unwise, that "foreign intervention is always dangerous." The double-barrelled interplay of foreign interventionists which we now face in the Middle East, with Russia hovering on the sidelines with the threat of adding a third active force to the quarrel, is at least doubly dangerous. Danger, though, cannot always be avoided. However, those who take dangerous courses might consider the possibility that efforts to conceal the real reasons for such action, by stating that the aim is to protect American citizens, may actually be accentuating the dangers involved. On the other hand, those who consider dangerous courses advised ought to refrain from over-stressing the case against them by ignoring the difference between an armed attack on a country already invaded by a foreign foe and the sending of assistance to a government facing an internal revolt likely to receive foreign backing.

Perhaps, too, one point ought to be made clear. As long as a revolt is essentially a civil war, with no interference by a foreign power, there is no provision in the United Nations charter for intervention on behalf of the government. A model of this may be that which foreign nations should conduct themselves is the complete indifference by the great powers to the numerous revolutions which from time to time overthrow governments in South American countries. This attitude of indifference, though, is only feasible where everybody minds his own business -- and in the Middle East everybody has been minding everybody else's business for so long that one suspects there are great misconceptions of what does, and what does not, constitute intervention.

SEATING BY RACE

Governor Earl Long of Louisiana has vetoed a bill which would have given the first person in a double seat of a bus the right to decide if a person of another race could use the other seat.

This, of course, is a part and parcel of the segregation question in the southern states.

Nevertheless, it has interesting possibilities.

If it had been passed, it might have spread north.

It would be interesting to see what would happen at the Four Corners, at noontime, as Belleville held tried to get themselves sorted out by nationalities.

Canadian, English, Scot, Irish, French, German, Dutch, Hungarian, Pole, Czech, Swede, Dane, Norwegian, Chinese -- why seems like we've run out of double seats already. Where do the Italians, Spaniards, Welsh, Yugoslavs, Swiss, Austrians, Rumanians and Bulgars sit?

HIS SUMMER BANK ROLL

A glad sweetheart am I,
I miss will be upon my way
To bask beneath the azure sky
And wander where the pickerel play.
I mean to pull my little grip
And go where life is trouble free
I've saved up "sixty" for the trip
And that's a bank account for me.

Time was the summer days I drew nigh
And found me broke and oft in debt.
I didn't have the price to buy
The bathing suit I ought to get.
But this year all my skies are blue,
And all my woes are at an end
I'll do just as the rich men do,
I've sixty bucks saved up to spend.

Nuclear Power Stations

— By T. Norman Smith in the Ottawa Journal.

Most of us are so reluctant to write about nuclear power as was Henry McLemore about a bunker on St. Andrew's golf course, down which, he wrote, he would not venture without two days' supply of hard tack and a miner's lamp.

But last week the vice-president of Atomic Energy of Canada announced the prospect that before long we will have a number of nuclear plants generating electricity as cheaply as coal-burning stations.

This brings it out of the laboratory and into our homes, so perhaps we should try to get the picture. The task of understanding has been made easier (though not easy) by a recent outline of the nuclear power development program given by J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada.

Here briefly, to the best of my ability, a layman's summary of it.

Canada is trying to develop nuclear power in two ways, he says:

1. Industrial expansion is so great in some areas so far from water-power that cost of transmission from hydro is prohibitive.

2. Cost of transporting Canadian coal from the Maritimes for generating electric power in Ontario's industrial area is impractical. A lot of coal is bought from closer United States fields but Ontario has also become much of our industry too dependent on foreign supply. Moreover, trade with our adverse balance of trade with the U.S. and world eventually needs electric energy costs up rather than down.

So the experts are right, nuclear power will eventually be harnessed cheaper than it cost than both water or coal power.

4. Nuclear power employs unskilled labor, single men and the increase of the man-hour productivity should be a good for Canada.

5. If Canada progresses well in this field (Atomic Energy Authority) she will be able to market plant developments and fabricated fuels abroad.

Nuclear power is being developed in the United States in preference to Canada, but different-

The United Kingdom is further ahead using "the uranium and graphite type." That method is simple, single purpose plants by 1965 but if desired can have a larger labor force and cheaper power for industry enjoys.

The United States is proceeding with demonstration or research plants using "enriched fuel and pressurized light water reactors" are expensive methods and show the promise of being commercial one in the U.S. "Enriched fuel is a form of stepped-up uranium; we don't make it in Canada and have to import it).

Canada decided against these two foreign methods in favor of natural uranium and heavy water as the cooler, thus taking advantage of the long research at Chalk River into heavy water.

The Canadian method remains to be proved commercially and is subject to greater doubt in projected costs and operating characteristics", but it was selected for the reasons stated above and because it promises to develop what you get more irradiation from natural uranium.

The new UK will be first in the competitive field of production, but U.S. will develop nuclear power before Canada, but neither of their systems would be economical or satisfactory to Canada so we are advancing ahead on our own.

We come now to the method of development. Since 1952 Atomic Energy of Canada at Chalk River has been doing research towards nuclear power.

In 1957 it decided to design and develop a full scale nuclear plant, with the following ideas in mind:

1. That it be practical enough to warrant "at least one Canadian utility" interesting itself and making a firm commitment to participate in its development and cost.

2. That all Canadian companies in the electric utility, manufacturing and engineering industrial fields be permitted to participate to the very wide — engineering broad experience and education.

3. That the plant be made as practical and useful as possible, not merely a scientist's dream or a research weapon.

Ontario hydro has already participated in much of the Chalk River experimentation and accepted the offer to participate in developing the proposed plant.

A new Division of Atomic Energy has consequently been set up in Toronto responsible for design and development of this plant.

Ontario Hydro assigns 15 engineers to work full time on the Division at no cost, and a senior Hydro engineer will assist in the management. Hydro's research facilities of Hydro will be available to the Division at cost.

Mr. Gray stresses that it has no desire to perpetuate an organization which may appear to overlap on functions usually undertaken by private enterprise. In the present stage where others could not well venture but in practice limited to the those when private enterprise will move in.

The Division, however, Atomic Energy Nuclear Power Plant Division is to be located at Toronto. It hopes to run on a minimum staff, contracting out work to private enterprises where possible and calling on them for help.

In addition to the direct association of Ontario Hydro, the Division invites all Canadian interested Canadian companies to form "study groups" and carry time work at no cost, their remuneration being the experience gained. An certain cases Atomic Energy would pay for such outside help.

• • •

In conclusion, Mr. Gray permits himself a smile of satisfaction at the whole enterprise. He likes it because:

1. Atomic Energy of Canada controls the work and its cost and direction.

2. Many Canadian companies and engineers will benefit from the development work and its outcome.

3. It should make the most efficient use of Canadian manpower and facilities available, and is open to expansion to such complicated work — this specialty imports, least because of the lack of both this manpower and these facilities.

4. The arrangement maintains a healthy competition of ideas by avoiding monopoly for a minute or two. The Division expects to be working on the design and charts and blueprints for another three years (to 1961?); it will then order its plant and it is therefore before beginning actual construction and at a cost which will take another four years, a total of about eight years from now to full power operation.

It is a legitimate policy for us to make every effort to serve to some extent the best interests of our country. To restrict our trips abroad in favor of making visits in our own country. To our own Canadian provinces, which we know less about than we do about the U.S. or the countries of Europe.

Do Wonders With Beaks

Manchester Guardian Weekly

The beak of a bird is a surprisingly efficient instrument. A cock blackbird has been collecting breadcrumbs for his fledglings, a second brood.

He can peck up many pieces of bread without letting them drop. They fringe his beak. How difficult to pick up the bits of six without losing them! Terns can eject the blackbird in this art of holding and not releasing.

Both at counting-time and the time of feeding the young they catch small, slippery fishlets. Difficult enough to hold them and catch another, but they can hold more than eight, and hold them all fast though still alive and wriggling.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A BEDTIME PRAYER

Our Heavenly Father, we come, to the end of another day, and thank you for every blessing bestowed upon us. It has been good to have lived another day under your loving care, and to be given over to this restful bed for the night. Give to us clean minds and pure hearts, and to be given over to every error, every mistake, and all our transgressions.

We ask for an increase of courage and for a better understanding, for the humility of Christ so that we may earn peace a n d good will and so influence others as you, our Heavenly Father, have blessed and influenced each of us.

Purge us of all selfishness and love of gain. May we be admitted to the joy and spiritual success of others. Make us all become worthy servants in your kingdom.

Bless us, we pray, with the joy of fellowship, through Christ, Amen.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WELLS AND SPRINGS SHOULD BE TESTED PERIODICALLY

"Dear Dr. Molner: I read your article about having well water tested. What about spring water? I just bought a new place 23 miles from town, with spring water piped into the cottage. The septic tank is just outside the bathroom and bedroom window. Is this safe? How and where can I have the water tested? As far as I'm concerned, it's just water that is piped into a large hole in the ground and then piped into the cottage. It just has a board over the top with a screen over it. An occasional frog, leaves, etc., get in. Isn't there some way of purifying this water? Also isn't there a chance of odor from the septic tank in hot weather? This is all a new experience for me. — A.A."

Don't feel homesick. It's a new experience for lots of people as we continue to move farther away from the cities and into the areas where city water and city sewage lines don't exist.

There isn't much difference between a well and a spring, except that with a spring, pressure from somewhere forces the water out of the ground and to the surface. Springs as a rule will be on hillsides.

In all, although there are some configurations which seem to make water bubble up to the surface. Actually, if you can trace the water to its source, you will find it still has to be pushed in the place where you find it.

Now your well — or spring, or reservoir — anyway, the place where you get your water should be tested periodically, at least once a year. Some still has to be pushed in the place where you find it.

Now your well — or spring, or reservoir — anyway, the place where you get your water should be tested periodically, at least once a year. Some health units will do this free, and above all, discuss the weather.

Decided that most country stores have such a variety of things that you can't find good for quite a while and dear knows what you'll find. During the year I found the place of sale of scarce items like Sunlight soap, canned salmon and Norwegian sardines. We know of people from Toronto who stocked up on it for the winter at a store in the Damascus store.

Then there were the two men who argued about country stores. One said he knew a store in a t a for everything. After placing a wager, the second one went in and asked for a pole for a goose. The proprietor said he hadn't been asked for one for years but would take a look.

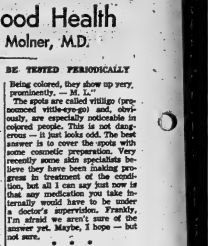
A few minutes later he came from the back room carrying one for his customer. For those who don't know, a poke is a wooden bar that goes around a goose's neck to keep it from going where it shouldn't especially in the fence.

As we said, there is something about a country store. It does a fellow good to get into one once in a while for a change of scenery.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT OF ATHEISM?



What is the world like for a person who does not believe in God? The sincere atheist answers that atheist is rare. There are a few who call themselves atheists but are really skeptics, and a rather large number who are unintelligent skeptics. But for some people a definite belief in God a definite and established thought position at which all their reason ing starts.

Napoleon in talking to some of his officers who claimed to be atheists swept his hand upward to the night skies. "Gentlemen," he said, "how do you account for this?" Of all the fantastic notions ever conceived, the greatest is that this universe of ours just happened is certainly the most fantastic.

No argument against atheism is more amazing than the distinctive that created universe requires a Creator. To this, science in recent years has added its bit in further reason for supernatural power. Science has proved that the world is a living universe and that what has been created must be kept recreated.

Because we cannot understand God and the way He operates and the ends He has in mind is no reason why we should deny that divine operation exists and t h a t there is an ultimate purpose to everything.

Atheism proves nothing. It simply an attempt to substitute the lack of knowledge. It is an attempt to evade the necessity for thought.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE S. POWELL

O WORSHIP THE KING

O worship the King all glorious above,
And gratefully sing His wonderful love;
Our Shield and Defender, the Ancient of days,
Pavilioned in splendor and girded with praise.

O tell of His might and sing of His grace,
Whose robe is the light, whose canopy space;
His chariots of wrath the deep thunderclouds form,
And dark is His path on the wings of the storm.

Thy bountiful care what tongue can recite?
It breathes in the air, it shines in the light,
It streams from the hills, it descends to the plain,
And sweetly distills in the dew and the rain.

Frail children of dust, and feeble as frail,
In Thee do we trust, nor find Thee to fail;
Thy mercies how tender how firm to the end
Our Maker, Defender, Redeemer and Friend.

Bible lovers will recognize this hymn of Sir Robert Grant's as a metrical version of Psalm 104. For more than a century it has been accepted by all creeds and has become one of the church's great songs of worship.

Sir Robert was a distinguished statesman as well as a writer of hymns. Born in the county of Inverness, Scotland, in 1785 and educated at Cambridge, he served for many years in parliament as a representative of his native county, but the volume contained one or two others which also have won favor including "The Starry Firmament On High," "When Gathering Clouds Around I View", and another which opens with the lines:

"Saviour, when in dust to Thee
Low we bow the adoring knee;"

"O Worship The King" will always be the most popular of his hymn-poems but the volume contained one or two others which also have won favor including "The Starry Firmament On High," "When Gathering Clouds Around I View", and another which opens with the lines:

"Saviour, when in dust to Thee
Low we bow the adoring knee;"

Sir Robert was a director of the famous East India Company and in 1834 he became governor of Bombay. He died at Dapoorie, in western India, in 1838. A year or more after his death, his brother, Charles, published a book containing his hymns — 12 in all — and other poems.

A Lift for Living

Endless Search for Security

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Listen to the prayer of the Hebrew singer in the sixty-first Psalm: "Lead me to the rock that is higher than I."

It is not hard for us to understand the mood of that petition, for it rises out of the desire for security. Our generation here in America is probably more secure—conditions than any of its predecessors.

The perils of the international situation make military security overshadow all other items in our national budget. Economic security is the goal for which we work and save and sacrifice and insure ourselves. No doubt many of our readers are deeply anxious about the days after they shall have passed the age of employability. Consider, too, how eagerly concerned we are over securing our health.

Note first that the Psalmist sought security in the heights. In the mountainous region of Palestine safety lay in the high places. The high rocks were easy to defend and strategic for attack.

We too are seeking military security by trying to get control of the high altitudes. The rockets that can rise the highest and the planes that can carry the farthest are regarded as our best means of attack.

But while the Pentagon is striving for mastery of the air, the press is spread abroad that civil defence should be prepared for by going underground. The tragic irony of today's situation is that the sputniks are opening the age of conquest of space travel but our fear of them is tending to turn us into moles, that bury themselves.

SENSE OF DANGER

We are developing a moleblindedness. With too many of us the sense of danger is driving us to seek shelter by going down, rather than up. Instead of rising above ourselves we tend to draw into ourselves. Many seek peace of mind in self-centered withdrawal from the ragged concerns of living. Feeling that the world is filled with hostility, they will expose themselves as little as possible. They button up their better natures, pull down their mental visors and view the world with a low, suspicious gaze. For the nation they advocate isolation, and for themselves they try tranquilization.

Drawing into themselves, they also descend into their lower natures. Their thoughts dwell in the cellars of their minds, down among the stored-up grudges and the preserved bitterness.

We are prone to assume the worst in others. Thus the dangers of our day turn our thoughts from the best in men to the best in men.

We live on the defensive. Distrust begets distrust. In short, our search for security is driving us more and more toward the caveman attitude of shelter.

Gladstone, the great British statesman, on a holiday in Scotland was once walking along a country lane when a sudden storm blew up. The wind howled and the snow began to fall.

He noticed the sheep coming up out of the hollows and going forth to stand on the bare hillsides facing the storm. Meeting an old shepherd, Gladstone said, "Aren't sheep foolish creatures! Here is a storm brewing and instead of staying down under the hills, they are courting the fury of the blast. If I were a sheep I should remain in the hollow."

To this the old shepherd replied, "Sir, if you were a sheep, you'd have more sense." He then pointed out that down in the hollows the drifts pile up and the danger is greater. Instinctively the sheep know that their safety is in the hills facing the storm.

SECURITY BY THOUGHT

Consider, for example, the security given by high thoughts. When our thinking rises above low, selfish, petty concerns, our minds become clearer and therefore better able to comprehend the real issues of life. We can think objectively, unshadowed by selfinterest. We are lifted above the hysteria and propaganda of the demagogue to the sanity of sober leadership, above blind partisanship to broad statesmanship.

An English historian, who has lived in Russia, recently wrote a Fourth of July message to Americans in which he took us to task for getting an inferiority complex because the Russians had beaten us to the sputnik.

Russia has made material progress. Let us give credit where credit is due.

But the United States and Canada stand for the ideals of individual freedom, decency, and responsibility which the Kremlin is not creating. The danger is that we may be stampeded into thinking that technology is the only test of strength.

Let the nations that call themselves Christian take the high selves Christian take the high road and leave Russia to take the low road if she wishes. Collision will not be necessary. Justice will see who gets there first.

Patron Saint of Carmelites

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, July 20 — This is "a day for Elijah." Last week we told how the Old Testament prophet Isaiah had been considered important enough to Christianity to be carried in the Christian calendar as a saint, even though he died centuries before the birth of Jesus. Here is another Old Testament saint.

What is known of Elijah's career is told in the books of Kings, 1 and 2, in the Old Testament. His most famous achievement was his victory over the pagan priests, as related in I Kings, chapter 18.

This miraculous performance has made him the patron saint (even though he lived and died 900 years before anyone ever heard of saints) of the Carmelite Order in the Roman Catholic church. Today is a big and important day in the calendar of the Carmelites.

ONE OF ST. JOAN'S ADVISORS

Also Sunday — One of the most popular of all saints is St. Margaret, who lived in the third century. She and St. Catherine were the two whose voices were heard by St. Joan of Arc, and who advised the famous French girl in her battles to liberate France from the domination of England.

Margaret's father was a pagan priest, and when she was converted to Christianity by her nurse the situation was really tense. A clergyman's daughter does not just go off and join another church without creating considerable embarrassment for the old man.

So her father, following h i s rights, put her out of the house. She had nowhere to go, but with the help of the Holy Spirit, n e found work as a shepherdess. Margaret was, so the story goes, exceptionally beautiful — a real knockout.

"Not As a Crocodile" (Arthur Marx.) In "Not As a Crocodile" Arthur Marx has rendered if not exactly the most practical how-to handbook in the world certainly a highly diverting chronicle of family life that most parents will find amusingly painfully reminiscent.

"My Years With Churchill" (Norman MacOwan). This is the one account of the Greatest Englishman that has never previously been written. The private life of the most described personality of the twentieth century has been all the more obscure because of the limelight on Sir Winston Churchill's public activities.

"The Gold in Tin Pan Alley" (Hazel Meyer). This book reveals how hits are made, how music publishers discovered "education" what the fiercely waged copyright battles, past and present, mean to composers as well as to the music publishing.

"Battleship Scharnhorst" (Albert Vulliez and Jacques Mordal). The complete career of the Scharnhorst has been brilliantly reconstructed from logbooks, personal documents, statements by two French naval officers who are both expert naval historians.

"Plieux" (Kim Beattie). Author of "Saskatchewan Highlander of Canada, 1929-1956.

"The Best Generation and the Angry Young Men" (edited by Gene Feldman.) The most exciting and dramatic careers of writings that have aroused widespread acclaim and controversy in the United States and England.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

In view of the intense concern of people over the present crisis in the Middle East, it is difficult to be objective and optimistic. Especially is this so when the latest news item is about earning his daily bread, hoping desperately that business will go on as usual. We are unsure of many things. We are certain, however, of one thing, your reporter received a communique from the Committee for Correspondence which we think will interest you.

The Committee for Correspondence held a workshop this spring at Midland, Ontario, for leaders. The report will reach us in a few days and it will be interesting backdrop to what is passing before our eyes. We quote from the communique: "We are embarking on another Workshop, this time a short one for Middle East leaders, on UN-personnel. This is a new departure but it seemed to us it will be valuable in connection with the present tension." Then with characteristic vigor a postscript is added: "Still hoping despite the turn in world events." Can't we say likewise? Fervently that, no matter what the outcome, there are women such as this New York group striving for what seems to be impossible.

Then in the communique an appeal is made to readers of This & That. The Committee is asking women leaders around the world to focus their thoughts on the difficult and fascinating question "How do you arouse social conscience?" "The opinions of Canadian women are sought as follows: "I wonder whether your reading and listening public would be interested in sending you their ideas on the subject and whether you could compile these into a contribution from Canada? Perhaps this is an overwhelming project but we are hoping people will give it considerable thought and that we can make an interesting bulletin reflecting thought on the subject from all over the world."

T-&-T brings this penetrating challenge to its readers throughout the Bay of Quinte community. We will pass along ideas that any of the women care to send in to us. Maybe groups such as Women's Institutes, for instance, would like to discuss this question and forward us their opinions. Any other summary of your replies will be spread to other women around the world.

A timely thought for this weekend seems to be contained in a sentence Dr. Albert Schweitzer sent to the Women's Institutes, for instance, would like to discuss this question and forward us their opinions. Any other summary of your replies will be spread to other women around the world.

A timely thought for this weekend seems to be contained in a sentence Dr. Albert Schweitzer sent to the Women's Institutes recently. He said: "True resignation is not becoming weary of the world, rather it is the determination to see the circumstances of life which we have to live enjoyed in its bitterest need."

Certainly Dr. Schweitzer has lived a wonderful life and he has in spite of many bitter needs. He and Mrs. Schweitzer were interned during World War One and their only child was born in that prison. Later they were taken from Africa.

Recently it has been possible to report the achievements of several local women in our district. Now here is a young man who is quietly making a success in the classroom, one which, if early indications are prophetic, should bring him to the attention of Canadians from coast to coast. Collin Parker, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Parker, has been intrigued by radio since his school days at BCVS. Collin was an active participator on the collegiate programs conducted Saturday afternoons. He spent hours and hours at CJBQ observing and learning. In time he started to operate, to help with programs and eventually was taken on the staff. Some educators insist that if boys and girls are to learn they must first "become interested. Certainly in Collin's case this has been the case and his interest has progressed in this modern field of communications. He is working now at CKOT Oltawa from where his voice may be heard on both CBC radio and TV. Recently he was the unseen commentator on an international broadcast to millions of listens in Canada and the U.S.A. T-&-T wishes Collin well in this modern miracle of communication.

McPHERSON—SKINNER

Cannilton United Church was the setting for a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, June 28, at 2.30 p.m. with its lovely floral decorations of peonies, pink and white roses and ferns, when the Reverend W. R. Merrick, assisted by the Reverend R. J. McCrea, united in marriage Shirley Anne Skinner of Corbyville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Skinner, to Bruce Allen McPherson, of Belleville, R.R. 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McPherson.

Mrs. H. Farnham, church organist, rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Earl Cryderman, who sang before the ceremony, "I'll Walk Beside You," and during the signing of the register, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Lyle Skinner, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over white slipper satin, fashioned with long sleeves, strapless, sequin-trimmed bodice, with matching lace jacket having long, sheath-like sleeves buttoned to the wrists, and full-length ballerina skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of lace-edged tulle illusion was held by a matching headdress and she carried a bouquet of red roses mingled with white and tied with white satin ribbons.

Miss Josephine Skinner, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in yellow satin with matching jacket, fashioned like the bride's with rounded neckline accented at the back with bow and long, flowing streamers. Her headhemline streamers. Her headdress was a narrow band of matching color, and she carried a yellow and white bouquet of mums, tied with yellow and mauve streamers. She wore matching gloves and yellow accessories.

The Misses Yvonne Skinner, sister of the bride, and Phyllis McPherson, cousin of the bridegroom, were gowned similarly to the maid of honor, and carried bouquets of the same flowers.

Mr. Allan Rupert, of Belleville, R.R. 6, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Glenn Skinner, brother of the bride, was usher.

Mr. Wayne McPherson, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception was held in the church parlor with the Women's Institute catering.

The bride's table with its white damask cloth, centred by the three-tier wedding cake topped by two white doves, beneath an arch of flowers holding a golden wedding ring, and flanked on each side by white tulle and sweetpeas, was further accented by flanking vases of sweetpeas and lighted candelabra, beneath cascading white streamers and wedding bells.

The bride's mother, gowned in powder blue in sheath style, trimmed with seed pearls, and matching three-quarter duster, white accessories and corsage of pink and white carnations, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a princess style gown in pale blue with lace bodice, gauzy skirt, trimmed, with white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling to Peterborough, Fenelon Falls, Algonquin Park, returning via Ottawa, Smiths Falls and Kingston, the bride chose a powder blue dress in princess style, with matching duster, pink and white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. Upon their return, the young couple will reside at Belleville R.R. 6.

Showers honoring the bride, previous to her marriage, were given by Miss Elsie Smallhorn of Corbyville, in the form of a kitchen shower; Mrs. Vera Moore of Belleville held a miscellaneous shower, and Miss Velma McCaffery, of Corbyville, also held a miscellaneous shower.

Planning Car Trip to Alaska? Better Read This, Then Decide

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Just to show you how much controversy you can start — and how much information you can collect — by some well-intentioned suggestions, we're still opening letters inspired by a note in this column some weeks ago cautioning a lady about a proposed auto trip to Alaska.

The road is unpaved and in poor condition most of the way, we said, accommodations are scarce and quarters, and virtually heavy-duty equipment and a pioneer spirit, we thought it wouldn't be much fun.

Mail came from all over the United States, Canada, and Alaska expressing about as many different opinions as there were letters. There was agreement on the name of the highway, variously described as the Alcan, Alaska and Northwest, was lacking.

"We have made more than 500 trips and can assure that modern accommodations are never more than two hours apart, and it's the highway is now rated as the world's best gravel highway, maintained on first-class condition for its entire length 12 months of the year."

From Kay J. Kennedy of the Alaska Visitors Association News Bureau: "Last year 6,000 private cars made the Alaska Highway trip. Some 10,000 will do so this season. Any modern driver can make the trip with no trouble. The highway from it's Canadian border to Fairbanks and Anchorage is all paved. Women drive the trip regularly, including a number of my friends in their 60's."

From K. Rogers, executive secretary of the Fairbanks Chamber of Commerce: "Accommodations are no longer very scarce and although there are no magnificent hotels, the majority are clean and comfortable and the food very fine for being so far from populated areas.

Many women with children make the trip each year without any difficulties, providing they take normal precautions for a long highway tour. The road is definitely better than in many parts of the States. . . That only the adventurous should attempt it, but heavy equipment is a gross misstatement . . . The average car has no trouble. . .

TERRIBLE TRIP

Miss I. M. Fairbanks: "I had a terrible trip up but I know better now."

N. R. P., Soquil, Cal.: "My wife, Jo, and I, 67, made the trip in 1954. . . We were loaded down as for a trip around the world but the only thing actually needed was the spare tires. . . You should carry a fan belt, set of points, coil, condenser; spark plugs, and

HUGHES — GORMAN

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting for a recent lovely summer wedding when Lois Elizabeth Gorman, of Belleville, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Robinson Gorman, of Belleville, and niece of Mr. George Gorman, William Street, became the bride of Edward Patrick Hughes, also of Belleville, and son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Hughes.

The radiant bride, who was escorted to the altar by her cousin, Mr. Norman O'Flynn of Toronto, was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. George Gorman, Belleville, wore a charming bridal gown of double-ring white nylon organza over white taffeta, featuring a bouffant skirt, with short sleeves, and scoop neckline outlined with beaded medallions. The bouffant length skirt of tiered organza was also accented with similar beaded medallions. She wore matching, long gloves, halo headdress of white elbow-length illusion veil of nylon tulle, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis, trailing ivy. White kid sandals completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Arthur Powell of Belleville, as matron of honor, was attractively gowned in bouffant waltz-length lime green with matching headdress, gloves and shoes and Mrs. Thomas Hughes of Rochester, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid, was gowned similarly to that of the matron of honor, in shrimp color. Both attendants carried cascades of white sweetpeas and trailing ivy.

Mr. James O. Hughes, of London, Ontario, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Bernard Hughes, Toronto, Mr. Thomas Hughes, Hughes of Rochester, New York, also brothers of the bridegroom, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in Hotel Quinte, where the bride's table, appointed with white damask, was centred by an all-white wedding cake topped by pink Sweetheart roses, and ringed about the base with white tulle. Tall, white candles in silver candelabra and the bridal bouquet completed the table.

Guests added a delightful pupil and Mrs. Norman O'Flynn of Toronto, cousin of the bride, received the guests at the parsonage door in rose-beige lace in waltz-length, with matching hat, shoes and shoes, with corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Bernard Hughes of Toronto, assisted in the receiving line, wearing pale blue fashioned in floor-length, with matching hat, shoes and gloves, and corsage of pink carnations.

For travelling via air to Bermuda, the bride chose a navy blue wore a navy blue silk suit with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will reside at 14 Queen Street, Belleville.

Guests attended from Toronto, London, Ontario; Rochester and Cleveland, Ohio.

Previous to her marriage the bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts at showers given in her honor.

ELLIOTT—CHAMPAGNE

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place on June 28th at 2.00 p.m. in the United Church parsonage, at Foxboro, when Marjorie Loretta Champagne, of Belleville, R.R. 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Champagne, was united in marriage to William Wayne Elliott, of West Huntingdon, son of Mrs. Thomas Elliott, of West Huntingdon, and the late Mr. Thomas Elliott. The Reverend R. E. Symes, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride was attractively attired in white Chantilly lace over taffeta accented by white satin bow at back, and wore a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion held in place with rhinestone headdress, and carried a nosegay of white carnations and stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Everett Reid of Foxboro, who was gowned in blue taffeta with nosegay of pink and white roses.

Mr. Glen Elliott, West Huntingdon, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony the reception was held at the bride's home, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers. The bride's table was appointed with white damask, and centred by a three-tier wedding cake.

The bride's mother received, gowned in blue and wearing a corsage of pink feathered carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a blue and white gown, and corsage of pink, feathered carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse and Waterloon, the bride chose an ensemble in royal blue with red rose corsage and white accessories. Upon their return, the young couple will reside in Stirling, at 162 Mill Street.

Guests were present from Terra Cotta, Ontario; Hallowy, Ontario, Foxboro, West Huntingdon, Springbrook and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at her home by her co-workers of the Northern Electric, and by Mrs. Mary Elliott, at the home of her sister, in Halloway.

MULLAN — WAY

A pretty wedding took place at the Church of the Assumption, Erinsville, when Miss Sylvia Way, Reg. N., and Mr. Denis Mullan, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The Rev. E. J. Way, JCD, Portsmouth, performed the double-ring ceremony and offered the nuptial Mass. Present in the sanctuary were the Rev. J. F. Feeney and the Rev. W. P. Healey of Marmora. The ushers were Master Gregory Way, of Toronto, and Master Harold Way. The altar was beautifully decorated with pink carnations and spikes of gladioli. Following the ceremony, guests added a delightful nuptial

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Justin Way, wore a bridal gown of nylon organdy and lace. The front of the lace bodice was enhanced by a design of iridescent pearls and sequins. A large bow fastened at the back descended from the bodice. Her veil was held in place by a coronet of pearls and her bouquet was a crescent of pink carnations and white orchids.

Two sisters of the bride, Miss Helen Way, as maid of honor, and Mrs. John Callaghan as bridesmaid, were dressed alike in blue taffeta sheaths with organza tafetta. Their matching tiaras were accented with iridescent sequins and seed pearls and they carried bouquets of pink gladioli.

Little Miss Marie Callaghan, as flower girl, was dainty in a pink frock of frosted nylon and matching bonnet. She carried a nosegay of white and blue cornflowers. The white satin cushion bearing the rings was carried by Master Paul Way.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Jerry Mullan, and Mr. Brendan Fitzpatrick. The ushers were Mr. John Callaghan and Mr. John Fitzpatrick, brothers-in-law of the bride.

After the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served to many guests and friends from several points in Ontario.

For her going away-ensemble the bride wore an off-white linen dress and duster embroidered with bands of gold. Her hat and accessories were blue, with her corsage of blue gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Mullan left by air for a honeymoon trip.

The bride is a graduate of St. Joseph's School of Nursing, Hotel Dieu, Kingston, and the bridegroom is an associate of Mrs. Brotherhood, Chesterfield, England, and Detroit, Mich.

Seizure Clinic In Montreal Aids Teen-agers

MONTREAL (CP) — Medical and social therapy are being combined to give teen-age seizure patients new hope for normal lives, says Joyce Beatty, director of social work at the Montreal Neurological Institute.

"An experimental group discussion session one evening a week at the MNI gives teen-agers treated at the seizure clinic of the Royal Victoria Hospital a chance to discuss their problems," said Miss Beatty in an interview.

The seizure clinic deals with all forms of what the public generally calls epilepsy, a term doctors found inadequate to designate the wide variety of diseases marked by seizures.

ONCE NEGLECTED

Seizure victims a few decades ago were neglected by parents and society, often kept out of school, given no work or social contacts, because of pessimism regarding treatment, said Miss Beatty.

"Now medical and social treatment go hand in hand. As the seizures are brought under control by medical measures, the patients are encouraged to lead as normal lives as possible."

In the discussion group young men and women who had been through "a hard time of social adjustment" could encourage other patients to help them find solutions to their problems.

In conjunction with the youth discussions the clinic held French - speaking discussion groups for parents of school-age seizure victims—part of the clinic's public education program.

1,000 REGISTERED

The clinic, supported by federal - provincial rehabilitation grants, had about 1,000 children and adults registered. Parents were encouraged to send their children to regular schools.

Seizure patients can do many types of work without problems, says Miss Beatty. Many should not, however, drive cars or operate machinery by which they might get hurt should they have an attack.

Most persons attending the clinic lived normal lives, thanks to medical science and education of both the public and the patients themselves.

Canadian Deb Last to Curtsy Before Royalty

By SYLVIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian debutante, in a ravishing red silk dress curtsied gracefully before the Queen Mother Thursday, ending a royal ceremony believed to date back to the reign of the first Queen Elizabeth.

The honor of being the very last debutante in the final royal debutante season fell to blonde, 20-year - old Sandra Segman, whose mother and grandmother had been presented in earlier years in the gold and white ballroom at Buckingham Palace.

Miss Segman was one of 40 Canadian debutantes presented to the Queen Mother and the Duke of Edinburgh along with some 200 other Commonwealth girls. The Queen Mother was substituting for the Queen, who is recovering from an attack of acute sinusitis.

Buckingham Palace announced last November that this would be the last year in which presentation parties would be held. In future, socially prominent young ladies will be invited only to the mass garden parties held each summer on the palace lawns.

FINE WEATHER

Even the weather co-operated in making the final party a royal occasion. As the debutantes were going to the palace, the sun broke through threatening clouds and continued to shine on several thousand guests crowding the palace lawns for the garden party that followed the presentation ceremony.

"We are a lucky bunch of girls," said Mary Davis of Kingston. "It is a very great honor to be among the last."

The presentation parties are believed to owe their origin to the first Elizabeth, who used to stroll and chat with selected members of the public admitted to the long corridors of the old Greenwich Palace. The present form of parties, in which the debs are presented in turn, began during the reign of Queen Victoria.

GOOD MANNERS

MUST SOMEONE GIVE HER IN MARRIAGE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am being married soon, my second marriage. I want to be married in church, and I am wondering if it is necessary for me to have someone give me in marriage. Please advise. — E. G.

You should consult the minister who will perform the you wish to be married . . . he is your authority in this matter for your wedding, and he will guide you as to the requirement of you and your fiancé in determining having someone give you in marriage.

WHAT TO SAY WHEN YOU'RE INTRODUCED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What's the polite thing to say when you have stopped to speak with someone on the street, because you're in somewhat of a hurry you want to get on your way? — U. J.

You'll probably look in a hurry if you stop to speak and it will be too surprised to have you say only "Good-by (adding the name) I'm glad to see you again." And even though in a hurry, say it graciously.

STANCE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband never uses his first name, never has used it. He always uses the initial for the name, as his father does (my husband is "Jr."), and as his father did, and father did. For example: H. Paul Delafield, Jr. In this manner of communicating he is responsible for us to use this form in the invitations to our daughter's wedding? — Reader

Yes.

CONCERNING THE JUNIOR BRIDESMAID

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My 12-year-old daughter is to be a junior bridesmaid at her cousin's wedding in October. I do not know what my obligations are as far as the bride is concerned. Will you please, advise me about this? And also my obligation as to giving a shower?

2. Should the junior bridesmaid give the bride a present?

3. Where is the junior bridesmaid supposed to walk in the processional?

4. Should the junior bridesmaid have a corsage? — Mother

1. The bride-to-be decides on every detail of the junior bridesmaid's dress just as she does for the costumes of her other attendants. You pay for every item of your daughter's costume, except the flowers. They usually are supplied by the bride-to-be or her parents. No shower is given for you to give a shower.

2. Usually the junior bridesmaid's present is added to the maid's present. The card carries names of her parents on the card enclosed with the wedding present; but if she wishes (and a very well may) she may give her own personal wedding present to the bride-to-be.

3. The junior bridesmaid walks alone in the processional, following the ushers and preceding the maids of honor. If there are two junior bridesmaids, they walk together, assuming though: At the wedding rehearsal she will be instructed in the procedure approved by the minister who is to perform the ceremony.

4. No . . . no "escort" for the junior bridesmaid.

Rule of Women In Home Seen Coming to End

By GEORGE CORNELL

And in many cases, the wives say they'd like the men to resume their old job as master of the house.

These tendencies — among couples of all faiths — were revealed by Roman Catholic leaders who made intensive studies in the field.

"There's a trend for men to reassert their position of leadership," said Rev. Kenneth Dolan, church family - life director of Scranton, Pa.

"Year by year, more fathers are heading up to take the initiative ahead of the home."

But it's a tough struggle for them to recoup, as the analysts see it.

Women have got so absorbed with success in their careers, they don't have time to be wives, said Dr. A. H. Clemens, a noted sociologist of Catholic University, Washington.

They've passed the buck to their wives all down the line, he added. Among the husbands, it's what the social scientists call matriarchy — rule by women.

Both men and women, however, are frustrated and bewildered by the situation, the church scholars said—a result of upsetting the natural order of the sexes as set by God.

"Women are afraid of their new prerogatives and independence," said Father Dolan. "Many of them are afraid so. They want the men to make the major decisions.

"They're not psychologically or emotionally equipped for it. It makes them more nervous."

Dr. Clemens said many women were reacting to the switched dominance pattern "with rank masculine protest, with turning to drink, gadding and becoming hypercritical of their husbands and children."

Numerous factors were cited as causing the blurred lines of demarkation in male-female roles. But a main fundamental cause given was the intensified pursuit of money.

"Our society now equates success in terms of dollars," Dr. Clemens said. "This' wasn't always the case. Men were judged by over-all performance. Now, a fine father who is poor gets little acclaim. But a second-rate father who is a financial success gets society's pat on the back."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and a professor of sociology. All are experts on domestic case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Gladys R. — She shouldn't tell about her past.

Eunice F. — I don't want to deceive him.

Gladys R. — My younger sister, Eunice, was very mixed-up girl when she was in her teens. She got into quite a bit of trouble before she finally straightened herself out.

Eunice has been behaving beautifully for the past four years. She now has an excellent job, a nice group of friends and is highly respected and well liked by everyone. Finally, a fine man asked her to marry him. She suggested they wait a year to make sure of their feelings.

What is really on her mind is whether or not to tell him anything about her past.

I say definitely not. He is very much in love with her and it would only hurt him. Nothing would be accomplished by it.

Eunice F. — There is very little possibility of Alan's ever finding out anything about my past, and yet I just don't like to take even that small chance. Suppose he should learn something after we were married. It makes a cheat and a liar of me, and that's all the real.

I know Alan has very high ideals and I am so thrilled and flattered that he should a v e chosen me. That makes it doubly hard to deceive him.

I imagine that once we were married my secret would be on my mind a lot. I know Alan loves me, yet I know that he has spoken of others that he can be pretty hard on people who don't live up to his standards.

I'd be afraid to risk losing him.

The Council: It is not possible to give a simple "yes" or "no" answer in relation to this question. Much depends upon the feelings and attitudes of both Alan and Eunice.

Despite the fact that she h a s done much to redeem herself, Eunice appears to be plagued by guilt about her past conduct. Her belief that her secret would be on her mind after she got married suggests that her guilt flares up at the idea of a new, though legitimate, sexual relationship. Powerful guilt feelings, strengthened by the fact that she is impatient with her present husband, can certainly put quite a strain on her marriage.

It is interesting that Eunice has managed to attract a young man who is "pretty hard on those who don't live up to his standards."

Possibly Eunice has set it as a goal for herself to be able to win the respect of the strictest individual she can find. But even success in this does not make her entirely happy because she is unable to ease her conscience.

A girl like Eunice needs to be with herself first. Then she will know how best to d e a l with a potential husband. People by an enriched religious understanding of life will help her with forgiveness of the past. Perhaps some talks with a physician will also clear up fears and confusions.

Right now, Eunice appears to be more concerned about holding her own high image in Alan's mind than in developing a deeper relationship. She should make sure there is a broader basis than this for marriage with Alan.

Women Today Need Clothes For Comfort

NEW YORK (AP) — Today's women must be prepared to travel in clothes that are appropriate, comfortable and practical.

Such is the credo of Tina Leser, a travel-happy designer. She defies lights in taunting the far corners of the earth with her equally global - minded husband, John Howley. And she brings back silks, rich brocades and Oriental embroideries to be shaped to the needs and figures of today's women.

Winding up a news - packed week of fall fashion showings for 200 visiting fashion editors, the resourceful and romantic Tina shows six major shapes of style for fall and winter, 1958. They are: The dust-ruffle, the waltzer, the trapeze, the harem skirt, the powder puff silhouette and the bifurcated ballerina-length dress of skinny pants and varied top, in costumes designed for glamour at home or comfort in air travel.

Her major interest among her new shapes of fashion is the dust-ruffle silhouette, in both dresses and coats and consisting of a straight, unflitted sheath ending in a ruffled flounce at the knee-high hemline.

The waltzer dresses are for gala occasions, have semi-fitted tops and graceful flaring, cone-shaped skirts.

The trapeze silhouette is done in a number of versions, one in the most striking of which is a short evening dress in white flannel embroidered in gold, with gold, shown with a matching sweater lined in flame-colored gauze.

But perhaps the most history will be made with Miss Leser's new outfit for airplane travel in the space age. It consists of a short jacket and narrow slacks in beautifully tailored checked wool, worn with a color coordinated coat in bulky but lightweight mohair with dashing collar.

Renovations to St. James' Cathedral in Montreal Almost Done; Cost High

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The four-year job of renovating 64-year-old St. James' Roman Catholic Cathedral in the heart of downtown Montreal is almost done—at a cost of $1,400,000.

The major portion of the work may be finished in time for special ceremonies before Christmas, says Canon Louis Auclair, rector of the cathedral. But that won't mean the last nail has been driven or last lick of paint applied.

"In Europe," says Canon Auclair, "they say a cathedral is never completed."

ALSO BASILICA

The cathedral, modelled on the larger St. Peter's in Rome, also bears the title of Mary Queen of the World Basilica.

Its founder, "Mon" Ignace Bourget, bishop of Montreal from 1840 to 1885, intended St. James' to be "a symbol of our attachment to the Holy See." It has become a monument to his vision.

When Montreal's third cathedral—at the intersection of St. Catherine and St. Denis—was destroyed by fire in 1852, Bishop Bourget broached the radical suggestion that the next one should be built to the west, out of the French-Canadian section of the city in the relatively unpopulated area he foresaw would become the heart of Montreal.

Parishioners protested, so the bishop shelved his plans but stuck to his guns. In 1870, the cornerstone was laid at the spot he decreed, near the corner of Dorchester and Windsor streets, During the next 95 years the church in Dominion Square was in the shape of St. Peter's. Bishop Bourget died before it was completed in 1894, but his foresight is still being justified.

Masses at 12:15 and 5:15 p.m. are attended by many of the thousands of workers employed in the big buildings nearby.

PRESERVE STATUES

Most visitors recognize St. James' by the massive, copper-sheathed wooden statues of saints standing precariously along the edge of the flat roof at the church entrance.

Workmen who pounded copper with the skill and care of sculptors have given the statues' bodies skins, permanently soldered in place, which preserve every detail.

A businessman with an office near the cathedral recalls when the statues brightened his youth. Late at night, he admits, he would confound passersby by wandering in front of the church screeching up at the saints, "Look out, Jump, don't jump."

The lofty ceilings of the cathedral's interior, carved from wood, have been repainted and regilded. Walls have been washed and repainted.

Local artist Louis Paul Perron is retouching murals and historical scenes originally painted by George Delfosse, a French-Canadian artist, in oils on the walls.

BRIGHTEN PILLARS

Four spiral bronze pillars twist above the main altar toward the 75-foot mouth of the cupola. These are being gilded in bold, crinkly edges and details. Before, says Canon Auclair, they were dark.

St. James', he says, was "the dirtiest church in Montreal" before the renovation. It is far from that now, dazzling but dignified with gold and white, pastel shades of brown and green, and wainscoting of russet marble brought from Verona.

The biggest task was replacing the tin roofing with copper, a job that next winter will create only the flies across the steep sides of the dome. It loomed as a $100,000 expense, but cost only about $240,000 because the price of copper dropped just before work began.

In recent weeks men were finishing up work on the dome. It was completed, the rotting wooden floor replaced by a concrete one topped by ceramic tile and containing a radiant heating system, wiring installed, joints in the stone exterior repointed, and the basement deepened.

NO SAND BLASTING

But the venerable grey stones of the cathedral's exterior will not undergo sandblasting. The process, says Canon Aucoin, damages the stone for a temporary effect.

"An American disease," he terms it.

Guests in the upper storeys of the CNR's new Queen Elizabeth Hotel can peer almost directly down on the new cross atop St. James' 225-foot-high spire, but the height of St. Peter's.

Rumors circulated that the CNR contributed generously to St. James's renovation because blasting during the hotel's construction cracked the cathedral's foundation.

They are groundless, says Canon Aucoin, explaining that the money was raised in a manner similar to the way Bishop Bourget got funds to build the cathedral. Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger asked each family among the 1,128,000 Catholics in Montreal's 225 parishes to contribute a dollar a year for five years.

Canon Aucoin says the CNR took every precaution. The very kept instrument men at the cathedral to make sure the nearby blasts were not too strong, and replaced two basement pillars before blasting began.

Warm, Personal Welcome Awaits Princess Margaret At Saskatchewan Farm

By FARMER TISSINGTON
Canadian Press Correspondent

SPRUCE HOME, Sask. (CP)—A warm personal welcome awaits Princess Margaret when she visits the Skotheim farm in northern Saskatchewan this month.

There will be no ostentatious fanfare as the helicopter carrying Her Royal Highness sets down on the Skotheim pasture. With simple dignity, Peder and Alvina Skotheim will open their hearts and their home to the royal visitor.

The Skotheim mixed farm, in this community some 16 miles north of Prince Albert, was chosen earlier this year as part of Princess Margaret's itinerary. She'll be there July 30.

THRILLED BY VISIT

The Skotheims seem unperturbed at the prospect of entertaining a princess. Yet consciousness of the honor is reflected in the conversation of 56-year-old Peder.

Alvina, his attractive, brown-haired wife, admits she was "thrilled almost speechless" when news came that she would be playing hostess to the princess.

"There was no money — not even enough for a postage stamp," Alvina recalls.

With the nearest well a mile away, water was a grave problem. After five back-breaking attempts at digging a well by hand, Peder in desperation called in a drilling crew. The cry of "water" from the drilling site was turning point in our lives," Alvina says. "Our neighbor was a welcome sight for us in Toronto for six weeks, where he is on the broadcasting staff for the special course for teachers.

Friends of Mrs. James McAllister will be pleased to know she is now at the home of relatives in Kingston, recuperating following major surgery in the Hotel Dieu Hospital two weeks ago. Her condition is somewhat improved.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gehan, Sr., recently were Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Gehan and Cindy, Belleville.

Start Vacation With Your Car In Top Shape

By EUGÈNE MILMOE

Don't start that long vacation trip until your car has been thoroughly checked and serviced. Make certain tires, battery, brakes, lights, windshield wipers, fan belt, plugs and points are in top shape.

A good ignition tune up is an absolute must — and both cooling system and carburetor should be O.K.'d, too. Change engine oil and filter, check on front end alignment and wheel balance.

Don't forget to have the chassis lubricated and the differential refilled . . . also the transmission, if standard type. With automatic transmission, be sure fluid level is inspected.

Take along a few emergency tools — especially a jack, tire wrench and hand pump. Also it's wise to carry a good flashlight, flare kit, tow rope and a small first aid kit. Check on fire extinguisher, too.

L. G. writes: "The steering on my 1953 sedan has been thoroughly examined and tested, yet I can't get rid of the steering wheel kickback which happens when a front wheel hits a rut or bump."

(A) Overinflated tires, loose wheel bearings, faulty suspension shock absorbers can all cause this trouble.

C. L. writes: "My '52 model has standard type transmission. Lately, when the engine is running in neutral, there is a rough humming noise apparently coming from the transmission. What is doing this?"

(A) Worn or damaged transmission gears could be the reason — but this is little better than a guess. There are too many other possibilities.

From P. E.: "Within a short time, the generator will burn my spark plugs become sooty-black. They themselves have to be replaced after only a few thousand miles — or less. Can you diagnose it?"

(A) Usually, this occurs because spark plug heat range is too high. Try a set of colder plugs, and have the timing checked.

T. A. asks: "In your column, you told about the filler bowl trapping water that is mixed with the gas. But where does the water get into the fuel line?"

(A) From the gas tank, usually because of condensation. That is why "sediment" at the full mark is recommended.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

CONFIDING PHOEBE

Home to a phoebe used to mean a rock shelf or something of the kind; but civilization has produced better nesting sites. A roof, a window sill, a porch and even the tops of electric lights are favorite places. A spot not too far from running water is preferred. The reason for this is interpreted in various ways, most people thinking that possible insect natural nesting sites may be found there than elsewhere. But the probability of more flying insects in that vicinity should be considered, as well as the fact that mud is used for the foundation of the nest. This is a most friendly, confiding bird, worthy of our protection because it feeds on many undesirable flying insects.

Flycatchers are often very hard to distinguish from each other, but our phoebe, the best known member of the family, has some very distinctive field marks and characteristics. Its bill is black, the eyes have no light ring about them, and the wings have no bars. The phoebe's tail wagging propensity is something to look for, the jerking going not just up and down like a water pipit's, but sideways as well.

Generally the voice is first heard and must be located in order to see the phoebe. The useless, insistent song is easily recognized, because it actually is the bird's own name, with a decided accent on the second syllable. This is repeated over and over, with little pauses in between.

EARLY ARRIVAL

The first week in April is not too early to expect a phoebe, but if you would know how it manages to survive at that date you must ask the bird itself. It lives almost entirely on flying insects such as wasps, moths, and grasshoppers, but does not object to the crawling tent caterpillar. The method of attack is to use a prominent perch and catch after the prey which is cleverly caught side

FRANKFORD

Relatives Fete Couple With Gifts

FRANKFORD — On Saturday evening, July 12th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Curry of Frankford, a relative shower was held in honor of Mr. Everett Cooney and his recent bride, who were married in Toronto on June 14th.

There were about 40 present from Toronto, Peterborough, Belleville and Trenton.

A time of fellowship was enjoyed and the singing of chorus by all.

Mr. Floyd Cummings of Belleville, readered a solo entitled, "Took a Miracle."

The honored guests then took their places in the dining room and were presented with many lovely gifts. They both thanked their relatives for the gifts they received. All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

Beautiful refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Gerald Curry, assisted by Mrs. Gerald Watson, Mrs. Garfield Cooney and Mrs. Floyd Cummings of Belleville.

in the air, often within a few feet of the ground.

Very unfortunately, there is one drawback to allowing these otherwise welcome birds to occupy a position near us. The big, bulky nest, made mostly of mud in a moist, is liked not only by the goldfinches, the pair are no good housekeepers, but by flies in general. Naturally, swarms of parasites collect — not only in the nest, but on and in the property. However, do not scare away the birds; try latrect powder.

BUSY SHIPYARDS

GLASGOW, Scotland (CP)— Ten ships totalling 70,575 tons are under construction in merchant vessels each year Clyde-side shipyards for foreign buyers as a teacher in Calgary. She and couldn't have stayed."

Another high point came in 1937 when Peder officially became a Canadian citizen.

BUILT IT HIMSELF

The immaculate white buildings and the well-kept yard are rounded by trees bear witness to the hours of care that have gone into building this little farm. Most of the actual construction was done by Peder himself.

Since the early days, machinery has replaced horses for field work. About 300 acres are cultivated, planted to wheat, oats and barley. As well, the family grows all its own vegetables.

"Make the farm attractive to your children, and they will stay," they say.

To bear this out, Harvey, 23, the eldest son, has already taken much of the responsibility for farm work from his father. The five other boys share his interest in agriculture.

Meanwhile the two youngest, Sandra, 8, and Marilyn, 4, are bubbling with excitement as they practise their curtsies. For their July 30 will truly bring a visit from a fairy-tale princess.

Complete Service For Installation And Sale Of Glass Provided By Belleville Glass And Mirror Store

Twenty-three years in the glass industry is the record of E. C. "Mac" McCallum, proprietor of the Belleview Glass and Mirror store which moved into new premises at 354 Pinnacle St. this week.

Mr. McCallum spent the last 14 of those years in Belleville. He came to the city from Hamilton with his wife in 1944 to open a glass and mirror shop. He celebrated his 14th anniversary of business in Belleville on July 14.

Mr. and Mrs. McCallum commenced business in a small store at 6 Victoria Ave., and two years later moved to 24 Victoria Ave. where they have been located for the past 12 years.

Business flourished and the staff was increased to seven. Larger quarters were needed so the business was moved a second time to its new Pinnacle Street location.

Remarking on the newly-opened premises, Mr. McCallum stated it is almost four times the size of the former building. "Open House" was held Thursday and Friday to allow customers to view the attractively decorated and modernly furnished store.

The large show window, a comfortably private office, and greatly increased storage space are some of the main features of the new premises.

Mr. McCallum started his career in the flat glass industry as an apprentice to his grandfather, R. L. Smith, owner of the X and L Glass Co. in Hamilton. He spent five years with his grandfather's company and four years with another glass company before starting out on his own.

COMPLETE SERVICE

The genial proprietor explained his business involves the manufacture and repair of church windows, the designing and installing of modern store fronts, the installation of bank shields and car windows, and the cutting and shaping of mirrors to suit the customer's needs.

"We carry a complete line of pattern cast glass, plate glass, window glass and car glass and sell wholesale and retail," he said. "We also stock Kawneer store front metals, Corrulux fibre glass panels, and insulated glass blocks," he added.

"The glass industry is a fascinating business," he stated. "It is an industry about which few people know anything."

He explained the special properties and uses of various types of glass which his store stocks. He said window glass, which can be acquired in various gauges of from 1-16 to 7-32 of an inch, has a wavy finish and distorts images. This is because it has been drawn but unpolished.

Plate glass, however, which also can be acquired in various thicknesses, has been mechanically polished on both sides, thus giving a true, clear image. Plate glass is bought in carload quantities, in sheets measuring 80 by 60 inches.

LAMINATED GLASS

Car glass, used for windshields, consists of two pieces of glass joined together by a thin layer of plastic. This type of "safety glass" will shatter and break but won't fall apart under impact, he explained.

Armor plate glass, however, is used only for back or side windows of a car because it becomes pulverized upon impact, Mr. McCallum stated.

Glass stocked by Mr. McCallum is imported through brokers, from Belgium, Scotland and England, but a good deal of the plate glass comes from the Canadian subsidiary firm of the British Pilkington Glass Ltd., he said.

The "Open House" held Thursday and Friday attracted large crowds to the new premises. To enlighten the visitors, two movies on the making of window and plate glass were shown in the evenings.

Roses and other gifts were given out to the visitors, and refreshments were served by Mrs. McCallum and her assistants.

Members of the staff were on hand to greet the crowds and they included, besides Mr. McCallum, Mr. G. J. S. Loynes, the office manager, Raymond Kirkwood, Ed die Marineau (of the Belleville Macs), Reg. Kinmett and Harry Taylor.

Mr. McCallum's two children, Diane and Bobby, were also on hand to distribute roses and soft drinks to the visitors.

A driftwood coffee table with glass top, made by Johnny Meyers, and the Gerald Hyde hockey plaque and colored pictures of the team were on display as well.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

We, like thousands of other television viewers of the Durelle-Holt fight were under the impression the technical knockout came in the eighth round. The referee said so and from what we saw, that was good enough.

Now it appears everybody was wrong, including the referee. So you guys and gals who collected pool money for the eighth round scoop can hand over your ill-gotten loot to the guy who held the number nine ticket.

Personally, we believe the referee was right, since the bell has to ring in a round before it is recorded as one. There was no bell ringing for the ninth round the other night. The referee walked to Holt's corner, then went over to Durelle and raised his arm in token of victory.

The books and the experts say if the bell did not ring, it has got to be the eighth round.

But not the Montreal Athletic Commission. That surely needs a politically appointed body of gentlemen has made the announcement that the technical knockout will be ruled as coming in the ninth round. That makes it official, if incorrect. It is the first time in boxing history that an athletic commission has overruled its own referee.

Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll says that years ago there was a cleavage between the New York State Athletic Commission and the National Boxing Association and its affiliates. He ruled that if a fighter couldn't answer the bell for the fifth round, say, then it's a TKO in the fourth. The other body ruled it a TKO in the fifth and there was plenty of confusion over the conflicting rulings.

But, Carroll points out, there can't be any confusion in this instance because the bell did not ring.

The pubs, taverns and bistros, in fact all suds-dispensing emporiums where television was available in Montreal did a land-office business. A story from the down-east metropolis has it that the fact the faithful could see the fight on a television screen cut down the revenue effect on attendance. It is stated the fight was seen by more people than any other brawl staged in Canada if you count all ringsiders and living-room and pub watchers.

The only blokes that didn't see much of the scrap were the bartenders. They didn't have time to listen to the post-mortems either for there was plenty of room for argument, and if you can believe the television commercials there is no better companion for debaters than the froth-coloured beverage.

Many, it is stated, saw the fight in the comfort of their own homes with the result a large number of potential patrons stayed home and enjoyed the battle for free. Now the powers-that-be are wondering if the television receipts of the fight made up for the money that was lost at the gate.

Durelle is back now with his beloved fishing flotilla at Bais' Ste. Anne, New Brunswick, a country of the day when he agrees or disagrees with Pappy Archie Moore. The rugged herring-chaser who admirals his own fleet to keep in condition, is no observer of the finer points of the game as was plainly evidenced in his slugfest with South Africa's Willie Holt.

But he won't take such privileges if and when he gets in the same ring with the crafty, goated'd old maestro who has lost none of his wile and cunning with the passing years. But what about Tony Anthony who knocked Durelle kicking in the seventh round of their last meeting? Doesn't he rate first crack at Archie's crown?

Or would the old conniver of the shekels waive all other challengers should the Durelle interests dangle $100,000 broadly on his dusky schemzle?.. That's his price, according to reports.

THERE AIN'T NO MOE

There is no truth in the rumor that Moe Benoit, impresario of the popular Front Street coffee and luncheons dispensary, is planning to become the Yvon Durelle of the Bay of Quinte and form his own fishing fleet.

The goddess of luck, good fortune, call her what you will, smiled broadly on Moe last week. First he lost his wallet containing a small sum of money and valuable papers, then a draw ticket hit the jackpot.

Moe's wallet was returned intact by an unidentified man in a car following a story in the newspaper. A few days later Moe was notified he had won a boat, motor and trailer at a county draw.

Moe's trouble now is he's run out of boathouses. He hasn't a commercial fishing license, and besides he hasn't got the time. He owns two boats, two motors, and a lot of fishing gear and he recently bought another book of tickets on another boat and motor. If he wins this one he's going to form the Benoit Navy, arm his craft with pea-shooters and offer its services to the United Nations.

Harness Racing

He ran mile event over a heavy track in two minutes and 15 4-5 seconds, paying $6.20, $3.80, $2.90.

In the sixth race, a mile event, Ty pace, Tom Miller of Norwich, Ont., drove Pleasant Gene to a 2:18 4-5 victory. Pleasant Gene paid $6, $4 and $3.50.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lady Ann Reed, a three-year-old filly that has won $10,194 this season with 11 victories and six seconds in 20 starts, has been sold at Grandview Harness Racing Track for $50,000.

Her owner, trainer and driver, Day Mangus of Kirksville, Mo., who brought her as a yearling for and

Lady Ann last June 28 set a world trotting record for age, and last year a half-mile course by clocking a 2:01⅘ mile at Grandview.

Senior Baseball

OAKVILLE (CP) — A wild throw on an attempted pick-off play in the seventh inning gave Toronto Terriers two runs and the ball game as Oakville Oaks won 5-4 in Senior Intercounty action.

The Oaks, who share top spot in the standings with Kitchener, had runners on second and third with two out Friday night when Galt pitcher Pat Presley attempted to nail Fred Thompson at third. The throw went wild and the runners came home.

Scuttle Bucs by 5-4 Score Chicubs Teepee Braves; Bosox Gain Game on Yankees

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

One reason those New York Yankees are so far ahead in the American League race is the way the rest of the clubs make it tough on each other.

Take the Boston Red Sox, tagged the most improved club last spring, and the Detroit Tigers, whom some thought could win the flag. The Red Sox, closest to the Yanks, but still 11 games behind, have won nine from both the Chicago White Sox and the Kansas City As. They've lost seven to both Baltimore and Washington.

The Tigers, with nine victories over New York, have lost eight to Baltimore, seven each to Cleveland and Washington. The White Sox, batterers for Boston, have taken 10 from Baltimore.

The Red Sox and Tigers had at it Friday night, swatting 33 hits between them as Boston won 11-9 on Frank Malzone's grand-slam homer. That gained the Red Sox ground on New York, beaten 3-1 by Kansas City and Dick Tomanek, who came within an out of being the first lefthander to shut out the Yankees in two years.

HAS FIVE HIT

Chicago beat Washington 9-2 with Al Smith's grand slam homer and five RBI backing up Early Wynn's four-hitter. Cleveland 7-6 for the season against Baltimore, checked the birds' bid for the first division with a 5-1 victory.

The Red Sox, who have won five straight for a 3½ game lead over Detroit, left-place Detroit, collected 18 hits, five by Pete Runnels, and Frank Sullivan gained and took the AL batting lead with a .334 average. The Tigers, 5-5 for the season in Detroit, overpassaled a 5-1 Tiger lead, then blew it as Bob Nieman, Malzone's homer in the seventh off losing reliever Bill Henry.

The A's, who had lost eight in a row to Don Larsen since 1954, had the 12-game pitcher-jinxer in the first two innings. Singles by Mike Fowler, Billy Goodman and Roger Maris, the first three men up, scored one and singles by Frank House and Larsen gave the winner. Larsen (7-4) allowed only three hits the rest of the way.

PASSES 300 MARK

Wynn (9-8) fanned 11, passing the 100 mark for the sixth consecutive season, and had the Nats shut out until the eighth, when singles by Minnie Minoso, Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox allowed two unearned runs.

South Paw Hal Woodeshick, whose other two major league starts set decisions recorded 16 defeats with Detroit in 1956, gained his first complete game with a seven-hitter for the Indians. Earl Averill, up from San Diego with Woodeshick, hit a three-run homer off loser Chuck Seamon (6-3).

Leafs, Royals Split Verdicts; Bisons Nip Wings

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Lasorda, star pitcher with Montreal Royals of the International League, doesn't fear the number 13. In his 13th year in organized baseball he is well on his way to his best season.

In beating Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4 in the first of a doubleheader Friday night, Lasorda posted his 13th victory against three setbacks. His 1958 year was in 1953 with the Royals when he won 17 of 25 decisions.

The Leafs came back to win the second game 3-1 on Bobby Johnson's two-run triple.

Miami Marlins blanked Havana Sugar Kings 3-0, Columbus Jets and Buffalo Bisons defeated Rochester Red Wings 8-4.

TORONTO PROTESTS

Drake's homer brought a loud protest from Leafs' players, who claimed the ball was foul. Royals scored what proved to be the winning run in the fourth inning on three successive singles, second baseman Sparky Anderson scoring the run.

Leaf starter Eddy Blake, who had pitched all of the game to the third inning after hurling his knee, was charged with the loss. He issued six five wins and two losses.

Johnson drove home Archie Wilson who had singled and Lew Morton, who had walked, with the first two runs of the second game.

A first-inning by Rocky Nelson and catcher Tim Thompson's double scored two runs for Royals. Royals' Royals scored their lone run on three successive singles in the seventh inning.

Lefty Pat Scantlebury, relieved Blake in the seventh of the final inning, was credited with the victory, his 12th against five losses. Ken Lehman, loser of three Montreal pitchers, suffered his eighth defeat against seven wins.

FOUR HITS

Rightfielder Warren Hacker of Miami shackled the Sugar Kings' four hits.

The fourth-place Marlins gave the veteran hurler single runs in the first, eighth and ninth innings. In contrast, in his second straight shutout, Hacker permitted only five Cubans to reach base.

Miami's Bobby Gene Smith got triumph of the season for the Marlins. He scored from third on Arroyo in the eighth inning when he tired badly.

Defensive work by southpaw Freddie Hahn turned the trick for Miami. Hahn pitched in to pick off the score tied 3-3 and the bases full with no one out in the ninth inning. He allowed a one-run single. He allowed only two hits the rest of the way.

Senators Face Touchy Problem In Sport Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators today faced a touchy problem affecting sports fans and the their baseball heroes on television.

Should officials of the national baseball leagues be subpoenaed to let cameras in on the radio broadcasters at baseball games?

Or as Bob Feller, Cleveland's former pitching great, put it Friday before the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee:

"Who's to say how much, and if baseball is important enough to be televised at all?"

Feller now is a baseball broadcaster himself. His first question is tough to answer, and the minor leagues as well as the major leagues are on the television.

Feller and Jackie Robinson, the Dodger infielder whom Bums were still in Brooklyn, were the final baseball witnesses before the House Representatives subcommittee headed by Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) Monday and next week.

WOULD EXEMPT

The bill would exempt from anti-trust laws many practices of baseball, football, basketball and hockey dealing with player protection and contracts. While questioning numerous baseball spokesmen and government lawyers, the subcommittee has already returned to the TV radio problem.

Feller, less fiery than when he battled on the same subject before a House subcommittee last summer, aimed his sharpest deliveries at the lavish bonuses big league clubs are paying young prospects.

He said "baseball must really be in bad shape" to fling such money around to build up teams.

Robinson agreed. He said if baseball wanted young players to eliminate bonuses.

Unbeaten Frisco Irishman Soundly Whips Gale Kerwin

NEW YORK (AP) — Undefeated and unranked Bobby Geraldo is after bigger game in the lightweight division. The classy San Franciscan declared himself ready for ranking fighters after soundly thrashing Irish Gale Kerwin in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Bobby gave away height (5-8½ to 5-8), weight (134½ to 129½) and reach to Kerwin but carried the fight all the way to his rangy foe.

The quick - thinking collegian with the educated left, dropped Kerwin in the second round for eight-count, with two rapid-fire left hooks to the jaw. He hurt Gale in the fourth and tenth with the same type of punches. Lightweight Kerwin also had been warned for butting and hitting on the break. Referee Ruby Goldstein pushed Scanlon to the floor. It was no knockdown, of course, and "I got hurt by a fair thing," said Kerwin, a 23-year-old Canadian formerly of Montreal now living in Valley Stream, N.Y. He had been sidelined for nearly seven months. His record now is 27-7-1. Because of the long layoff, Geraldo was a 3-1 favorite.

The officials all had Scanlon far ahead. Referee Harry Kessler, Judge Bill Recht each had it 6-3-1 in rounds. Judge Artie Schwartz had it 7-3. The AP card had it 7-3 for Scanlon.

Some 1,500 fans saw the fight. Official attendance and gate figures were not announced.

NEXT OPPONENT

Manager Al Benjamin named Johnny Busso, Paolo Rosi, or Carlos Ortiz as possible opponents for Bobby's next shot. The three New Yorkers all are in the top ten of the 135-pound class.

"We especially want Busso who thanked fifth in the Ring magazine!" said Benjamin. "But Busso will have to take a position in the ring. If he wants to fight in the lightweight class he will have to do it. We're after the lightweight title and not 142-pounders. We'll fight Busso for a New York title. If we have to but we'd rather take him on in New York where it will draw big money.

Scanlon, a pro four years, has won 26 straight and is unbeaten in St. Only a draw with Frankie Hartwell in his fifth scrap mars the record of the baby - faced blond. He has Mexico in a return fight.

The Buffalo - born - Californian, just 22, is combining socking with schooling. He is a physical education major at City College of San Francisco.

Aussies, Englishmen Rate High In Empire Games

Down-Under Athletes Seen Top Dogs in 'Cozy Family'; Track and Field Finals Today

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — British Empire Games athletes today started a week - long search for gold medals and fame with the speculation that the record books will take a fearful beating in a two-country battle between Australia and England.

Thirty-three other countries are competing but none are given an outside chance to stay in line with the Aussies and Englishmen.

With the pomp and pageantry of the opening ceremonies behind them, many of the 1,300 athletes get a crack at record - breaking today with a 12-hour program of track, field and swimming. Records probably will be shattered in wholesale bunches at the Cardiff Arms Park cinder track and the adjoining swimming pool.

Showers and scullers open at picturesque Lake Padarn, 200 miles north, and Canada has fencers and lawn bowlers, the former getting their first chance at heavy day-long schedule.

DUKE OPENS GAMES

A crowd of more than 25,000 watched the parade past of nations from the royal box as Duke of Edinburgh officially declared the games open.

Queen's message carried in relays by more than 300 runners and handed to Prince Philip amid "warm welcome" to the assembled competitors.

The theme of the show was that this is one cozy family gathering and everyone's engaged in friendly rivalry but it has been the Australians and the equally phenomenal Australian swimmers surprised the 1954 Games audiences and followed with some astounding successes at the Melbourne Olympics two years later.

They've made those Games secret only in world importance to the Olympics and they are here to clean up everything in sight. Australia finished in top unofficial points standings in Vancouver—38 points to 167—over their sights on the title this time and they can do it. They'll likely clean up the men's and women's swimming and the women's track and field in the latter's onetime superiority in the men's long distance and the field events.

AUSSIES CAN WIN

Five track and field finals are down for decision today — the men's high jump, javelin, 100 yards, six miles and the women's shot put and the Aussies could take four of them.

Charlie (Chilla) Porter is the world's No. 2 high jumper behind States with the best leap of 6 feet 10½ inches in the Melbourne Olympics for the best in the Commonwealth. Hector Hogan, 26, refrigerator mechanic, sharks the world record at 9.3 seconds for the 100-yard dash with five others and Albert Thomas, heavy store clerk who shattered the world record of six miles 10 days ago by clocking 28 minutes 54 eight seconds is favored to complete this five - track schedule with an easy triumph.

Canada, represented by Hans Moker of Kenora, Ont., is an excellent chance for a gold medal in the javelin. Moker had the distinction in trailing of 238 9½ inches, half a foot farther than Canadian Colin Snook who holds the Commonwealth record with 236 feet three inches.

Dutchmen Seek Better Deal With Arena

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen have asked the Kitchener Auditorium Commission for a 50-50 split of net in Senior A hockey gate receipts so the club can almost break even for last season.

The Dutchmen ended the Ontario - Northern Ontario Hockey Association season with a "oss of $6,294.67.

The club also asked the commission Friday night for a better rental arrangement for the $6,000 from last season's receipts.

Ernie Goman, business manager, said the club is requesting a 30-60 split for the regular schedule in the 1958-59 season and a 25-75 split for playoff games.

"This would be a more reasonable set-up. We were at least $10,000 in the red at the end of last season's schedule. If we didn't get into the playoffs it would have been disastrous."

No decision was reached.

Bobcats Nudge Oshawa Juniors By 3-1 Score

By GARRY ALEXANDER

A pair of long, home runs by "Bep" Guidolin and Bobby Hull gave Temple's Bobcats a 3-1 athlition victory over Oshawa Juniors before a fair crowd at CNHA Park last night.

Bobcats spotted the Juniors a run in the first period when Hull then took over with Guidolin's two-bagger to the centre-field wall scoring it in the fourth and Hull's circuit blast clinching it in the seventh. Durham's ace hurler Ron Ziegle nailed activity after seven and two-thirds.

Hull pitched four-hit ball while going the route on the Bobcat hilltop. He never worked up a sweat while striking out seven and walking three. Oshawa's Ron Jones lost water but he pulled out of several jams unharmed, leaving eleven Bobcats stranded on bases.

Ron Phillipo, who takes hurling lessons from Charlie Hustler, took the rubber for Oshawa, tagged for six safeties. He worked a good game, however, and Oshawa fielding right and passing but one.

A single over short by Floyd Crawford leading off the seventh for the Cats' first hit. Leftfielder "Bep" Guidolin then smashed his terrific homer, belting the ball over the deep left in 2-1 lead.

Hull singled batting right-handed in the fifth then in the seventh stepped to the plate batting from the left side of the box. He caught between the left and centre fielders to score Simcoe with the third.

The winning pitcher was she lone batter with two safeties. In addition to Guidolin's circuit clout, Doug Bone, Bert Faulkner and Floyd Crawford batted singles. Bobcat outfielder, Ron Phillips, G. Hornsby, B. McDonald and McArthur collected singles for Oshawa.

Lineup: Oshawa — R. Simcoe, Fielder, Keenan, S. Simcoe, Bus-minski, Phillips, Hornsby, Hickey, McDonald, McArthur.

Bobcats — Barclay, Crawford, Brown, Faulkner, Guidolin, Casey, Bone, Hull, Bawden.

Umpires — "Shud" Ethier and Dick Hall.

Bobcats	000 200 1x	3—6

Davis Cup Rounds Results

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP)—Great Britain has qualified for the finals of the European zone Davis Cup competition by t'eating Eire France in a decisive doubles win.

Bobby Wilson and Mike Davies, who won the two singles matches Thursday, combined Friday for 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1 triumph over Jean Claude Molinari and Pierre Darmon of France. That triumph boosted the team's score to 3-0 for England and made today's concluding singles purely formal.

Nicola Pietrangeli defeated Wladyslaw Skonecki, 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4 in the first match, and Orlando Sirola won over Andrzej Licis 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Shore-Line Casting Takes Skill

There are a great many ways to fish for bass, all of them but the most enjoyable, in the opinion of many bass fishermen, is shore-line fishing. Casting a bass lure, particularly a top-water lure, carries with it elements of skill, suspense, surprise and excitement that are lacking in other methods.

The casting itself, no matter what type of tackle is used, is not particularly difficult, but those distances are too close to the fish for best results. Bass — and especially big bass — are extremely wary fishing. Preferably, casts' or from sixty-five to eighty-five feet should be made, and that takes some doing.

Playing the lure effectively once it has been cast next to the bank, log, bush or weed bed, is another skill as important as casting it properly. Never, never, hurry the retrieve of a plunker or surface lure. If the lure be of the sinking variety, let it sink for two or three seconds before the first retrieve. Then retrieve slowly, and, more important, intermittently, letting the lure now and then for added effect.

If you are using a top-water lure, let it sit quietly where it has landed for at least a minute after you have spread in a diameter of from six to ten feet. Then bring the lure back in short, jerky, quick line-making it "wink" and move about, but always keeping it close to the shore as you can.

INCREASED PRODUCTION

Some anglers, while fishing Mystery Pond, Vermont, with it George Donovan, we noticed that on several occasions the bass would take a stationary, motionless lure. In such conditions slowly up to thirty before starting the retrieve. Our production rate increased considerably. Some-line fishing.

In the dark hours a top-water lure is always good. Often, in the big one, generally one of the popping lures which makes a fuss on the surface. They're a big help on dark that you cannot see the plunker or sinker lure as it splashes the water, and the big old tackle-busters are more apt to be active in the dark than they are during daylight hours.

Now, to pick up, cast y o u r lure as close to the bank as you can. Casts of seventy or eighty feet are not unusually, than casts of forty or fifty feet. Top-water lures are best used during dawn and ar periods. And, last but n o t least, don't hurry. Believe it or not, but there are still plenty of time to look over your offerings. Haste is a waste when you are shore-line fishing.

Giant Bunyan Disqualified But Tag Teams Steal Show

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Now that the faithful have seen all four of the Great Bunyan, they can send him back to the minors.

As a wrestler the 420-pound hillbilly giant is a good hockey player.

It took Bobo Brazil six minutes of hop-skip-and-jumping to dispose of the Missouri Man mountain in two falls of an allscheduled match at Maple Leaf Gardens last night.

Bobo nearly choked to death, and survived uncouth manhandling only when forced to be southern fried chops before he was swallowed by the Missouri mule kicks-book set to dispose of the large economy size of Primo Carnera.

Bunyan who can span Bunny Ellsworth's midriff with his calf or mighty-mitts clamped the chokehold on Bobo in the first minute of the second fall, unconscious fall.

Brazil countered with savage punches to the Missouri middle which made Bunyan curtsy periodically. Bunyan captured Bobo leaped two feet in the air to crack the mountain noggin with his koko.

It was the same in the second fall. But Bobo had a new tactic like Referee Lou Pitocia's arguing so he gave him a bunch like a mule-kick and that was that. Bobo had koko - bonked the big giant unconscious and regained his breath but the attack on the referee ended the matter and Bunyan was disqualified.

The thirty minutes the quartet battled through one of the most thrilling bouts seen here in many a wrestling moon.

Ed. Miller, a master of villainy and unsportsmanship for as long as his half was concerned. Brother Dan, a stranger, but a welcome one with more than a touch of corn in his mimicry of big brother's no - holds - barred tactics and antiseptics has been well-trained. But how he learned to referee and cut in Layton and Christie who had a few tricks of their own such as double-teaming the referee and reciting the blame to the brothers.

Referee Pitocia in his Belleville debut, while he was in more or less of a dizzy state is no body's fool. He is not adverse to punching a perpetrators in the face if he misbehaves. But he times the bass would hit the bottom, generally, however, the strike came when first t h e lure began to move.

The solunar tables can be of help in shore-line fishing, particularly in the choice of bait. As you know, if you are a bass fisherman, sometimes the bass prefers an underwater lure and at other times they want a top-water lure. Experience — and this applies not only to bass but to all game fish, both in fresh water and salt water — bass like a top-water lure during solunar periods, but like a deep-down lure with that heartwarming smash which makes your spine tingle and your hair stand on end. Between solunar periods, when the bass are not feeding on the surface waters, the sinking lures usually will t a k e more fish, both during and between solunar periods the top-water is best.

Shore-line fishing is just as much fun after dark as it is during the daylight hours. Of course, the law states it is against t h e law to fish after dark, but, where such fishing is allowed it is often very productive.

Trappers Face Slim Chance Of Survival

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers, a team hanging on the brink of financial ruin for the last three years, finally has been forced to abandon their battle for survival.

President Joe E. Norrie has called a special meeting of shareholders of the Trapper Hockey Club Limited for July 24 to consider a resolution for the dissolution of the corporation.

A bid to obtain permission from creditors to establish a moratorium whereby all payments of debts incurred by the club last year has met with little success. Only seven per cent of the total of $18,000 has received moratorium agreement.

Team officials feel they have exhausted every means of trying to solve their problem.

The Trappers, a Senior A club, have operated in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

had a man-sized job with this foursome.

It wound up with the Millers on the bottom of a four-layer pile-up together with arms and legs flurrying in midair like an octopus on a weekend binge.

Referee Pitocia had separated the combatants and restored arms and legs to their rightful owners the gong had donged to end the three - minute bout.

Tag Flanagan won over Al 'Killer' Korman after 18 minutes of mayhem in the preliminary when Korman flung himself at Flanagan after fast arguing on a cross-canvas dive, and failed to return in time.

ENGLAND'S RICHEST RACE

LONDON (AP) — American-owned Baltimore and Ohio Guard Hard Ridden were the betting favorites for today's King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes—England's richest horse race. If all 12 starters start, the race will have a value of $78,560. Queen Elizabeth has two probable starters in Almeria and Doutelle.

EARLY CHRISTIANS

Canadian Army Does Fine Job At Bisley Meet

BISLEY, England (CP)—The Canadian Army gave itself a swift boost toward top form on the back Friday after a fine performance by its Competing against about 450 of the best marksmen in the Royal Navy, RAF, British Army and Royal Marines, the Canadian team won three firsts and one second in the nine matches entered. Team members placed in the money 32 times with issue-type rifles without the aid of slings.

The top Canadian Army marksman was Lieut. Alan S. Derrick of Kingston, who placed first in the Southern Rajpoo Challenge Cup, the Secretary of State for War Trophy for fire event and the rapid fire aggregate competition.

In winning the rapid fire aggregate title, he captured the Broad Arrow Silver Challenge Trophy, which is shot for annually. Derrick also placed second in the service rifle championship.

Capt. Donald MacKinnon of Ottawa, team coach-captain of the army team, said he was "completely satisfied" with the Canadian showing.

"CAN BE PROUD

"The team members have only an average of five years' competitive shooting experience and were firing against the best marksmen the British forces could produce. We can be proud of what they have done," he said.

Capt. MacKinnon is marksmanship coach of the select ranks of the Queen's Prize, the premier event at the meet. The competition, being numbered among the Queen's 100 is regarded as one of the highest commonwealth marksmen. They are the survivors of 1,000 contestants who started in the competition earlier this week.

SCORE STILL AILING

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians' sore-armed southpaw, Herb Score, still has an inflamed forearm and elbow so the club will ask to have him put on the disabled list. It was announced Friday. Score underwent another examination at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Dr. Thomas Bennett a specialist.

Gray Says Par Unbeatable In Interprovincial Tourney; Three Favored for Jr. Crown

TORONTO (CP)—Eight teams of four players each set out today to settle interprovincial team golfing supremacy and the junior honors the Scarboro Club's course inside out figures no quartet's will break par.

Bob Gray, Scarboro's veteran aced up things Friday after watching practice rounds of the last two days. Bob's calculation that a four-man score of 276 —eight strokes over par for the 36-hole distance — will be good enough to win the team championship and the Willingdon Cup.

The team competition was only part of the day's show. Eight juniors, champions of their respective provinces, had their own private 36-hole feud to decide who will be the 1958 Canadian Junior champion.

PRACTICE ROUNDS

Support was given Gray's contention from practice - round scores of the team players. Competitors have been able to get under par 71. The best was a 66 shot Friday by Don Gardner of the Manitoba team. Bob Kidd of the British Columbia team shot a 67 Thursday and Ken Baskin of Montreal, Quebec's captain, a 68. Ontario's captain, Nick Weslock shot a 69 Friday.

Said Gray:

"Each will be a few scores of 69 or 68 but the average will be higher. I played a 74 today and I think a team aggregate of 276 can win under reasonable weather conditions. The greens have been fast, I know, but right now there are very great soft to the touch on the fairways."

Ont. and British Columbia still remained favorites. H Gray's calculations are to be upset to the par-busting, although the odds of these teams appear most likely to do it.

RECORD

In winning last year at Winnipeg, British Columbia's team set a record 1,108 stroke total for the aggregate medal score. British Columbia won with 279, six strokes under par. Ontario was the runner-up.

The Canadian Junior title, for the St. Charles Club, Ontario, Quebec and Alberta.

Outside of Ontario and British Columbia, the teams rated as the most upset threats are Quebec and Alberta, although after Gardner shot a five-under-par 66 Friday there was some speculation that Manitoba should not be overlooked.

In the junior competition, Bobby Fassaine of Ontario is 18-year-old Bobby Cox Jr., of British Columbia and Dan Jadowski of Alberta were generally regarded as the most likely to grab the junior Canadian title.

Pro Golfers Closely Bunched At Halfway Post

HAVERTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The field in the United States Professional Golfers Association championship moved past the halfway post today, closely bunched.

Going into today's third round, Jay Hebert and Dow Finsterwald were in front with 138s, one under par. They were one stroke on the par 35-35—70 Llanerch course, is the older brother of last year's winner, Lionel Hebert.

For the last year Jay, who has won a major golf championship, has had to live to a certain extent in his brother's shadow. The scandal was beaten by Lionel in last year's final.

AFTER THE THIRD ROUND

They had been one - two after the first round, Finsterwald leading with a 67. They blended his way to a 71 Friday and Dow caught up with birdies on the last two holes for a 72. Only these two were able to break par for the 36 holes. The course is a narrow, unexpectedly rugged course.

Thirteen players were clustered within four strokes of the lead at the start of the third round.

Jack Fleck, the unknown who beat Ben Hogan for the U.S. crown in 1955, left the course after three holes in a rain against Playing conditions. He drew a $100 fine.

Then Jimmy Demaret, for more than 10 years one of the game's brightest stars, blew himself to an 84 after an opening 69 and was disqualified for inadvertently signing an incorrect scorecard.

Says Moore Will Fight Yvon Durelle

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Chris Graham, manager of British Empire champion Dick Moore, announced Yvon Durelle, said Friday world middleweight title holder has agreed to defend his title against Durelle in Vancouver Sept. 15 or Sept. 22 if Moore is not outlined in a telegram Friday.

He said he is dickering with the International Boxing Club for a Toronto fight in Maple Leaf Gardens, Montreal or Toronto, but added "I'm not going to let this thing slip through my fingers." He said he will wait for the IBC's decision before making a final deal with Durelle.

TV NOTEBOOK

by John Wetlanfer

In case you wonder what TV is like in other lands, take the case of England. London, the queen city, has but two stations; one commercial, the other BBC. Telecasting hours are only from 3 to 11 p.m. with the screens dark for an hour at dinner time; a good idea as any housewife will tell you. On week ends Londoners are treated to a bonus hour with telecasting closing down at midnight.

Many of the programs are reminiscent of the TV bill of fare offered in most parts of the U.S. and Canada. Western such as Wagon Train, Gun Law and Wells Fargo, for example, lure many viewers. Also popular are other shows from this side of the pond such as Mr Squad, Sergeant Bilko, The Bob Cummings Show and Whirlybirds.

It doesn't make much difference what your favorite program may be — here or in London — if your set is badly in need of repair. CIRCLE TV SERVICE specializes in careful, thorough work at the lowest cost consistent with quality work — Try CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 360 Coleman St., for the finest TV repairs — always, Phone WO 8-6701; in Trenson, phone Zenith 5-3500.

Eddie Fisher Seems Likely To Become Permanent Star

By BOB THOMAS

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Singers come and singers go, and only a few reach that golden circle of permanent stars.

Of the younger crop, Eddie Fisher seems most likely to join that level. That's the impression you get when you see him perform on the Tropicana stage.

The guy is personable without being brash, modest without being phony. And how he sings! He is one of the few pop singers with enough voice to push aside the microphone and belt a song with no amplification. And he's got feeling.

It's no wonder that Eddie was one of the few singers to survive the last TV season. And against large odds. He was faced with the opposition of two top westerns, but as the season was closing, he and alternate George Gobel were holding their own and sometimes beating the cowpokes in the ratings.

"Well be back next year in this same spot," said Eddie after his Tropicana show. "But it will be on a different basis. I'll do only 13 shows, not 16, and I'll be on George's slow only three times instead of every week."

Fisher admitted that the show got off to a slow start — "we made mistakes at first, and we'll make others, too." But he profited from them, and his final shows were among the best of the season.

How does Fisher survive when other singers lose their sponsors? The answer is not in the ratings, but in sales. The sales pitch on Eddie's show was aimed at the sponsor's king-size cigaret. Sales went up sharply. Hence the renewal.

Never one to shun work, Eddie followed his strenuous season with a seven-week stint at this desert hotspot.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Sunday, July 20

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Rather than stand about wringing your hands, go to see that cheerful spiritual leader who can give you the highest slant on life. Also, read treasures of knowledge and wisdom. Also, keep busy planning coming week with close ties.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—You feel very upset because you are not financially able to give those you love the gifts and other things you would like them to have. Keep in mind that the smallest token that is given with love is infinitely more acceptable.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—While you would like to be with some old friend or at some favorite outside activity, closest family tie needs you more. Therefore, be dutiful and you can still have a most enjoyable day and evening at home.

Cancer (June 22 to July 23)—Take care in driving. Your activities may be curtailed for quite some time. Be your charming, smiling self today instead of appearing woebegotten. This is important. P.M. fine for charming soiree at home and having much fun.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 23)—The precepts you were taught by your parents and spiritual leaders do not seem to conform with your modern day life, but if you adhere closely to them you will win out. P. M. fine for planning days ahead intelligently and enthusiastically.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—A. M. hours can be rather annoying and unhappy, but bear up philosophically until after lunch when the situation becomes infinitely better and evening all will be well and happy in that realm of your life. Take courage.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Keep your troubles private and know that through wisdom and understanding all obstacles in your path can be removed. Be generously take hold of you today and be most thoughtful of those who are poverty stricken.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—A most precise comrade endeavors to give what he or she surely thinks are the right ideas that should solve your problems, but they are not truly applicable. Express your thanks and use own judgment. P. M. fine for recreation.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Stick to your labors assiduously for any sense outside influences could ruin this otherwise fine day, if you allow. P.M. good opportunity for being with influential person who will help you greatly, mentally and financially.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—It would be foolhardy indeed to permit routine chores or some private anxiety to keep you away from the church of your faith today. Keep in the harvest of religious philosophy that will aid you more than anything else now.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—A comrade of long standing who is inclined to be somewhat on the morose side may not seem the ideal companion for P. M., but he or she holds the key to many of your problems. P. M. fake inventory, then be kind to mate.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—All the varying advice preferred by so many other persons could today really keep you in a muddle if you don't trust to own judgment and get into a higher consciousness. Right thought come. P. M. have fun with witty mate.

If your child is born today ... The little tot born today is the type who has to do most everything the difficult way in early life. And since this is the only way your poetry can truly learn, it is best you permit him or her to bump up against a few hard knocks for own self - discipline. Then chart excellent for all humanitarian endeavors and professions — detail, precision being the prime requisites. Leadership here, too.

Monday, July 21, 1958

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—A.M. fine for all errands, shopping, work of all kinds. Later you can then be with creative companions and friends and work out marvelous new ideas, some co-operative venture. Especially fine for entertainment fields. Increase prestige.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Utilize all free time in A.M. to get your appearance more satisfying. After lunch, see that you are on hand with fellow workers and associate in bringing greater efficiency and more practical operating methods into your work together.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Morning energy should be devoted to small chores around the home, or some fundamental task. Later, be sure to visit your barber or beautician preparatory for the delightful evening of pleasure and sociability now possible to you.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23)—Morning is fine for all activities of a business nature, for writing letters, studying, etc. Also for visiting friends. Tonight ideal for party at one's own home or having a gay family gathering. Buy some French pastry, bonbons.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 23)—The morning, then an accounting of all actual cash you possess, both at hand and in the bank, and figure way to increase and multiply. Later, attend to statements. P.M. unexpected chance present to sell your abilities. Be gay.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—A.M. hours fine for the intimate tasks that are imperative. Also, get your clothing and appearance in A-1 condition, your physical condition better. Later, go afire a larger venture, increase income through real efficiency.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Clear up all those small affairs that require immediate looking into in A.M. After lunch, be with comrades for taking real strides toward your combined goals. Your star is most beneficent.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Be careful to pay your social obligations to friends and admirers in A.M. Later it is possible to have a conference with some poetic and powerful person who can assist you tremendously in your career. Be specific.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Do whatever work awaits you in all spheres from home to politics in the cool of the morn. Then after lunch you can make great strides socially by being with true pals and meeting fine, influential persons of character.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Get together with your creditors and find some equally equitable solution to your affairs, then make whatever collections possible. Later it is possible to get together with influential person who further paves your way.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—There are all sorts of wonderful ideas in your daily paper today that will give you a fresh start in career matters, and an impetus to your waning spirits. P.M. bring that pet plan of yours to the right person for approval.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Flight out in A.M. wrat your associates' expectations are. P.M. carefully attend to all paying of bills, keeping contracts made, etc. Then tonight you can have a delightful evening with your dearest friends. Be charming.

If your child is born today ... The fine child born today will go through two entirely different phases in life. The early part will be taken up with very studious, punctilious consciousness and activity, while the latter part suddenly changes and the opposite is true although nicely balanced and therefore most normal. A humanitarian and happy philosopher who will be a joy to his fellow men — the Will Rogers type of fine individual.

RYLSTONE

Many Attend Community's 2nd Concert

RYLSTONE — The second community concert of the season, sponsored by Rylstone Women's Institute, was held at the Crowe River Lodge picnic grounds last Sunday evening, with a good crowd in attendance.

The program opened with the theme song, "Come to Church in the Wildwood," with Mrs. Ernest Irwin as master of ceremonies. Community singing, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," was led by Carleton Bowes with Mrs. Ellis Jones at the organ. Elizabeth Barraun, Campbellford, sang "How Great Thou Art" and "Coming Home," with organ accompaniment by Mrs. Verner Fetherick; a local pipe band consisting of Mrs. and his daughter, Beverley, bag-pipes, Betty Linn, kettle drum; Cleir Irwin, snare drum, and Ernest Irwin, bass drum, played several numbers. A vocal duet, accordion accompaniment was given by the Misses Margaret VanVolkenburg and Gretchen Millett of Campbellford, "Jesus and Me" and "Tell Mother."

The community of Salem contributed several numbers, some of which were: "Jesus Loves the Little Children," by Mary and Margy Ray and Carol Sine; accordion solo, "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," and "Bless This House," by Linda Sine, Stirling; junior choir anthem, from Salem, "Glory to His Name" and "Sunshine."

The pipe band contributed a few more selections; community singing, "Work for the Night is Coming," led by Carleton Bowes; vocal and accordion solo, "It is No Secret," and "I Don't Know About Tomorrow," by Margaret VanVolkenburg, of Campbellford.

Reading, "If Jesus Came to Your House," by Mrs. Harold Holden, with accordion accompaniment by Linda Sine of Stirling; song, "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms," by Judy Wickens and Marlene Holden, of Salem; vocal and guitar solo, "I'm Going Through," and "It's the Blood That Stained the Old Rugged Cross," by Mrs. George Sine, Salem.

The pipe band played several more numbers, the last of which was "Auld Lang Syne." The concert came to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Another concert will be held this coming Sunday at the same time and place. A good program is expected.

Gladiolus Gives Months of Bloom

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Gladiolus can provide you with bloom for the border or for cutting for three months of summer. Since glads are semi-hardy you can begin planting them in early April, as soon as the soil can be worked. This will give you bloom in late June. In all from 55 to 80 days to bloom from planting time. Some types are earlier than others. Continue to plant at two to three week intervals until early July.

By now you will have cut back some of the early blooming perennials. This will have left some bare spots in the border. Five to nine glad corms will fit into each spare readily and soon make a good color spot again.

You can tuck a staggered row in behind many of the low growing annuals where the sword-like foliage will be partially hidden. Another good spot for them is among the chrysanthemums. The handsome bushy mum plants will lend some support and act as a good background for the spikes of bloom.

Plant six inches deep in loose soil, use sheep manure or a mixture of wood ashes and bone meal. Sandy soil produces good blooms with a little extra feeding.

If the corms are inclined to soak them in corrosive sublimate or three tablespoons of lysol or phenol gallons of water, for three hours. Mix the corrosive with a little hot water in a non-iron or wooden tub. Dilute by adding more water. Keep temperature at 70 degrees. Use one ounce of powder to six gallons of water. Peel the corms before placing in solution.

Soon after planting and before the leaves break ground work the soil between the glads deeply. For the rest of the summer cultivate about not more than two inches. The old corm grows a new one on top of the old one before the bloom is produced. The new corm might be injured by deep cultivation. The first six weeks glads need ample water, while the new corm is being formed and strong new roots are growing from it. After this the plant can get along on less water. In sandy or poor soil apply extra feed in a side dressing when the buds show and again after the flowers fade.

Sizes, the gladiolus foliage throws little shade a loose mulch of grass clippings or peat moss will help to keep the roots cool and conserve moisture where they are grown in open rows. Here the soil may be hilled up to keep the plants upright. For exhibition blooms, or very tall varieties sink posts at the end of the rows and arrange string supports to insure straight stems.

BRITAIN, U.S. SEEM SPLIT ON SUMMIT

U.S. Spokesman Implies Marines Have A-Weapons

Hussein Cuts Relations With Nasser's Republic

BEIRUT (AP) — A United States Navy spokesman said today that "all combat units, including ground, air and sea have atomic capability." He specifically avoided saying U.S. Marines in Lebanon are packing atomic warheads, but the implication was clear.

A Marine public information officer said the Marines had landed four eight-inch howitzers. This howitzer is capable of hurling an atomic shell about 11 miles. The statement was made at an American Embassy briefing.

BEIRUT (CP) — The oil-postponed crisis between President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and embattled King Hussein of Jordan appeared close at hand today.

The 23 - year - old monarch, whose cousin, King Faisal of Iraq was killed by rebels friendly to Nasser's Arab republic aims a week ago, severed all relations with the Cairo government Sunday.

Hussein said he broke off relations—on only a semi - official basis since Iraq never has officially closed Jordan's embassy in Cairo because of the killing of Faisal. He pilots against him—because Nasser has recognized the new republic.

ASKS SUMMIT MEETING

Meanwhile, there were these other Middle East developments during the weekend:

Nasser was reported by usually well-informed sources to have told the U.S. that Russia is eager to send troops into the Middle East and "I may not be able to keep them out." There was no official confirmation.

LAND TROOPS, ARTILLERY

The U.S. landed 1,400 more troops, here from Turkey, raising their Lebanese force to more than 9,000. Another 1,500 to 2,000 troops were reported standing by in offshore craft, ready to land.

Plans for the U.S. airlift of 1,000 tons of oil to Jordan daily were almost completed. The first shipment was due to arrive on the giant air tankers Sunday. The U.S. and Britain told Jordan $7 - 500,000 to pay its day-to-day expenses, and more financial aid was promised.

Hussein said he has asked President Eisenhower to ask the U.S. troops in his country, in addition to the British force of paratroops now in Jordan, to defend the country.

COMMANDOS TO LIBYA

Informed sources in Cairo said a force of commandos has been ordered into Tobruk, Libya, 100 miles west of Egypt. It also said troops from the King's Own Regiment have been sent, along with a naval force, to the Persian Gulf to back up British forces in Kuwait and Bahrein.

If Iraqi oil should be lost to Britain — although the new government there promises to fulfil all its oil contracts—Kuwait and Bahrein would be essential to Britain.

In Cairo, an Egyptian spokesman said that what he called "American occupation forces" fired on an Egyptian airlines plane which tried to land here. He did not mention damage or casualties.

Report Russia May Station Troops in Syria

PARIS (AP) — Soviet sources in Paris said today there is every possibility Moscow will station troops in Syria at the request of the United Arab Republic if a summit conference does not lead to a Middle East settlement.

The informants asserted Khrushchev has made his last call for a summit conference.

WEEKEND DEATHS SHOW DECREASE FROM 76 TO 46

Ontario Has 16, Highway Toll 33

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The price in three Canadians pay for their weekend holidays dropped from a shocking 76 last weekend to 46 this weekend.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Sunday showed 33 were killed on the highways, eight were drowned, three perished in fires and two died in other accidents.

The big drop came in Ontario, with 16, and Quebec, with 11. Last weekend's total of 40 deaths in Ontario nine died on the highways, in Quebec eight.

The total for the western provinces remained the same this week as last, with 12. Saskatchewan reported none, as did Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

A head-on crash killed five persons in New Brunswick, including four in one family. New Brunswick had one other fatality. Alberta reported traffic deaths, Manitoba four and British Columbia and Nova Scotia one each.

Ontario deaths

James Pendelton, about 70, was killed by fire in a downtown Toronto building Friday night.

Marilyn Dusome, 12, of Midland, died when a car hit a pole near Bantz Friday night.

Kenneth Stafko, 18, of Renfrew died Saturday in a car-truck crash near Renfrew.

Linda Burgess, about 10, of Ottawa was killed in car-truck crash Sunday near Cornwall.

Francois Xavier Chevrier, 80, died in a fire Saturday which destroyed his home at Limoges, Ont., 30 miles east of Ottawa.

Helen Bednarowicz, 26-year-old Erie, Pa., nurse, was killed Saturday night and two younger women companions injured when their car crashed off Highway 17 about 10 miles west of here.

Mrs. Libby Pierz, 25, suffered fractured pelvis, concussion, bruises and undetermined head and internal injuries. Miss Bednarowicz, 22, driver of the car and sister of the dead woman, suffered facial injuries. Both women also are from Erie.

They were taken to hospital where Mrs. Piero's condition was said to be serious.

DIEFENBAKER HAS HOUSE DEBATES 'PIPED' TO OFFICE

Says System Same As Used in British

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker says he has not disregarded Parliament by piping Commons debates to a loudspeaker in his office.

He said in the House Saturday, after Liberal members had said the House should have been consulted first, that a similar system is used in the British House of Commons.

Mr. Leader Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker should have consulted the Commons before authorizing the installation in his office last week of a loudspeaker which would sound system within the Commons.

Disclosure of the prime minister's new listening device came unexpectedly.

Mr. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) rose suddenly as Mr. Diefenbaker entered the chamber during debate on trade department estimates. Mr. Pearson, George Nowlan (PC—Nova Scotia) and Paul Martin (L—Essex East) were making pointed comments about the government's refusal to make public the trade department report on the economic outlook for 1958 — this year's version of the so-called Budgetary Report — that has come an election issue.

NOW KNOWS WHY

Mr. Herridge said he now knows why Diefenbaker is able to turn up in debates at the drop of a hat. He then read an Ottawa newspaper item referring to the installation of the speaker in Mr. Diefenbaker's office — one floor up from the Commons chamber.

Mr. Pearson said the installation is unprecedented in Canadian parliamentary history. The result was "that the proceedings of the House of Commons are taking place, can now be heard outside of this House."

The prime minister said nothing was done which could "in the slightest" be described as disregard for Parliament. The speaker had been consulted to enable him to follow Commons debates while attending to his duties.

There is no concealment whatever," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Mr. Martin dismissed the prime minister's parallel with the British Commons arrangement. He said that when Jordan's former prime minister Louis St. Laurent visits international capitals in times of international crisis. But Mr. St. Laurent would not be using the Commons premission before installing loudspeaker.

CLAIMS IT SERIOUS

Mr. McIlraith, describing the installation as serious, said:

"Suppose that it is possible, once the wire is taken outside in that way, to have the voice sent by subsistance phone anywhere in the world, and to have anyone listening for the purpose of listening.

"Where does the thing stop? Are our caucus rooms wired? Are our private telephones tapped? Where does the matter stop?"

The Commons was meeting on a Saturday for the first time this session in an attempt to clean up the legislative program before next week's recess. Since above 100 of the 265 members

De Gaulle Welcomes Summit Plan But Says Khrushchev's Tone Poor

PARIS (AP)—Premier Charles de Gaulle today welcomed Soviet offers of a summit conference on Middle East problems but added that Premier Khrushchev's unDiplomatic tone in making the offer was an obstacle to the meeting.

The premier's position was outlined by Information Minister Jacques Soustelle after a cabinet meeting which considered France's reply.

The official responses of Britain, France and the United States to the Khrushchev proposal were expected to be sent to Moscow late today.

Soustelle said the French did not envision an immediate summit conference. He said such talks must be held in an atmosphere of objectivity and serenity and that the date, place and participation still must be worked out through diplomatic channels.

He said the tone of Khrushchev's note proposing the talks stood in the way of such objectivity and serenity. Some matters contained in the Communist note contributed nothing toward success of such a conference, he added.

SOME WAVE, OTHERS SHOOT IN BEIRUT

Bathers, in Beirut, Lebanon, wave to some of the 8,000 U.S. marines who are patrolling the streets of the city. The U.S. flew in 2,000 paratroopers as Russia and the United Arab Republic threatened to take military action in the Middle East. Shooting down of a U.S. military plane near Beirut, by Lebanese rebels was the first incident of violence since the marines landed on July 15.

UN Delegates Cool to Move By Russia for Summit Parley

UNITED NATION, N.Y. (CP) —United Nations delegates gathered today for a further security council session on the Middle East amid indications that Russia's latest summit conference call was being resisted.

The prospect of a Tuesday meeting of the heads of government of Russia, the United States, Britain, France and India was discounted — as it had been at the outset of Nikita Khrushchev's proposal Saturday over Moscow radio that such a conference be set up immediately.

Weekend reaction in the UN was that the Kremlin suggestion, if taken up, would overside efforts at that world organization headquarters to cool down the situation thrown into crisis by the overthrow of the pro-Western government in Iraq a week ago today.

Washington gave its support to this line of thinking Sunday night, when word came out of the U.S. capital of a counter-proposal to Khrushchev's call which would not reject the summit idea but keep it in the framework of the UN.

The council meanwhile was ready to take up a Japanese proposal for enlargement of the UN police in Lebanon, setting up a police force type of organization to allow withdrawal of the American marine force.

This was along the lines of the U.S. proposal put last Friday by Russia. But the latest resolution was couched in general terms aimed at Russian acceptance, or at least not outright rejection.

Britain, the U.S., and Canada were understood to be favoring this latest attempt to compromise in the Security Council. Should the council fail to reach agreement, the issue will undoubtedly be handed over to an emergency session of the UN General Assembly whose effective action is regarded most doubtfully in the current case.

Kuwait's Ruler Sees Nasser, New Threat to Britain's Oil

LONDON (AP)—A quiet conference between President Nasser and the ruler of British-protected Kuwait pointed today to possible new dangers for Britain's Middle East oil interests.

Their meeting in Damascus, announced by Cairo Radio Sunday, is viewed here as another move toward the extension of Nasser influence in the rich oil islands of the Persian Gulf.

But British government officials professed themselves "unworried and unsurprised" by the meeting. They said they have known that the ruler, Sheikh Abdullah Salem al Sabah, has long wanted to meet Nasser to talk about some of the issues that divided the Arab world.

British officials emphasized, however, there has been no account of the Sheik's talk with the President of the United Arab Republic.

Sheikh Abdullah controls a 250-square-mile area and rules 200,000 Moslem people who are considered here to be mostly pro-Nasser.

Kuwait, a British protectorate is the world's richest single oil territory, producing 65,000,000 tons a year and supplying Britain with more than half of her crude oil imports.

Fire Causes Heavy Damage At Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP) — Fire swept through a three-storey brick building on downtown Simcoe Street early today, causing damage estimated at more than $100,000.

A bowling alley, millinery shop, grocery store and billiard room were damaged as 40 firemen worked for two hours to control the 20-foot flames.

Chief Ray Hobbs said cause of the blaze was unknown.

Building owner Mathew Kotelko estimated $40,000 damage to Motor City Bowling Alleys Limited which he operated on the two top floors. Grocery store owner Robert Stroud set his loss at $40,000 to $50,000.

Report U.S. Rules Out Meet As Macmillan Tells House Way To Arrange It Sought

Reply to Proposal by Khrushchev Is Being Prepared by Western Allies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today ruled out for all practical purposes any thought of an immediate summit meeting as proposed by Russia.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said a draft reply to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's call for such a meeting Tuesday has been sent to allied governments.

Hagerty said, however, he did not expect the note would be dispatched today, thus ruling out any talks by the deadline proposed by Khrushchev.

The U.S. has taken the position that any immediate talks between the West and the Russians should be in conjunction with the United Nations.

This would not necessarily rule out a meeting by heads of governments.

ALLIES NOW CONSULT

Hagerty told his press conference that negotiations are going on among the Western allies. Until they end he would have nothing further to say about the possibility of a summit conference. Hagerty said that the Western consultations among the Western countries are completed President Eisenhower will make a direct reply to Khrushchev.

Also in reply to questions, Hagerty said India was not among the nations that the U.S. considers has formally proposed that India be included in an immediate summit meeting.

President Eisenhower met with his diplomatic and military advisers in an unusual Sunday session to consider a reply to Khrushchev's move.

SUGGESTS GENEVA

The Soviet premier had sent notes to the leaders of the United States, Britain, France, and India calling for a summit conference any place any time. He suggested Geneva and Tuesday as the site and date. He accused the U.S. and Britain of committing aggression by sending troops into Lebanon and of a plot to kill the pro-Soviet ruler of Iraq before he was overthrown.

Prime Minister Nehru of India accepted the invitation "in the cause of world peace."

Replying to Khrushchev, Nehru said governments have a responsibility to follow world events with keenness, and refrain from any action likely to increase world war.

"You are aware of our firm conviction that armed intervention by a foreign power in any country is most undesirable and that is why we insisted on the withdrawn from countries where they have entered," he said.

URGES WITHDRAWAL

"Therefore we have urged the governments of the United States and Great Britain to withdraw from Lebanon and Jordan.

"We would welcome peaceful approaches to the problems through the United Nations or its Security Council, or otherwise with a view to helping the United Nations to take steps to end the conflict in the near and Middle East region."

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today Britain and her allies are urgently considering "the best means by which to arrange for a meeting which heads of government could attend" to tackle the Middle East crisis.

The British leader's statement was made in the House of Commons in response to last night's requests for the government's views on Russia's call for a summit conference this week.

Macmillan said Khrushchev's proposal for a summit conference contained "many allegations and statements" that British could not accept.

STATEMENT TUESDAY

The prime minister said he hopes to make a statement to the House Tuesday concerning the British reply to Khrushchev.

The Soviet premier's proposal envisaged a meeting of American, British, French, Indian and Russian heads of government.

Khrushchev suggested that United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold also should attend — but not without the possibility of a summit conference. Hagerty said that the Western consultations among the Western countries are completed President Eisenhower will make a direct reply to Khrushchev.

Also in reply to questions, Hagerty said India was not among the nations that the U.S. considers has formally proposed that India be included in an immediate summit meeting.

President Eisenhower met with his diplomatic and military advisers in an unusual Sunday session to consider a reply to Khrushchev's move.

He accused the U.S. and Britain of committing aggression by sending troops into Lebanon and of a plot to kill the pro-Soviet ruler of Iraq before he was overthrown.

Prime Minister Nehru of India accepted the invitation "in the cause of world peace."

Replying to Khrushchev, Nehru said governments have a responsibility to follow world events with keenness, and refrain from any action likely to increase world war.

"You are aware of our firm conviction that armed intervention by a foreign power in any country is most undesirable and that is why we insisted on the withdrawn from countries where they have entered," he said.

URGES WITHDRAWAL

"Therefore we have urged the governments of the United States and Great Britain to withdraw from Lebanon and Jordan.

"We would welcome peaceful approaches to the problems through the United Nations or its Security Council, or otherwise with a view to helping the United Nations to take steps to end the conflict in the near and Middle East region."

Princess Margaret Turns Tourist, Enjoys Swim, Barbecue, Boat Ride

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Princess Margaret-has turned tourist.

The princess, on a four-day visit to the Okanagan, went swimming Sunday, then had dinner on the beach and took a boat ride.

That ended a day in which anybody visiting the Okanagan, a fruit-growing valley in the B.C. interior. She was expected to go one better.

A reliable source said Sunday night the princess, touring B.C. since the province celebrates its 100th anniversary, made arrangements to go water skiing today. But there were no engagements. The boat tentatively reserved for the event belongs to Thomas Capozzi, member of a noted Okanagan family.

Princess Margaret attended a barbecue on the beach in front of the home of J. Bennett, millionaire-boat builder. The princess' family after the barbecue lasted for about half an hour. It was believed she wore a royal blue one-piece bathing suit.

Mr. Ross, Premier W. A. C. Bennett and their wives were guests at the barbecue.

Russia Protests

LONDON — (CP) — The Soviet government has protested to the United States against violation of Russian neutrality in permitting American military aircraft to fly from bases in northern Germany to Adana, Turkey in the Middle East, Moscow Radio said today.

Russia Proposes Friendship Pact With Many Lands

LONDON (Reuters) — Russia has proposed a friendship and cooperation treaty with European governments and the United States.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported Monday night that the proposal covers reduction of the number of foreign troops stationed abroad, a survey over Europe to try to prevent surprise attacks, a nonaggression pact between zone and closer scientific and economic co-operation.

The pact was proposed in a Soviet note given Western ambassadors in Moscow on July 15.

Tass said it is "highly important" that European countries and the U.S. do not give military and economic aid to any country engaged in threatens to break the European peace, regardless of its membership.

DENUCLEARIZED ZONE

A "denuclearized" zone would be established along the line from Poland to the Black Sea and in Europe. Countries within this zone would be considered as excluded from the sphere of the use of nuclear weapons.

The note suggested that the number of foreign troops in Germany be reduced by one-third within the next one or two years. Agreement would have to be reached on an inspection system to be sure that this aim was carried out. The note suggested that the reduction of forces could be carried out if Germany is to embrace all NATO and Warsaw Pact countries. It did not go into detail about this extension.

A 1,000-mile aerial inspection zone, extending 500 miles on each side of the Iron Curtain was favored by Russia to prevent surprise attack. The note made a mention of previous Western opposition to open up the Arctic area to aerial inspection for this purpose.

Two Men Hurt As Cars Collide

One man was admitted to the Belleville — General Hospital Sunday night following a two-car collision on North Front Street near Craig Street.

He was Roy Heim, 54, of Gunter, a passenger in a car driven by Orval Whittle, 27, of 25 East Bridge Street. Hospital officials this morning described his condition as satisfactory. Heim is suffering from lacerations near his nose.

The other auto involved was operated by Francis A. Brewin, 50, of Toronto.

Whittle was treated at the hospital for abrasions and allowed to go home.

Police Blotter

City police had a rather active weekend investigating a car theft, a couple of other thefts, counting a total of odd drunk quelling disturbances in a couple of restaurants and answering calls from irate householders about a few citizens keeping them awake.

Saturday afternoon a John St. woman reported that her tenants of her purse had been stolen after she had returned home from a downtown shopping excursion. She said she had left her bag on the kitchen table, walked out of the room and a few minutes later, on returning, found the kitchen and not been tampered with. Miss Thrasher had parked her auto behind a store downtown.

Robert O. Doogan, 172 Pine St., reported that his car was stolen Saturday night from behind a local hotel. Provincial police found it at Norwood. The car, when found, was on fire and the engine wrecked.

A minor accident involving cars operated by Edgar W. Gibson, 47, of Kingston, and William Calbury, 28, of 18 Frankin St., was investigated by city police Saturday on Dundas St. East, opposite First St. Total damages amounted to over $100.

A camera and two fishing rods were stolen from a car parked behind a hotel Saturday night, told the police clerk the complaint. Entry was gained through a starboard window.

A district resident was fined $33.50 Sunday after an OPP motorcycle patrolman clocked his car doing 60 mph between Wallbridge and Sidney crossing on the Bay Bridge Road.

Two chrome wheel discs were reported missing from a car the car was parked in front of auto show rooms on Front St. Sunday.

Salvation Army Music Camp Ends Belleville Boy Wins Honor Award

A Belleville boy, Martyn Cooper, was this year's winner of the Honor Student Shield donated by Senator W. A. Fraser, announced Brig. Morgan Flannigan, of the Mid-Ontario divisional headquarters, Toronto.

The shield, along with proficiency certificates and award medallions, was presented at an awards-night ceremony Saturday to conclude this year's Salvation Army Mid-Ontario Division Music Camp held at Roblin Lake.

In addition to winning the Honor Shield, Martyn also won the second award medallion in the instrumental "A" group, and the first award medallion for Grade 4 Theory.

Main purpose of the camp, held annually, is to give boys and girls between the ages of eight and 17 intensive musical training. Swimming and other sports are also enjoyed.

The camp had a registration of 85—the largest so far, stated Brig. Flannigan. Commissioning was held Monday, July 14, and the camp closed Saturday.

Present at the award-giving ceremony on Sunday were Colonel and Mrs. Ernest Long, Tweed, and 2nd award, Gregory Braund, Peterborough; drum solo, Ronald Fingle, Harwood.

In the vocal class awards, 1st award Betty Aldread, Trenton, and 2nd award, Anne Butler, Oshawa; vocal solo award, Betty Aldread, Trenton.

Grade 2, 1st award, Anne Butler, Oshawa; 2nd award, Dorothy Kentner, Whitby, and 3rd award, Gregory Braund, Peterborough; grade 3, Warren Cooper, Belleville.

Proficiency certificates were presented, not only to the award winners, but also to all those passing the music examinations.

The operation of the camp was under the direction of Brig. M. Flannigan. Mrs. Flannigan was in charge of accommodation and meals and camp secretary was Mrs. Capt. W. Brown.

Bandmaster Victor Kingston, of the Danforth Corps, Toronto, was the music camp director, and Capt. Wallace Brown, of Trenton, was assistant camp director. The instructors was composed of bandsmen from various corps in the Mid-Ontario Division, and included deputy bandmaster William James of Oshawa, vocal instructor, and bandsman Terry Huffman of Peterborough, as theory instructor.

A most helpful spiritual meeting was held Sunday morning at the camp, conducted by the faculty in attendance. Each morning a Bible study period was held, led by Brig. Flannigan.

Cliff MacKay's Holiday Ranch Here Wednesday

Don't forget the Cliff MacKay show at Memorial Arena on July 23. All proceeds will go to the Belleville MacFarland's Overseas Fund, and $50,000 is needed to send the Allan Cup winners to Prague next winter.

Cliff MacKay is one of the top ranking personalities on Canadian television. His weekly "Holiday Ranch" show from Toronto is aimed especially at rural folk, but city slickers get a big bang out of it, too.

Anyone who has seen Cliff on TV may recall that he is a capable saxophonist. He can tickle the keys with the best of 'em players.

Both modern and old time music will be featured by MacKay and company. He has some of the best fiddlers and yodellers in the business, as well as a capable guitarist, accordionist and pianist.

Remember the big day, this Wednesday night, July 23, at Memorial Arena.

CLARENCE BOULTER COOK

Clarence Boulter Cook, R. R. 3, Belleville, died on Wednesday morning at the home of his son, Robert, R. R. 3, Belleville. Mr. Cook, who was in his 87th year, was a native of Prince Edward County, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Seth Cook, and spent practically all his life in this district.

Surviving to mourn his passing are his wife, the former Laura Brooks, four sons, Everett and Robert of Belleville and George and Howard of Madoc, and three daughters, Mrs. Webb (Margaret) Archer of Belleville, Mrs. Sid (Lucille) Andrews of Smithfield and Mrs. Floyd (Della) Woods of Toronto. Mr. Cook is also survived by three brothers, Dreyden of Tweed, Robert of Stirling and Harry of Toronto, and by three sisters, Mrs. Ross Bowen of Bowmanville, Mrs. Lena Saunders of Castleton and Mrs. Margaret Parks of Cobourg.

Mr. Cook was a veteran of the First Great War.

HARRY E. DARLING

Harry E. Darling, a well known and highly esteemed school teacher in this district for over a quarter of a century, died today at Belleville General Hospital, after an illness of a week's duration. News of his death has been received with deep regret by a host of former pupils as well as by the many friends he had made since he moved to this city from Marlbank in 1931.

Mr. Darling was in his 66th year at his death he was principal of S.S. No. 20, Sayview, Public School in Thurlow township, and he had also taught at Castleton-Codrington High School. His residence was at 11 Cedar Street in this city.

Mr. Darling was born at Dartford, near Roseneath, on February 19, 1904, a son of the late Ezra and Elvina Broadworth Darling. He was united in marriage to Eileen Maddy, who now survives to mourn his loss. There had no children, but he is survived by a sister, Miss Muriel Darling of Roseneath, and by two brother, Ella Darling, principal of Campbellford High School, and Archer Darling of Toronto, as well as by a niece, Mrs. William Sadler, of Long Branch.

Deceased was a member of the United Church of Madoc Village, A.F. & A.M., No. 11, of Belleville.

Resting at the Grant Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this issue.

MISS NETTIE SIMONDS

A resident of Belleville for the past 27 years, Miss Nettie Simonds, 91, of 13 Queen St., died Saturday, July 19, at Belleville General Hospital, following a short illness.

Miss Simonds was born in Demorestville, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Allan Simonds. She lived in Belleville for approximately 27 years, and prior to that resided in Brockville. She was a member of Bridge St. United Church.

She is survived by one sister, Miss Lenore Simonds, of Belleville, and two nieces, Mrs. Ada Lange, of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. K. R. Dalrymple, of Burlington, Ont.

Resting at the Thompson Funeral Chapel for service Tuesday, July 22; funeral notice appears elsewhere in this issue.

SARAH Sends Copter to Rescue Of Downed Plane

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men whose plane crashed early Sunday in mountains 500 miles north of here were rescued by helicopter after a unique radio device gave their position to a searching jet plane. Tom Williamson, the pilot, and Angus McDonald, Vancouver geologist, were uninjured.

The RCAF found the downed plane, which was equipped with a SARAH beacon—a unit which enables aircraft to "beam in" by radio.

Glass Splinter Causes Death

OTTAWA (CP) — William Brooks, 66, died in hospital Sunday following an emergency operation to remove a fool-long splinter of glass from his back.

Police said Brooks fell against the door of a large china cabinet in his home. The glass splinter apparently severed an artery.

WHERE WORLD'S FEARS ARE FOCALIZED

Here is a comprehensive newsmap of the major trouble spot in the world. The first rumble of the present Middle East crisis came out of Iraq when rebel forces overthrew the regime of King Feisal in Bagdad. The circles indicate the miles between Iraq and Saudi Arabia (bottom). Most of the area is composed of very rugged terrain, with hardly any major roads, making military operations very difficult. Additional U.S. troops are to be sent into the area from Turkey (upper left), a major NATO staging area. Great Britain, who has sent troops into Jordan, can send additional troops from Cyprus, where they have a large base. According to reports, Syria has armed civilian volunteers and has rushed troops to its Lebanon border while Russia is massing troops on its Iranian border. Military experts feel that if Russia sends troops to Middle East their route of march would take them through Iran first.

CNR Conductor Harvey J. Murray Retires After 45 Years' Service

Forty-five years on the railroad is the record chalked up by CNR conductor Harvey J. Murray, 113 Donald Street, Belleville, who retired Sunday night.

Mr. Murray completed his last Toronto-to-Montreal run on the CNR passenger train last night in Toronto, where a party was held for him afterward by fellow CNR employees.

Tonight a family supper celebration will be held to mark the close of a railroad career which started July 30, 1913.

"I've worked every day and just kept at it," is the way the modest conductor described his entry into the railroad business and his 45 years service.

Mr. Murray worked on freight trains for the first 40 years, then switched over to passenger trains. He has been conductor on the fast 6.15 p.m. Toronto-Montreal train for the past five years.

His last freight run was from Brockville to Mimico.

"I've worked just about all over the east end of Belleville and on all kinds of trains," he stated.

"It hate to give it up — I still had two more years to go — but had to, on account of my wife's health," he explained.

He states it is "pleasant work," despite the fact he has been involved in two bad train accidents during his 45-year service.

One wreck was in 1920 when 17 cars piled up in the marsh at Port Union. The other was in 1934 when the passenger train he was on was hit by a car at Mallorytown, and the caboose overturned across the tracks. In both cases, Mr. Murray was fortunately not injured, he said.

Now that he's retired, Mr. Murray states he is going to spend his time fishing and taking it easy.

"I am going to spend the summer at my camp at Madoc and on Moira Lake, and am going to do a lot of fishing," he said.

Mr. Murray, who was born in Codrington, Ont., north of Brighton, has lived in Belleville most of his life. He is married and has one daughter and four sons.

Railroading seems to run in the family. His son-in-law has been a railway conductor for the past 18 years.

Queen Cancels Engagements Due to Illness

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen, ill for two weeks with catarrhal sinusitis, today cancelled all her engagements until the end of the month.

The Queen's action, taken on the advice of her doctors, meant the Duke of Edinburgh will take his wife's place Saturday in presiding at the closing of the British Empire and Commonwealth Games at Cardiff, Wales.

The Queen, 32, is in satisfactory condition, Buckingham Palace said. While the Queen continues to make progress, the infection is persisting and the affected sinuses have been irrigated.

The duke also will deputize for her on a tour of Wales and visits to the Scilly Islands and the Dartmouth and Plymouth naval bases.

Ghana's Premier Here in Canada Seeking Advice

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, prime minister of Canada's young Commonwealth sister in West Africa, today discusses matters of mutual commercial interest in an address to the joint house of Canada's Parliament and in private talks.

Dr. Nkrumah takes time out from his four-day tour—intended primarily as a goodwill visit—to look into the possibilities of expanded trade.

A spokesman for the Ghanaian leader said, however, discussions will be in general terms. More than anything, Dr. Nkrumah will be seeking advice as one of the youngest Commonwealth members speaking to the senior member.

He was to see Prime Minister Diefenbaker in his office this afternoon, and the Canadian leader was to entertain his Ghana counterpart at an official dinner tonight at the posh Country Club in neighboring Quebec province.

TAILS OF ALARM

The 10-man delegation from Ghana also will discuss with Canadian officials development of the African country's aluminum resources, in which Canadian and British groups have interests.

Ghana was formed last year, and includes what was former; the Gold Coast. Its 40-year-old prime minister spent 10 years in the United States and received most of his university education there.

He and his party of ministers and official staff arrived by air in Montreal Saturday and drove to Ottawa Sunday in a nine-hour trip that included an exhaustive tour of the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project.

Sunday night, Dr. Nkrumah and five members of his party attended a private dinner at Mr. Diefenbaker's official residence at 24 Sussex Drive.

King Hussein In Deep Trouble Despite Support

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Young King Hussein is in deep trouble despite the crash program of military and economic aid from the United States and Britain.

Developments in Iraq have hit Jordan hard.

Already the eastern part of the country has been cut off from communication with the Palestinian side of the Jordan River, a hotbed of support for President Nasser of the United Arab Republic. There is a good chance that much blood will be spilled here before long.

WARNED OF PLOT

There are several reasons why violence did not explode immediately in the wake of the revolt in Iraq. Hussein apparently had been warned of a new plot to dethrone him in time to clean out dissident officers. And Jordan still is under a rigid royal dictatorship and martial law.

But most important, the events in Iraq came with such suddenness that they stunned Jordan's population. Many observers, even among ordinarily violent extremists, at first saw the developments in Iraq as a prelude to a Third World War with all its awful new possibilities. When they get their second wind there may be violence.

The violence might be sparked by strong anti-Western feelings which looks on the 2,000 British troops now here as a mobile palace guard and economic displacations in the wake of the Iraqi revolt could raise the revolutionary tempo.

DEPEND ON IRAQ

Jordan depended entirely upon Iraq for oil to keep its economy going. Automobiles are being garaged. Prices are soaring. Unless U.S. oil deliveries by air can fill the bill, the country is being water to Amman, Jerusalem and other cities from reservoirs many will soon stop. Electric service already is breaking down in some areas.

Picked regiments of the famed Arab Legion, with heavily gunned armored cars and machine-guns, ring Hussein's palace and the residence of Queen Dowager Zein.

Hussein, however, has lost much of his officer corps. Perhaps 150 of his officers are either in jail or have fled to Iraq or Damascus.

Britain apparently considers Jordan's fate a matter of the most extreme importance. Evidently Britain feels that if Jordan goes, oil-producing Kuwait will be the next target. And it is possible that U.S. policy makers feel that the turn of Saudi Arabia and its oil would not be far away.

Smith to Return To UN Meeting

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Smith is to return to New York today.

It was announced by the prime minister's office Sunday that Mr. Smith will go to New York today in time to attend the United Nations Security Council meeting this afternoon.

The prime minister and Mr. Smith conferred Sunday on the fast-developing Middle East situation following Mr. Smith's return Sunday from talks in Washington and New York.

The immediate government reaction was expected to be made public, however, on the supplemental Saturday by Soviet Premier Khrushchev for a Big Five summit meeting at Geneva.

Six Accidents Include Two Involving Dogs

TRENTON — Another dog in Trenton was killed over the weekend and one was injured when hit by motorists on town streets, police reported today. There were four other accidents over Saturday and Sunday but no injuries to humans were reported by the town police.

Keith Menzie of 31 Ford St., Trenton, driving a truck owned by J. D. Vanaitlen Construction Company, reported he was proceeding north on McLellan Avenue when a dog ran out from the west side of the road and was crushed under the rear axle of the truck. The dog was owned by Clifford Pilchett of 228 King Street. Damage was the eleventh dog to be killed on town streets since the first of the year. The accident was investigated by Constable Dave Jones.

John A. Manohan of Hillier, Ont., reported to Constable George French at the station that he was proceeding along Wreggit Street when a black dog ran in front of his car. He said when he got out to look around the dog got up and walked towards the home of Dr. Glen Bowerman. Police reported Constable Sid Vickers was sent to investigate and found the dog had returned by Dr. Jones and it had received a bat cut on its front leg. The accident happened near Bill Steenburg's home.

DAMAGE $MALL

Each of the four mishaps between cars was of minor nature, with none of them totalling damages of more than $200. It occurred on Dundas Widdicks of 23 Edward St., Trenton, was scraped on the hood and fender when a farm tractor, driven by Emile Dawny of St. Thomas, Ont., backed into it. The mishap occurred on Marmora St., and was investigated by Constable Jack Nokes.

Hugh Currie of 81 Bay St. had the front fender of his 1951 car damaged. The car scratched and dented when he stopped on Dufferin St. to let a pedestrian out. The car in front of him, driven by Mrs. Christine Hall of 18 Dundas St. West, backed into the Currie car. The mishap was investigated by Constable Ross Vickers of the Trenton police force.

Two other slight mishaps took place on Dundas Street West in the main business area of town. Karl Austin, of Wooler, Ont., and Margaret Cook of 18 Flindall Street were the drivers of two vehicles which bumped on the corner of Dundas and Division Streets.

John Jordon of 41 Hewson Boulevard, Middleton Park, told police the mechanical brakes on his car failed and he bumped into the rear of a car driven by Donald Sagriff, Napanee. The mishap took place on Dundas Street and in front of Simmons Drug Store.

Total damages in all weekend accidents are estimated at less than $150.

Boy in Hospital After Being Hit by Car

TRENTON — Gerald Phillips, five-year-old son of Mrs. Jean Phillips, 29½ Front Street, was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children in critical condition by Weaver Ambulance after he was struck by a car in front of his home on Saturday at 1 p.m.

According to the police report the youngster ran from the west side of Front Street, in front of Bailey's Hardware, through the line of stopped traffic and into the path of a car going north on Front Street, and being driven by Norman Lessard, 26, of Flinton, Ontario.

The car was going very slowly at the time of the mishap and hit the child with the left front fender, throwing him about two feet. The tot, after being knocked down, crawled to the curb by himself.

He was rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital where he was examined by Dr. D. J. Beecroft and it was reported the child suffered severe head and leg injuries, which included a broken jaw, lacerations and various bruises. Dr. Beecroft said the child was considered in critical condition when he ordered an ambulance to take him to the children's hospital in Toronto.

A nurse accompanied the child in the ambulance and his mother followed in another car. Further word on his condition has not been received as yet.

A second ambulance from Weaver's also left for Toronto a few minutes after the one which carried the tot. It carried an elderly woman who was flying home to Cleveland after spending three weeks in the Trenton hospital following a heart attack.

Mrs. Grace Engel, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. McCulloch, was taken to Malton Airport where she boarded a plane carrying her home. She had gone to Presqu'ile to spend her summer holidays and had been taken ill unexpectedly. She wasn't until Saturday her doctor gave her permission to leave and her daughter had come up from Cleveland to take her home.

BITE VISITOR

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP)—Mrs. Bill Barden visited a home here and obtained the family's signature on a petition supporting a police control and dog warden project. As she departed, the family pet dog bit her on the leg.

KILLS GUEST

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—A man objected to swimming pool party noises next door opened fire on one with a pistol, police said today. They said he killed his neighbor's wife and a guest, and wounded two other guests. Carbon monoxide poisoning.

Daisy the Milk Horse Leaving On Vacation

TRENTON — Daisy is going on two months holiday. It will be her first in three years. But only her second in 23 years. For several years has she complained about her work or lack of holidays.

Daisy is the bay colored mare which can be seen pulling a milk cart of the Riverside Dairy around a milk route every day. Now she can look forward to having her shoes pulled off to kick around a pasture on a farm near Trenton for the next 64 days. For a time there will be no more trudging along hot, paved streets, no more quick meals of hay and oats, no more itchy, sweaty harness and no more breathing in the fumes from gasoline engines which have sent so many of her kind to the glue factory.

Now, for the next two whole months, she will be just breathing pure, fresh air with shady trees to rest and scratch against, juicy green grass to leisurely nibble at and roll in, miles of soft ground to canter across in her freedom without a thought of restraining harness or the sharp commands of human voice.

Two months of well-earned freedom to pay her for her years of faithful work.

And Daisy knew her work well. She knew where to stop and where to turn. She could travel the milk route with her eyes closed and paid no heed to roaring motors or yapping dogs. She was always ready to go in the mornings regardless of rain, snow, heat or cold.

Her driver, Harry Wannamaker of Quinte Street, said yesterday, "Without her I'll be lost, but I'm glad to see her get a holiday."

During the vacation she will be replaced by a black gelding, named Dan. It will be Dan's first time on a milk route and he is coming to town "fresh from the farm" to replace Daisy.

Salvaged Chips May Be Clue To Lost Barilko Aircraft

TIMMINS (CP) — The possibility that fragmentary chips dredged from the bottom of a remote lake in Northern Ontario might provide a clue to the disappearance of a plane seven years ago on a flight from Long James Bay area to Timmins seemed slim today.

Aboard the plane were Dr. Henry Hudson, a Timmins dentist, and Bill Barilko, defenceman for Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

Dr. Lee Hudson, a Timmins surgeon and brother of the vanished dentist, said he doubts there is any connection with the missing aircraft.

The yellow-colored chips, about a half - inch in length, were brought up from Kabikagami Lake near Franz, a station on the CPR transcontinental line about 250 miles northwest of Sudbury, by three men taking coarse fish from the lake in a conservation project.

Ranger Charles Elliott of the Ontario department of lands and forests disclosed the discovery during the weekend at Elliot Lake near Blind River. Bill Cramm and conservation officer Elio Ponzo of the department were with him when they dredged up the fragments about a month ago in a net from the lake bottom, 70 feet down.

TOLD OF FIND

Dr. Lee Hudson was informed of the discovery Sunday night when he returned from a two-day fishing trip to Wateleg Lake, about 30 miles east of Timmins. He said that the possibility that the fragments were found in the White River, about 50 miles west of Franz. He added that was correct, the chips could not be from his brother's plane.

"He couldn't get there with the gas he was carrying," Dr. Hudson said. "The wind was in the opposite direction. He wouldn't do it even with a heavy tail wind. There is no reason for it."

Group two to group three — 48.75 to 52.85 and 46.50 to 48.75: Alexandria, Chelmsford, Lancaster, Madoc, Nipigon, Red Rock.

FREEZE ON MOUNTAIN

GORHAM, N.H. (AP)—A young couple was found dead of exposure on Mount Washington today. A doctor said they died of exposure and exhaustion Saturday night when the temperature fell to 39 degrees. The wind was estimated at that time at blowing at 70 miles an hour and frigid snow was falling.

Phone Charges Rise in Madoc And Deseronto

OTTAWA (CP)—Bell Telephone Company was authorized today to change the rate groups of 38 communities in Ontario and Quebec, involving increases in their charges for local service.

The Board of Transport Commissioners' authorization is effective on 30 days' notice.

The rates for residence service will rise by between 25 and 32 cents a month. For single business phone service, they will go up by between 50 cents and $1.25.

ROUTINE REGROUPING

The regrouping is a periodical measure authorized by the board — usually semi-annually — to keep pace with increases in the number of telephones in individual communities.

There are 19 rate groups, with rates ranking upwards in accordance with the number of phones in each centre. As the number of phones in one place reaches a given point, it is moved into a higher group.

Today's regrouping is not directly connected with a Bell application to the board for general rate increases on local and long distance services in the two provinces averaging about 4½ per cent. Hearings on this application are to open here Sept. 15.

The regroupings, with the changes indicated for residential two-party and one-phone business service, include the following Ontario points:

From group one to group two — residential $2.05 to $2.75 and business $4.90 to $5.30: Deseronto, Havelock, Hemmingford, Inglis Falls.

Group two to group three — $2.75 to $3.35 and $5.30 to $6.05: Alexandria, Chelmsford, Lancaster, Madoc, Nipigon, Red Rock.

LEARN TO LIVE TOGETHER

"After living two weeks with French families in various parts of Quebec, 150 Ontario high school students justifiably feel they have learned a good deal about the people of that province," says a Canadian National Railways press release from Montreal.

They may have learned a good deal, but we suggest it is a safe bet that they would have learned even more had they spoken better French, or had more of the Quebec residents with whom they had associated spoken English.

We cannot escape the conviction that there is something the matter with the methods by which languages are taught in Ontario schools.

How many of those who have certificates to show that they mastered the French course in high school here could carry on an intelligent conversation in that language? We suspect very few.

And yet language study in schools in some other countries appear to produce much better results.

The other night Jack Paar had beauties from several countries, contestants in the Miss Universe contest, on his "Tonight" show on the NBC network. Almost all of them, if not all, spoke English - - English with an accent, English with novel twists in phrasing, but English which could be understood.

"You speak English?" Paar asked a Danish girl. "Of course," she replied with a surprised look. "We learned it in school."

Paar's eyebrows and shoulders went up, in a gesture which seemed to say that he, like many Ontario residents, had never found school an easy road to proficiency in a foreign language.

Perhaps what is needed is more emphasis on conversation and less on grammar. It may well be, for instance, that the 150 Ontario high school students learned much about French as spoken by the Canadians during their fortnight in Quebec than in many hours spent with textbooks.

But even this method of learning another language is not always easy, as we learned the other day in The Ontario Intelligencer office in a happy and hilarious telephone call from a sister-in-law in Montreal. She has married a French-Canadian and is now residing in Three Rivers. Accompanying her on the visit was her sister-in-law, who speaks no English. The only communication which the staff managed to have with this French-speaking fellow countryman was achieved partly by signs - by pointing to the sister-in-law's chattering happily away with old friends and by saying -- "Yak, yak, yak," which brought a ready smile and an even prompter "Oui." But this sister-in-law is our former colleague's liaison with French-speaking Quebec. Our English-speaking former reporter has been struggling with French, but having difficulties. Her excursions into the language are not always successful. We suspect that she still thinks in English. Then she speaks in her version of French to her sister-in-law, who translates this English-style French into French-style French. This is the first time we ever heard of an interpreter who understood only one language.

That this is a happy arrangement which the sisters-in-law enjoy was obvious. Still, it is far from ideal. Much better would be a happy facility of both in the native tongue of the other. Inter-community visits, like those mentioned in the CNR press release, would appear on the surface of promoting this goal, besides providing other opportunities for the achievement of a second objective towards this bilingualism is but a step - - a real understanding of French and English Canadians, one of another. These inter-community visits are sponsored by Visites Interprovinciales and the Canadian Council of Resident and Citizen Services. Ontario students live two weeks with the family of a French-Canadian student and then, in turn, is host to the Quebec teen-ager for a similar period. "Age, interests and family background are considered to determine which two students are paired," reports the CNR. After a month in each other's company, we suspect that most of these youth will be partly convinced that they have much more in common than they would have suspected before they commenced to batter down the language barriers.

"Can you imagine," asks Mrs. Hannah Troy, globe-trotting fashion designer, "anything more intriguing than a moving, fluttering fringe of ostrich about a beautiful pair of legs?"

Come to think of it, yes.

A beautiful pair of legs without a moving, fluttering fringe of ostrich.

THINGS MAN DOES ONCE

Some things there are that man will do
But once within his span of life,
And one is on his fishing trips
To take his charming wife.

To satisfy her every whim
At first may be his noble aim
But
And so, of course, he takes her once
To see a baseball game.

Then, as a rule, although he may
Not always make his reasons known,
To fishing or to baseball grounds
The chances are he goes alone.

A Crisis of Uncertainties

Ottawa Journal

Rarely has an international crisis presented the observer with as many uncertainties. One can pursue one line of thought to the conclusion that the use of the United States Marines is venturesome in the extreme and does not seem to carry in it the possibilities of a successful termination. One can almost as easily pursue another line of thought: that though the attitude of the West in the Middle East may not seem to justify Washington's unilateral action there is in the broad canvas of the picture a fundamental challenge to the West which if not met now may never be met.

This newspaper admits to uncertainty in the matter. This uncertainty, we note, was shared by Mr. L. B. Pearson who as late as Tuesday night said that he could not give a judgment of the American intervention because he was not possessed of all the facts. In our uncertainty we are, apparently, in good company.

It is a responsibility of government, however, to have views on vital matters of the day; and we note that the Canadian government has taken a fairly clear line in support of the American action: the speech of Mr. John Holmes to the United Nations, Mr. Pearson's circumstances, as admirable blend of caution and firmness, and talks with friends and allies.

President Eisenhower himself stated that the American action was a great risk and we imagine that the leaders of Britain, London and Paris and Ottawa must be aware that the trial of his policy in the Suez crisis in the Middle East in general is going to be long and tortuous and with possibilities unspectacular either in success or failure. The situation is one that lays grave fears all that: the creeping nature of the paralysis that is overtaking Western influence in the Middle East is of the most dangerous variety.

There is in the debate that flows around the Eisenhower policy one doubtful note which is not the less so because it is popular. That is the note that is "another Suez". It is that had Mr. Eden been given the chance to act unilaterally he now be faced with the sweeping tide of Arab nationalism.

The British and French action to support the Israeli attack upon Egypt, however much it may have had our sympathy, was not an act comparable to President Eisenhower's move to Lebanon. The British and French moved upon another country on what seemed to them good reason but not upon the invitation of the government of that country. The Americans have moved into Lebanon clearly at the invitation of the "capital". The fact that the Latin preposition, "per capita" meaning "by," governs the accusative case, makes no difference, for in the Latin, as in Greece, the active of neuter nouns is the same as the nominative.

One can, of course, carry pursuit in language too far, though we do not exploited the use of "per caput" for "per capita" one of those instances.

But we do not object to anyone saying "Sahara Desert" even though we know the Arabs there are tautologous since, we are told, "sahara" means "desert."

Neither do we attempt to poke fun at a person's saying "Greenwich Village," even though we have good reasons for believing that the "v" in "Greenwich" comes from the Saxon, "wic," which the Saxons took from the Latin "vicus" meaning village. The Latin "v" was pronounced "w."

As a matter of fact, we think "Greenwich Village" has a much nicer sound — perhaps because of its connotations — than "Greenwich Village." We would not change it if we could. But this "per capita" thing is a different matter. We have declared war upon it.

It Should Be Per Caput

Charlottetown Patriot

"Per capita" is one of those Latin terms which, when applied in the individual — and in the English language that is the only sense in which it is applied —should be in the singular. "Per" and "capita" are singular in "per capita," the fact that the Latin preposition, "per" governing "by," governs the accusative case, makes no difference, for in the Latin, as in Greece, the active of neuter nouns is the same as the nominative.

But we do not object to anyone saying "Sahara Desert" even though we know the Arabs there are tautologous since, we are told, "sahara" means "desert."

Neither do we attempt to poke fun at a person's saying "Greenwich Village," even though we have good reasons for believing that the "v" in "Greenwich" comes from the Saxon, "wic," which the Saxons took from the Latin "vicus" meaning village. The Latin "v" was pronounced "w."

As a matter of fact, we think "Greenwich Village" has a much nicer sound — perhaps because of its connotations — than "Green Village." We would not change it if we could. But this "per capita" thing is a different matter. We have declared war upon it.

MATTER OF VAST IMPORTANCE

Is there anything the matter with American education?

Yes. There always has been something the matter with education and there always will be, so long as it is administered by fallible adults and received by fallible and immature youngsters. Things years ago, education was incredibly ideal. Schools were encouraged to stuff their heads with facts which by no possible chance could ever be made to contribute to their welfare and happiness. Today, educators think all too little about facts. We have emotional reading because children in the grades are not learning to read. S o m e youngsters, because they have not learned the alphabet, cannot look up words in the dictionary with any rapidity or take positions as filing clerks. In colleges today they actually encounter students once in a while who test as geniuses but who can scarcely r e a d the newspaper.

Modern education needs some drastic overhauling. Its exponents started out to do something that needed to be done, but many of them have carried it to the ridiculous of the younger generation. Perhaps we have to go back and forth, from one extreme to another, but as we go we must learn.

And there is no place where we need to learn more than in t h e field of education. When educators fail us, we in turn shall fail the nation and its youth. Let us see that that, we shall fail ourselves; worst of all we shall fail God.

Foundation Remodeled

Chicago News

Some of us were coldly unenthusiastic, even rude, about it when starlets, wearing the delighted acceptance of the girdle, edict that, temporarily, for the time being, that is - they would dress themselves in imitation of Victorian models of potatoes.

But it develops, however, that this has been a boon to the makers of "unmentionables," for while the girdle replaces corsets, to mention a few, Barron's Weekly reports that manufacturers of these lines are backing the recession to new highs in sales.

It just goes to show that there are things not immediately visible that are still worth looking at — which, ironically, is the condition to the naked eye in the first place.

It is not clear to us why the contents of a sack has to be remodelled, but doubtless it does make a difference, or there wouldn't be.

Anyway, it is good to know that something has been remodelled, but doubtless it does make a difference, or there wouldn't be.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WIFE ADVISED TO BRIBE HUSBAND TO SEE FAMILY DOCTOR

"Dear Dr. Molenr: What about continuous irritation of the throat. My husband has had an inflamed throat for over a year. He says it was caused by bad teeth. He had his teeth out nearly a year ago, but the throat is just as bad and the gums don't heal. He is afraid to see a doctor till it is too late. He smokes a pack and a half a day. His ears are beginning to run. He doesn't complain about any soreness of the throat. — D.M."

Come, come, Simmer down. Why should I call the idiot a coward? He probably knows it already.

You didn't mention it, but I presume he's afraid — or you suspect that he's afraid — of cancer, so he won't go to the doctor. Have I guessed right?

Of course, from the symptoms you describe, we wouldn't expect to find cancer. It could be, in unusual circumstances. But from the signs, it just doesn't sound like it.

It sounds, rather, like some sort of infection that has established itself, and cancer is not an infection.

It is true that infected teeth may have caused the irritation in the throat, and that bad teeth extracted doesn't necessarily solve anything, any more than a case of rabies is cured by removing the dog that bit you.

Then again, maybe the teeth weren't the cause. Maybe they were one of several results of something else.

The whole combination of things — teeth that obviously some dentist felt required removing, gums that do not heal, irritated throat, and running ears (the ears are closely connected to the nose and throat passages) suggests some sort of infection that seems to be playing hob all over the lot.

MAY NOT BE SYRINGEAL

If your husband is brave enough to go to the dentist, I don't see why he shouldn't be brave enough to go to the doctor. Maybe you've made such an issue of this that he won't go out of sheer stubbornness."

As I so often say, I can only conjecture — I can't diagnose anything without seeing the patient, and admit that I have no right at all to intimate that he is stubborn, because I haven't ever seen or talked to him.

So don't hereby withdraw the whole remark.

All I do is suggest that your husband go see his family doctor. Let's bribe him to do so. Tell him if he'll do that, both you and I will forthwith stop nagging him. S'pose that'll work.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 40 pounds overweight, diabetic but not real serious, and have a bad stomach ulcer that was bleeding but is now nearly healed. I feel I must diet to keep it from breaking open again. The things I dare eat with my ulcer interfere with my overweight diet, and my diabetic diet also interferes with my ulcer diet. That's my problem. — L.F.F."

To which, my friend, I say "amen". It's a tough problem, and the best answer is to avoid sugar (for the diabetes), and follow the ulcer diet otherwise, but eat a little bit less of everything to take care of the overweight problem. Or, still better, try to work off the weight. But your problem, frankly, takes will power at the table.

Note to Mrs. G. W.: All I can say is that I, too, would say that repairing three hernias and a failing womb all in one operation sounds a pack and a half to me also. His ears are beginning to run. He doesn't complain about any soreness of the throat. — D.M."

Slaughtering Changes Slow

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Progress in the humane slaughtering of animals has been slow, it is only in the past two or three years that methods have been devised that are satisfactory from the packing plants. Even now only a few companies have adopted them.

For instance, the first hog immobilizer in Canada has just been installed at the Toronto plant of a large packing firm. This machine uses carbon dioxide to render animals apparently unconscious before being killed. It costs about $4,000 per hour, the machine uses one-fifth pound per animal.

The immobilizer was imported from Denmark, and the firm has also installed similar machines at all plants if the firm over work out as expected. A packing plant also use what is called a captive-bolt gun to render cattle unconscious before killing.

This is quite a timely only the start of various practical work on humane killing of animals in Canada. There are still many plants, not by any means all small ones, using other and rougher methods. The chances are the meat you bought this week was killed by such methods.

It will take a long time to make new methods general in the meat industry, and there will be the usual resistance of opinion on what constitutes humane slaughter. So long as we have the certain amount of suffering is quite likely to be with us. But public opinion will bring about improvement if it is exercised properly. Without a strong opinion, progress in this matter is apt to be slow indeed.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE LOYAL TO YOURSELF

It often takes great courage just to be ourselves. How often there have been those who were loyal to themselves — and joined to the heroic minority!

That famous, oft-quoted phrase of Shakespeare that is the theme said: "To thine own self be true; and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man." Our first duty, then, is to be loyal to ourselves. We shall then be worthy to belong to our friends.

Nearly all of us have been born with talents — a heritage from the heavens. But unless we u s e them, as intended, they are apt to wither and die, and be ours no longer. What a multitude of things there are that might have been done had we applied t h e m when - born to us! Our gifts of mind and heart were bequeathed to us for a purpose. We can never repay what we owe to our Heavenly Father. Being loyal to ourselves is an extended loyalty to Him.

"From none but self expect applause," wrote Sir Richard Steele. In our lonelier hours we should recall this quotation. It's from the same poet who wrote, one of the great poems in all English literature.

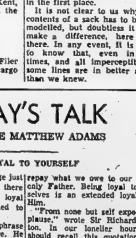
If we do not remain loyal to ourselves how can others p u t their faith and loyalty in us?

What a jewel to own is this loyalty to oneself and to others! It's like owning a prayer in the heart. Full of warmth that is everlasting.

Right here I wish to slip in a sincere tribute to "man's best friend" — dog. For you can't write or talk about loyalty without thinking of this inseparable quality — the loyalty of all dogs. Their life is as nothing with their master gone.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Of all dogs, few are more immediately endearing than t h e newly popular poodle. Of all dog owners, few are more immediately endearing than poodle owners. The Weekly reports that manufacturers of these lines are backing the recession to new highs in sales.



It just goes to show that there are things not immediately visible that are still worth looking at — which, ironically, is the condition to the naked eye in the first place.

It is not clear to us why the contents of a sack has to be remodelled, but doubtless it does make a difference, or there wouldn't be.

Anyway, it is good to know that something has been remodelled, but doubtless it does make a difference, or there wouldn't be.

She led the poodle to the back door where there is a wide open communal seat for six or f i v e, depending on breadth. She seated herself with parcels on each side, the poodle plopped up beside her.

But not before it had left a bunch of muddy paw marks on all least two of the spaces of the back seat, depending on breadth.

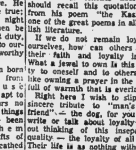
As the bus filled, two ladies of not very bright call the seat breadth boomed down to the back of the car.

They paused and stared at the muddy paw marks.



The lady in the breadthier of the two, "pun". Side along wipe those dirty streaks off with your hind end, that's a girl!"

Hopefully t h e fashionable lady slid over, wiping off the poodle marks.

That'll teach her to leave t h e station wagon at home.

WEEKEND DEATHS

Police said they were driving in a small car, following a station wagon in which were husbands Leonard Veitron, 39, and Charles Estiro, 36. The party of five was returning from a camping trip in Southern Ontario.

Mr. Vetrone said he looked in his rear view mirror and saw the small car suddenly swerve off the road. It went into a ditch, hit a culvert, tipped end - over - end, crashed into a tree and landed on its right side.

Allan Keith van Every, aged four months, died Saturday in the Hamilton Hospital for Sick Children of head injuries suffered in an accident eight miles southeast of Brantford.

The son of Phyllis van Every was one of six persons in a car driven by Mrs. Mary Staats, 28, of Hagarsville which left the Sour Springs road and went into a ditch.

Two-year-old Darlene McClure was killed Sunday night when run over by a car on the farm of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George McClure, at Haley Station, 50 miles west of Ottawa. She was dead on arrival at hospital here after a car driven by her aunt, Mrs. Lorna Mae Bulmer of Cobden, Ont., backed over her in the McClure driveway.

Pasquale Sdao was killed at Ottawa Saturday when struck by a car at the downtown intersection of Booth and Albert streets.

The victim, driven by Antonio Retano of Ottawa, was pushing away from a gasoline station when Retano lost control of it and hit a telephone pole. The vehicle bounced off the pole and struck Mr. Sdao.

DEAD ON ARRIVAL

One man was pronounced dead on arrival at a London hospital and two others injured Sunday as the result of a two-car crash in West Nissouri about five miles north of London.

Dead is Arnold Mackay, 24, of Thorndale. He was driving the car in which his father, Alexander, was uninjured. His mother, Mrs. Wilda Mackay, was treated for facial abrasions and an injured shoulder.

Driver of the other car was George Smith of Galt, who was injured and his wife, Muriel, treated for injuries to her shoulder and legs. The accident occurred on a concession road of Nissouri Township at an intersection two miles south of Highway 2.

Joseph J. Grondin, 47, was killed Saturday night when his car hit the back of another, skidded off the road rolled over in a field south of Windsor.

Driver of the car struck, Melvin G. Westlake, 22, said he saw the oncoming car in the rear-view mirror but could do nothing to avoid the crash.

Westlake and a passenger, Marion Standoff, 21, were uninjured.

George Barlow, 33, of Morrisburg, was drowned Sunday in the waters of the new St. Lawrence Seaway lake near Mariatown.

Artificial respiration was supplied unsuccessfully. It was the third drowning in the new lake in the last three days. The bodies of a man and woman were recovered Saturday from the lake near Cornwall.

Police said Mr. Barlow was standing with a friend on the canal bank when he either suffered a seizure or slipped and fell over the canal wall. Mr. Barlow operated a tourist home with his father, Fred Barlow, near Morrisburg, 25 miles southeast of Ottawa.

DROWNS AT BEACH

Michael Rose, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Rose of Fort Erie, was drowned Sunday at Fort Erie beach only a short distance from some 350 bathers. Four persons dived in a vain effort to reach the boy after he sank. Firemen were grappling for the body Sunday night.

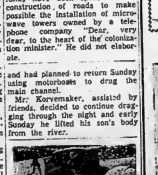
Garry McCracken, 14, of Rutland, Sask., was drowned Sunday while swimming in the Nottawasaga River near Angus, 12 miles west of Barrie.

Garry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCracken, was here with his family visiting relatives. He disappeared while swimming in six feet of water. His body was recovered an hour later.

The body of Ludger Granger, 60, a barber at the House of Commons barber shop, was found in the Rideau Canal Sunday.

Mr. Granger had been missing from his home since Friday night. Investigation revealed that the man had changed clothes and left the house with a fishing rod.

FATHER DRAGS RIVER



The body of a five-year-old Wallaceburg boy was recovered Sunday from the waters of the Sydenham River by his grief-stricken father, who had dragged the waterfront area wit. the help of friends for seven hours.

Ralph Korvemaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Korvemaker of Wallaceburg, was missed by his parents, a young Dutch immigrant couple, late Saturday.

They scoured the area near their home for more than four hours before an unidentified little girl told the parents she had seen the boy ride on a tricycle to the waterfront nearby and fall into the water.

Firemen using three small boats started dragging operations immediately. The firemen suspended operations Saturday night and had planned to return Sunday using motorboats to drag the main channel.

Mr. Korvemaker, assisted by friends, decided to continue dragging through the night and early Sunday he lifted his son's body from the river.

Jobless in June Double Number Of Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian employment rose and unemployment dropped between May and June, but the number of jobless at June 21 was about double that of a year earlier.

The government estimated today that in the month up to June 21 the number with jobs rose by 128,000 to 5,794,000 and those unemployed and looking for work dropped by 46,000 to 330,000. But comparable jobless figure for June of last year, as estimated by the bureau of statistics, was 163,000. It was 366,000 at May 24 of this year.

Besides those without jobs, the bureau reported that at June 21 there were another 15,000 with jobs but on temporary layoff. This was a drop of 4,000 from a month earlier and an increase of 4,000 from a year earlier.

NEW LISTS 224,648

In a simultaneous announcement, the labor department reported that at June 21 there were 336,648 persons registered for work with National Employment Service, compared with 641,852 at May 22 and 270,853 in June of 1957.

The employment service figures include a certain proportion—never estimated officially—of persons not actually unemployed. The bureau's estimates are based on a monthly sample survey of 30,000 households and cover those unemployed for the full week ended June 21.

Lesage States He Will Expose Govt. Scandals

AMOS, Que. (CP)—Hon. Jean Lesage, leader of the Quebec liberal party, says he plans during a province-wide tour next week to expose "scandal after scandal" in the present provincial administration.

He made the statement during the weekend at two provincial-tended rallies in the northwestern Quebec towns of La Sarre and Amos.

He started his tour after Premier Duplessis ignored his request for establishment of a royal commission inquiry into the sale of Quebec Hydro's Montreal area household gas - distribution system to the privately - owned Quebec Natural Gas Corporation.

The Liberal chief has described his tour as "pursuit of liberation" and a "full-scale offensive" to force Mr. Duplessis to call a general election over the controversy surrounding the gas transaction.

Mr. Lesage has termed "indefensible" the fact that some Quebec cabinet ministers either owned or have owned shares in the corporation which is subject to decisions of the provincial electricity board, a Quebec government body.

ROADS ACCUSATION

A La Sarre Saturday, addressing 2,000 persons in the town hall, Mr. Lesage accused the Quebec government of spending money earmarked for colonizing on roads on roads to lakes and rivers where cabinet ministers, government members and their friends go fishing.

Colonization money had also gone into the construction of roads in areas where there were no settlers. Examples were to be found in Montmorency and Dorchester ridings.

Colonization Minister J. D. Begin represents Dorchester in the Quebec legislature and the Montmorency representative is Yves Prevost.

Mr. Lesage said colonization funds have been spent for the construction of roads to make possible the installation of microwave towers owned by a telephone company. "Dear, very dear, to the heart of the colonization minister." He did not elaborate.

LUCKY WINNER

Miss Susan Leckie age ten years, of 10 Albion Street, Belleville, won the Ontario "Popsicle" Bicycle Contest, sponsored by the Joe Lowe Corporation. Susan purchased her Popsicle from a local Borden dealer. Susan is shown receiving her prize from H. Poulsen, Manager of The Borden Company Limited, Napanee. (Advt.)

Firefighters Unable to Stop Two Huge B.C. Forest Fires

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two gigantic forest fires burned through British Columbia timberlands today. Firefighters were powerless to stop them.

Another vast outbreak was dampened by rain and appeared to have stopped its run at Whitehorse in the Yukon. The blaze was within nine miles of the town when the rain came and the wind changed direction.

At one time it was feared Whitehorse would have to be evacuated, but officials called off the emergency order.

A 1,000,000-acre blaze was running wild in the Prince George area in the B.C. interior about 350 miles north of Vancouver. A pall of smoke from one to five miles thick hung over the area.

Fire spread over 800,000 acres in the Lower Post area on the B.C.-Yukon border. Rain fell Sunday but it was not known whether the outbreak had been brought under control.

About 200 fires were blazing in B.C.'s dry forests. D. B. Taylor, chief Vancouver district forester, said the fire hazard is "explosive."

He said the situation is the worst he had seen in his 37 years of forestry.

"Lightning - caused fires are breaking out everywhere and we just haven't the equipment to fight them," he said.

SMOKE GROUNDS PLANES

The smoke was so bad in the Prince George area that planes used to fight the blaze were grounded. Officials said the smoke made it impossible to spot new outbreaks.

Winds, rain and lightning were creating almost impossible odds against firefighters in the Vancouver forest district, which includes Vancouver Island and the mainland from the border 400 miles north and east i the Cascade Mountain range.

No relief was expected from the warm, dry weather.

The B.C. government so far this year has spent more than $1,000,000 fighting fires in the province—10 times what was spent all of last year.

MENACED FOR WEEK

The blaze near Whitehorse had menaced the Yukon capital for a week.

Mayor Gordon Cameron told the 2,500 residents to be ready to evacuate Saturday night when winds swung to the north and the fire—four miles wide—began advancing.

However, the wind again turned southerly and the fire appeared to have halted its advance. More light rain was forecast today.

Reports from army units at Whitehorse said 100 servicemen, forestry workers and volunteers Saturday completed two fire breaks between the tow and the fire.

The evacuation plan included provision for taking hospital patients and about 1,500 other residents by train 50 miles to Carcross.

The Whitehorse blaze was one of about 30 burning out of control in the parched Yukon.

CHIMPS GO ON BENDER

OCEAN PARK, Calif. (AP)—Two chimpanzees went on a $2,300 drunk. Then they disappeared. The chimps, Bob Roy and Tonga, escaped Sunday and went on a rampage of "destruction" which sells at $18 an ounce. But their owner, an amusement park executive, wasn't too worried about them. "They're around somewhere sleeping it off," he said.

Dr. R. Horton Still Practising At 77 Used Buggy, Cutter, Snowshoes to Visit Patients

By NEVILLE BARNETT
Canadian Press Correspondent

THORNTON, Ont. (CP) — A his buggy, a cutter and a pair of snowshoes, early in a garage which once was a stable for three horses, are among the souvenirs of a country doctor who has served his community for half a century.

Dr. R. B. Horton, still in practice at 77 and also a coroner, came to this community of 343 persons some 50 miles north of Toronto in 1908.

"I don't think there are more than half a dozen people left who were here when I first arrived," said Dr. Horton.

TEACHER THREE YEARS

Born in Gardenville, a village near Bethany, he went to school at Treeton and later attended Albert College, Belleville. A student at Lindsay Model School qualified him to do three years' teaching.

Those years were spent in a one - room school in Lakefield where he was paid $275 the first year, $300 the second and $325 the third.

He entered University of Toronto as a medical student in 1904 and graduated in 1908 with 143 others. At a recent reunion of the class in Toronto, 46 attended the special banquet and 30 others sent their apologies. "It's probable the rest are no longer with us."

A brother, Dr. S. M. Horton, 72, is still practising at Enterprise near Kingston.

Dr. Horton's first post-graduate post was assisting a doctor at Cookstown, a village 20 miles south of Thornton. While there he received an invitation to join the doctor in Thornton. The buggy and the cutter were the modes of transport.

"We had a great many upsets," he recalls. "Sometimes we couldn't get through and we had to walk some of the way to the patients. I have ridden on horseback and gone on snowshoes."

TOOK OFFICE BY SLEIGH

Before taking over the Thornton practice on his own in 1911, Dr. Horton did post - graduate work at New York.

Fifty years ago in Thornton operating theatre was the home. "For the first 20 years I was here even major operations—everything — was done in the house.

"I would say I have attended 2,500 mothers, all at home, and I have only had three maternity deaths. I have delivered more unprepared patients than those who have had their prep as they say these days. I have never had a case of childbirth fever in my life. We got by."

Aside from his medical duties, Dr. Horton has played an important part in the municipal life of the village. For 25 years he was health officer, and then Simcoe County health unit took over

Community Honors Young Couple

A large number of friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Hillman to honor their daughter Lois, and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard O'Brien who were recently married.

Community singing during the evening was enjoyed by everyone.

Mr. Allan Dempsey read an address, after which the couple were presented with a lovely bridge lamp and a cornflower crystal dish. Gerard and Lois both thanked their friends for the gifts and invited all to visit them.

Refreshments were served. Those serving were: the Misses Marilyn Adams, Ruth Dempsey, Beverley Redner, Wilma McKaye, Elaine Landy, and Daryle and Doreen Ward. All extended best wishes to the happy couple for a healthful and prosperous future.

WEDDINGS

MULRONEY — McCAULEY

At a recent pretty double-ring wedding in the Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville, Dorothy Anne McCauley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. McCauley, Marysville, became the bride of Michael Eugene Mulroney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mulroney, of Stoco. The Reverend I. F. Donohue officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a "memory-making" bridal gown exquisitely graced with lace, the full-length skirt in four tiers, each tier a froth of net lace, bordered with lace over net flounces. The bodice was accented by a standup collar, and long, pointed sleeves, edged with iridescent sequins and seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil, bordered by appliqued rosepoint lace, was held by a tiara headdress studded with seed pearls and sequins, and she carried a white prayer book crested with roses and white stephanotis, with rose-knotted, ribbon streamers.

Miss Noreen Mulroney, of Kitchener, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, wearing silk organza having the neckline draped at the back into a chiffon bow cascading into a full length panel. She wore a half crown headdress and carried a basket-bouquet of mixed summer flowers.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Melville Clarke, Reg. N., and Miss Jean Kearns, Reg. N., both of Kingston, were gowned in embroidered organdy over pastel shades of yellow and mauve, respectively, and carried basket bouquets of mixed summer flowers.

Mr. Leo Mulroney attended his brother as groomsman while Mr. James McCauley, brother of the bride, and Mr. Edward Whalen, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served at Dawson's Motel, Deseronto, to 70 guests, and in the afternoon a reception was held at the bride's home in Marysville.

The guests were received by Mrs. J. V. McCauley, mother of the bride, who was gowned in pale blue with navy blue accessories, and corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Frank Mulroney, assisted, attired in beige lace over ice-blue satin with ice-blue accessories, and corsage of red roses.

For travelling, the bride donned a powder blue linen suit with white accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Mulroney will reside in Belleville.

BIRD — WILSON

St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, was the setting on Thursday, July 17th at 8.00 p.m. for a pretty, but quiet wedding, when the Reverend Russell Gale united in marriage, Mary Elizabeth Wilson, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wilson, to Garrance Perry Bird, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Bird, of Belleville.

The bride was attractively attired in a navy blue two-piece ensemble with matching bolero, beige feathered hat, beige accessories and corsage of pink roses.

She was attended by Miss Lucy B. Meyer, and the bridegroom by the Reverend Peter M. Lett.

For the honeymoon to the United States, the bride travelled in a black and white knitted cotton suit, with white accessories, and corsage of white roses. Upon their return they will reside at 162 James Street, Belleville.

HELPFUL BIRD

TORRINGTON, Eng. (CP) — A bird-parrot owned by a constituent of Mark Bonham-Carter, Liberal MP for this Devon community, spoke been taught to recite: "Vote for Bonham-Carter. He's a smasher."

MOYNES — HARKINS

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place on July 19 at 3.30 p.m. at Tabernacle United Church parsonage in Bethesda when Joan Rosalind Harkins, daughter of Mrs. V. Harkins, of Tabernacle, and the late Mr. A. Harkins was united in marriage to Eugene Harold Moynes, son of Mrs. J. Sexsmith of Hastings, and the late Mr. E. Moynes.

The Rev. J. Eastcott officiated.

The bride was attractively dressed in a blue nylon dress with full skirt and three-quarter length sleeves, small feathered hat and navy accessories, and wore a corsage of pink roses and stephanotis

She was attended by her niece, Miss Carol Pringle of Belleville who was attired in a blue nylon dress and hat to match with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The groom was attended by Mr. Cam Hilston of Plainfield, as groomsmen.

After the ceremony the wedding party returned to the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Lyal Pringle, where refreshments of the two families gathered to with the couple well.

The bride and bridegroom left on a wedding trip to Ottawa and Montreal, the bride wearing a beige ensemble with beige accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

They will reside in Hastings upon their return.

THOMPSON — CLARK
Clayse, Ont.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Clayse United Church, recently, when Joyce Arlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervyn Clark of Clayse, became the bride of Leonard Wilson Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Thompson, if Northbrook. The Reverend H. Lowenberger officiated.

The front of the church was enhanced with baskets of gladioli, white mums and peonies, and the guest pews were marked with white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Duncan MacCrimmon, the bride was attractively gowned in white net over satin, with floor-length skirt and tulle bodice. The long sleeves ended in points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil, which had lace insets, fell from a matching lace headdress, and she carried a white Bible crested with red roses.

Miss Shirley Thompson, sister of the bridegroom, was maid-of-honor, gowned in lime green net over taffeta, with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of mums and Sweetheart roses. Miss Sharon Clark, sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid, wearing white nylon with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of mums.

Mr. Ross MacCrimmon, uncle of the bride, was groomsman, and the usher was Mr. Herbert Clark, brother of the bride.

The thirty guests were received

Miss Anna Ferry, Gananoque, the bride's sister.

Mrs. McConnell was gowned in turquoise lace and net over taffeta in ballerina-length, with matching accessories and carried a nosegay of yellow and white mums.

Miss Storring was in yellow lace and net over taffeta, in ballerina length, with matching accessories. Her flowers were a nosegay of mauve and white mums.

Miss Ferry wore a pale blue gown of nylon over taffeta, with matching accessories and carried pink Sweetheart roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Gordon Martin of Picton, and the ushers were Mr. Kenneth Perry of Kingston and Mr. Walter Dowd of Gananoque.

For travelling to New York State and Niagara Falls, the bride donned a robin's-egg blue corded nylon dress with pink accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Minnie will reside in Gananoque.

Out-of-town guests attended the wedding from Picton, Actinolite, Bloomfield, Verona, Wilton, Harrowsmith, Lansdowne, Seeley's Bay, Tweed and Kingston.

MINNIE — PERRY

TWEED — The marriage was solemnized in Grace United Church, Gananoque, of Miss Muriel Joan Ferry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ferry, of Gananoque, and Mr. Robert Elwood Minnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Minnie of Actinolite, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. A. Payton, and the church was decorated with white gladioli in sweetheart baskets.

Mrs. Donald Day played the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length, princess line gown of white lace over taffeta and net with sequins and seed pearls. The bodice featured a square neckline, and long, pointed sleeves. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was held in place by a sweetheart wreath of rhinestone and simulated pearls. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of red Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Sandra Perry of Gananoque, the sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a gown of pink lace and net over taffeta, in ballerina length, with matching accessories, and she carried a nosegay of blue and white mums.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Gerald McConnell, Picton, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Pauline Storring, Bloomfield, niece of the bridegroom and

43 Girls Are At YMCA Day Camp

The girls' session at the YMCA Day Camp at Oak Lake started today with 43 girls in attendance.

The campers were introduced to their counsellors and the new groups went their various ways. Each group with its different plans started out in full swing to get as many things accomplished as possible in the two short weeks that the camp will be in operation.

The counsellors for this period of camp are: Misses Janice Rohlin, Elaine Bourgeois, Irene Goodman, Beth Davidson, Lynda Peoples and Anna Clevett. Also helping on staff are Miss Patti Bradford and Miss Elizabeth Linscott.

The boys' camp, which finished last Friday, had as a closing event "A Parents' Night" on Thursday evening. The boys cooked their supper over an open campfire while their parents viewed the camp site and the proceedings. Later, the boys performed at a campfire program where each group presented a skit.

Mr. Ron Moorman, acting on behalf of the Y's Men's Club, explained their purpose in having this camp for the children of Belleville. The parents' night was successful and was indicative of the success of the whole camp.

Slim Pickings

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A smartly cut, well detailed shirt of strip-dry cotton teams up nicely with skinny pants. The shirt is blue and the cotton pants are white, plaided in blue, yellow and black. A black cummerbund belt cinches the waist to complete an outfit that is chic on a slim, boyish figure.

GOOD MANNERS

— By Mrs. Beeckman —

"HOUSEWARMING" IS CHARMING WORD IN INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We've just moved in our new house, and many relatives and friends are "hinting" about when we are going to have a House warming. When we send the invitations (which is to be soon) should we invite to a "House warming" or (as my husband thinks might be better) to all "Open Houses"? — Hostess

Either form of invitation is correct. But since this is the special occasion when you can use that special word "Housewarming" and since it is obvious that the occasion is a Housewarming, I suggest you use this cordial word, which so delightfully means "welcome to our new home!"

"MESSRS." NOT CORRECT FOR FATHER AND SON

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father and I have lived together in our apartment since my mother passed on five years ago. Occasionally we receive an invitation or a social announcement addressed to "The Messrs. Johnson." My father resents this. Insists it is not at all correct. Isn't it? — D.

No. It is definitely not correct to use "Messrs." as an address for father and son. This is correct only for letters addressed to brothers.

Jubilee E.A. Enjoys Slides Of Orient

The recent meeting of the Jubilee Evening Auxiliary of Bridge St. United Church was held in the Sunday school auditorium.

A good attendance enjoyed the delicious supper served by Mrs. A. Locke, Mrs. N. Earle and their group.

Mrs. Barclay delighted all present by playing soft music after the supper until the meeting was opened by the president, Miss Grace Kenny, who welcomed all visitors and members.

Miss H. Cook gave the treasurer's report and at this time Miss Kenny presented a cheque given by Explorer group.

Miss Joy Nichols reported that the generous donations collected at the May meeting had been packed and a bale forwarded to India.

Miss Kenny announced the dates for the School for Leaders at Whitby on August 18-23, after the offering was taken by Miss H. Cook. Mrs. Demeza presided as pianist.

Miss Kenny presented Miss Grace-Houston with a WMS life membership, with the good wishes of the Evening Auxiliary.

The program was in charge of Miss Ethel Morden and her group. Miss Morden read from one of Jane Scott's interesting writings on her garden and the seed of many thoughts was sown. A beautiful solo, "Life's Lovely Things," was sung by Mrs. Doris Burgoyne, accompanied by Mrs. Barclay. Miss Grace Tucker read "Letters to Young Churches."

Miss Lindy McIntosh of Toronto, a missionary teacher to Japan, guest speaker, told of her trip to the Orient from Toronto, through the United States to Salt Lake City and Los Angeles where she left by freighter for Hong Kong and on to Kowloon. After return journey by way of China, Ceylon, India, Egypt, Spain and England. This was beautifully illustrated by colored slides.

Miss McIntosh wore a beautiful Chinese dress and displayed many articles collected on her travels from the Orient, India and European countries. Her thought provoking talk on the religion, dress and customs will be a pleasant memory for a long time.

Miss Josephine Tickell expressed thanks to Miss McIntosh for such a delightful evening.

After wishing everyone a happy holiday, Miss Kenny closed the meeting.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Florence V. — A "sponge" is after Mother.

Mrs. F. G. — I'm willing to share for the sake of company.

Florence V. — My father died two years ago, leaving my mother a small but adequate income. She owns her own home and has everything she needs for her own comfort.

Well, recently one of the older men in our community started coming around to visit Mother. He has been a widower for some ten years and everybody knows he has been kind in spoiling off his children during those years. Now he seems to have decided that my mother is a more willing victim and he wants to marry her.

My mother claims she is lonely, but she could live with me or my sister if she wanted to. Certainly that would be better than for her to be a servant to some man, cooking and cleaning for him while he sponges off her income.

I'm afraid Mother is getting a little too old to be able to size up situations very well.

Mrs. F. G. — I am 68 years old and in good health. My daughters seem to think I have one foot in the grave, but my doctor says I probably have a good 20 years in front of me. But even if it's only five years, I don't want to be a burden to my children. I want to contribute something in return. It is true that this man who wants to marry me is a bit of a sponger. He often has dinner at my home and hardly ever brings me anything or takes me out. But he is a very good talker. I really enjoy his company so much. The time passes very quickly and sometimes we just laugh ourselves sick.

The way I look at it, I don't have so much money that a real fortune-hunter will want to marry me for my money. The little I have I am willing to share with someone else for the sake of company.

My daughters think they are only their families ought to be enough for me, but I feel like an outsider when I'm with them. I feel closer to this man than to them.

The Council: Grown children often become alarmed when they see somebody "taking advantage of" their parents. They feel this is their special privilege and they resent intruders.

Older persons, however, often have more tolerant views of human conduct. They know that we all have much to give and receive from one another. A man or woman seeking a little economic betterment through marriage does not have to be regarded as a villain — if he or she is willing to contribute something in return. If such an individual has the capacity for giving affection, light in return. Only Mrs. F. G. can heartedness, moral support to his judge whether or not her friend is partner, he may actually be giving far more than he receives. A mate. generous person who doesn't make an obsession of protecting his pocketbook will recognize this and will be able to benefit by it.

It is possible that he doesn't have the money to take her out or bring her expensive gifts, but he should be showing his consideration for her in thoughtful gestures. We won't deny that some "sponging" are scoundrels. The Council finds ways of getting around those who have something to offer, but and desperation. She ought to consider her offer. but not plunge out of loneliness

A Cool Collation On Your Buffet Table

by Mary Moore

To call something made with macaroni a salad left me cold until I tasted Dee's. It did not occur to me that it could be served much as you would include a potato salad at a picnic or on a buffet table. Now I start to think about it makes me hungry.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Crumbed, Sliced Veal or Pork Kidneys; Boiled Sliced Italian Onions with Cheese Sauce; Corn-on-the-Cob; Garden Lettuce and Tomato Salad with French Dressing; Cantaloupe Halves filled with Blueberries; Coffee.

The two items for your consideration today are strictly summer stuff — and as far as I know new.

DEE'S MACARONI-CRUNCH SALAD

The almonds that this calls for are the only little extravagance. One-quarter cup each chopped chives or green onion tops and chopped blanched almonds, 1-2 cup each finely chopped inner celery, apples and cooked new peas, 1 cup each shredded raw carrot and cabbage, 1 1-2 cups (uncooked) macaroni, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 to 3-4 cup thick mayonnaise. Boil the macaroni in a large amount of salted water until just tender, then drain, rinse in cold water and drain again. Chill. When macaroni is cold add all remaining ingredients and carefully mix. Chill before serving garnished with delicate inner lettuce leaves and scored cucumber slices and sliced stuffed olives.

I have a feeling that the next little number will become a permanent item in your jellied meat file.

JELLIED HAM LOAF

One 2 1-2 lb. piece of smoked picnic shoulder or shank half of smoked ham, 1 large knuckle of veal, 3 cups water, 1 1-2 teaspoons monosodium glutamate, 2 whole cloves. Put all on to cook covered and simmer until meat falls from bones. Remove meat to tray where you can pick out bones and fat. Strain broth and cool it. When it is cold all more fat and measure broth. You will need 3 cups. Remove bones and any excess fat from the meat and force through coarse grinder. Soak 2 1-2 tablespoons gelatine in 1-4 cup pineapple juice and dissolve by stirring in 3-4 cup of boiling hot pineapple juice. Add to the broth and the ground meat in large bowl Mix thoroughly. Pour into square or oblong molds to chill until set, preferably overnight. This should be made a day in advance of using and is particularly appropriate for those of you who are expecting weekend guests. The loaf is stiff and slices excellently. A good accompaniment is mustard pickles and the above macaroni-crunch salad. We served a tossed green salad too with French dressing and homemade sesame rolls.

Ontario Golfers Set Sights On Second Triple Links Win

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's golfers trained their sights today on a third championship that would put this province far ahead of triple in the history of amateur golf in Canada.

The new prize is the Canadian Amateur title, but a swarm of foreign aspirants and a heavy seven-wide entry threatened to dethrone champion Nick Weslock of Windsor.

Ontario wrapped up two titles Saturday over the Scarboro Club course. The province's four-man interprovincial team won the Willingdon Cup by outshooting the title defenders from British Columbia and 16-year-old Bobby Panasuk of Windsor squeezed through to the Canadian junior title by one stroke.

WINS DESPITE PENALTY

Ontario won the team event, despite a four stroke penalty against Hugh Paterson of Toronto, with an aggregate medal score of 609 for 36 holes. British Columbia finished second with 611. The other teams were also far virtually from the start.

It was another Ontario-British Columbia battle for the junior championship. Bobby Cox, Jr., of Vancouver made a great bid for even the score at the final hole but his eight-foot putt for a birdie missed.

At Scarboro Sunday golfers by scores roamed the course in warm-up rounds for the week-long Canadian Amateur tournament. There were 81 entries from the United States and 51 from the Toronto area alone.

BIG EVERY LAST

All members of the provincial teams—and the juniors, too—were in the whopping entry list of 186. Qualifying rounds of 18 holes each were scheduled for today and Tuesday.

The 64 with low medal scores will start out in match play Wednesday.

Ontario finished the morning round in Saturday's team-competition with an aggregate score of 296. British Columbia had 300. Then Paterson belatedly reported an incident involving himself and the subsequent four-stroke penalty put Ontario's 18- ole score at 302.

Paterson's ball struck him after careening off a rock at the 12th hole, costing him two strokes. He failed to record it and was given another two-stroke penalty by the tournament committee for an improper score on his card.

The committee could have disqualified Paterson, wiping out Ontario's chances, but acted under a rule giving the committee discretionary powers in modifying a called-for disqualification. The committee felt a team's chances should not suffer to that extent.

OTHER INCIDENTS

Two other incidents cropped up. Elliot Godel of Montreal signed his score card which had the wrong score for the fourth hole of his morning round—four instead of a par three—although the total figure for the second was shown correctly. Godel was struck with the extra stroke.

Godel's caddy failed to lift the pin at the seventh hole in the afternoon round, after being directed to attend the pin by John Johnston of Vancouver. The caddy's blunder meant a two-stroke penalty against Johnston, who ac recorded it.

Paterson refused to be upset by the morning round situation and came back in the afternoon with a two-over-par 73. His total, including the four-stroke penalty, was 152. Garry Cowan of Kitchener shot 147, lowest score of the day, and was matched by Bob Kidd of Vancouver.

Weslock shot 148 and Gordie Ball of Toronto 156.

REST WELL BEHIND

Almost finished third with an aggregate 622. Then came Manitoba with 635, Quebec 637, Nova Scotia 648, Saskatchewan 657 and New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island 658.

The junior title struggle went into the last nine and to the final hole before it was decided. Panasiuk had a one-stroke lead after the morning round and led by two strokes after 27 holes.

Cox gave up another stroke at the 10th in the afternoon but got two back at the 12th with a par four to Panasiuk's six. Panasiuk moved two strokes ahead at the 15th with a par. Panasiuk got a break at the 16th where he hooked and his ball bounced on the fairway. The margin remained the same to the 18th, a par four, Panasiuk took a five and Cox missed with his birdie putt for a three.

When Nick Weslock sets out today in defence of his title he could bring Ontario its third successive title in the three-in-one tournament. In 1956 Kitchener's Cowan won the junior Canadian title, Ontario the team title and Moe Norman of Kitchener the Canadian amateur championship.

Except for Weslock, there is only one former champion in the field—Dick Chapman of Osterville, Mass. Chapman won in 1949 at Saint John, N.B., over Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro.

Chapman and Farley are drawn in the same threesome today. Chapman's son, Dick Jr., is also in the field. Another entrant is Walter Hagen, Jr., son of the famous American golfer.

BEAT AUSTRIA

WINNIPEG (CP) — An underdog Manitoba all-star soccer team Saturday night scored an upset 3-2 victory over the Austrian club, Admira Wien. It was the first Manitoba success over a touring side since 1924. It was also the second loss against three wins for the Austrians in their seven-game Canadian tour.

Leafs Sweep Four Games From Royals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Montreal Royals, Cinderella team of the International League this year, had their plans for a runaway pennant race come to an abrupt halt over the weekend.

After winning the opener of a twi-night doubleheader with the second - place Toronto Maple Leafs Friday night, Royals led the league by seven lengths.

Then the Leafs caught fire and swept the remaining four games, Sunday before a turnout of 13,140, the Maple Leafs beat the league leaders 7-4 and 2-1.

In the opener the Leafs broke a 4-4 tie in the sixth inning on singles by Rocky Nelson, Archie Wilson and Bobby Johnson, and added a pair of insurance runs in the seventh. Ernie Broglio fanned eight in posting his first victory in the nightcap. Sandy Amoros repeated the notice Montreal offence with a three-run homer in the first game and a solo job in the second.

Havana Sugar Kings swept a pair from le Miami Marlins 3-1 and 2-1, Buffalo Bisons belted Rochester Red Wings 11-0 after losing earlier 5-3 and Columbus Jets blanked Richmond Virginians 1-0.

In Saturday games Toronto defeated Montreal 2-1, Buffalo took Rochester 5-3, Richmond beat Columbus 15-10 and Havana edged Miami 3-2.

Raul Sanchez and Rodolfo Arias turned in brilliant mound performances in beating the Marlins. Sanchez pitched a one-hitter in the opener and batted in all of his team's runs with a two-run double and a squeeze bunt. Arias scattered five hits in the nightcap.

The Bisons, led by Jack Phillips' three-run home run, blasted Rochester pitching for 14 hits. Cal Browning went the route in the first game for the Red Wings although he allowed 11 hits. He now has credit for Rochester's last four victories.

Joe Gibbon won a tight pitching duel with Richmonds' Till Bethel as his battery mate Dick Rand singled home the only run in the ninth. Gibbon allowed only four hits and Bethel five. But Bethel allowed three of them in the ninth and it cost him the game.

Bunning Blanks Bosox With Sparkling No-Hitter

Chavez Ravine may still be a dream but the Dodgers have won one fight. For the first time since May 11, Los Angeles is out of last place.

The Dodgers had a dozen chances to escape the National League cellar before they finally made it. And they didn't leave much margin for error—only one percentage point.

Los Angeles and Pittsburgh are tied for sixth and Cincinnati is last, thanks to the percentage table. Each is nine games behind league-leading San Francisco in the won-and-lost department.

FOUR-HIT SHUTOUT

Johnny Podres won his ninth in 10 home starts for Dodgers Sunday, shutting out Philadelphia 6-0 on four hits.

In the meantime, th.. Giants, who were supposed to be knocking around 48th or seventh place, were sitting pretty along in front. They routed Bob Friend with five runs in the first inning and coniie.ed on to down Pittsburgh 7-3, protecting their half game lead over Milwaukee.

Milwaukee clung to the Giants' heels by sweeping a twin bill from a 4-2 victory over Chicago. It was Warren Spahn's 15th win. Lew Burdette, Joe Adcock homered for the Braves, Cal Neeman and Dale Long for the Cubs.

Sam Jones struck out 13 Cincinnati batters as St. Louis dropped the Redlegs into the basement 3-1. It was the Cards' seventh victory in eight, breaking a seven-game losing slump.

In Saturday's play, the Dodgers beat the Phils, 6-2 while St. Louis shut out Cincinnati 1-0, Milwaukee defeated Pittsburgh 5-4 and the Braves defeated Chicago Cubs 3-2.

Steve Bilko's one - run triple Sunday got the Dodgers away last against Curt Simmons, who gave up 16 hits in 7 1-3 innings. Podres threw only 99 pitches, seven of which were strikes recorded to 10-8.

Pasi Heil, Minnesota's former All-America halfback, won his second for Giants with relief pitching gave the White Sox a 4-3 victory over Detroit. Billy Goodman had four hits in the doubleheader to take over the batting lead at .337.

Catcher J. W. Porter of Cleveland tied an American League record with four passed balls during the game with Baltimore.

On Saturday, Kansas City took a piece of the Yanks, dropping them 6-4. Two other games were all one-run decisions, Baltimore stopping Cleveland 3-2, Boston defeating Detroit 4 and Chicago winning over Washington by the same score.

But the weekend's big excitement was in Boston, where Bunning spaced seven singles and fed Sox winning streak with his fine pitching. The last no-hitter thrown against Boston was by Allie Reynolds of the Yanks in 1951. As fate would have it, Ted Williams, who made the last out that day, was the final out against Bunning who walked two and hit one. He faced only 30 batsmen.

BERRA RETURNS

Berra played right field for the Yanks in both games as 're returned to the lineup after a layoff due to a hand injury. His homer scored Enos Slaughter with had gotten for his fourth hit. Jerry Lumpe's three-run homer off Jim Perry in the second gave up only five hits in winning his 12th.

Six weeks ago, Detroit's Jim Bunning couldn't get anybody out. But he showed that he's back to last year's form with a sparkling no-hit, no - run game against Boston's sluggers at Fenway Park Sunday.

The home run ball haunted Jim in the early months of the year. He threw six in his first three starts, including a grand slammer. In his first 11 games he allowed 11 homers. Then he went on a strikeout spree.

He fanned 12 Red Sox June 15, 11 New York Yankees June 20, 10 Yanks July 16 and 12 Red Sox July 20. With his total of 186 strikeouts puts him ahead of New York's Bob Turley for the American League lead.

Despite Bunning's magic, Detroit lost ground over the weekend in the case of the Yankees as did every other club in the league. The Tigers are behind Bunning 3-0 but lost the second game to Boston 5-2 as Ike Delock and Don Mossi combined for a no-hit record to 10-0 and 13-0 over a two-year span.

HOMERS IN 10th

Yogi Berra hit a two-run homer in the 10th inning of a second game thriller, his second straight shutout as the Yanks took two from Kansas City, 4-2 and 3-0. As a result, New York leads the league by 11 games.

Berra's ninth - inning homer in the second game gave Whitey Ford a 1-0 victory over Chicago. Dick Donovan's five-hit pitching gave the White Sox a 4-3 victory over Detroit.

Joe Ginsberg came through with a single with the bases loaded in the 10th inning for Baltimore's 3-2 edge over Cleveland. Hoyt Wilhelm and Bob Nieman with a triple, Cleveland walked Gene Woodling and Bob Nieman intentionally put Ginsberg crossed up the strategy with his winning single. Arnold Portocarrero was fifth straight, finishing up with 7 1-3 hitless innings.

On Saturday, Kansas City took a piece of the Yanks, dropping them 6-4. Two other games were all one-run decisions, Baltimore stopping Cleveland 3-2, Boston defeating Detroit 4 and Chicago winning over Washington by the same score.

South Hastings Baseball League

Foxboro backed the five - hit pitching of Lorne Cronkwright with perfect ball afield Saturday night as they blanked Shannonville 8-0 in a South Hastings Baseball League fixture.

The winners plated single runs in the first second and sixth frames while finishing strong with five in the eighth.

Meanwhile Cronkwright scattered five singles to earn his shutout. He blazed third strikes by 11 batters.

Gerald Hill toiled for Shannonville, giving up 11 safeties and whiffing six batters.

Reynolds sparked the Foxboro attack with a double and three singles while Cronkwright helped his own cause with a brace of doubles. Gough chipped in with a double and single.

Fuller touched Cronkwright's slants for two of Shannonville's singles with the others going to Hill, Dafoe and Reid.

On the Tracks

NEW YORK (CP) — Nearctic, a 22-to-1 shot from Canada—considered so light that he was put in as a field entry—captured the $50,000 added Michigan mile Saturday and set a track record in a runaway race at Detroit.

Elsewhere on U.S. tracks, Eddie Arcaro triumphed on Gallorette in the $110,500 Monmouth Park handicap at Oceanport, N.J. Round Table won the $97,100 Laurance Armour memorial handicap in Chicago and Straight Boy achieved his first stakes victory in taking first money at the $115,900 Westerner at Hollywood Park.

Nearctic, ridden by jockey Ben Sorensen and owned by Windfield Farms Limited of Toronto, upset the favored Swoon's Son and 12 other horses.

Swoon's Son never was in contention and finished well out of the running. Shoerullah was second and My Night Out, 1957 winner of the Michigan Mile, was third.

HAS WON $40,765

The Canadian horse, a four-year-old brown colt, won $40,765 for his owners. Nearctic's time was 1:36.1 over a fast track. 1-5 of one second better than the track record set in the 1956 running by Nonnie Joe.

Nearctic returned $44.40, $17 and $8.80 in capturing his sixth victory in eight starts this year. Sorensen was paired in the field with Cheri Belle. The winner carried 114 pounds, 15 less than top-weighted Swoon's Son.

The victory makes Nearctic an early favorite for next Saturday's Michigan sweepstakes, another $50,000 added event over a mile and one-sixteenth. The track has offered a bonus of $25,000 to a horse winning both events.

FORT ERIE (CP)—Silver Ship, a good three-year-old colt owned by Gordon F. Hall of Toronto, scored his sixth victory of the season as he won the $5,000 Rosewall Stakes at Fort Erie Jockey Club Saturday. In other matches, Rosewall defeated Pancho Segura winning Mrs. Lond Rosewall, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 in doubles.

12,371 Saturday at the Fort

Silver Ship, which hasn't finished out of the money in his eight starts in 1958, boosted his season's earnings to $22,565.

Six horses went to the post in the Blind City, a run of ½ furlongs, with Yummy Mummy finishing second and Frank Dill third. Silver Ship was the hot favorite with the first Saturday crowd of Fort Erie's 42 - day, summer meeting and paid $3.10 to win.

Saturday's daily double combination of Town Line and Rabbit Mouth, winners of the first two races, paid $282.50.

HOAD BEATS TREABERT

LEEDS, England (AP)—Australian Lew Hoad defeated American Tony Trabert, 6-4, 9-7 when the Jack Kramer professional tennis circus came to this city Sunday. In other matches, Rosewall defeated Pancho Segura winning Mrs. Lond Rosewall, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 in doubles.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Wee Irish won the featured stake trot at Blue Bonnets Raceway Sunday, trotting the mile in two minutes, four seconds for a purse of $10,000 with $1,700 added.

Owner George McLear of Hammond, N.Y., drove the five-year-old bay gelding, which paid $4 backers $16.30, $6.20 and $3.10.

HAMBURG, NY. (AP) — A designer of rocket missiles introduced a jet-age sulky to harness racing at Buffalo Raceway Saturday.

Veteran horsemen gazed in astonishment as Levi Harner wheeled out for a workout seated in a rig t at consisted of two wheels, a cross bar and a single shaft connected to the horse's back.

The horse, Baldwin Hanover, ticked off a half-mile in 1:01, the best training performance of his career. The object of the sulky, the first completely new one since 1892, is to cut down wind resistance, said its designer Joe King.

Track, Swim Records Go In Opening Empire Games

Canadians Horn in on Act With Games-Crashing Marks; Aussies Take 3 Gold Medals

By Jack Sullivan
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — Welshmen, who love to let an orifice as anyone in the British Isles, must have thought for a while that the greyhounds were back at Cardiff Arms Park Saturday.

Dog racket has been kicked out of the stadium while the British Empire Games are on, but there are suspicions that the pandemical hare still was in operation as Commonwealth athletes galloped around the cinder track in times never before approached in the 26-year history of this sport festival.

They burned up the cinder track in reckless fashion and the unrestless pursuit of record-breaking speeds lapped over into the sizzling Empire Pool swimming events.

In all, track records in the men's 100-yard dash, six-mile run and the 440 hurdles were bettered 13 times, leaving the only marks in the 220 and 880 yard dashes, the men's half - mile and the women's 100 - yard dash. The swimming mob continued its orgy, busting out with best-games times in all but four races and a world record in the women's 440 free-style relay.

CANADIANS JOIN IN

Even Canada, which has had a tough time keeping up with the pace of world athletes for years and their dedicated ambitions to jump higher or throw things farther than anyone in the field events, got in on the act with gusto, setting records in four events.

The Canadians didn't take any of the eight gold medals at stake during the day-night proceedings including the relaying, but they spread places on the victory rostrum with one silver, one second and four bronze for third.

Australia led the medallists with three gold medals—two for swimming and one for the six-mile run—while Jamaica won two in the 100-yard dash and high jump for men, England captured another and in the men's javelin and team foil and New Zealand took the weaving shotput.

In the unofficial point standings based on a 5-4-3-2-1 point system for the first six in each final, England was first with 42 points, Australia had 40 and Canada was third with 31.

SHORTS COST HIM MEDAL

An recalcitrant pair of shorts lost Canada another bronze medal in the single high jump.

Ken Money of Sarnia, Ont., who finished eighth with a leap of six feet six inches, watched in disbelief from the pit as the crossbar tumbled and fell on his third and final attempt at 6-7.

"My trunks brushed the bar," the 20-year-old RCAF jet pilot explained later in an interview. "I would have come in third instead of eighth except for that, but I'm not really disappointed. I figured I did my best."

At the scenic North Wales resort of Lake Padarn, the four-and eight-oared crews of the University of British Columbia dominated their preliminary heats. Both the four with coxswain and the eight raced to victory in the fastest times in their events and earned berths in Tuesday's finals.

The double sculls entry of John Pearce and Larry Stephan of Toronto and Tony Biernacki of Ottawa in the single sculls trailed in their heats but got another chance to survive in today's repechages.

DAY OFF FOR RUNNERS

The track and field athletes have a free day but records are likely to go by the boards when the cyclists take over in the afternoon in the heats of the 1,000-metre sprint and the 4,000-metre individual pursuit and the swimmers go after gold medals in the men's, and women's 110-yard freestyle and the, women's springboard diving.

The Aussies are likely to fill the first three places in each freestyle — and all in record times. Irene MacDonald of Hamilton takes a comfortable lead into the final ball of the diving and she is favored to give Canada its first gold medal of the games.

The slaughter among the sprinters was reminiscent of the 1954 Games in Vancouver when competitors, particularly Australians and Englishmen, forced an almost complete revamping job of the books.

While the first round of the women's 100 yards and the heats of the 880 were the only ones of the eight track and field events Saturday to escape the record-breakers, they likely will be shattered Tuesday in the showdown rounds.

AUSSIE GIRLS AMAZE

The amazing Aussie women, Dawn Fraser, Sandra Morgan, Lorraine Crapp and Alva Colquhoun, clipped 1.9 seconds off the world mark in the freestyle relay, covering the distance in 4:17.4.

When they finished, they were 40 yards ahead of Canada's silver medal runners-up—Sara Barber, Brantford, Margaret Iwasaki of Vancouver, Gladys Priestley of Verdun, Que., and Susan Seaton of West Vancouver—who made it in 4:30.9, 3.8 seconds better than the Games record of 4:38.9, established by South Africa four years ago.

All five track and field finals decided Saturday were won by record-breaking performances.

Keith Gardner of Jamaica, who won the 120-yard hurdles at Vancouver in a record-smashing 14.2, whipped a classy field in the 440 yard dash in 48.4 seconds, another record. He nipped Tommy Robinson, only competitor from the Bahamas, at the wire by inches and third-place Mike Agostini of Vancouver by a stride.

Robinson and Agostini were clocked in 48.5, equalling the record established first by Johnny Treloar of Australia in 1950, matched by Agostini in 1954 and beaten by both Gardner and Robinson in preliminary rounds but with times of 9.5.

The top three men in the six-mile, javelin and women's shotput finals all cracked Games records, and the 440-yard hurdles best-mark took a beating four separate times with the final still to come.

Hans Moks of Toronto broke the old javelin mark of 224 feet 9½ with a heave of 231 feet and still had to settle for third place behind England's Colin Snideman, whose throw went 233 feet 10½ inches.

Toronto's Jackie MacDonald Gelling won another bronze medal when, surprised, even though she broke the four-year-old record of Yvette Williams of New Zealand by three inches with her best effort of 46 feet ¼ inch. Another New Zealander, Valerie Shiner, topped that with a winning throw of 51 feet ½ inch.

GRIFFIN RUNS AGAIN TEST

The 440-yard hurdles final Tuesday promises a duel between defending champion David Lean of Australia and South Africa's Gert Potgieter, the world record holder. Lean improved on Lean's 1954 mark of 52.3 seconds in their semi-final meeting with Potgieter eventually settling it at 51.1.

George Shepherd of Port Colborne reached the final but finished more than two seconds behind the South African in their semi-final. The Canadian won his heat in 53.2 to take second place one second of the Games mark.

Coach Bob Adams of Saskatoon said his biggest thrill was watching Shepherd win the preliminary. "Considering the fact that he has been running less than a year and hurdling three months I think it was terrific," Adams said.

He also was happy about Moks' performance but was a little disappointed with the girl sprinters who didn't advance.

STILL GOING TO QUIT

Mrs. Gelling, the blonde schoolteacher, said she didn't expect to finish better than third but was hopeful she might have "an exceptionally good day" and get second. She insisted that she still was going to retire from active competition after the Games.

Canada sent three entries into the men's and women's freestyle swimming and only two advanced to the final—Miss Barber and Miss Iwasaki in the women's.

In the men's 880-yard freestyle relay Canada took third place behind Australia and runner-up Scotland. Jon Konrads, Brian Chapman, John Smith and Gary Chapman won in 8:33.4, knocking off more than 14 seconds from the Games record.

The Canadian wrestlers won only two of six bouts when Ken Boese of Kitchener, remaining unbeaten in the welterweight division and Ralph Capperon of Vancouver winning one of his two bouts.

Canada's foils team was eliminated early, losing to England, the ultimate gold medallists, and New Zealand.

Detroit Police Win Over Toronto's Finest

TORONTO (CP) — Detroit police had 'an easy time in thoroughly whipping Toronto police athletes at the 76th annual Metropolitan Toronto Police Field Day Saturday.

The Detrollers, who last year were edged by a Toronto crew by more than made up for the loss by getting 104 points to Toronto's 50.

After a Detroit tug-of-war team rapidly disposed of a Toronto team in two consecutive pulls, the Detrollers counted up their winnings: 12 firsts, 11 seconds and 5 thirds.

Toronto, without Stan Raike in the lineup, managed seven firsts, six second and six thirds. Raike, who last year got six firsts and a second for Toronto, is in Cardiff, Wales, with the Canadian track and field team in the British Empire Games.

With top athletes at the Games, no records were set.

Closest was Bruce Andrews, a 19-year-old Toronto policeman running for Guelph Legion, who ran the juvenile 880 in 1:57.9, eight-tenths of a second faster than the listed Canadian open and native record.

Another close mark went by the boards because the Canadian National Exhibition track doesn't have a permanent curbing.

Softball Results

Four changes have been made in the City Commercial Softball league schedule for the next week because of the Canadian National Vandervoort.

Tonight's game between Mead Johnson and the Bankers has been postponed until a later date. Meanwhile, Ontario Hydro and the Sport Centre will play a postponed game at Peter Charles School with first place at stake.

Another postponed game has been slated for tomorrow evening when Circle T.V. tangles with Steplers Adanacs at King George's School. The final change finds Sport Centre and Circle T.V. clashing in a postponed fixture on Tuesday, July 29 at Prince Charles Park.

Following is the league standing including all games played to date.

Dow Finsterwald Nips Snead To Win Pro Golfers Crown

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.
HAVERTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, a thoughtful and articulate young golf champion, doesn't think he's a great golfer or even an unusually good one. As a result, he doesn't let it get him down when he finishes second or even lower in a tournament. He's probably the most relaxed player on the pro circuit.

"I feels very strange to be first," Dow grinned after winning the 50th Professional Golfers' Association championship with four superb rounds of 67-72-70-67-276 over the lightly-trapped Llanerch Country Club course.

"I don't feel that I played less conservatively, I feel as if I played much the same as I've always done."

Although Dow had every reason to go all out in the final round when he and Sammy Snead, the old master, hooked up in a final round duel, he insisted it wasn't boldness or gambling that beat Snead to his knees.

HITTING BOLDLY

Close observers among the 14,000 spectators that swarmed over the hilly 6,731-yard course thought otherwise. To them Finsterwald appeared to be hitting out boldly from the tee drive and trying to sink every putt while Snead turned cautious.

Finsterwald, a 28 - year - old golfer who has been touted as a circuit sleeper since 1951, was the runner up to Lionel Hebert in the match play PGA event in Dallas this year. Since then friends have been telling him he could have won with more boldness.

Dow, believing he knows his game better than anyone else, refused to worry. He still wasn't worried Saturday night when he was two strokes behind Snead and one behind Bill Casper at the tournament's three - quarter mark.

He spoiled Snead's master stroke Sunday on the second hole of what turned into a head-to-head struggle, caught him at the seventh—and finished the tough front nine at 4-under-par 31. Lagrach course with a 31—the best score of the tournament.

Dow's one second with a 276 total while Snead placed third with an even par 280. Jackie Burke, the 1956 PGA champ, came in fourth with 281, then there was a big gap to the 1956 pride of the national open champion Tommy Bolt, Julius Boros and Ray Hebert. The defending champion, Lionel Hebert, wound up 15 strokes behind at 291.

The victory added $3,500 to Dow's bulging bankroll. So far this year he has collected about $20,000.

Bill Ezinicki, former National Hockey League star with Toronto Maple Leafs, scored 76-76-76-72—298 and tied with three others for 16th spot. The Winnipeg native, who now plays out of Kofield, Mass., collected $110.

No Hits, 2 Out, Williams Up Bunning's Problem in Ninth

BOSTON (AP) — Righthander Jim Bunning of Detroit Tigers basked in the glow of a no-hitter today after overcoming Ted Williams' superstition and a tough park for his shape of baseball history.

He faced 30 men as he defeated Boston Red Sox 3-0 Sunday in the first game of a double-header. He walked Gene Stephens twice and hit Jackie Jensen with a pitch.

But it was Williams, 1957 American League batting champion, who haunted Bunning's thoughts as he neared his goal.

"The big thing I had on my mind going out for the last inning was I didn't want to walk anybody," Bunning said. "My thought was I just mustn't get anyone on so Williams could come up and hit a homer."

Williams had beaten Detroit with a two-run, 12th-inning blast Saturday.

TWO WERE DOWN

Bunning struck out Stephens on the second pitch, walked Jensen, then fanned Ted Lepcio on a slow high curve and there were two down in the ninth.

He had struck out 12.

Next Williams.

First pitch was wide.

"Then I threw him a slider," Bunning said. "He hit it good but sailed into right field I know it wasn't hit that good."

Al Kaline grabbed it and Bunning, a tall, 26-year-old Kentuckian, was mobbed by teammates.

Williams also was the final out the last time an opponent threw a no-hitter at the Red Sox.

That was Sept. 20, 1951. Allie Reynolds, former fireballer with New York Yankees, did the job then, getting Williams to pop foul to catcher Yogi Berra.

BUT HE KNEW

Bunning said he was after the no-hitter from the sixth inning on and while his teammates refused to defy tradition by mentioning it, he let them know he knew.

"There's all the more credit to Bunning because he pitched it in this park," catcher Red Wilson said. "It's a rough park for a pitcher."

Bunning is only the third man to throw a no-hitter on Boston's Fenway Park in 47 years. The others were Walter Johnson (1920) and Ted Lyons (1926).

Facing power righthanders like Jensen, Frank Malzone and Dick Gernert levelling at the inviting left field wall, Bunning was remarkably accurate at keeping his pitches low andout side.

CHAMONIX, France (AP)—Olympic skier Marycelle Agnel, 21, was killed Saturday while climbing Mont Blanc, Her guide rope gave way. Also killed was Pierre Ishkand, Algerian Maurice Claret, and an unidentified cousin.

Senior Baseball

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The rapidly-improving Guelph Merchants climbed into third place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League Saturday on the booming bat of catcher Art O'Connor.

O'Connor blasted a one - run homer in the 12th inning to break up a contest between the Merchants and the Thomas Eight-ers and give the Guelph squad an 8-7 victory. It was his second round-tripper of the night. In the fifth he unloaded a two-run blast.

Kitchener' - Waterloo Dutchmen lost an opportunity to move over with the leading Oakville Oaks when they dropped a 5-1 decision to London Majors. The loss leaves them a full game off the pace.

Minor Baseball

The Giants took over occupation of first place in the peewee division on Saturday when they handed Parkdale an 8-0 defeat.

Bob Boyle, the Giants' mainstay, turned back 14 via the strikeout route, while allowing only two hits.

Camera Starts Probe Into Games Sprint

CARDIFF (CP)—A controversy over the timing of Saturday's 100-yard dash final—the fastest race ever run in Europe — was bubbling up today as the British Empire Games resumed after a Sunday layoff.

Keith Gardner of Jamaica won Saturday's dash and was timed officially by five stopwatches in 9.4 seconds. This clipped the existing Games mark by one-fifth of a second and was only one-tenth of a second off the world mark.

Second-place Tom Robinson of the Bahamas was clocked at 9.6 seconds, as was third-place Mike Agostini of Vancouver.

But a photo-finish picture, used to settle judges but not recognized in international athletics for timing purposes, showed Gardner breasting the tape a scant six inches ahead of Robinson, with Agostini another yard back.

Track experts said that if Robinson really was one-fifth of a second behind Gardner he should have been beaten by about two yards. The electric timing device attached to the finish camera clocked Gardner at 9.6 seconds.

Gardner's time will go forward as a British and Games record —but the photo-finish picture with the times on it will be sent to the rattlybag committee.

Electrical timing of races will come up for discussion at the International Athletic Congress in Stockholm next month, prior to the European championships.

TAKES DAVIS CUP ROUND

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina qualified to meet the United States in the final round of the Davis Cup's American zone tennis competition Sunday when Enrique Morea and Salvador Sorino defeated Israel's Eleazar Davidman and Arieh Avidan in the doubles. The scores were 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. The victory, followed the Argentines' sweep of Saturday's singles matches.

MAKE SLOW PROGRESS

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) —The Chicago-to-Mackinac yacht race fleet made slow progress Sunday night with the aid of only a light wind on Lake Michigan. During the day the 57-foot yawl Sabre of Sheboygan, Wis., scratch boat of the fleet of 78 yachts, was reported enjoying a 15-mile lead off Manitowoc, Wis.

First finishers are expected some time today.

TWO PLAYERS HURT

SARNIA (CP) — Two Sarnia Golden Bears football players were injured in the team's first scrimmage Sunday. Tackle Don Dabanovich, 280 pounds, suffered a fractured left leg and University of Michigan centre Ray Wine came up with a leg injury. The Ontario Rugby Football Union club is working out for its Aug. 8 game with Calgary Stampeders.

'The Ice Palace' Filmland's Biggest Tribute to Alaska

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The screen's biggest tribute to Alaska is being whipped up by a husband-and-wife team who admit they are unabashedly in love with the 49th state.

Jet and Jo Napleon, a writing and producing pair she also directs are preparing the film version of Edna Ferber's latest novel, The Ice Palace. They went to Alaska to get background for the film, intending to stay two weeks. They stayed six.

"And still we only touched the surface," said Jet.

"The place is fascinating—fascinating!" added his wife.

The Napoleons went up there to get the feeling of the place and also to find some action sequences for the picture. The book is more of a clash of ideologies—pro and con statehood—and we needed some interesting scenes photographically.

"We found all we needed and then some. We went all over Alaska by dog sled, plane and boat. We visited Eskimo villages and DEW line installations (radar stations for warning of air attacks) and even went polar bear hunting. We came back big Alaska boosters."

Among their observations of state No. 49:

"Everybody knows what is going on. We won't up unannounced. We didn't intend to talk to anyone Seattle, because the book is somewhat anti-Seattle and we didn't want to start any problems. That is, Miss Ferber argued that the interests in Seattle — controlled Alaska, depleted the salmon by using traps that are outlawed everywhere else and avoided paying taxes in Alaska.

"We talked to just two people in Seattle and the word went everywhere. At each stop, they knew who we were and what we were doing up there.

"Some Alaskans think that statehood will solve all the problems. It won't. The best hope for Alaska is in developing the tourist trade. The scenery is unbelievable. Alaska could be a great tourist attraction if they had adequate housing and transportation for visitors.

"Fires are a constant problem. All the houses are constructed, the wood is dried out and the heating is oil. When a fire starts, not much can be done because the fire truck can't start and the river is under four feet of ice."

The Napoleons intend to shoot much of "the ice palace" in Alaska, probably starting next winter. They realize there will be much to get other Alaskan films on the screen, but they're not concerned with the competition.

"We've got the big one," they say.

GIFT FOR RCOC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps has received a gift from the Indian Army Ordnance Corps commemorating its assistance in maintenance detachments of the two countries in the United Nations Emergency Force in Egypt. The gift is a silver plaque of the Indian corps badge mounted on a mahogany base.

PLAN BABY MOON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Navy reported Friday it hopes to launch four 20-inch Vanguard satellites and put a 10-pound baby moon into orbit before the end of the year. With its final rocket stage, the orbiting body of the final Vanguard launching would weigh 100 pounds the navy said. It gave no dates for the launchings.

Canuck Boxers Win Two at Empire Games

CARDIFF (CP) — Canada's boxers made an auspicious start in British Empire Games competition today, winning the first two bouts on the card.

Walter Henry, the Hong Kong-born flyweight who now lives in Orillia, Ont., scored a technical knockout over Les Sheather of Australia, who retired after the second round.

Bantamweight Kai Yip of Lethbridge, Alta., outpointed John Allen of Ghana over the three-round distance. Yip had plenty of trouble with the Ghanaian and finished with a cut over his right eye. Allen was penalized for ducking too low in the second round.

Will Continue To Fish Within Limits

SCHEVENINGEN, Netherlands (Reuters) — Fishing vessel owners from seven countries announced today they will continue to fish within Iceland's new 12-mile territorial waters limit—but outside the old four-mile limit—after Sept. 1.

The declaration was contained in a resolution passed when the owners met here. The ban on fishing Iceland's June 30 announcement that she will extend her fishing limit from four to 12 miles.

The resolution, details of which were released today, has been placed before the governments of Britain, Denmark, Holland, Belgium, France, Spain and West Germany. It asks the governments to protect the owners' fishing activities off Iceland, possibly by co-ordinated efforts.

The resolution was announced on July 4 that armed escorts would protect British trawlers if necessary.

Martin Assails Govt. Purchase Of German Cars

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Martin, former Liberal health minister, Saturday criticized government purchases" by the federal government of automobiles from West Germany at a time of high unemployment in the Canadian automobile industry.

Mr. Martin, whose Essex East constituency includes the auto city centre of Windsor, said in the Commons that all cars for government use should be bought from Canadian automobile producers. He said he knew the government could justify purchases from Germany when considerations of automobile workers are out of work in this country."

Trade Minister Gordon said Canadian companies receive first consideration when all auto purchases by the government.

PRINCESS

During the boat ride, the princess seemed to be out of the minimum of security officers around her.

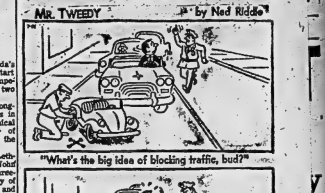
Several times she took the controls of the cabin cruiser. There was no sign of any boat disappearing her.

More than 140 extra RCMP officers were brought in to supplement the Kelowna detachment during Elizabeth's visit there. At least 60 officers were assigned to duty around the 3-acre estate of Summergrove Farm, Mr. Smith's home.

Because the strict security regulations were recent terrorist bombings, Scout Leader Pearl Som Doukhobors. Five Freedonlanders were arrested last week and charged with conspiring to cause explosions.

POLICE LIST TIP

Since that time, unofficial sources says almost every Doukhobor in the area has disappeared. It was learned Sunday, however, that police received a tip that about 100 members of the sect were moving to the Kelowna area.



The princess Sunday attended divine services at St. Michael and All Angels' Church. Reverend D. S. Catchpole, Anglican Archdeacon of the Okanagan, officiated.

For the service the princess wore a plain, polka-dot silk dress, bordered with white braid and a white panama straw hat.

Her gloves, purse and shoes completed her ensemble. Her only jewelry was a diamond clip on her dress and a diamond bracelet.

WEEPS DURING TRIAL

TORONTO (CP) — A man who surrendered to police because a five-year-old crime was troubling his conscience was sentenced Friday to 22 months. Leo DesRoches 35, pleaded guilty to a charge of indecently assaulting a 6-year-old woman. DesRoches, undergoing psychiatric examination, he surrendered to police, wept hysterically throughout his trial.

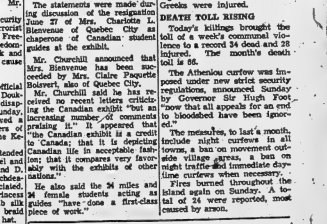
Conservative MP Calls Canadian Exhibit Failure

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Churchill has described the Canadian exhibit at the Brussels International Exhibition as "a credit to Canada," but a fellow Progressive Conservative MP says it is a failure. . . .

Canadian exhibit "is not a success," J. C. Van Horne, Restigouche-Madawaska, said in the Commons Saturday during debate on trade department estimates.



"Canada is not doing a proper job as far as our participation in this fair is concerned," said Mr. Van Horne, who visited the fair recently.

The statements were made during discussion of the resignation June 27 of Mrs. Charlotte L. Bienvenue of Quebec City as chaperone of Canadian students at the exhibit.

Mr. Churchill announced that Mrs. Bienvenue has been succeeded by Mrs. Roger Paquet Boisvert, also of Quebec City.

Mr. Churchill said he has received no recent letters criticizing the Canadian exhibit "but an increasing number, of complaints praising it." It appeared that the Canadian exhibit is a credit to Canada; that it is depicting Canadian life in acceptable fashion; that it compares very favorably with the exhibits of other nations."

He also said the 24 miles and 24 female students acting as guides "have done a first-class piece of work."

Weekend Toll In Cyprus Is 16

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Two Turks and one Greek-Cypriot were found shot to death today, raising to 16 the weekend death toll in the island's Greek-Turkish violence.

The two Turks, both shot through the head, were found near the British military government of Dhekelia, southeast Cyprus.

The Greek, a shepherd, was killed in a field near Athenou village, 15 miles south of Nicosia. An immediate curfew was imposed on the village.

Curfew also was imposed on the west coast town of Paphos today following bomb-throwing incidents in which five Greeks were injured.

DEATH TOLL RISING

Today's killings brought the toll of a week's communal violence to a record 34 dead and 28 injured. The month's death toll is 86.

The Athenou curfew was imposed under new strict security regulations, announced Sunday by Governor Sir Hugh Foot. . . "report that all speech or act to bloodshed have been ignored."

The measures, to last a month, include night curfews in all towns, a ban on movement outside village areas, a ban on night traffic and immediate dayline curfews when necessary.

Fires burned throughout the island again on Sunday. A total of 24 were reported, most caused by arson.

Puss'n Boots—made from fresh, whole fish

These fresh-caught fish are cooked from Canadian coastal waters into sanitary casseries, where the whole fish is processed into Puss 'n Boots Cat Food.

...gives your cat Sparkling health and beauty

THE secret of a cat's health and disposition is in its feeding. According to Nutrition, the best single food you can give your cat is whole fish. Not just any part or scrap of fish. There's an important scientific reason for that word "whole". It's really an exciting story for any cat owner who wants a healthy, contented and good-looking pet.

Only Whole Fish has Life Balance

In a living fish there's a balance of those mysterious elements which nature uses to sustain a healthy, thriving organism. When whole fish is prepared for cat food, those elements are retained intact, just as they were in the living fish. The filets supply rich proteins. The liver and glands yield precious vitamins. The bone structure provides calcium and phosphorus. Even serious parts of the fish come iron, vitamins, calcium, manganese and all those vital food elements which nature uses to sustain full vitality. That's why cat food made from parts or scraps of fish is not enough. While fish alone is not enough, something valuable, your cat needs all those nutrients, in nature's own life balance. Only the whole fish supplies them all.

Puss'n Boots is made from Whole Fish

Our business is cat food. Puss 'n Boots is not made from parts of fish or scraps. We process whole fish, with nature's balance of nutritive elements intact as they were in the living fish. Valuable cereals are added for flavor and all round nutrition. You couldn't duplicate the food value in Puss 'n Boots whole fish'Even if you were to endless trouble buying and cooking complicated meals for your cat. But all you have to do is open a can of pressure-cooked, ready-to-serve Puss 'n Boots.

YOU CAN GIVE yourself a pleasant surprise by feeding Puss 'n Boots regularly to your cat. In three weeks or less you'll see a more frisky pet, with a livelier step, a sleeker look, a more contented purr . . . more of all those lovable qualities you want in your pet. Try it!

Compare your cat's food with Puss 'n Boots. Only Puss 'n Boots is so well balanced . . . nourishes so completely!

Do You Feed HAMBURGER? IKE YIELDS, ACCEPTS UN SUMMIT MEET

Diefenbaker Calls For Prompt Talks 'At Highest Level'

Asks Britain, U.S., India To Accept Russian Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government wants prompt talks "at the highest level" on Middle East unrest, says Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Describing Middle East tension as "explosive," the prime minister said in the Commons Monday without elaborating that the United Nations Security Council now in session "offers possibilities."

Opposition Leader Pearson, supporting the government's stand, predicted that the top-level meeting be held under United Nations auspices as a subcommittee of the Security Council.

That was the Ottawa reaction to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's weekend call for Big Five summit talks on the Middle East among leaders of the United States, Britain, Russia, France and India, with UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold present.

Mr. Diefenbaker, in a special statement at the beginning of the Commons sitting, announced:

1. He has received "urgent" messages to government leaders of the U.S., U.K. and India making "positive and immediate response" to the Khrushchev proposals.

2. Talks about the Middle East, in the Canadian view, should be held "at the highest level" and "as soon as possible."

3. Meanwhile, "no military action should be undertaken by any nation in any place beyond Jordan and Lebanon." Canada had asked for assurances on that point.

4. Canada expected too, that the status quo in the troubled area would be maintained, and "in particular that all members of NATO will exercise the greatest caution in national action which might involve the balance as a whole."

5. External Affairs Minister Smith was returning to New York to head Canada's delegation when the Middle East was under Security Council discussion.

Canada's plea for "highest level" consideration of the problem was echoed by Mr. Smith Monday during Security Council debate on a cooperative measure calling for strengthening of the UN observer corps in Lebanon.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Prospects of a summit conference inside the United Nations offered the best hope today that the world organization could retrieve any influence in dealing with the Middle Eastern situation, now apparently safely over the immediate crisis stage.

External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith, who flew to New York Monday morning to represent Canada at the in the renewed Security Council debate on the Middle East, followed up Prime Minister Diefenbaker's after-noon statement in Ottawa by passing it on to the Security Council members in brief submission just before the overnight adjournment.

WITHOUT DELAY

The Canadians called for concerted without delay of Russian Premier Khrushchev's request for a summit conference to deal with the situation touched off last Monday by the Iraqi overthrow has since received lavish approval and there is no indication of any explosion of the British-American armed intervenements in Lebanon and Jordan.

CRUCIAL POINT

But the UN's prospect of a reconciliation of the summit idea and continued UN efforts was believed meeting favorable acceptance.

Canada put forward in the Security Council the idea raised in Washington Sunday night that the heads of government of the foreign ministers of the interested powers should meet in the Security Council rather than at a meeting in such a neutral point as Geneva, which Khrushchev had suggested.

Smith said "I would urge that every effort all continue in co-operate in the efforts we are making here" to solve the current outbreak.

HOG PRODUCERS VOTE ON FRIDAY ON MARKET PLAN

Will Pass Judgment On Co-operative

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's biggest farm plebiscite will be held Friday among 78,000 hog producers in Southern Ontario.

The farmers will pass judgment on a $100,000,000-a-year co-operative marketing program that has taken shape during 17 years of controversy and court battles.

Ballots will be cast between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. at 420 township polling stations in 42 counties. Township clerks will mail returns to the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board and official results won't be known until Monday or Tuesday.

Agriculture Minister Goodfellow, who ordered the vote three months ago, has declared that a two-thirds majority will be needed to keep the program in operation. Defeat would mean a period of direct sales between farmer and packer although a new program could be introduced.

Opposition to the hog co-operative stepped up considerably last September when the Ontario Hog Producers Co-operative, in an effort to halt "bootleg" sales direct to meat packers, extended to 34 counties its new system of compulsory marketing through assembly yards.

COMPLAINT COSTS HIGHER

Producers complained that shipping their hogs to yards instead of direct to the packing plants resulted in higher handling costs and weight losses among hogs.

Controversy over the scheme reached the Ontario Supreme Court last month. Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson ruled the plan was illegal because it was established without a vote among hog producers.

The decision threatened to bring down many of the provinces 17 other marketing programs established under the Ontario Marketing Act, and both the provincial government and the Hog Co-operative announced they would appeal.

Leaflets and newspaper advertising have been used by both sides in the campaign for Friday's plebiscite.

The leaflet distributed by dissident producers calls for a "No" vote—to scuttle co-operative marketing but to "open the door for re-organization, eliminating compulsion, under new perspective."

TO BUILD PLANT

BRANTFORD (CP) — Construction will be started in two weeks on Brantford's $2,300,000 sewage treatment plant, it was announced here Monday. City Dunker Construction Company Limited, Guelph, will build the plant, with completion expected early in 1960.

Eight People Die, Two Hurt In Chicoutimi Car Crash

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — A two-car collision killed eight persons—including five members of one family—near here Monday night. Two others were injured.

The cars smashed head-on at a curve at St. Ambroise, 15 miles west of here.

Dead are: Charles Heuri Maltais and his wife, the former Irmance Girard; three of their five children, Guy, 5, and two daughters age three years and six months; Giselle Girard, 18, all of Kenogami; Paul Portin, 37, and Leonard Savard, 25, both of St. Ambroise.

The fourth Maltais child, Marie-Anne, 18 months, suffered a broken thigh and is in serious condition. Joseph Maltais, 19, of St. Jean L'Evangeliste, is in critical condition with head injuries.

Fortin, driver of one of the cars, was the father of four children. His companion, Savard, had nine youngsters.

The other visitors were passengers in a car driven by Maltais.

Mid-East Heat Seems Off, So Rebels Resume Shooting

BEIRUT (CP) — Diplomatic manoeuvring and internal politics appeared today to have taken some of the heat off military actions in the Middle East, at least temporarily.

But in Jordan, tension was reported rising after a series of bombings in Amman Sunday night and Monday and an unsuccessful attempt to strike a general strike against King Hussein's government.

No one was injured in the bombings and swift police action kept the bid for a general strike. But British paratroops carrying machine guns in the streets for the first time since they landed there last week.

For the first time since United States Marines landed here a week ago in response to an urgent plea from President Camille Chamoun, rebel and government forces fought sharp battles here and in Tripoli.

Four persons were reported killed in Tripoli, northern Lebanon port where the rebel outbreak started two months ago, in an exchange of rifle and machine-gun fire lasting several hours.

Several bomb explosions were heard here, and government forces fought sharp battles with rebel emplacements following a sudden outbreak of sniping.

U.S. Marines and British government anti-sniper patrols in an effort to flush out rebel sharpshooters who have been firing on marines and planes flying into the nearby Beirut airport.

The rebel leader here again threatened to boycott the government unless parliament, due to meet Thursday, elects an acceptable compromise presidential candidate.

Britain and U.S. Consider Recognizing Iraqi Republic

LONDON (AP) — Government officials reported today that Britain and the United States are consulting with Baghdad pact allies on the question of recognizing the new Iraqi republic.

The officials said London and Washington favor some form of recognition for the revolutionary regime, but Turkey, Iran and Pakistan are cool to the suggestion.

The informal exchanges on the question have assumed special urgency because the premiers of the Baghdad pact nations are to meet in London next week. The United States is not a member of the alliance but serves on some committees.

The Iraqi regime has not officially renounced membership in the pact, but its alliance with President Nasser's United Arab Republic was accepted as an indication of a new foreign policy line. Nasser is vehemently opposed to the Baghdad pact, of which Iraq was the only Arab member.

Spokesmen for the revolutionary government in Baghdad say, however, they want to be friends with the West.

Pact informants said next week's meeting may be postponed until about September, presumably to allow the Iraqi republic to make up its mind on its foreign policy intentions.

As of now, the informants said, one school of American and British diplomatic opinion leans in favor of recognizing the rebels as de facto (effective) government of the country. Full-scale de jure (legal) recognition, in the view of these diplomats, should be withheld until the rebels show themselves ready and able to conduct their international relations in accordance with the Washington and London consider proper fashion.

Turkey, Iran and Pakistan, however, are reported strongly opposed to recognizing a regime that seized power by force and may be politically hostile to all the Baghdad alliance powers.

The alliance's headquarters was in Baghdad and with it the group's secret papers.

JUST TWO HOURS NEEDED TO SEIZE POWER IN IRAQ

Not People's Revolt But They Seem Glad

BAGHDAD (AP) — It took a group of army officers just two hours to overthrow the monarchy and establish a republic in Iraq.

The army dissidents appear to have had the support of most of the country from the start July 14. There may be some pockets opposition to the new regime, but it is not apparent to a visitor just arrived.

This was not an uprising by the people, but they seem pleased by the change.

Although the officers of the new regime and the cabinet ministers don't like the Anglo-American intervention in Lebanon and Jordan, the chief concern appears to be for their own affairs gouged with a desire to be accepted by the West as the legitimate government of the Arab country.

There is great adulation of the United Arab Republic's President Nasser, and the feeling seems to be any great desire to join the U.A.R.

The revolution was a military operation carried out like clockwork.

At 5 A.M. July 14, a company of infantry, supported by a tank and several anti-tank guns mounted on Jeeps, surrounded the royal palace where 24-year-old King Faisal and Crown Prince Abdul Illah were preparing to leave for a Baghdad pact meeting in Istanbul.

At the same time other army units surrounded the home of Prime Minister Nuri Said, long Iraq's political strong man, and the residences of government ministers. British-made Centurion tanks rumbled to strategic places in the capital. Radio heads of Gen. Aref, commander of the army, was arrested.

The army says this is what happened at the palace:

A captain demanded that the king come out and surrender. Instead the king and Abdul Illah put on himself and Prime Minister Nehru of India. He also asked the Ambassador of United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Khrushchev proposed on Saturday a five-power emergency summit conference at Geneva composed of the governments. chiefs of the U.S., U.K., France, India and Russia.

Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev told the 11-nation Security Council in a speech in which he urged support the Japanese compromise plan in its opening session.

He offered a series of amendments completely changing the character of the Japanese compromise, already accepted by a majority of the council and Lebanon.

The Japanese resolution provides for strengthening the present UN observer group in Lebanon to such an extent that it would guarantee the political independence of the strife - torn Middle East country and permit the withdrawal of U.S. forces.

SOVIET CONDEMNATION

The Soviet amendments would condemn the United States for its intervention in Lebanon and demand the immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces.

The amendments were sure to be rejected, opening the way for the Japanese-Soviet vote.

At the suggestion of Sweden the council adjourned until 3 p.m. to permit consultations.

Britain Insists On Positive Reply To Khrushchev

Special Security Council Session West's Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower yielded to British insistence today and agreed to go along with a summit meeting of the United Nations Security Council if that is generally desired by the Western powers and Russia.

A White House announcement to that effect shortly after noon today apparently ended a dispute with Britain over whether the Western big three should move openly and directly toward a UN summit session or merely indicate indirectly in notes to Moscow that such a meeting might be possible.

About an hour earlier Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd had told the House of Commons in London that Prime Minister Macmillan was ready to attend if a special meeting of the Security Council were arranged.

The purpose of the meeting, Lloyd said, would be to discuss the Middle East crisis but it would not act on any resolution unless there were general agreement that such action should be taken.

U.S. STATEMENT

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said at the White House:

"The United Nations Security Council meeting of the character suggested by Prime Minister Lloyd is clearly within the contemplation of the United Nations charter.

"If such a meeting were generally desired, the United States would look to following this orderly procedure."

Meanwhile Khrushchev proposed on Saturday a five-power emergency summit conference at Geneva composed of the governments. chiefs of the U.S., U.K., France, India and Russia.

Russia Opposes Japan's Motion At UN Meeting

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union sought today in the Security Council to isolate Japan's Middle East peace plan a new demand for the immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces from Lebanon.

Nkrumah Looks to Canada to Help Build 'Bridge' Between West, Africa

OTTAWA (CP) — A bright new strand in Canadian diplomacy may be woven with the visit of Dr. Kwame (Shoeboy) Nkrumah.

The theme:

That Canada, working with the prime minister of Ghana, may establish a "bridge" between the West and Africa as useful as the bridge to Asia provided by India.

In other words, Canada and Ghana may develop the same sort of special friendship that now binds Canada and India — nothing precisely spelled out, just a quiet understanding that enables the two countries to work closely together.

The fact that these comradeships take place within the Commonwealth context gives them extra significance.

Canada has already moved to help the 3,000,000 eager citizens of Ghana, a West African territory of 100,000 square miles that gained independence within the Commonwealth March 6, 1957.

Canadian engineers and economists are in Ghana. Sixteen medical students from Ghana are studying at McGill University in Montreal.

Officials of Canada's outstanding base metals experts: G. C. (Slim) Monture, is surveying Ghana resources to find out what can be developed.

And the executive name of Gold Coast, Ian Sinclair, is being organized by Estelle Amaron of Montreal.

In any special friendship between Canada and Ghana there will be a key figure.

Nobody can say for sure where he will go or whether Ghana will stay on the democratic road.

But the signs are that the personality prime minister, who is called Showboy because of his crowd-pleasing campaign tactics, says with an air of conviction that he hopes his country can remain in the Commonwealth, in which he has a "strong feeling of loyalty."

He is emphatic that he wants Ghana to project an "African personality . . . but he doesn't equate this with the kind of inflamed nationalism that keeps the Arabs agitated.

Sometimes, he says, he has been tried to restrain his "personal" friend, the United Arab Republic's Col. Nasser.

Killed 1st Bull in Slaughterhouse From Then on It Was Easy in Ring

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian girl who has spent every summer for the past two years in a Mexican bullfight ring admits that she killed her first bull in a commercial slaughterhouse.

Elizabeth Bolton, 25-year-old former Toronto resident, is one of the four Mexican matadors who will perform in the "Blood Test" bullfights at Lindsay during the Civic Holiday weekend.

Miss Bolton, three male matadors were hosts at a hotel press conference Monday after their arrival in Canada.

They have been hired by the Lindsay Lions Club to provide the to star in the first bullfights in Canada Aug. 2 and, according to the final leaflet of the bull, their performances will match those displayed in Mexico's and Spain's rings.

The attractive, 125-pound brunette has killed "well over 100" bulls during her career in Mexico. But, asked to recall her first kill in the ring, she admits she couldn't bring herself to do it.

"Afterwards I went to a slaughter-house and asked them to let me kill some of their bulls with my sword," she recalls. "Once I knew I was capable of killing I found it simple to do it in a ring."

What made her take up bullfighting?

"I can't explain it in words," she says, "I think bullfighting is something to be seen. I can only say inside you that says you must do it and you can't be happy if you don't do it."

Elizabeth, who has picked up Spanish in the Mexican bullrings, has difficulty recalling some English words, was born in Spain but moved to Toronto as a baby and lived here with her parents until she was 12 years old.

Last month her big moment came when she was invited to Plaza Mexico, the showplace of Mexican bullfighting. "It had been a dream of because I had already agreed to come to Canada . . . and, anyhow, I don't think I'm ready yet for the Plaza."

With her three top-ranking Mexican matadors, Rudolpho Hernandez, Jose Luis Bernal and Jose Angel Espinosa, Miss Bolton has been fighting bulls for nine years, Gilberto Acosta, 25, has been a matador for four years and Jorge Luis Bernal, 22, has eight years of bulls behind him.

"Most of the people who have not seen a bullfight think of it as a bloody and brutal sport," says Bernal, who speaks the best English of the three. "Here in Canada, where we will not be allowed to kill the bulls, we will show that it is a beautiful art."

Today's Chuckle

The young lawyer was sent to New York to consult with a client.

On arrival he found he had forgotten the client's name. He wired his firm:

"What is our client's name?"

Back came the answer: "Smith, William A. Yours is Jones, John B."

THE WEATHER

Salvation Army Begins Camps For Children

The first of four 8-day camping periods for Belleville and district underprivileged children will commence today at the Salvation Army camp at Roblin Lake.

The camping periods are divided — two for boys and two for girls and the children range in age from eight to 12 years. The first camping period is for girls.

Heavier registration is reported this year than in former years. Brig. Morgan Flannigan, of the Salvation Army mid-Ontario division headquarters, announced some 65 girls have registered to date and more are expected to register within the next few days.

Program for the children includes handcrafts, sports, and child guidance.

"Every effort is made to take care of the physical needs of the children," Brig. Flannigan stated. "Capt. Jean Brown, a registered nurse at the camp hospital, will be on duty throughout the day, and M. A. Bishop of Consecon will be on call."

Brig. Flannigan also said two new cabins have been erected this year, along with wash room and laundry facilities to "meet the needs of a rapidly growing undertaking."

A Youth Fellowship Camp will also be held at the Roblin Lake camp over the Civic Holiday weekend. This camp will be for Salvation Army members between the ages of 13 and 30, Capt. and Mrs. David Hammond of Sudbury, will be the special leaders.

RETIRED C.N.R. CONDUCTOR AND HIS WIFE

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Murray, 113 Donald Street, are shown above at a family supper held last night to celebrate the completion of Mr. Murray's long career with the CNR, which commenced on July 30, 1913, and ended Monday evening as Mr. Murray conducted the 6.10 p.m. train on a conventional Montreal fast passenger train pulled into the Union Station at the latter city. Mr. Murray, born north of Codrington, has resided in Belleville most of his life. (Photo by William E. Riley.)

Cliff MacKay's Show Proceeds Will Help Macs

This is a last minute reminder. Don't forget the Cliff Mackay show at Memorial Arena tomorrow night. Remember, all proceeds go to the Belleville Macs Overseas Fund.

The hockey club brought home to Belleville last winter by winning the Allan Cup after a hectic series with Kelowna Packers in British Columbia. Let's not let the boys down now. They are trying hard to go over to Prague next winter to bring back the Ice Hockey world hockey championship.

Their trip is going to cost an estimated $50,000. MacKay's show is one way some of that money can be raised.

Cliff MacKay and company will be brought here by the Order of the Alhambra, Islam Caravan No. 109, Belleville.

R. G. Lanning Gives Rotary Talk on European Business

Impressions of post-war Italy, Germany and England, taken from a business viewpoint, were given Belleville Rotarians Monday when they had as their guest speaker-a proposed new industry, Robert George Lanning, president of the G. T. Lanning Limited.

Mr. Lanning, in an informative address, disclosed his impressions of working and living conditions in these countries and working class attitudes. Mr. Lanning spent his four-week periods in Europe—one in December of 1955 and the other in September of 1957—while on business for his father's hat manufacturing firm.

GERMANY PROSPEROUS

"Germany has the prosperity machine turned on full blast, and no one has any idea of turning it off," he stated. "German manufacturers, shopkeepers, factory workers, are anxious to please prospective customers. They work long hours and have an inborn sense of honesty and fair play," he added.

Mr. Lanning said he noticed during his second trip to Frankfort and Offenbach last fall the people were "settling down" and the war fright were gone. He said construction of industrial buildings (which is a priority in '55) had given way to increased construction of apartment houses.

The German government encourages capital spending and generous allowances are given for construction of new factories and purchase of new equipment. Numerous modern shopping centres were seen, and stores stayed open longer here than Canadian and U.S. stores.

"They even manage to open the last three Sundays before Christmas for the convenience of shoppers, while English stores closed at 1 p.m. on the Saturday before Christmas," he remarked.

ENGLISH ANTIPATHETIC

In England, on the other hand, Mr. Lanning found a general antipathy on the part of manufacturers toward Canadian buyers' requests for special fashions and patterns. Only English patterns and fabrics are available, he said.

Working conditions are poor —workers are under-paid, and worked in antiquated buildings with old, worn-out, out-dated machinery and equipment, the speaker disclosed.

"Manufacturers either don't have money for capital improvements or won't spend it," he stated. He added in one factory he visited treadle sewing machines were still in use.

"The lack of profits seems to be general," he said. Poor equipment led to slow deliveries which in turn affected English export trade, he explained.

"English manufacturers just can't compete in the rough and tumble Canadian trade," he stated. He added steel workers, for example, were shocked at the pace and production of their counterparts in North America.

ITALY IMPROVED

In Italy his business took him to Milan, Florence, and Carpi.

On his second visit to Italy, Mr. Lanning noticed more prosperity than two years previously —people were well dressed, shops were full, trade was booming and there were more cars on the road.

"In Italy workers expected and did work 10 or 12 hours a day, six or six and one-half days a week," Mr. Lanning said. "Regular hours were from 7 a.m. to 12 p.m. and from 3 to 6 p.m. with a three-hour siesta in between, until on Sundays they worked only from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.," he explained.

In England, however, stores were closed Saturdays and Sundays and it was difficult to get an appointment with a manufacturer before 9.30 a.m. Workers had a two-hour lunch break and, of course, tea-time was at 4 o'clock."

In Milan, Italy, heavily damaged during World War II, a great deal of reconstruction was being carried out, he said.

"There are special prices for tourists in Italy, and in Milan and Florence, the tourist centres, food and lodging prices are up to those found in New York," the speaker said.

He also stated in Carpi, centre of the high fashion production, sacks were not popular with women.

"Although sacks were being produced in great quantities for export, I saw no local women wearing them," he said.

Mr. Lanning was introduced by his father, George T. Lanning, and thanked by Dr. Harry Hicks. He was presented with a Rotary carnation by co-president Tom Hanson, who conducted the meeting in the absence of president Jack Yeomans.

INVITED TO CAMP

Prior to the address Brig. Morgan Flannigan, of the mid-Ontario division Salvation Army headquarters, extended an invitation to local Rotarians to hold their next meeting, July 28, at the Salvation Army's camp for underprivileged children at Roblin Lake.

Rotarians will hold a dinner meeting at the camp at 6.30 p.m. and will have an opportunity not only of touring the camp but also of visiting with the children. Accordingly there will be no noon meeting next Monday.

Two proposed new members of the club were introduced by their sponsors, and welcomed by vice-president Wilson. They were George A. McElherry, district manager of Refined Oil Products Distributing Firm, proposed by Dr. Jack Marshall and Robert George Lanning, president of the G. T. Lanning Limited, proposed by his father, George T. Lanning. They will be inducted at a later meeting.

Rotary visitors at this week's meeting included Col. Donald G. Ketcheson, recently appointed senior military adviser to the Canadian delegation with the truce supervisory commission in Viet Nam. He will be promoted to Brigadier and assume his new appointment early in September. Col. Ketcheson is a brother of Rotarian A. H. Ketcheson and is well-known in Belleville.

Fifty B.C. Fires Fanned by Winds

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) Light winds have fanned the more than 50 forest fires in Prince George forest district into new fury.

A few scattered showers fell Monday afternoon but they had no effect on the parched forests and grasslands.

The winds, although practically negligible, nullified the efforts of 600 fire fighters. The fires skipped over boundaries and began burning new areas.

Will Recount Ballots on Liquor Vote

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Final testimony was heard Monday during a hearing of a motion to have a May 24 vote on establishment of a liquor store and beverage warehouse in Owen Sound declared invalid and illegal.

Argument by both counsels is to be heard today followed by an official recount of ballots before Grey County Judge C. E. Bennett.

Judge Bennett said he did not expect the recount to end before Wednesday evening and he would give his report early next week.

The motion was presented by Robert Gallen, manager for the committee for government stores, after he was side-tailed by a narrow margin to win approval for a liquor store and a beverage warehouse.

Ted Menary, a deputy returning officer, testified Monday he had deposited the first 25 pairs of ballots in the counting-clerk's box attached. He said he did not recall instructions to tear them off.

When the poll closed, the poll book was closed, the ballot box emptied and the counting-clerk's form from the ballots in question, he said. No one had any opportunity to compare the counterfoil number with the pollbook to find how any voter marked his ballot, he testified.

Mrs. Zella Bowerman, a poll clerk, said no one but she and Mr. Menary handled the ballots.

BAPTISTS MEET

EDMONTON (CP) — Approximately 1,500 delegates and visitors met here Monday for the opening of the triennial general conference of the North American Baptist Association. Another 300 delegates were expected before the conference ends Sunday.

IN MEMORIAM

SHADY. — In loving memory of my dear mother, Bessie Brady, who passed away July 22nd, 1958.
No one knows how much we miss her.
No one knows the bitter pain.
We have suffered, since we lost her
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts her memory lingers
Sweetly tender, fond and true;
There is not a day dear mother,
That I do not think of you.
—Sadly remembered by daughter Ruth.

SCHAMERHORN. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away July 23rd, 1953.
God left us with many heartaches
And with sorrows untold.
He gently entered home.
Sadly missed by wife and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses shown me during the loss of my mother, Mary Ellen Pounder. Also Drs. Hart, Cornett and nurses on 3rd floor of the Belleville General Hospital.
—Mrs. Russell Glass.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Highland Ave. Funeral announcement later. 222-21

ELLIS, Lillie Maud. — At the Belleville General Hospital on Monday, July 21st, 1958, Lillie Maud Adams, aged 82 years, wife of George Ellis, Herchimer Ave., Belleville. In her 83rd year.
Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral Home, Highland Ave. Funeral service will be held on Friday, July 25th, at 2 p.m., Canon A. E. Bennett officiating.
Interment Belleville Cemetery. 221-21

Judge Bennett said he did not expect the recount to end before Wednesday evening and he would give his report early next week.

The motion was presented by Robert Gallen, manager for the committee for government stores, after he was side-tailed by a narrow margin to win approval for a liquor store and a beverage warehouse in Owen Sound declared invalid and illegal.

Argument by both counsels is to be heard today followed by an official recount of ballots before Grey County Judge C. E. Bennett.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was narrowly lower today in light morning trading.

Golds were the only group to show an advance and there's was only a few decimal points. Industrials, after gaining almost two points Monday, slipped off one half point. Western oils continued down, off one-half point while the base metals were a few decimal points down.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 294,000 shares, slightly higher than Monday's 285,000 at the same hour.

Trans Mountain Pipe Line was the big loser, dipping 1¼ at 61.a

Losses of ¾ went to Bell at 41¼, and Steel Company of Canada at 64¾. Dominion Stores and Imperial Oil each lost ¼ point.

Golds scored their gain on the strength of a 1⅜ increase to 72 by McIntyre and Hollinger's ¾ advance to 39¾.

Losses of ¼ to Consolidated Mining and Hudson Bay pulled the base metal index off despite a gain of ⅜ to Sheep Rock and ¼ to Geco. Coppers were generally mixed and not as strong as on Monday.

New Rocco was the most active issue, losing 14 cents at $2.81 on a turnover of 36,375 shares.

Police Blotter

City police reported a quiet nightwatch with only two minor accidents coming to their attention and a few routine matters.

One accident, at the intersection of East Bridge .St. and Front St., involved a truck operated by Harold F. Smith of Brighton and a car driven by Lilas M. Shanall of Picton.

The other mishap involved a car and a hydro pole on Pine St. Driver of the car was not found at the scene. There was no damage to the pole, but the left front fender of the auto was badly dented.

The OPP found a stolen car behind a local hotel last night. Owner of the car, who lives in the Napanee district, is being located.

Holiday Over Margaret Begins Functions Round

KELOWNA B.C. (CP) — Her short holiday ended, Princess Margaret today begins anew the round of official functions laid out for her as British Columbia's centennial year guest of honor.

She leaves this interior B.C. city at 11:30 a.m. when a float plane picks her up at the lakeside home where she has spent the last four days.

She then flies to Penticton where she will transfer to an RCAF plane for a flight to Abbotsford and her first of four days on the lower mainland.

For the princess, the last few days have been the most carefree of her tour. Monday was a day off. There were no official ceremonies, no formal greetings and no miles of travel.

Her seclusion was guarded by about 100 RCMP officers and she and her party spent most of the time relaxing beside scenic Okanagan Lake at 35-acre Summergrove Farm.

She found time for sun-bathing, swimming, boating and a barbecue while here. She cooked steaks for about 20 guests Sunday evening at a beach party.

DRESS INFORMAL

The weather was perfect. Skies were cloudless and temperatures in the 80s. Her dress had been informal summery frocks and low-heeled shoes.

"I love this country," she told members of the royal party. "I just love it."

The princess stuck to the palatial grounds of the temporary royal residence Monday night. The heat was tempered somewhat by a brisk southerly wind.

Lake Okanagan kicked up whitecaps shortly after 7 p.m., forcing cancellation of whatever plans the princess had for water-skiing or boating. Instead, she went horseback riding with four others.

The princess wore riding togs and a white sheer blouse.

After her retreat she had a swim and sat down to a five-course meal.

Rural Clergy's School Opened

GUELPH (CP)—A record 150 delegates registered Monday for opening session of the school for rural clergy at the Ontario Agricultura College.

The school, operated by the OAC, is believed to be the only one in Canada attended by entire families. Twenty - five children were among the delegates and they will take part in special Bible classes during the three-day school.

Clergymen from Ontario, Quebec and New York state are attending. Purpose of the school is to provide clergymen with knowledge of the basic principles of agriculture in relation to the work of the church.

Classes held in rural sociology, soils and agriculture and certificates issued after completion of a three-summer course.

Brighton Child Badly Hurt Rushed to Toronto Hospital

TRENTON — Two - year - old David Pattison of nearby Brighton was rushed to the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto, after he escaped death by only a matter of minutes in an accident he had on Sunday yesterday.

The Pattisons live at the Maple Grove Cabins in Brighton.

Mrs. Pattison said her son had caught his arm in a commercial ironer and it had pulled him in up to his neck and the side of his face, burning his arm and face badly. He was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital and was ordered taken to the Toronto hospital where specialists are available for skin grafting.

She said she had just turned on the iron to heat it up to iron her baby suit and then left in the next room to finish ironing shirts. She had been talking to the milkman and very shortly afterward had heard the cry and rushed to find her having trouble with his car and had gone to help her. Then she saw through the room where the ironer was and saw the youngster caught in it.

She grabbed the child and turned off all the switches and then pulled his arm free. She immediately called for help and a Mr. Shekleton rushed the tot to the Belleville hospital in his car.

The child was later taken to Toronto in another car accompanied by his mother and a nurse.

She reported that Dr. Peterson, a plastic surgeon there, had started work on the child's arm this morning and the face and neck which were badly burned will take further study before surgery can be done. The child is still being treated for shock.

Mrs. Pattison said the baby must have turned switches on by himself and at the time they had his arm on the machine. It is a pressure device and he could not have caught his arm in it after it had been turned on.

She said the doctors informed her it was most fortunate she discovered the tot's plight when she did as a few more minutes could have been fatal. A considerable gash was torn in the tot's arm.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — A two-hour session of council in the board room of the municipal building saw all councillors present with the exception of Councillor Lloyd Worrall who is still in the hospital suffering from burns received on a recent camping trip. It is expected Mr. Worrall will be released from hospital tomorrow. Also at last night's regular meeting was town clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry. Mr. Larry has just returned to work after a two-week holiday, Town Engineer Eric Aldersey and Town Solicitor Rod Campbell were also present.

BEGIN SEWER WORK

Councillor Charles Hilton, chairman of the Sanitation and removal of waste committee gave a brief report and informed the council that the Vanalstine construction crews would begin work on the sewers near the Trenton Dyeing and Finishing plant once the plant is closed down for holidays. Eric Alderseys reported the town engineer is quite busy and listed the various streets they have completed and where they are working at present. Mr. Hilton also told the council he has received two bids on a street flusher and because they came in late for consideration study they will be brought up at the next council meeting.

MEET LATER

With the date of the next council meeting falling on a holiday, August 4, it was decided the council will meet on the following Thursday, August 7, to keep in line with their rules of procedure. Mayor Ross Burtt brought the matter before the council. He also informed the council the deadline for the receiving of tenders on the combination manager-labor truck to be purchased by the town has been advanced to August 15 from August 5.

AWARD CONTRACT

Councillor Charles Hilton took over Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the Protection Persons and Property Committee, to report on the bids which had been received for clothing for the firemen. Chief Clarence Orser was present at the meeting and explained the bids and the different cloth samples which had also been sent in. The council agreed with the committee's recommendation and the contract was awarded to the Buzz Neenan store.

PASS 2 BY-LAWS

Three by-laws were passed to approve the sale of other pieces of town land to local citizens who apparently wish to build. These consisted of two lots on Ramsay Street and two lots on Mary Street. They were given third and final readings as well.

REJECT REQUEST

A request from Fred Gitelman to purchase six acres at the northernmost peak of the town property was rejected by the council last night. Mr. Gitelman had offered the town $900 for the parcel of land. Council was informed that they had previously rejected an offer from the highway department who wished to buy the same land for $500 per acre. It was stated that if Mr. Gitelman was interested in putting in some kind of industry on the property then they may consider selling it. Such area could be zoned for industry and the council felt it should be kept as such if they were not interested in selling.

NEW EMPLOYEES

Town council approved the hiring of Miss Fenis Lewis and Mrs. Laura Bowden to be employed in the Public Library as they also approved the hiring of Allan Smith as town assessor. They agreed on an extension of date of returns of the 1958 assessment roll to November 25, 1958. This change was made due to recent changes in the staff.

CHIEF GETS RAISE

Mayor Ross Burtt informed the council that a recent meeting of the Police Commission had awarded Chief of Police Jack Taylor a pay increase of $500 per year. It was also brought to the attention of the council that the results of the recent arbitration over the wages of police officers would cost the town $1,000 on the fees to the members of the arbitration board, nearly $60,000. Councillor Lange, chairman of the Finance Committee, stated that $5,000 had been set aside on the budget for this purpose and that as the police were understaffed since the first of the year, this sum could be raised. The arbitration on the salaries, etc, was turned over to his committee for future information. The clerk was given authority to issue the cheques in payment of the bills in connection with the arbitration.

Tourists Hurt In Car Crash

TRENTON — Two American tourists were injured yesterday afternoon when the car in which they were driving went off the levelled portion of the road near the Mermaid Motel on No. 2 highway and struck a culvert.

Sidney Roth, 29, of Brooklyn, New York, was treated in the Belleville General Hospital for a fractured nose and his wife, Joanne, 23, was taken to the same hospital where she is being treated for shock and is also under observation.

Both were treated by Dr. M. T. Campbell when they arrived at the hospital.

The Ontario Provincial Police detachment at Brighton investigated the mishap and estimated damages to the car at about $800. The police reported there had been some sort of a trafficjam at the time of the mishap, which occurred at 2.05 p.m.

There was no other car damaged in the accident.

Issue Warrant For Arrest of Theft Suspect

TRENTON — A quantity of clothing, valued at about $400, was stolen from the Trenton Cleaners recently, and Trenton police have issued a warrant for the arrest of a man in connection with it, Chief of Police Jack Taylor reported this morning.

The break-in was discovered at about 8 a.m. by the proprietor of the business when he opened up in the morning. Entry had been gained by breaking a window in the rear of the building.

The police report said the window was out of sight when a shed door at the back of the plant was closed, and this was believed the reason the police were doing the property has not noticed it.

It is not known if the cleaners carried theft insurance on the clothing. Inspector R. Ruttle is investigated.

Chief Taylor also announced this morning that a new police constable will be sworn into office today. The new officer is Mark L. Houlden, who lives just outside of Frankford. He is married and has one child. Twenty-five years old he has just finished serving five years with the Royal Canadian Navy.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

Did you know it is safer to make dynamite than to farm?

This statement, like so many others, needs to be qualified. Junior should not interpret it as a valid reason why he should be permitted to experiment with rocket fuels, instead of mowing the front lawn. Nevertheless, it is true that the accidental death rate on farms is 140 per cent higher than the accidental death rate for all industrial workers. If you wish to dispute this statement, write to Premier Leslie Frost, who made it in a recent letter endorsing National Farm Safety Week and who quoted death rates of 60 per 100,000 for agricultural workers compared with 25 per 100,000 for all industrial workers. "Non-fatal accidents were also higher for farm workers than for those engaged in other forms of industry," Premier Frost wrote. Elsewhere we learn that accidents cost farmers $75,000,000 every year.

Safety on the farm involves most of the cautions which the urban resident is frequently urged to practise — be a good housekeeper, treat all guns as if they were loaded, know and obey all traffic rules, watch your step to prevent falls. There are, however, additional hazards. An age-old one is that provided by animals which, while domesticated, may not be "tame" in the sense that they can always be trusted. "Speak to animals when approaching them" is an admonition which applies in this case. But to this familiar farming hazard new ones have been added by what we may perhaps term the industrialization of agriculture. More and more machinery is being used on the farm and this would increase the danger of accidents even if all the operators of this machinery received adequate training in its use, which we fear is not always the case. This point is stressed by Saskatchewan, which declares "tractors, not farm beasts, now are cruel rural risks."

The Canadian Federation of Farm Equipment Dealers, which is sponsoring National Farm Safety Week, is worried lest there may be "the inference that the farm equipment industry interests itself in the matter of farm safety because of a feeling of guilt." Such, it declares, is not the case. "Designers, engineers, manufacturers, distributors and retailers use the utmost ingenuity to build and produce equipment that is the ultimate in safety." We fear, though, that by its very nature farming will remain dangerous and that it will prove impossible to make farm machinery as safe as the machinery in most industrial plants. Nature places some limitations on the abilities of engineers. This, far from making a fitness on safe operation of farm equipment useless, heightens the importance of such work. Since it is impossible to build a tractor with as low a centre of gravity as a passenger car, and since plowed land will always be rougher than a paved highway, it is essential that the operator of the tractor should be mindful of these, and other, hazards in the operation of his machine.

REBUILDING STONEHENGE

A news picture the other day left us with mixed feelings.

It showed a gigantic crane lifting a huge stone lintel into place atop the inner circle of Stonehenge in southern England. The circle is being reconstructed.

Stonehenge is one of the wonders of the world. It is believed to have been the worshipping place of the ancient Druids, long before Caesar visited Britain.

Preservation of ancient monuments is to be desired. But rebuilding? We are not so sure. It seems to us that a Stonehenge built by the Druids would be one thing, a place of wonder to arouse conjecture as to how, in those distant times, primitive men raised such stones to such heights. But a Stonehenge rebuilt by diesel-powered cranes - - well that is something different.

Sometimes ruin speaks more loudly and more impressively than reconstruction.

A demonstration out at Brigham Young University in Utah is reported to have proved that even nowadays a co-ed can eat well on 50c a day—less than 10c a meal. But on a thousand campuses fellows who have been taking co-eds out to dine will never believe that. (Milwaukee Journal.)

THOUGHTS OF A LONELY FATHER

There's a train of cars left standing
By my reading chair tonight,
And an answer needs commanding;
It is lined up for a fight.
There's a dolly soundly sleeping
On the couch where it was left,
But a lonely watch I'm keeping,
For the old home seems bereft.

It is so still and quiet.
And so empty now in here;
Gone is all their merry clack
And their ringing shouts of cheer;
Even the Teddy bear sits solemn
In a grave and stolid way.

Just as though he'd like to call 'em,
Call 'em back again to play.

There are times when I have scolded
And have checked them, but tonight
Were these arms about them folded
I should count their noise delight.
Oh, I'd like once more to kiss them,
And to romp with them in play.
Bless the children! How we miss them
Through the weeks they're away.

Seek to Find 'Money Pit'

St. John Telegraph-Journal

There's nothing like a treasure hunt to fire the imagination. That's why we reserved space in the island cards for the fabulous "money pit" of Oak Island, in Nova Scotia. For years this has excited the interest of thousands of Canadians following reports of the various efforts made by two Ontario brothers.

Wilcky and William Harmsin, both engineers, obtained rights to drill on Oak Island by the terms of a 1861 Chappell of Sydney, N.S., last fall. Operations were commenced May 1. So far their drill cores have shown traces of oak and spruce timbers, apparently from buried workings, coco-fibre and ship's caulking.

But the Harmsins found the basic theory that any treasure buried on Oak Island is that of pirates, of the kind Captain Kidd of Sydney, N.S., last fell. Operations were commenced May 1. So far their drill cores have shown traces of oak and spruce timbers, apparently from buried workings, coco-fibre and ship's caulking.

But the Harmsins discovered the theory that any treasure buried on Oak Island is that of pirates, of the kind Captain Kidd found in Spain and Spanish ships in the 1600's.

It is interesting to note that the Harmsin brothers are not so far removed from the scene of a gold strike near Lunenburg in 1861 when gold was found in beach sand near what is today known as Oak Island, a tourist attraction. At one point a long stairway leads down into one of the treasure pits. At the bottom is where the incoming waves rose into the mouth of the natural ground stream. Elsewhere the force of the incoming tide is vented as a geyser through a "blowhole" on the cliff surface.

MAKING RELIGION WORK

A new religion is always a conquering religion. Christianity, a new religion, conquered the Roman Empire. Islam swept over Asia and Africa 1300 years ago as it did its best to conquer Europe, only to be stopped and held at bay by Charles Martel. The Mormons in this country a century ago trekked across the desert west and carried on for themselves an empire o u t of nothing.

What is this religion we have? Does it have any real vitality to it? Can it overcome evil? Can it conquer us — our evil inclinations, our pride, our tendency to be indulgent? Then, can it enable us to go forth and conquer the world? If it is a real religion, it can. If it lives up to its claims and perfections, it can and will do more. Jesus spoke of true religion as a mustard seed, the point of which is that this remains being in a mustard seed is very small, but it has life and vitality and therefore grows into a tree.

Let us ask ourselves what our religion is worth anyway, if you conclude it is not worth much, then go a step farther and ask why. Maybe it's not a true religion but in you that the fault lies.

We often hear the statement that we get out of life what we put into it. It is certainly true that we get out of life what we put into it. It is certainly true that we get out of our religion whatever we exert ourselves to get out of it. A weak religion, but religion needs us. It can't be made to work apart from our sincere efforts.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Several of the forestry departments, Canadian provincial, are now employing what are called Junior Rangers, boys of high school age, chosen on competitive basis. Oshawa, Ontario has 46 Junior Ranger camps at which over 500 boys aged 15 to 18 years of age, in camp groups averaging 12, a r e trained in forest work and in useful work in extension of their training, such as helping build waterways, clearing roads and rights of way for bush telephone lines, putting up telephone poles, borders and similar manual labor.

They are trained in safety, first aid, respiration, fire protection and fire forecasting; timber management, scaling, cruising, map reading and the compass; reforestation, and the identification of trees; insect infestation and control of forest diseases; and finally wildlife, its identification and management in relation to forest.

The boys get board and lodging and $4 a day for a six day week; lumber-jack feats, sun, wind and rain, and more under the management of experienced foresters and woodsmen.

What's the gimmick? Out of 500 lusty teen age boys, the government hopes to recruit twenty tan, maybe twenty, maybe forty a year into making a career, or into the department.

But if they don't recruit a man at least given 500 boys on the threshold of manhood an understanding of the meaning of our forests in Canada's economy. That's 500 missionaries for life.

TAKE THE HAPPINESS HIGHWAY

Dr. Snyder, President Eisenhower's doctor, in a recent interview, gave 10 points for living a long, healthy life, and he placed number one in these words: "Be happy in what you are doing." It is important to do important work if you are unhappy. Happiness in itself is a stimulant. Always take the Happiness Highway. It's the safest and pleasantest.

How many are there who are happy that they are perfectly happy in their work? Most of us, however, can say that happiness is what inspires us on, and gives to us the incentive to divide our happiness with others. That is what happiness is for!

One of the surest ways to be happy yourself is to make someone else happy. Happiness always comes back to you. You are on the Happiness Highway! The Happiness Highway is broad and smooth. You can see far ahead on it. It is the safest of all highways. And you meet s u c h delightful people.

If you seek happiness for yourself alone, you are almost sure to miss it, but if it is for someone else you are almost sure not to miss it! Take the Happiness Highway. It is the Scenic route. A route of beauty and changing landscape.

If you lose your burdens, worries and disappointments when you take the Happiness Highway. As Dr. Snyder has said, be sure to be happy in whatever it is in which you are engaged. Then will you as at our work and be inspired by our energy and cheerfulness. It's easy to pick out the happy people in the world. They dominate life! They radiate a spirit that people can't help but catch or absorb.

The free mist and willing spirit can do wonders in keeping happiness alive in one's heart. Think of the problems that would be solved if people just remained happy!

The value of Canadian railways to the economy of the nation is indicated in the field of purchase. In this field alone the Canadian National Railway spends an average of $232 million a year. This is the railway's share of purchases from other industries. Add to this the purchases that would be solved if people just remained happy!

How Hagerty Briefs Press

By Richard Jackson in the Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Ever seen - an Eisenhower press briefing?

No?

Then stick around a moment. It's real oddball stuff.

Actually, the press briefing is an "iconhower refinement of the press conference.

When the president doesn't want to meet the press in person — and he didn't on the four-day Ottawa visit — then his press secretary, James Hagerty, takes over.

This time, with the president in the Canadian capital, Hagerty was joined by Prime Minister Diefenbaker's press secretary, exUnited Press reporter James Nelson.

But former newsman Nelson was along strictly for company, just to keep Hagerty from feeling lonely.

For if the prime minister has anything to do with it, Hagerty or men he says it himself, prefers to speak directly rather than through a secretary. With the president, it's much different.

This reporter, on sometime assignment in Washington, has attended Eisenhower press conferences. And while the president may be somewhat nervous, showing little irritation with the tough and "question" he can't but help show that it is an ordeal for him.

So the press briefing, for him, is the happy alternative.

The thing about Ike's press briefing is Hagerty holding a press conference; But what a press conference!

He starts off by saying he doesn't know what's been going on at the Eisenhower - Diefenbaker prime minister, and adds that he can't answer any questions.

And that's just about the way it turns out. Ike knows how. Hasn't learned. Can't find out.

So he can't say, Has nothing on this. And less on that.

That about takes care of the "hard" news, the really solid information you like to talk about the "little summit."

And right around there, the American correspondents take over. There are a few of them. So it's quite a ring-dang-do.

Did Ike rest this afternoon? How long? Did he have a good couch? Voluntarily or because Mamie told him? How did he feel refreshed. Looked OK.

What did he have for lunch? Enjoy it? Any second helpings? Crack any jokes? Talk golf? Shuffleboard? Politics?

To the White House correspondents, Ike and his health (or the lack of it) is big news. An Eisenhower press briefing is just a little like a hospital visit and medical conference.

NEUROTICS MUST TRY TO HELP CURE THEMSELVES

I don't really see why we shouldn't be able to tell patients "You are neurotic." We can tell people anything else—that they have liver, heart attacks or hemoglobin deficiencies. But if we tell 'em they have the heebyjeebies, they want to argue about it.

Why? We know perfectly well that nervousness, jitters or whatever you want to call the trouble, is very common. Also it is the cause of much unhappiness. Yet when a doctor puts his finger on that as the trouble as often as not the patient insists that he must be wrong — and then nobody gets anywhere. Take this letter, which is by no means unique.

"I am 53 and a nervous wreck. I've been to the doctor for three months for nerves, and he has prescribed tranquilizers and phenobarbital but neither seems to help.

"I have a constant palpitation in my left side, which moves up to my chest and sometimes keeps me awake. I constantly until it has me so nervous I could scream. Then my heart starts racing, and naturally I become frightened, which makes it hard for me to breathe. The doctor says it is nerves, but could it be a thyroid condition? I don't smoke. Could it be change of life? Should I consult a specialist? Or could it be a mental condition? Is it possible that I have become neurotic? I keep counting the pulse beats when this condition comes on, and I'm frantic. — Mrs. X.X."

I changed even the initials of the signature to protect her but that's all I changed.

Yes, it could be nerves. How. Hasn't heard. Can't find out.

So he can't say, Has nothing on this. And less on that.

That about takes care of the "hard" news, the really solid information you like to talk about the "little summit."

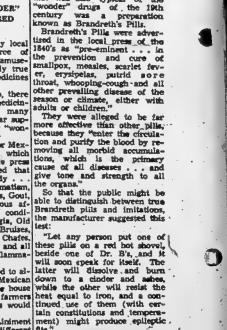
19th CENTURY" WONDER" DRUGS AND THE RED HOT SHOVEL



Advertisements in early local newspapers are a source of considerable interest and amusement. This is especially true of advertisements for medicines and drugs.

One hundred years ago, there were no restrictions on medicinal advertisements, and many products claimed to be far superior to the 20th-century "wonder" drugs.

For example, the ads for Mexican Mustang Liniment which appeared in the Belleville press in the 1850's, proclaimed that this "invaluable remedy . . . never fails to cure Rheumatism, Piles, Salt Rheum, Ulcers, Coul, Stiff Joints, all Scrodulous affections of tubes, glands, muscles (tendons), Lumbago, Neuralgia, Old Sores, Felons, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Scalds, Sprains, Contusions, Hard Lumps, or Tumors, and all forms of pain and inflammation, in man or beast."

Infant Dies In Car Crash, Parents Hurt

A four-month-old girl was killed early this morning when the car her father was driving left Highway 2, four miles east of here, hit a tree, snapped a hydro pole and rolled on its side.

Dead is Kim Fadelle, daughter of Norma and Robert Fadelle, both 19, of Digby, N.S.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Fadelle were admitted to Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Fadelle suffered a fractured spine and head injuries, while Mr. Fadelle has a fractured left leg and thigh and a possible fractured jaw.

Ontario Provincial Police believe Mr. Fadelle may have fallen asleep at the wheel. The car, which was travelling west, failed to negotiate a curve and crossed the highway to the south shoulder.

The family was en route to visit relatives in Strathroy, Ont.

U.S. Chocolate Firm Locates In Campbellford

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce announced today that the Chicago firm of Cook's Chocolates will locate at Campbellford in the near future. The building is being erected now.

R. G. Hamilton, who is secretary-manager of the Chamber, said the Belleville Industrial Commission had been trying for "at least a year" to have the firm locate here.

The Industrial Commission, he said, was able to provide accommodation for the company. We had a location picked for it."

Mr. Hamilton believed that labor costs were what made the firm go to Campbellford.

"Although I do not have the plans for the building, I believe the specifications called for floor space of 30,000 square feet," he said.

Mr. Hamilton is Belleville's industrial agent and is a member of the Industrial Commission.

British Columbia Oarsmen Win Canada's 1st Gold Medal

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — University of British Columbia oarsmen won Canada's first gold medal in the British Empire Games today.

The UBC eight-oared crew — winner at the last games in Vancouver in 1954 and silver medallist at the Olympic Games in Melbourne two years ago — was timed in five minutes, 55.1 seconds today.

Australia was second in 5:56.1 and England third in 6:18.6.

Meanwhile, track and field records were falling at Cardiff Arms Park on the third full day of competition in the 1958 games.

The first two finishers in the final of the 440-yard hurdles broke the official world record.

Geri Potgieter of South Africa won in 49.7, shaving a full second off his own recognized world mark and lowering the unratified 49.9 set up last month by Glen Davis of the United States. His old record was 50.7.

Australia's David Lean, who held the games record before today, finished in second place in 50.6.

B. Rotich of Kenya, who finished third, also exceeded Lean's 1954 games record of 52.3, which was broken a total of seven times in the various stages of the

Misses Death When Car Hits Train

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ronald H. Hill Jr. of Toronto escaped death today when his car was dragged and hurled 65 feet by a speeding Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train at Hutton sideroad crossing. His injuries were not immediately determined.

Hill was alone in the car when it was hit by the speeding two-car eastbound passenger diesel train. He was picked up several feet from the wreck of his car, from which he was loaded. The train demolished the car and scattered wreckage 200 feet along the track.

The train was delayed for an hour and 40 minutes before repairs to brakes permitted it to continue into London and on to Toronto.

Canada's George Shepherd, Port Colborne, Ont., was sixth in 52.8 seconds — the fastest time he has ever made, comparing with the Canadian native record of 54.1.

Canada Rejects 'Denuclearized' Zone Proposal

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has informed Poland that the Communist country's proposal for a denuclearized zone in Central Europe does not form a basis for negotiating a world disarmament agreement.

Canada's position was communicated to Poland in a diplomatic note dated July 9 and made public here Monday by the external affairs department. It was in reply to a note from Poland Feb. 14 outlining the proposal.

The Canadian note said it is apparent "that this (Polish) plan for a first step toward disarmament in Europe falls short of the requirements for a successful limited approach to the major problem of disarmament) and therefore could not be expected to provide a basis for negotiating an equitable agreement."

The note does not elaborate, but an official of the external affairs department said the Polish plan would make permanent the partition of Germany.

Peace and Solitude Await Princess at Cottage in Prince Albert Park, Sask.

By FARMER TISSINGTON
Canadian Press Correspondent

WASKESIU, Sask. (CP)—If a name means anything, Princess Margaret's stay at Waskesiu July 29 and 30 should be a quiet and peaceful one.

During her visit to this beautiful lake and forest resort in Saskatchewan's Prince Albert National Park, the princess will stay at Halcyon, the A. A. Murphy summer cottage on Prospect Point.

Halcyon, according to legend, was the name of a bird in ancient times that nested on the sea and charmed wind and waves into calm.

GUARDED BY RCMP

It will be the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, however, who preserve peace and quiet during the princess's overnight stay. The area surrounding Halcyon will be blocked off and patrolled by Mounties.

The lake Mrs. Murphy chose the name for the cottage. But as genial Adelbert Murphy says: "It isn't always peaceful and quiet with 14 grandchildren around."

Mr. Murphy, 74, prominent businessman and pioneer broadcaster, is president of CFQC radio and television, Saskatoon, and heads A. A. Murphy and Sons, Ltd., electrical wholesalers.

Acceptance of the offer of their cottage for the princess's visit has naturally thrilled the Murphy family. "We're certainly pleased the princess is coming here and we want to do everything possible to see that she enjoys her stay," says Mr. Murphy.

Since protocol demands that only the princess and her immediate party occupy the residence, it is unlikely members of the family will meet her there. However, they plan to be in Waskesiu during the princess's visit and will be among the thousands on hand to see her tour the beautiful Saskatchewan resort.

Summer cottage is hardly the way to describe Halcyon. It's more the kind of a dream home she expects to find in large cities.

The lower half of the building is stonework. The top half is log cabin siding, stained a rich redbrown.

The spacious upper floor living room opens onto a terrace facing northwest. It overlooks a terraced lawn, the black ribbon of highway winding into the resort townsite, a fringe of birch, poplar and spruce trees and finally, the wide sweep of Lake Waskesiu.

The living room walls and ceiling are of log cabin siding, varnished in natural color. Egyptian tapestries hang on the east and west walls.

A carved miniature sailboat from Quebec and a model Malise "ogmahas" (pronounced ay-say-so) boat rest on ledges beside the imposing south - wall sandstone fireplace.

When the princess looks about this room, she will also see a straw hat from the Isle of Capri, African Zulu spears, Chinese lanterns, a brass-wheel chandelier, antique brass ship's lamps and other odds and ends from around the world, gathered during the Murphys' frequent trips in this country and abroad.

The dining room furniture is old English. The walls are cedar veneer. The other rooms in the cottage are walled with birch, fir and knotty-cedar veneer.

BIG RUMPUS ROOM

Comfort is the keynote of the ground-floor rumpus room, with its lounge chairs, enormous gramophone and attractive knotty-cedar walls.

Extending from the granite barbecue at the rear of the cottage is a horseshoe - shaped terraced stonework patio.

Mr. Murphy, a devoted family man, enjoys most the time spent at the cottage with his grandchildren. He is an ardent golfer and the home is near a golf course.

He has been in business in Saskatoon for 47 years and July 18 marked the 35th anniversary of the establishment of CFQC radio. Born at Portland, near Belleville, Ont., he graduated in engineering of Queens University and McGill University.

A half block southwest is a log-walled cottage that once belonged to Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King.

Expect Montreal To Handle More Grain Shipments

MONTREAL (CP) — A major increase in grain movements through the port of Montreal as result of the St. Lawrence Seaway was forecast today by a McGill University research group.

In a 130-page study of the seaway's impact on Canada's largest port, the Montreal Research Council predicted:

By 1965—six years after the new international seaway is opened—Montreal can expect a net increase of 65,000,000 bushels of Canadian and United States grain, a 56-per-cent increase over current grain traffic.

GAINS FOR TORONTO

But the three-year study also warned that Montreal will lose about 1,500,000 tons of general cargo to Toronto, fast developing as a major inland terminal for ocean shipping.

These are the key conclusions in the economic outlook for grain, coal, ore, and general cargo movements through the seaway—a seven-lock, four-canal water route bypassing 133 miles of rapids in the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Lake Ontario.

The $475,000,000 seaway, to open next April, is expected to launch a growing shipping boom into North America's industrial heart by ridding the 2,000-mile river route from the Atlantic to the lakehead of the last big bottleneck to ocean freighters and lakers.

Britain Imposes 48-Hour Curfew After Five Die

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Sirens wailed at dawn today to signal a 48-hour curfew which British authorities hope will halt the mounting wave of bloody feuding between Greeks and Turks.

Governor Sir Hugh Foot ordered the second general curfew within 10 days after bombings and gunfire killed five more persons. This brought the total for one week to a record 36 dead. The death toll for the month stood at 68.

Authorities continued an investigation today into an explosion Monday near a police vehicle in Nicosia. The blast injured a policeman and in a subsequent battle eight Greek-Cypriots were injured. One died later.

A Greek Orthodox church leader, the Bishop of Kition, announced the Greek government would submit the Cyprus question to the United Nations General Assembly again within the next month.

Victory Bond Conversion Said Impressive Sum

OTTAWA (CP)—Wartime victory loan bonds totalling $1,375,000,000 were swapped for Canada conversion loan bonds in the first week after announcement of the new issue, the Bank of Canada reported today.

The bank termed this an "impressive total," and said the coming week is expected to bring a "flood" of orders. Investment dealers and chartered banks so far had been occupied mostly with providing details of the new conversion issue to their clients.

The program to have holders of $6,416,000,000 in victory bonds exchange them for the new conversion bonds was announced July 14 by Finance Minister Fleming.

Fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and ninth victory loan bonds, all paying three-per-cent interest and maturing between Jan. 1, 1959, and Sept. 1, 1965, are involved. Available for swapping are four different conversion issues ranging from three-per-cent bonds maturing in 3¼ years to 4¼-per-cent bonds maturing in 25 years.

BIG ACCOUNTS LISTED

The Bank of Canada reported that the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company of Toronto, which last week converted its entire holdings of victory bonds, purchased a further $2,150,000 for conversion.

Interest in the Canadian government offer also was reported keen in the United States, where the American Automobile Insurance Company of Newark, N.J., converted $1,050,000 in victory loan bonds and the American Insurance Company, also of Newark, arranged to take $1,735,000 in the new long-term bonds.

Other conversions reported by the Bank of Canada: Dominion Life Assurance Company, Waterloo, Ont., $2,000,000; Trust General Canada, Montreal, $1,799,000; Waite Amulet Mines Limited, Toronto, $1,000,000; Western Assurance Company, Toronto, $500,000.

Cannifton Charge DVBS Concluded

Cannifton United Church charge last week held a most successful vacation Bible School at Trinity United Church.

The theme for the week was "The World See Jesus", with the aid of a large map, the director, the Rev. R. J. McCrea instructed the children each morning, dividing the theme into five parts; Jesus is sent; Jesus chooses His life's work; Jesus teaches the people; Jesus heals the people and then that came to Jesus.

The children participated in the question and answer period memorization of Bible verses, singing of crafts which will be enjoyed.

The children from each of the Sunday Schools, in turn, took the devotions each morning — Bethany, Cannifton, Gilead and Andrews and Cannifton.

The evening for the week was missions.

On Friday evening, the parents were invited to hear the program and view the work that had been accomplished. Singing memory verses said, musical numbers and a short review of the Bible lessons were included in the program.

Certificates were given to 106, based on attendance and Bible verses learned.

The leaders of the school were Mrs. C. Huffman; Mrs. Rose Pound; Mrs. R. Hitz; Miss I. Ennsbury; Miss Shiela Hamilton; Mrs. H. Putman; Mrs. Roy Pound; Mr. W. Bradberg; Mrs. G. Brewster; Mrs. R. McCrea and Mr. D. Martin.

The helpers, the Misses Carolyn Brenton; Marilyn Tutt; Ruth Laurion; Nancy Sills and Donna Robinson.

Each leader and helper felt it was a successful and worthwhile five days and special thanks go to the director, Mr. R. J. McCrea for his leadership and counselling.

MISS JEAN MacGREGOR BOSWELL

Miss Jean MacGregor Boswell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keith Boswell, Victoria, Prince Edward Island, whose engagement to Mr. Everett Charles Howatt, also of Victoria, Prince Edward Island, has been announced. The marriage will take place in the United Church, there, on July 26th at 3.30 p.m. Last year Miss Boswell was the director of Christian education at Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

Ward Receives Gifts From St. John Cadets

The Cadets of the St. John Ambulance Corps recently presented to the paediatric ward of the Belleville General Hospital, a table and chairs, and many attractive children's reading chairs, for the playroom. Peter White, Mary Dawkins and Valerie Smith, accompanied by Mrs. C. Ashley and Mrs. M. Reid, of the St. John Ambulance Corps made the presentation to Lynden Greenwood, director of nursing, and Mrs. V. Tompkins, head nurse of the paediatric ward.

The Cadets had raised the money for the gifts by purchases of articles through projects under taken by the local members.

Empire Line Features New Italian Styles

Milan designer Avagodi showed the pencil straight of the basic morning new fashion, a loosely knitted white mohair chemise, with short sleeves and high roll collar and a knitted tie to girdle the dress just below the bosom.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynden Warner Thomlison are shown cutting the wedding cake in Sisco Lake hotel following their recent marriage in St. Edmund's Church, Sisco. THOMLISON — HEALEY

Pink and white Canterbury bells, and Sweet Williams adorned the altar of St. Edmund's Church, Sisco basets of white peonies and ferns the sanctuary, and white satin bows designated the guest pews for a recent summer wedding when, the Reverend C. E. Baker united in a double-ring ceremony, Margaret Anne Healey, of Sisco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Healey, to Lynden Warner Thomlison, of Dacre, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norris J. Thomlison.

Miss Clara Mulroney organist played the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mr. Ronald Cassidy, of Tweed, who sang, "Our Father" and "Ave Maria."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of floor-length, white nylon tricot over net and satin, fashioned with pointed bodice, having a Sweetheart neckline and long, pointed sleeves. A tiara headdress of sequins and pearls held her finger-tip veil of embroidered tulle illusion and she carried a semi-cascade of red roses. A single strand of pearls and matching earrings completed her ensemble.

Miss Rosemary Healey, of Sisco, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Bonnie Thomlinson sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Gerald Dowding, sister of the bride, were go-ured alike in ballerina length of romance-blue tricot over taffeta, featuring rounding necklines "V" pointed at the back with hemline, cascading streamers of matching material. They wore white, picture hats and carried nosegays of yellow roses and white mums with tiny pearl necklaces and matching earrings, the gift of the bride, complementing their ensembles.

Mr. Murray Thomlison attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Fred Lucciola, and Cecil Smith, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the bridegroom's home in Sisco, where a turkey dinner was served to approximately ninety guests. The bride's mother received wearing a black suit and corsage of red roses.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy nylon with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

The table, with white damask, was centred by an all-white wedding cake in three tiers, accented with golden leaves, and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Later, small showers of confetti and good wishes, the happy couple left by motor for Ottawa; Chalk River, Quebec; and other northern points. The bride donned a travelling costume of blue in form - fitting style, with pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Masterson are residing at 101 Great St. James Street, Belleville.

Guests were present from Stenbury; Belleville; Chalk River, Quebec; Kingston; Marysville; Tweed; Stirling, and Sisco.

MASTERSON — SMITH

Pink snapdragons and white peonies adorned the altar of St. Edmund's Church, Sisco, for a recent pretty summer wedding when Ida Lillian Doreen, only daughter of Mrs. Charles Smith, of Sisco, and the late Mr. Smith, became the bride of George Joseph Masterson, of Sisco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Masterson. The Reverend C. E. Baker, P. P. officiated at the double-ring ceremony, and celebrated the nuptial mass.

Miss Clara Mulroney presided at the organ, and Mrs. Fergus Cassidy, soloist, sang, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "At Dusk" "Feet We Are Kneeling," and "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Thomas Lucas, of Belleville, was charming in her strapless, bridal gown with fitted bodice of imported Chantilly lace and floor-length skirt of scalloped lace fashioned in three tiers. The matching lace jacket featured a Peter-Pan collar, edged in mother-of pearl, and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in lily-points. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a mother-of-pearl headdress, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Lois Masterson, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, gowned in a strapless, ballerina-length gown of pink lace and net over taffeta, three-quarter length gloves, and pink net headdress with bouquet of white mums.

The bridesmaids, the Misses Barbara Dever, and Helen Masterson, sister of the bridegroom, were similarly attired in ballerina, pink and blue gowns, respectively, with matching gloves, matching headdresses and carrying white mums.

Little Nona Susan Masterson, niece sister of the bridegroom, was a demure and sweet flower girl, attired in ballerina frock of pink satin, matching gloves, and headdress ,and carrying a bouquet of mixed carnations and mums.

Master Dale Smith, brother of the bride, was ring-bearer.

Mr. Cameron Smith attended his brother as groomsman, while Messrs. Fred Lucciola, and Cecil Smith, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the bridegroom's home in Sisco, where a turkey dinner was served to approximately ninety guests. The bride's mother received wearing a black suit and corsage of red roses.

She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in navy nylon with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

The table, with white damask, was centred by an all-white wedding cake in three tiers, accented with golden leaves, and topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Later, small showers of confetti and good wishes, the happy couple left by motor for Ottawa; Chalk River, Quebec; and other northern points. The bride donned a travelling costume of blue in form - fitting style, with pink accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Masterson are residing at 101 Great St. James Street, Belleville.

Guests were present from Stenbury; Belleville; Chalk River, Quebec; Kingston; Marysville; Tweed; Stirling, and Sisco.

NICOL — McKAY

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Manse, Belleville, was the setting for a recent pretty, but quiet wedding when the Reverend R. D. MacLean united in marriage Edith Lamoine McKay of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McKay, to Robert John Nicol, of Glasgow, Scotland, son of Mrs. John Nicol (Mary Hill), and the late Mr. John Nicol.

The bride was attractively attired in blue lace over taffeta in street length, with white picture hat, gloves and shoes and bouquet of red roses.

Her only attendant was Miss Georgina Way of Belleville, who wore a yellow nylon over taffeta in street length, with white accessories and headdress, and carried a bouquet of yellow and mauve baby 'mums.

Mr. Telford McKay of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony the reception was held at the bride's home, where the bridal table was appointed with white lilies, beneath white wedding bells and streamers and white wedding streamers and centred by a two-tier all white wedding cake.

For travelling the bride wore the bride chose a light green chemise dress with white accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Nicol will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville and Kingston.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained by Mrs. Agnes Loveless at a miscellaneous shower and by Miss Shirley Loveless and Miss Georgina Way as co-hostesses when she was honored by a personal showey.

Women of South Viet Nam Fighting for Equal Rights

By BRUCE RUSSELL

SAIGON (Reuters) — Women's organizations in South Viet Nam are engaged in a fight for equal rights for their sex, including the suppression of concubinage.

The fight is led by Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, sister- in -law of President Ngo Dinh Diem, and one of the six women members of the National Assembly.

A petite, good-looking woman, Madame Nhu has at her command probably the most charming "army" that ever fought the battle of female emancipation.

VISITORS CHARMED

The Vietnamese women, with their slim figures and graceful deportment, have charmed visitors to this country from the historians of early French colony to Graham Greene, author of "The Quiet American, best - selling story with a modern Vietnamese setting.

They wear a distinctive costume of white silk trousers, a close-fitting neck- to -ankle dress slit at the sides from the waist downwards, and a wide conile hat tied under the chin with a ribbon.

But Madame Nhu thinks that in spite of the attractiveness and ability of Vietnamese women, their social position is "very bad." She says that Vietnamese wives are forced by law to give absolute obedience to their husbands, or they are in danger of being disowned.

A man may have as many mistresses as he likes, she says, but bans polygamy and concubinage.

His wife may not sue him for adultery unless he brings one of his mistresses into the conjugal home. And, she adds, "he is certainly not likely to do that."

TREATED AS MINORS

Even in business affairs, where Vietnamese women have shown themselves extremely competent, they are not allowed to sign for transactions but must always be represented by their husbands.

"Vietnamese women are considered as eternal minors, along with children and the insane," Madame Nhu explains.

To overcome these disadvantages, Madame Nhu has worked since her country won independence from the French in 1954 to push through a far-reaching program which eventually will give women equal rights with men.

Her plan was first to organize women's groups such as women civil servants and wives of civil servants, and then to set up social welfare projects, such as child care centres and first aid posts.

At present, she is engaged in pushing through the third stage of her programme, laws to protect the status of women.

CONTROVERSIAL BILL

The bill she prepared and presented to the National Assembly, known as the family law, is one of the most controversial pieces of legislation in the republic's short history. In one sweep, it

World of Haute Couture Is Ruled by Superstitions

By PEGGY MASON

PARIS (Reuters) — The fashion world of the Paris haute couture is ruled by superstitions and idiosyncrasies.

No African witch doctor ever surrounded himself with as many charms and talismans or believed in as many omens as the designers, mannequins, saleswomen and seamstresses in the French dressmaking houses.

Designers are notoriously superstitious, and the majority patronize astrologers and fortune-tellers to establish the most favorable date on which to show each new collection. The late Christian Dior and Castillo of Lanvin consulted the same woman fortune-teller for years.

HATES CARNATIONS

Jean Desses dislikes Tuesdays, and refuses to open a collection for press or buyers on that day. Desses also believes that a stopped clock is unlucky, and insists that every timepeace in his establishment be kept running smoothly.

Flowers and colors come in for their share of superstition. Guy Laroche detests carnations and avoids them in fabric prints or as floral decorations. The late Jacques Fath hated chrysanthemums, but used the light of the Valley almost as freely as the same floral trademark appears at the House of Dior.

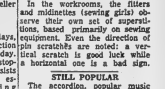
Castillo has an aversion to all shades of green. It is likewise generally considered bad luck in all couture workrooms to use either green or pink thread to baste the seams of a dress.

Saleswomen consider that if the first order of a new season happens to be a black dress or costume, the coming months will prove to be poor financially. It is also bad luck to inaugurate a new salesorder book with a cancellation.

Fashion mannequins have a cult of idiosyncrasies unique to themselves. Each individual dressing room is littered with an array of charms, mascots, pills, potions and ointments. Each girl has her own private dressing table, and she would consider it unlucky to share mor or - exchange her habitual place.

HYMNS BANNED

The worst faux pas in the dressing room is to whistle or sing a hymn while changing clothes during the showing of a collection, while shoes or umbrellas must never accidentally be placed on a table, even for an instant.



The sleeves of a dress should never be drawn inside out as the garment is taken off.

The mannequins frequently influence the designer to a great extent, and if a girl actively dislikes some dress she is required to wear, the designer or director of the house will usually not insist that she continue to wear it, believing that the model is destined to failure.

In the workrooms, the fitters and midinettes (sewing girls) observe their own set of superstitions, based primarily on sewing equipment. Even the direction of pin scratches are noted: a vertical scratch is good luck while a horizontal one is a bad sign.

STILL POPULAR

The according, popular music instrument, was invented by Damian of Vienna in 1829.

McINTOSH BROS.
LADIES! Here's Timely Advice From Our Hosiery Department
This summer for the first time in years, is a big stocking season. Bare legs are by-goners. Sun tans can no longer do for legs what colored hosiery can. Merely a blue or green film —a hint on pink or gold and a woman's legs are fashion clad. It's blue hose, madam, with blue shoes; pink-red for the red shoe craze; green or gold for your beige costumes. Skirts are riding higher, correct tinted hosiery is now a must.

Here you see Mary about to serve the Gaspe salmon with Mayonnaise. Aspic described in the copy herewith. This salmon weighed nearly 10 pounds and served 10 Press Clubbers. The casseroles at right are veal and kidney pies — recipes for which will appear tomorrow.

A Salmon From Gaspe Stole The Show

by Mary Moore

A Press Club garden party and a meeting between Pete and Marianne and Herbie in Paris are competing for first place.

How I ever kept my equilibrium after the mailman arrived I don't know but must have done for the food on the buffet table is the party wowed the girls—which was exactly my intention. They are all so easily satisfactory.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

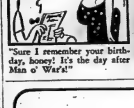
(Buffet Meal with Guests)
Jellied Ham Loaf (see Monday); Mustard Pickles; Dee's Macaroni-Crunch Salad (see Monday); Hot Crumbed Fried Eggplant; Double-Crust Raspberry, Mulberry or Saskatoon Pie with Baumert Cheese; Coffee.

I was spooning the mayonnaise aspic over the cooked salmon, I teaspoon at a time, when I heard the mailman. Sure enough there was one of those blessed striped air mail letters "from Pete." Tonight we meet Marianne and Herbie at the Arc de Triomphe! We'll be their guides (Pete and Dan are week-old Parisiennes by now!) and let them buy our dinner!"

But I must get on with that salmon while it is still fresh in my mind and will give you more Paris talk later in the week.

For this coming club year my sister Peady is president and I am social convener of our branch of the C.W.P.C. so we wanted the garden party to be memorable. We were invited to the country home of Mrs. John Garthorn, daughter of "Kit" the late Mrs. Kathleen Blake Coleman, first president of C.W.P.C. It was a glorious spot and another highlight in our long list of shining Press Club events.

GASPE SALMON WITH MAYONNAISE ASPIC



I ordered a cleaned and beheaded Gaspe salmon. It weighed nearly 9½ lbs., and cost $8.55. I happily lugged it home and wrapped it in a 1-yard-square cotton tea towel. I carved it to make it fit the big roaster on the trivet and two-thirds submerged it in boiling water and simmered it covered 1 hour. I let it stand in the cooking water one-half hour longer then lifted it out and peeled off cloth and skin, then transferred it to a big double thick sheet of heavy foil to make shifting it to the platter less hazardous. The dorsal side was up the curve making this necessary and desirable.

When it had cooled to room temperature I wiped up some excess liquid which had drained on to the foil then garnished it down its entire backbone with thin scallops of green pepper and filled each curve with 2 slices of stuffed olive and dotted some capers along too. Meanwhile I made the Mayonnaise Aspic: Soak 4 teaspoons gelatine in ¼ cup cold water 5 minutes then dissolve in ¾ cup boiling water. When cooled to room temperature stir in 1 cup genuine thick mayonnaise. Before this gets spoon some carefully along the garnish to fix it in place, allowing it to drip down the sides. Before you are finished all of the fish is to be covered with the aspic so work patiently and steadily with your spooning and dripping. What falls to the foil spoon up and drip on again. Refrigerate until glaze is set. Carefully transfer to silver platter or tray and garnish lavishly with lemon lettuce leaves, tomato and lemon wedges, radish roses and stuffed olives. A glorious color picture which drew raves. More other items on buffet table later this week.

GOOD MANNERS

— By Mrs. Beeckman —

THE ALWAYS-CORRECT WAY TO ACKNOWLEDGE AN INTRODUCTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I are eager readers of your column, and we're having a good time learning what's what. (We like this term you often use, we've adopted it for our own use, and we thank you for your answers to the questions we have sent you concerning what's what.) Now we have a question most important to us;

When we acknowledge an introduction what is the really correct thing to say? Is there a rule about this that covers all introductions? We have been seriously wondering about this, because one hears so many different things said to acknowledge an introduction. Thank you for your advice about this.

— We Two Sisters

Say "How do you do" as you acknowledge an introduction and you will be right. "How do y u do" is the standard reply — it is the only acknowledgment t h a t can be called a rule. An what a comfort this is! Remember three things about this: (1) When you say "How do you do" to acknowledge an introduction, you will be right; (2) when you call the person's name . . . "How do you do, Mrs. Allen," or "How do you do, Mr. Blake," . . . you will show you are polite and attentive; and (3) when you say your "How do you do" with a gracious manner and a pleasant voice, you will reveal a very special social grace.

You're so right when you a y that "one hears so many different things said to acknowledge an introduction." Here are some examples of incorrect things to say: "I am pleased to meet you," or worse, "Pleased to meet you"; or "Glad to know you," or worse "Glad to know you, I'm sure", or "Charmed," or wo'se, "Charmed, I'm sure"; or "Pleased to make your acquaintance." Throw them all away. All you need is "How do you do."

FORM OF ADDRESS FOR SERVANTS TO USE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

By what name should servants address the daughter-in-law of their employers (the "Johnsons")? Assuming that they call the son "Mr. Edward," should they call his wife "Miss Mary," "Mrs. Mary," "Mrs. Edward," "Mrs. Johnson"?

Edward Johnson," or "Mrs. Johnson"? The latter can be most confusing. I have been addressed in each of these ways. — M.

In the household of the son's parents, the servants would properly address the son's wife as "Mrs. Johnson" . . . except in circumstances when it would be necessary, for more definite identification (for example, when a servant may be taking a telephone message for the son's wife), to say or write the full name, "Mrs. Edward Johnson." (In a large, formal household, the servants customarily use "Madam" instead of, for example, "Mrs. Johnson.")

Bevy of Blouses

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

There is a wide selection of blouses at every price level and in every style, one and all dedicated to doing right by the summer wardrobe, no matter the activity or occasion. Fine to wear with skirts or shorts is the blouse of striped cotton knit with a detachable collar of white linen. The black and white stripes are used in different directions to define yoke, sleeves and body of the blouse. The overblouse is of white sharkskin, the fabric synthetic, which means easy care. For a pretty trim there is a ribbon band that slips through self-loops and bows in front.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Sally S. — I'm afraid to elope.

Dick V. — I don't want to wait any longer.

Sally S. — I am 20 years old, the eldest of a family of six. I am very much in love with a man I have gone with for the past year and a half. Dick is 28 and has a good job and wants to get married right away.

When I told my parents I wanted to get married they hit t h e roof. My father says I'm too young, and that I should be working and contributing to the family's support for at least another five years. My mother says that if Dick is too old for me. I now give my parents about three-fourths of my salary.

Dick wants me to elope with him and we made our plans, but at the last minute I just lost my nerve. I don't want to make my parents angry. I'm afraid they'll never speak to me again. But I don't want to lose Dick.

Dick V. — I told Sally if s h e doesn't elope with me very soon, I'm just going to give up. I don't think it's at all fair of her parents to try to tie us to wait for five years. Even though we've known one another only a year and a half, it seems to me like five years already.

I realize I'm a lot older t h a n Sally, but just the same I think she's old enough to get married and I don't want to wait m u c h longer. My parents like Sally very much and are in favor of our eloping.

I think Sally's parents just don't want to lose her yet. But they've got to some day. Besides, it's unfair that they take so much of her money. She should be allowed to save something for her own home. Her parents will ruin her life.

The Council: If Sally is giving a true report of her parents' position, she is indeed, in a very unfortunate spot. Her father's demand for money for the support of his children is unfair and her mother's argument that Dick is too old is a very flimsy excuse.

In spite of this, we feel D i c k should try to ease up a bit on his pressure for an immediate elopement. If he sincerely loves Sally he will give her a little more time to understand her own feelings and arrive at a decision. Sally, on the other hand, should try to reach a clear-cut decision quickly and not keep Dick on the string.

Most individuals have s o m e doubts and hesitations about marriage. In a happy home with intelligent and co-operative parents a girl like Sally would have a chance to talk out her feelings. If her parents had no reasonable objections to the young man, t h e y would realize that her a little encouragement or advise her to wait until she feels more certain. Sally cannot talk things out with her parents because their suspicion is overwhelming at present. The normal amount of anxiety any girl might feel before marriage is magnified by h e r fear of her parents' anger. Possibly Sally has not given her parents are right — that she's too young, Dick is too old, and that she really could do better. In the next few years contributing to the support of this family.

If Dick keeps applying pressure, Sally will be forced either to give him up or become guilty in violation of her own conscience. Without pressure, Sally will be free to try to fully understand her own feelings and h e r parents' attitude. If she decides she really wants Dick, she should recognize that she is within h e r rights and should find the courage to tell her parents so.

Novice Pilot And Passenger Perish in Crash

SIMCOE, Ont. (CP)—A plane crash Monday claimed the lives of a pilot making his first flight since getting a licence and a passenger making his first air trip.

Pilot John Stoner, 22, died in hospital after surgery early today. Passenger Robert de Fotte, 21, died in the crash.

The two men, both from Niagara Falls, Ont., were flying in a single - engine Cessna aircraft when it crashed at Long Point Beach on Lake Erie, 20 miles south of here.

Witnesses said the craft was making a second pass over a beach cottage owned by a friend of the two men when it struck a power pole, plunged into a tree and crashed from a height of 40 feet. Hundreds of persons saw it happen.

Police said the plane was owned by the Welland Flying Club.

No Teacher Students Must Leave Home

PELEE ISLAND (CP) — The board of education on Pelee Island said Monday seven high school students will have to leave their homes to attend school in the fall because the island has been unable to hire a teacher.

The students will stay in Leamington at the island's expense.

The cost of boarding the students in Leamington will be $4,000 compared with $8,000 paid last year for a teacher.

The board would have preferred to hire a teacher so the children could stay at home, Mrs. Dorothy Lidwill, board secretary said.

HOG PRODUCERS!

"A "Yes" Vote on July 25th for The Ontario Hog Marketing Plan Ensures you of these benefits:

1. Your rights as farmers and owners of hogs to establish bargaining power through group action in marketing.
2. Modern marketing methods. You have licked many production problems. The Hog Co-Op is the modern answer to your hog marketing problems.
3. Selling for highest price. Skilled salesmen at the Hog Co-Op bring you the highest possible prices. Since the plan went into effect, Ontario hog prices have been generally higher than prices anywhere in Canada.
4. Long and short term benefits. The present intelligent marketing plan lays the foundation for long term planning. You know you have an equal voice in the market, and now have as much planning in the marketing as production.
5. Democratic Marketing. Your local elected representatives have a right to carry your wishes into annual meetings and to help set policy for future action under the marketing plan.
6. Independence, freedom and security. You are independent of non-farm groups because of your group power. You have freedom to produce your hogs and manage your farm business as you wish. Your security is assured both materially and spiritually because you have the support of other hog producers.

VOTE YES — YOU WILL NOT HAVE ANOTHER CHANCE FOR TWO YEARS BY REGULATION TO VOTE THIS PLAN INTO OPERATION.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Tonight the shooting war opens on two fronts of the Belleville District Softball League.

The powerful Ox Foisters from Foxton Annex, who won the league leadership with twelve victories and two defeats, crow swords with their youthful counterparts from Trenton in the first game of the three-in-five semi-finals bracket.

In the other half Temple's Tabbies, with fire in their eyes and determination in their bats, trek to Cobourg to take on the second-place Merchants of the lakeside town.

While Bill Shaw's loop-leaders from Ox Point are favored to take their bracket, they are not anticipating a walkaway since the ironsters from the town to the west have proved they have the potential to give the Foisters a stiff battle. They upset the dope and Pat Marsch in their last league meeting by handing the Shawmen their second defeat of the season.

If Charlie Drake's proteges get the pitching and the rest of the squad is "up" you can look for a tidy battle tonight at the Point. The game gets under way at seven o'clock.

The bleacher coaches and the sidelines' experts, however, claim that the "blood" series, and they mean it figuratively, will be the three-of-five between the Bouncing Bobcats and "Sleepy" Dave and his not-so-languid teammates of the Merchants from Cobourg.

Tonight is the big one for both the Tabbies and the Merchants. Both teams are fully aware of the game's importance and both will go all out to cop the nod in the first battle.

As certain as the dawn will silver the eastern horizon tomorrow morn, the Merchants will send their "Sleepy" out against the not-so-popular Tabcats of Temple tonight. "Sleepy" started against the overgrown Kittens twice during the schedule, and twice he sent them home with defeats locked in their fur. Tonight he was a no-hitter and the other the slow-starter of the Merchants allowed but three safeties.

All of which, says the Cats, ready and rarin' to go, is water under the bridge and this is a new ball game. They are well-cued and figure their bludgeons can solve the shoots of the wily "Sleepy" one in the playdowns.

If another second-runner is permitted, it is quite likely "Casey" Temple will send southpaw Bobby Green against the Merchants in tonight's opener. It could be he will give his ace, Bobby Hull, the first call, but from this corner it looks doubtful. The odds favor the Merchants to take tonight's tilt, and if the dope is right and Temple uses Green, he will have Hull as his ace-in-the-hole for the important second game of the series scheduled for the CNRA Park here Friday evening.

Still out on the well-known limb, and not knowing the innermost plans or strategy of Marsie Phil Lott, it is likely he will give righthander Al Carkner the job of setting back the Trenton youngsters in tonight's playoff inaugural, with Ole Rubber-Arm Pat Marsola getting the nod for the second joust in Trenton Thursday night.

The Trenton youngsters will have Gord Maroney on the hillock, if, is likely, as he is the hurler who set the Foisters back on their haunches at the clubs' final league meeting. "Maroney is ever-ago in junior ranks and will join the Ox Foisters when they conclude the series with the Legion youngsters.

Ron Wannamaker and Howard Cole round out the Juniors' mound corps with Wanamaker, also over-age for junior playdowns, joining the Bobcats when they hit the OASA intermediate AA trail.

Cole, a neat hurler with a good fast ball and control, which weakens when runners are on the paths, seems to be the Trenton Juniors mainstay when they hit the OASA Junior "A" playdowns probably against the starry Oshawa club in the first round. Manager Charlie Drake made spirited efforts to secure Bobby Hull for the playdowns but the OASA brass vetoed the move and that was that.

MIDGETS HERE FRIDAY.

Little Beaver, the incomparable midget "rassler" and his quartet of pint-size grapplers pay a return visit to Memorial Arena come Friday evening, Beaver will switch partners for the best, exchanging Cowboy Bradley for Tiny Tim Infante, a Spanish Don, who is every bit as fast and as good as any of them. Across the ring will be the famous miniature villains, Fuzzy Cupid and Ski-Lo-Jo.

The main bout looms as one of the best of the current season with the popular Wilbur Snyder back again to match wits and knees against the unpopular Big Bill Miller of the Miller trio of brothers. Ed Miller will open the festivities against Leo Garibaldi.

Cards Nudge Braves; Giants Lead League By Game

Flood's 14-Inning Home Run Gives Lew Burdette 8th Loss; Redlegs Belt Chicago Cubs

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

What makes the National League race so tough? A playing pattern that gives you a three-game sweep from a club that's skidding to seven consecutive defeats one week, then getting bopped by the same bunch of guys a week later.

As the Milwaukee Braves and the Chicago Cubs.

The Braves, with a chance to regain first place from idle San Francisco, blew 3-0 and 4-3 leads Monday night and were beaten 5-4 in 14 innings by the St. Louis Cardinals. Curt Flood's sixth homer gave it to the Cards, who lost their 5 in a row to the Braves at St. Louis a week ago.

And the Cubs, who swept Cincinnati in three last week, were belted 9-4 by the Redlegs Monday night in the only other game scheduled.

The games were scheduled in the American League.

The turn-about left the Braves a full game behind the Giants, who open a road trip tonight at Philadelphia. They complete a suspended game of June 22 before getting a regularly scheduled game out of the way. The Giants led 1-0 with the Phils at bat, with men on first and third, in the sixth inning when the curfew fell last month.

The Cubs now are just a game ahead of the fourth-place Cardinals. Six games behind the Giants. The Reds jumped from eighth to fifth.

BURDETTE LED

Lew Burdette, whose terror gave the Cardinals a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning, was handed a 4-3 lead on Joe Adcock's 13th homer in the Milwaukee seventh. But Wally Moon, who earlier had singled home a run, then sent it into extra innings with a ninth-inning homer, his second off Burdette, now 8-8 after winning five in a row. He gave up 10 hits in the 14-inning haul.

The winning run was reliever Bill Wight, who blanked the Braves in four hits over the last 4 2-3 innings for his first National League victory.

The Redlegs breezed against the Cubs, although Harvey Haddix had his troubles in the ninth before gaining a 6-5 record with his third victory over Chicago. Cal Neeman, who belted a two-run double earlier, hit his ninth homer and Vinny Taylor doubled with one out, but Haddix wrapped it up after Taylor was nailed at the plate trying to score on a single.

Rookie Marion Solis lost his first major league decision as George Crowe lined a bases-loaded double for two runs in the fourth. And two more scored on a force out and Roy McMillan's single.

Games Record

CARDIFF (CP) — A pair of lopsided triumphs by Australia's swimmers sent her to the top of the British Empire Games unofficial point standings Monday night as England countered with gold medals in fencing and diving to remain within a point of the leaders.

Based on a 10-5-4-3-2-1 count for the first six finishers each final, the standings showed Canada a distant third.

The standings:

Marlins Edge Montreal 3-2; Leafs Blanked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mickey McDermott's reluctance to ride the American League's Detroit Tigers' bench is bringing joy into the hearts of the Miami Marlins.

The International League Marlins are getting some double duty from the veteran McDermott. He has been used in the outfield because of his hitting and to keep his hand in the game Monday night defeated the league-leading Montreal Royals 3-2 for his third victory in six decisions.

Other IL action saw Havana win a suspended game of action 23, 4-0 from Toronto Maple Leafs then return and take the regularly scheduled affairs 3-2. Richmond knocked off Buffalo 7-3 and Columbus split a doubleheader with Rochester, winning the opener 4-2 and dropping the second 5-2.

McDermott asked Detroit to send him to Miami so that he could play regularly and maybe find a home as an outfielder-first baseman. Miami got some mileage out of him in both respects last year.

HITS EIGHTH HOMER

Monday night Chuck Esegian took care of the hitting dept., slamming his eighth homer with two on in the fifth inning to overcome a 2-0 Montreal lead. McDermott, a 4-6 pro, got four double plays in the first six innings, allowed only six hits in beating Rene Valdes (10-6).

The suspended game was sent to Don Johnson, now with the National League - leading San Francisco Giants. Emilio Cuccie won the completed game with help from Orlando Pena. Jim Pearce lost his fourth.

Havana scored two in the first inning, added another in the second on a single and Cuccie's triple, and wound it up in the seventh with two more. Toronto scored single runs in the seventh and eighth inning.

Lefty Jack Sanzler belted a home run and double for Richmond. Dave Johnson also walloped a homer for the Vees, as Dave Newhick lost his eighth for Buffalo in the three times they've shut him out against Richmond.

Columbus routed it to third place with their opening game victory but Bob Kuzava and Lynn Lovenguth were knocked out in the nightcap with a combined six hits.

Whammy Douglas got his 10th victory, three over Rochester, in the opener with help from Lois Arroyo.

Guelph Merchants' aces into pennant contention in the Senior Intercounty baseball race as he came to a temporary halt Monday night after 13 innings of battle with the powerful Woodstock Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Merchants, who had won four of their last five games, finally bowed to the Dutchies 6-5 when Charlie Hanna drove in the winner with a single.

They are now 2½ games back of the leading Oakville Oaks, Kitchener moved to within a half game of the leaders.

The battle for the basement in the nine-team league continued in Hamilton with Brantford Red Sox taking a 3-2 11-inning bitter contest from Stelco.

BLANKET FINISH

Women Grab Spotlight In British Empire Games

Crack 2 World Swim Marks Unknown Snatches Dive Win; Mere Males Take Over Today

By JACK SULLIVAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP)—People would think these 1958 British Empire Games belonged to the women. But this is likely to be changed by today as the men take over in the track and field events and in rowing and sculling.

The women gobbled up the attention by cracking two world titles in swimming, the only world marks to go by the boards, and then set the pressure on their two sweethearts with an upset in the springboard diving. Little-known Chuy Mendoza of Mexico City and also at Lake Padzen, scene of the rowing, got her berth at here.

The finals of all rowing and sculling events are scheduled for the northerly resort spot with the Canadians in the eights, fours and pairs and sculls in both double sculls. At the same time in Cardiff seven treadmill finals will be run for men—will be on the line. Taking part are two more Canadians. Gerhardus Potgieter of South Africa in the 440-yard hurdles and Dave Thomas in the trials of Alberta, Thomas, in the three miles.

CRACKS WORLD MARK

Most of the Games drama was packed into a couple of hours Tuesday night when Dawn Fraser, the slim sun - bronzed lass from Australia cracked her own world record in the women's 110-yard freestyle. The 20-year-old Adelaide girl slapped one-tenth of a second off the mark with a time of 1:04.4 while leading the great Aussie team to a one-two-three finish.

The 100-metre Olympic champion took over as the Games title-holder from Irene Crapp who placed second with 1:03.8 and 16-year-old Alva Colquhoun, whose main ambition is to become a police dog trainer, third in 1:04.6.

The three women hardly had time to get dried when the Aussie male team members followed with an other one-two finish in the short sprint.

John Devitt, world record holder in the 110, touched just inches ahead of Gary Chapman, Sydney native who has become a police dog trainer, third in 54.6. Ian Black, fellow Australian, was third in 57.0.

Devitt set the Games record of 56.3 in a heat Saturday night.

CANADIAN MARKS

It was a fairly profitable night for the Canadian swimmers and divers, led by Miss MacDonald, while Jack Griffiths—Marcel Gosselin of Quebec and Adrien Gilbert of Bagotville, Que.—picked up bronze medals for a Canadian haul of three medals for the day and seven for the Games so far.

Canada had finalists in, both swimming events but they didn't have a chance against the Australians. Margaret Lwasaki of Vancouver was sixth in the women's sprints and Cameron Grout of Montreal finished a surprising fourth behind the Aussies in the men's events.

Sara Barber of Brantford qualified for the women's 110-yard backstroke when she came third in her heat but her time of 1:15.4 was well off the best of the night —1:13.1, a Games record—by England's Judy Grinham.

Peter Bell of Winnipeg was third in his heat of the men's 220-yard breastroke but his time of 2:54.3 wasn't good enough to reach the final. Terry Gathercole of Australia broke the Games record for the event when he won his heat in 2:41.2. The previous mark was 2:52.6 set in 1954.

Bill Patrick of Calgary, the 1954 Games champion, was second after five heats in the men's springboard.

CANADA IS THIRD

Australia and England continued to dominate the unofficial point standings with Canada a distant third. Based on a 10-5-4-3-2-1 count for the first six finalists in each event, the standings gave the Australians a lead of a single point with 84 to England's 83.

Canada had 40.

The over-all Aussie bag of gold medals reached five — four for swimming—while the springboard diver and individual men's fencing champion increased England's bag to four. Apart from Jamaica, with four opening-day victories in track and field, nb other country had more than one.

Raymond Paul brought Britain her second fencing gold medal by winning the individual foils event as Canadian manager, Coach Carl Schwende of Montreal finished fifth.

Other gold medalists were weightlifters.

Reginald Gaffley, a storekeeper from Capetown, South Africa, wiped out the 1950 record of 652 pounds in the featherweight division with a total lift of 660 pounds. England's Ronald Brownbill inherited 630 pounds for the silver medal and Canada's Gosselin took third with a total of 615.

Blair Bedham of the Barbados took the middleweight crown with a total of 795 pounds. Norman McArthur of Trinidad lifted the same total weight but was dropped to second because of heavier body weight. Canada's Gilbert got the bronze medal with a total of 785.

BOWLERS FAREWELL

Canada's lawn bowlers fared well as pairs when Alex Houston and George Dewar combined both their first matches to move into a four-way tie for first place. But the crown was eliminated and only three of the eight bowlers survived.

The night's last event—the diving—was the one with the most suspense.

Miss MacDonald, who recently won the U.S. championships, had one bad dive Monday night which meant the difference between the gold and silver medal.

"That was the worst dive of my life," complained, she said in an interview. Upset and tearful, the Canadian girl said she "exercised so poorly," but quickly added, "I have no alibi."

She said she had "rubber legs" since she came here and that she became nervous when "everybody said I'd win."

Miss MacDonald entered the final with a slight lead over Elizabeth Ferris, 17-year-old Middlesex girl, but the third dive was her second behind 24-year-old Miss Ryan. The gold medalist came up with a superb dive—a back-ward one-and-one-half somersault layout—to go ahead 101.07 points against 100.93 and that was it.

The Canadian girl made a sensational last dive—a bac. one and one-half twisting somersault—to far best, of the night but she couldn't close the gap. "I guess you can't be on all the time," she said. "I'm disappointed."

Ball Tops Canadian Amateur T.A. Carruthers Shoots a 74

By W. R. WHEATLEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The last chance for a qualifying berth in the Canadian amateur golf championship was up for grabs today and the scramble for many was still wide open.

Of the 121 golfers who completed Monday's first 18 -holes qualifying round, 67 shot scores of 76 or better.

The man who showed the way was 34-year-old Gordie Ball of Toronto Weston who wrenched four strokes off the Scarboro Golf Club's par 71 to finish with 67.

If the ideal weather of the first round holds through today, a qualifying score of 150 to 152 for the 36-hole test is likely. There were 16 scratches Monday in the original field of 186 and one golfer retired.

CLASS BY HIMSELF

Ball was in a class by himself. He was a member of Ontario's Willingdon Cup team which won the interprovincial team title last and his first-round effort was two strokes better than any body else.

Toree Americans were alone in the 80 bracket. They were Jack Lotz of Miami Beach, Fla., Robert Rue of Milwaukee and Jack Marin Gardner of Chicago.

Ball and Stanovich supplied the extra thrills with eagles, the Toronto golfer also recovering brilliantly to get a par after driving out on bounds at the seventh hole.

Par was broken by 13 golfers, eight Canadians and six Americans.

Six Canadians were among the group of nine who finished with one-under-par 70. Five of them shot 36 on each nine, against 34-35 par. They were Doug Hajas of Vancouver, John Munroe of Sydney, N.S., Bob Kidd of Vancouver, Ward Wettlaufer of Belleville, N.Y. and veteran Jack Nash of London, Ont.

MATCH AMERICANS

Bruce Stanton of Toronto and Wilf Homenluk of Winnipeg matched their 34-36 totals with Saint Joseph of Minneapolis and Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio.

Dick Weslock of Windsor, 1957 champion, came in with an even par 71 late in the day and joined four others in that bracket. Among them was Dick Chapman, Jr., of Osterville, Mass., who won the Canadian amateur in 1949 at Saint John, N.B.

A mixed bracket of eight Americans and Canadians came in with 72 and nine more finished with 73. In the 73 group were two Montrealers, Mike Darling and Ray Zabowski, 17-year-old junior player who had the best score among the eight provincial junior champions competing.

Bobby Panasiuk of Windsor, who won the Canadian junior title over the same course Saturday, had a 76.

UNDER ON BOTH NINES

Ball was the only man in the field to crack par on each nine. He did it with 34-33 and started with birdie-par-birdie at the first three holes. He parred the next six in a row.

He birdied the 10th, parred the 11th and won one over par at the par four 12th. He fired par goes until the 18th where he holed out a 30-yard chip shot for his eagle deuce, then parred the 17th and 18th.

Stanovich got his eagle three at the 520-yard par-five 10th. He drove straight down the fairway and, with a No. 4 wood, put his second shot eight feet from the pin, then sank his putt.

Stanovich came down the back nine in 36, a feat duplicated only by Gene Christensen of Minneapolis, who finished with 71, and Milwaukee's Bruce.

On the Tracks

FORT ERIE (CP)—Compactor, owned by Joseph Tomlinson, scored his record long priced victory of the season Monday as he won the feathered Markeen Hotel Purse at Fort Erie racetrack, a near record week day crowd of 7,970 saw Compactor win at odds of 11 to 1.

Compactor, ridden by veteran Emil Roy, equalled the track record of 1:38 4-5 for a mile over the grass course.

Grand Canyon, the favorite, made his move from last place on the turn and although he made a bold run, he was a length behind Compactor at the finish. Mister Nick finished third.

Canada's Boxers Badly Battered At Games

CARDIFF (CP) — Canada's nine - man boxing team has emerged sadly battered from its first taste of British Empire Games competition.

Its ranks were reduced Monday night to three men, all of whom have yet to see action. One fighter was scratched before he had a chance to strike a blow in his defence. Two suffered the indignity of first-round knockouts. One retired in the third round with a cut eye and two were on the short end of decisions.

Two of the victims managed to get a little damage before they called it a night. Bantamweight Kai Yip of Lethbridge outpointed Cowan Chapman, picking up a cut eye in the process, before losing a decision to Oliver Tapale of Zambia in the last bout on the card.

Ken Renaud of Windsor, Ont., was no match for Frank Noseley, London, Ont., who suffered a nasty cut over the eye and had to retire on his bowl against A. R. Higgins of Wales.

Games Attract Poor Crowds

On Saturday about 25 per cent of the seats for the track and field program at Cardiff Arms Park were unsold. Monday only two hundred people were present in the 10,000-capacity Maindy Stadium for the start of the cycling events. The weather was dull and the boxing program at nearby Sophia Gardens was a counter-attraction.

Many of the empty seats on Saturday were due to a large-scale return of tickets allocated to the National Union of Mineworkers, One estimate put the figure at nearly 75 per cent of the $28,000 worth of tickets allocated to the union.

An official of the union strike bodied the apparent lack of interest to "prohibitive prices" and a slight recession in the industry recently.

Pro Football Parades Wares This Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's professional football teams, in mob halls since the end of last season, emerge for their first official viewing before unknown fans this week.

The pros have scheduled intrasquad exhibition games to let their fans see just what kind of team they will be rooting for when the professional football leagues get under way in mid-August.

The games provide the additional purpose of allowing respective coaches to pare their bulky squads down to a playable number. Most squads reported having 55 or more candidates when training camps opened, but now they have been cut to about 40 or so players.

The three - week exhibition schedule kicks off July 26 when Calgary Stampeders journey to Vancouver to meet British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

BOMBERS COME EAST

Football action in the East gets under way July 30 when Winnipeg Blue Bombers take on the Big Four's Montreal Alouettes in Montreal.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Grey Cup champions after a thrilling final last year with the Bombers, don't get into action until Aug. 1 in Vancouver against the Lions.

In Toronto the intra - squad game for the Argonauts has been billed as a fight between three players for the number one quarterback spot. Competing are returnee Dick Shatto, homebrew Gerry Doucette and Joe Ford, an American import.

The WIFU schedule gets under way Aug. 14 with Edmonton at Winnipeg. The Big Four follows with Aug. 19 with two games: Toronto at Ottawa and Hamilton at Montreal. Both are Tuesday evening games.

Bobby Key from Allston took the sixth, the mile D trot, with Elmer Sunney riding, and paid $16 for first. Glendale Dick, George town, Ont., was second and Hope Stringer, Brantford, third.

In the ninth, Billy McKlyo, Brighton, first, with Betty Ahlail, Belleville was second and a Quebec horse third.

Try to Prove Man Can Outrun Horse

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Three confident long - distance runners jog off today in a 137-mile marathon to prove a man can outrun a horse.

Paul (Hardrock) Simpson, 52, a veteran runner from Burlington, N.C., and two others will compete against three men on horseback in an endurance run from here to Roosevelt, Utah.

Simpson, a postman, said he once beat a horse in a similar 143-mile race from Burlington to Kingston, N.C. That was in 1927.

Ray McMurtry, 62, another veteran marathon runner, competed with Simpson in cross - country races in 1928. Both have kept active as runners. McMurtry's days of glory also were in the 1920's. He was Indiana state marathon champion in 1926 and now lives in Tucson, Ariz.

The third runner is Edo Romagnoli, 37, from Park, N.Y. Romagnoli, a New York policeman, keeps in trim by running 14 miles to and from work each day.

28-MILE LOOSENER

Romagnoli figures none of the men or horses will finish the race in less than 32 hours. The runners loosened up with a 20-mile run Monday.

"I'm told it takes a horse longer to regain his strength than a man," he said. "We figure to gain ground while the horses are resting," Romagnoli said.

The marathon is sponsored as a promotion by the Sulberry Boys Ranch of Duchesne, Utah. A pair of young college runners collapsed in the first endurance race last year, but the horses won in a walk.

Sipping honey and water to keep up their strength, the three runners hope to catch the horses within 100 miles.

Austrians Win Soccer Match

TORONTO (CP) — Admira Wien, former Austrian National League champions, Monday night defeated Toronto Ukrainia of the National Soccer League 3-0 in an international exhibition soccer match before more than 5,200 fans at Varsity Stadium.

The Austrian club, showing class around the Ukrainian goal, was in complete command most of the 90 minutes. The Ukrainians came to life during the final 10 minutes but were unable to work into scoring position.

Fan Sues Gene Kiniski For $15,000

MONTREAL (CP)—A $15,000 suit was filed Monday against wrestler Gene Kiniski by a spectator who asserts he was injured during a wrestling match Kiniski wasn't supposed to be in.

Aurele Garand, 45, of Cacy, Que., filed the suit against Kiniski and Canadian Athletic Promotions, Inc. He said he suffered an open fracture of the left leg Aug. 7, 1957, in Montreal.

Kiniski leaped into the ring during a bout between Wladek Kowalski and Edouard Carpentier, the suit claims. It says irate fans began throwing chairs at Kiniski and he dashed for an exit, injuring Garand on the way.

Announcer Talks Out of Turn; Leafs Pay Fine

MONTREAL (CP) — The Toronto Maple Leaf club has been fined $100 for remarks by its public-address announcer in the first game of a doubleheader with Montreal July 9, International League President Frank Shaughnessy announced Monday.

He said the publicaddress man told the crowd Lou Kahn, Toronto coach, had been elected from the stands to replace Cal Gutzeit as referee for protesting Guzzeit's decision in calling fair a home-run hit by Sally Drake, Montreal outfielder when everyone in the park knew it was foul except Guzzeit.

This office will not allow a public-address man to make any disparaging statements about umpires," Mr. Shaughnessy said. "The announcer is an employee of the Toronto club and we must hold the club responsible."

Says Moore Signs for Calgary Bout

CALGARY (CP)—Sports editor Tom Moore of the Albertan says in his column today that lightheavyweight champion Archie Moore has been signed for a bout in Calgary Sept. 17.

He says promoter Nick Zobray "is reported ready to clinch a deal with a top - ranking contender."

Moore adds that Zobray has already signed the champion and "a definite announcement should be forthcoming in the next few days."

He says Archie sent a telegram to Zobray agreeing to appear here Sept. 17 If an opponent agreeable to him is signed.

Yvon Durelle Exonerated in Car Killing

(CP)—An inquest Monday night ruled that no blame should be attached to British Empire light-heavyweight boxing champion Yvon Durelle in the death of a friend Friday.

Stanley Martin was struck and fatally injured when Durelle backed a car out of a driveway after a welcome home party celebrating his successful title defence in Montreal over Mike Holt of South Africa.

In the testimony, Dr. R. B. MacKenzie said Martin had serious chest-and pelvic injuries. He said he believed it was the chest injuries that caused death.

The doctor also testified there were no symptoms of intoxication in Durelle. The boxer admitted having two drinks in the afternoon prior to the accident.

Russ Judges Were Unfair Says Japanese

TOKYO (AP) — The head of Japan's gymnastic team charged Monday unfair Communist judges deliberately held down Japanese scoring at the recent world championships in Moscow.

Asked by reporters if Japan, which finished fourth in points, should have won, team leader Takashi Kondo replied "the lowest of our gymnastic performances is much higher than that of the Communist countries.

"I am certain Communist officials from various countries at Moscow — particularly Communist Chinese — were unfairly severe in grading our performances. They were harsh in marking against us and sweet on the Russians."

Russia won the meet, followed by Czechoslovakia and Romania.

Japan, the highest - ranking non-Communist country, won one gold, four silver and three bronze medals.

Fans Honor Bob Cerv

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Bob Cerv has furnished the Kansas City Athletics with more runs than any other player this season. Tonight the fans are going to furnish his money.

It's Bob Cerv Night at Municipal Stadium for the 32-year-old outfielder who ranks second among American League hitters despite a succession of injuries.

Former president and Mrs. Harry Truman will be among the 20,000 expected for the home-stand opener with Boston.

Cerv is second in the league with 65 runs batted in, tied for third in homers with 24 and fourth in hitting with a .325 average.

Long Winter Nights Help Make Alaska Good TV Area

By HOWARD BENEDICT

NEW YORK (AP)—Long winter nights and a shortage of other entertainment have helped make video and television a lively, growing business in Alaska.

Roy W. Disney, president of Alaska radio and TV sales in New York, reports that 80 per cent of Alaskan families have television sets and 95 per cent own radios. "Alaska is a natural for radio and television," says Smith. "Winter stays around from September to April 1, and six months out of the year it's dark by 3 p.m. Entertainment is at a premium. Movies and an occasional dance, there isn't much other entertainment."

There is no coastal cable or microwave relay linking Alaska with the United States, so programming of all three major networks is recorded or filmed and brought in by plane later.

STATEHOOD TO HELP

Statehood is expected to speed the day when cable will be able to receive direct broadcasts," Smith says, "but it won't be in the near future because of the high cost."

He expects, however, that when statehood is achieved, many advertisers will transign Alaska from the foreign to the domestic budget, with a greater outlay. ABC film syndication, which has sold 560 filmed shows in the territory in the last three years, already has taken this step.

Alaskans now can tune in seven radio stations in five cities and five TV stations in three cities. Seventy-five per cent of the TV broadcasting time is filled by delayed network material. The rest is filled by local programs, including a few broadcasts in Eskimo and Indian.

"If the viewing habits of the Alaskans are any criterion," says Smith, "they'll do it. A recent television survey listed two westerns—Gunsmoke and Wyatt Earp—among the favorite programs."

CLUB DIRECTOR RESIGNS

WASHINGTON (AP)—C. Leo De Orsey, outspoken critic of big league baseball's operating methods, has resigned as a director of Washington Senators. The ball club's front office put out a terse one-line announcement Monday saying only that De Orsey resigned on July 11.

Pro Football's Frank Gifford Headed for Acting Career

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Pro football's loss may be Hollywood's gain, if the hopes of Frank Gifford are fruitful.

Frank is halfback with New York Giants. He is one of the highest paid and most successful players in the National Football League. But, like all his colleagues, he has to look forward to the day when he hangs up his helmet. And he hopes to take up a makeup kit when that happens.

Is his pro career over now?

"Maybe," he said. "It all depends on whether the pilot film I made of 'public Enemy' finds a sponsor. If it does, then I won't play any more football. But if it doesn't, I'd like to go back and play one more season."

How long has he wanted to be an actor?

"Since I was in college," he said, "during vacations, I did a lot of movie work—stuffing shirts and doubling. I liked it. During the last two years, I've been taking dramatics lessons in New York while the football season was on. Doing a scene, improvisation things like that. I've learned a lot."

NOW GETS CHANCE

He's now getting a chance to show what he has learned. He signed a contract with Warner Brothers and was put in small role in Darby's Rangers. Then he made the pilot film for a projected one-hour television series called Public Enemy.

Frank plays a federal law enforcement officer.

Now 27, Frank could have a few more good seasons in pro ball. But he has the future to look after, and there is Mrs. Gifford and their three youngsters.

If he does return to the gridiron, he'll no doubt be subjected to even more kidding than before. He admitted he takes plenty of ribbing from his fellow players for his acting ambitions.

"There's one linebacker for Washington who's always talking to me over the line," Frank said. "We're good friends off the field, but he tries to get my goat when we're playing."

TO ENTER GOLD CUP

SARMIA (CP)—Jim Thompson of London, Ont., announced Monday that he and his father, Gordon Thompson, are entering Miss Supertest II in the annual Gold Cup unlimited class powerboat classic Aug. 10. Canada's only unlimited class craft will leave London Saturday for Seattle Wash., where the Gold Cup will be staged on Lake Washington.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Wednesday, July 23, 1958

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be certain to pay indebtedness without fail today. And show consideration for those who are unable to pay you immediately. Tonight, steer clear of persons who are ruled by the green-eyed monster. Go to some lovely social function.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — There is fear of a marked degree of animosity toward you today if you are in any way ruthless with others or, on the other hand, do not stand up for your own rights. P.M. go to some lovely spot with associates and be sure not to argue.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be most precise in whatever labors need your attention. Impress other persons with how efficient and intelligent way you can perform your specialized job by being pleasant, you'll be very much liked by your fellow workers, too.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — While you desire to enjoy yourself above all other things, if you let your work suffer, you will be very unhappy later. Carry through on commitments, then you can still have a few very enjoyable hours at favorite sport, amusements.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — You're most dissatisfied with some affair at your house. However, do not make the mistake of taking your ire out on all and sundry. It is best you're particularly charming to everyone you encounter, lifting up their spirits.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Be certain to drive carefully today and be most alert everywhere, if you are to avoid stumbling and other minor accidents. Make it a point to speak most kindly, too, on unfortunate arguments could ensue.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — While you are usually very economical by nature today you would permit a good deal of money to slip out of your hands, think, then invest in home repairs, other needed work or items.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Here is a perfect day for seething with resentment at something unpleasant and undeserved that has happened to you. If you permit it. Start the day with a smile on your face and avoid any cause for jealousy or chicanery.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Private worry really has you in a dither, but be careful you do not voice your forebodings either and yon. Examine the matter objectively, use philosophy you expound to others on own problems and be victorious over them.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Overly dynamic pal keeps hounding you to make certain changes that you dc not deem wise. Be patient and say you must consider them carefully which you must do P.M. excellent for a good time free of care and worries.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The temperamental Aquarian is on the march today if he or she permits it, especially with authorities, who could be mighty tough. Reflect and then get to work with a vim and zest that will gain you much prestige instead.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You are tempted to go off to distant places that appear far more glamorous right now, but are only a mirage. Daily economy of work is responsible for this, so read your papers for ideas that will help the situation.

If your child is born today — The little child full of vitality who is born today early feels that to have a successful life, one must constantly be fighting his or her way through it. So it is up to you to quickly teach that through harmony and cooperation things move along polished and the gains are greater. The chart, however, is fine for professions where courage, resourcefulness and a quick wit are most necessary.

DANCES, THEN DIES

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Ruth Jarden, 25, and her husband, Wallace, 29 — both dance fanatics — died in a plane crash last night. Mrs. Jarden danced once with a man other than her husband. On their way home Jarden argued with his wife about that single dance. Sunday morning, Jarden found his wife's body in the front seat of their auto. Police said she died of carbon monoxide.

Pacific Railway, died in Vancouver Sunday at the age of 92.

Sir George, the last of a generation of great Canadian railroaders, joined the CPR as a junior clerk 70 years ago. He retired 40 years ago as a vice-president.

He was knighted in 1917 on the recommendation of British Prime Minister David Lloyd George for services as commissioner of railways for the British government in France and Russia during the First World War.

He was born in Montreal in 1866, but had been a resident of Vancouver for more than 40 years.

NEW! FOUR BEDROOMS

Compare this deal with anything else in town. Here is a home that you cannot do better in a four-bedroom home with two bathrooms. Look — the price is only $15,500. It is a fine family home that is just like a doll house inside and out. Well built throughout. In addition, there is a fully done panelled rec room, of course. The grounds are all finished — done etc. It's only two years old. Where could you better? We are ready for your phone.

LOT — $800.

Just on the outskirts of the city limit side — near the 3 Highway, 60' by about 240'.

$4,800.

FOR A FINE LITTLE HOME— about 5 miles from the City. About an acre of land and an up-to-date home with three bedrooms, modern kitchen, bath, etc. Furnace fuel is oil-fired. The taxes are $63. Two thousand down will do!

DIEFENBAKER

Mr. Pearson's suggestion in the Commons, which Mr. Diefenbaker said was "very clear" in its intent, is already under study, was that the Security Council set up a special subcommittee to consider the substance of Mr. Khrushchev's proposal. The subcommittee would comprise the powers invited by Mr. Khrushchev with the UN not a member—describ-ing in "my special invitation" and Secretary-General Hammarskjold as chairman.

"It could be suggested that the committee could be re-pre-sented by their heads of gov-ernment," Mr. Pearson conti-nued.

"That would ensure that the meeting in Geneva would be at the top level of governmental representation. You would also ensure that it would be held un-der the auspices of the UN and indeed under the chairmanship of the secretary-general of the UN."

At a subsequent press confer-ence Mr. Pearson said the Khrushchev letter was an obvious move that anyone could have expected. "It would be a great mis-take to turn the thing down flat. The turn-down would be the very thing they (the Russians) want."

AFF-EARS FROM PAGE 1

The composition of the meet-ing proposed by the Soviet leader appeared reasonable enough, Mr. Pearson told reporters.

"If Mr. Khrushchev had really wanted to be mischievous he could have added Communist China."

The Liberal leader added that the West, in its approach to the Soviet offer, "should not try to force any country in the middle East into the East-West conflict."

"That's a debatable subject," he added, "even if it's limited to the area of the Baghdad pact."

Both Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson agreed that the language of the Khrushchev letter was provocative and insulting in parts. Reporters told reporters that its references to the U.S. and U.K. troops landing made it difficult for them to accept its proposal of a meeting.

Accident Fatal

OSHAWA (CP) — Mrs. Vera Mountenay, 63, of Oshawa died in hospital Monday of injuries suf-fered in a two-car collision near Newcastle, 12 miles east of here, July 5.

Her husband, Jerry Mountenay, 58, is still in hospital with frac-tured skull. His condition is re-ported satisfactory.

FRENCH ATOMIC PLANT

PARIS (Reuters) — A new French atomic centre went into operation Monday at Marcoule, in southern France, marking France's entry into the field of large-scale production of pluto-nium, the key ingredient of atomic bombs.

House Extends Farm Surplus Barter Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives, after hearing administration opposition, tentatively approved Monday a bill extending and enlarging the four-year-old farm surplus dis-posal law.

Passing the bill by a 152-to-34 unrecorded vote, the House post-poned a final roll call vote until Wednesday.

The bill would extend for an-other year the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act, which provides for overseas sale of U.S. farm surplus for foreign currencies. It also authorized an additional $1,500,000 to carry out the program.

The House bill falls short of the two-year extension and $3,500,-000,000 authorization contained in Senate legislation.

It is opposed by the Eisenhower administration because it would reinstate the program of farm barter cut off a year ago.

Shipping Sets New Record At Soo Locks

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP)—For the second time in four days, a record number of passages has been recorded at the American Soo locks.

Sunday 84 ships were passed through the locks, one more than former record of 72 set Thursday, July 17.

Latest totals include only freight-ers, barges and tugs normally engaged in hauling Great Lakes cargoes. Including pleasure craft and excursion boats which also locked through Sunday, the total was 90.

HOG PRODUCERS

In another leaflet the Hog Co-operative claims the marketing program has given Ontario hog producers $40,349,300 during the last five years through higher prices.

The program had its beginnings in 1945 when 95 per cent of the producers voted for collective ac-tion. Negotiations with packers began in 1947 but ended in 1949 and four years later the Ontario Hog Producers' Association was established as an agency of the au-thority. In 1955 the co-operative was organized to take over the role and a year later it began sel-ling assembly yards.

COMPETITIVE BIDS

About 90 per cent of the 2,000,-000 hogs marketed in Ontario each year now are moved through the yards, with packers buying them in a competitive bid system. If the program is ap-proved Friday co-operative offi-cials say they will extend the as-sembly yards to all 42 counties.

During its 17-year development the hog marketing plan has par-ticipated innumerable legal argu-ments about its parent legisla-tion, the Farm Products Market-ing Act.

Tremor Shakes Western End Of Lake Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Experts hoped today to make some sense out of confusion caused when a mysterious earth tremor rippled its way around the western end of Lake Ontario Monday night.

Cause of the shock-wave was pondered by scientists and ex-perts in Toronto, Ottawa and Buf-falo, N.Y., a suspicion at the David Dunlap Observatory north of Toronto said the observatory lacked equipment to determine the exact origin of latitude of the tremor but he believed it was a minor seismic disturbance be-neath the earth's surface.

Seismograph readings from the university of Toronto and the Dominion Observatory at Ottawa were expected today.

Seismologists at Buffalo said no reading was indicated on the first of their three machines Monday night but photographic readings from two more sensitive ma-chines were expected to provide more information today.

SAW A FLASH

The tremors were reported from 9:30 to 9:35 p.m. EDT from points ranging from Buffalo around the lake to Oshawa. Resi-dents in Hamilton reported see-ing a brilliant flash in the sky but this was not confirmed as the cause.

What was described as a "far away" explosion in St. Catharines sent residents running into the streets and in downtown Toronto the police switchboard was jarred shortly before it was deluged with calls from worried citizens.

No damage or injuries were re-ported although dishes and win-dows rattled and shook.

The shock was felt in most com-munities located with 20 miles of a 100-mile arc around the west-ern end of the lake.

Barnyard Roosters Hold Key to Successful Air Transport of Elephants

By GERALD FREEMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Pigs, mice and elephants by the thousand, with dignity and aplomb in big freighter aircraft that have become Noah's Arks of the skyways.

Royal Dutch Airlines, which operates the world's largest transatlantic freighter service in and out of Canada, has also given the word to monkeys, dogs, cattle, chihuahuas, horses, anteaters and big cats.

Two Europe - bound Canadian moose are scheduled this summer to be the first of their breed to take to the skies.

Truffle in animals accounts for a relatively small portion of the airline's payload, yet is so important that the animal stewards are part of the regular crew of the big freighters.

And the airline maintains its own hotel at the airport in Amsterdam—for animals forced to make a stopover.

A shipment of three Canadian mink from St. Catharines, Ont., to Poland recently created a sensation. But mink movements are old hat to the airline.

Frank Ackermans, cargo sales manager for Canada, says the airline carries up to 600 mink and chinchilla in a peak month. They cross the Atlantic for about $7 a head, usually late evening and early fall.

Most go to breeders in eastern Europe, many behind the Iron Curtain. They come mainly from Ontario, but also from Western Canada and northern Quebec.

"Mink have to be transported in 36 hours from the farm to their destination because they have to get back to a normal food schedule," Mr. Ackermans says. "Otherwise they get stomach trouble. It's the same for all fur-bearing animals."

Animals generally travel well. Only dogs and humans get airsick. The freighters have pressurized cabins for flights above 8,500 feet, and animals don't need oxygen below that.

"When we have canaries they even sing during the flight," he says.

Canaries and other birds are flown into Canada at the rate of about 10,000 a month for household pets, Mr. Ackermans says. Dogs are another pet commonly airborne—up to 200 a month are brought in. Most are French poodles, whose tickets cost $80. Before incoming animals must be quarantined. All are examined by the health department staff headed by Dr. J. A. Labelle at Montreal airport.

The flying pigs are part of an important air business developing in Canadian livestock.

"I think that Canada more and more is getting a reputation in Europe for special breeds of cattle and pigs—pedigreed breeding stock," Mr. Ackermans says. About 600 pigs and calves fly out of Canada each month for all parts of Europe—at up to $45 less than the long sea trip would cost.

Many baby chicks are regularly flown to the continent from Galt, Ont. Their trips cost about five cents each.

Some Canadian jumping horses, earning an international reputation, commute to Europe for shows.

The airline is one of the main carriers of Rhesus monkeys, brought in from India or Ethiopia to be used in making polio vaccine.

But it's the zoo trade that gives the real variety. Many zoos have exchange programs, swapping off their surplus populations by air. The zoo at Granby, Que., is a big customer—more than 90 per cent of its animals are flown in.

Cornelius van Loon, the airline's chief animal steward, practices arts he learned at Amsterdam Zoo and the University of Utrecht on tapirs, (anteaters) cheetahs, tigers, mountain goats and elephants. The way an animal is first approached may decide its behavior for the whole trip. And there were tricks to learn.

Elephants were noisy, unmannerly, ill-behaved air travellers until the airline learned their secret weakness—roosters. Elephants love them.

Every flying elephant now has a rooster in his cage. And he acts like a perfect gentleman.

ANIMAL HOTEL

This special hotel was opened at Amsterdam airport to care for animal passengers making stopovers on KLM Royal Dutch Airlines freighter flights. Here a shipment of goats waits for a keeper to take them to their rooms. Canadian mink, chinchilla, cattle and pigs are frequent guests on trips to new homes in Europe. (CP Photo).

Tweed

TWEED — Mrs. Ed Long has been a patient in the Belleville General Hospital for the past two weeks and is under observation. Her many friends in Tweed hope she will soon be better and able to be home with her family.

Miss Grace Tucker, of Belleville, is visiting for a time with her brother, Mr. Wilbur Tucker, and Mrs. Tucker, R. R. 2, Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Albright of Los Angeles, California, have been on a motor tour of the northern States and Canada for the past six weeks. They spent last visiting with Mrs. Albright's sister, Mrs. Stella Orr, Thomasburg.

Mr. Wing Kwan of Tweed was joined by his wife and two daughters who recently arrived from Hong Kong. They arrived in Vancouver by plane from China and reached Tweed shortly after. This is their first in Canada for six years.

Mr. Herman Tucker has returned to his Tweed home after being ill, hospitalized and convalescing at the home of relatives for the past three months. He is much improved in health.

Mrs. Ivan Wilson has been hospitalized also in a Kingston hospital but is returned to her home. They both arrived on Sunday, their numerous friends will be pleased to know.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bruce of Clayton, was completely destroyed by fire not many days ago. The cause of the fire is unknown. It started during the night and the contents were lost as well as the entire building.

Mr. Heath Jones of Tweed, and Mr. Charles Beatty of Smithfield, represented Tweed Masonic Lodge at the annual session held last week. They attended as Worshipful Master and Past Master, respectively. The sessions were held in Toronto at the Central Technical School and the banquet was held at the Royal York Hotel.

Mr. Frank Creegan of Belleville, Miss Ann Creegan of Toronto and Mr. Ken Creegan of Belleville, were elected District Deputy Grand Master for Prince Edward District.

Mrs. A. M. Stevens, Miss Ann O'Higgins and Mrs. Leonard Carlyle, all of Toronto and Long Lake, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Spencer last Friday.

Mrs. Vincent Cain, and daughter, Beverley, along with Miss Mary Russolo of Buckingham Park, Detroit, Mich., are spending their vacation with the former's sister, Mrs. Ray O'Cain and Mr. O'Cain on Moira Street.

Mrs. Cain is the former Elizabeth Rivers of town. Mrs. H. Glabe of Fulton, N.Y., another sister of Mrs. O'Cain and Mrs. Cain, is arriving this week to visit with her sisters and relatives in the Tweed district.

Mr. Jimmie Lajoie is attending University at London, Ontario, and expects to get his Bachelor of Arts degree. Mrs. Lajoie, Sharon and Anne, are staying for the summer months with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Egbert Lessard on Arthur St.

Mrs. Lajoie spent the weekend with her husband in Barrie. They also visited with their aunt, Mrs. Coote, while in the village.

Miss Nance Mc Gavin, nurse in training at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, spent the past weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Marchin, Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Cordy of Valleyfield, Quebec, left this past week to spend a holiday with Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Cordy in Tarbert, Halifax County.

Mr. John Peck has returned to his home much improved in health after a short session in the Kingston General Hospital, following a recent heart attack.

Mrs. Oscar Meeker, returned from the Belleville General Hospital, to her Clayton home on Saturday, after undergoing major surgery recently. She is much improved in health.

Due to the heavy winds of Saturday night, huge elm trees fell across the road near the farm and residence of Meagher Bush, near Stoco, holding up traffic for a time. In the evening Mr. Edgar Lessard, with the use of his chain saw, removed the obstacle from the roadway.

AIR - LINK

PARIS (AP) — Clearance has been expected for Russian TU-104 jet passenger planes to make commercial flights to Paris. The jet service was banned here after a trial visit last February, but a Czechoslovak TU-104 then made test flights and airport officials say they will probably be permitted short technical details are worked out.

New Education Plan Promised By Liberal Head

TIMMINS (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer has promised a new platform to include development of the province's north, a new education scheme for Young Ontario and a new deal for municipalities.

Addressing the South Cochrane Liberal Association, Monday night, he said the Liberal party would include in its platform development of the North "not somewhere in the Arctic" but in Northern Ontario.

The Liberal party would include a new education plan to ensure no young person is deprived of university education because of financial reasons. At present, he said, 22 per cent of the cost of education is paid by the young people, or their parents.

"That does not result in equality of opportunity."

He also promised the Liberal party, if elected, would go into the problem of municipal financing. He said such items as health, welfare, and education could be considered on a provincial level rather than at the municipal level.

Hope Coldwell Will Remain As CCF Chief

OTTAWA (CP)—CCF officials are hopeful that later this week at a national convention they will be able to persuade M. J. Coldwell to remain as national leader for two more years, Stanley Knowles said Monday.

Mr. Knowles, national vice-chairman of the party and a vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, told a reporter that the decision likely will be up to Mr. Coldwell alone.

Both Mr. Knowles and the 68-year-old Coldwell lost their Commons seats in the March 31 federal election.

MAYOR'S TRIP

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP)—Lord Mayor Cecil McKee plans to visit Canada and the United States some time in the future. He announced he is accepting invitations from the mayor of Toronto and the New York chamber of commerce.

Civil War Fear Leads To Arrest Of 1200 Cypriots

Drastic, Urgent Action Taken by British Forces

Crow Agrees Beer Is for The Birds

MONTREAL (CP) — Corbo thinks beer is for the birds and he should know, being a bird.

Corbo is a sociable crow adopted last month by a group of Italian construction workers. Franco Filato, the foreman, recalls that Corbo was just a baby bird with an injured wing when found near apartments they were building.

Mr. Filato splinted him, bandaging the injured wing with a pink ribbon.

Friendship reigned. Corbo comes when ever Filato whistles and gets treated to whatever take the men have. On hot days he goes for cool beer, poured straight from bottle to beak.

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Authorities have arrested more than 1,200 Cypriots in a sudden island-wide roundup aimed at halting a civil war which has been rapidly developing between Cypriot Greeks and Turks over the political future of the island.

Governor Sir Hugh Foot told a press conference today that 1,200 Greeks and 50 Turks have been arrested.

He said the aim is "to save lives and property and to prevent civil war."

"I gave orders for the arrest and detention of a large number of Greeks and Turks who are known or believed to have planned murder, arson or other violence and intimidation.

SEEK NORMAL LIFE

"Our aim is to achieve freedom from fear and an early return to normal life. To that end, and to stop senseless killing, our measures have to be very drastic and very prompt."

Security forces have been carrying out arrests since they began. End of 9-hour curfew imposed on Tuesday following fresh disturbances.

Greek-Cypriot sources said at least two councillors of the Greek hierarchy, governing body of the Orthodox church in Cyprus, were among those arrested.

Powers to detain without trial, abolished last year, have been reimposed in the most drastic security measures taken in Cyprus since the start of terrorism in April, 1956.

TERROR PLOT CITED

They claimed that during the last two weeks information had been received from a number of sources that EOKA, the Greek underground organization, had taken measures to step up increase attacks on the Turkish minority population.

This information has been confirmed beyond all doubts by reliable reports that EOKA was on the point of carrying out widespread attacks on Turkish and security forces.

"On the Turkish side, threats of more attacks by Turks on Greeks have been made coupled with published lists in terms of insolent incitement against both Greeks and the government."

He noted that since the beginning of last month 95 persons had been killed in Cyprus and more than 170 wounded.

Emergency powers calls were banned and outgoing press reports were delayed until late Tuesday night in the security clamp-down.

In Athens, Archbishop Makarios charged that Cyprus' administration with favoring the Turks and accused it of taking "terrorist measures against the Greek Cypriot population through wholesale arrests and other measures."

The exiled Greek-Cypriot church leader said measures taken by the administration will have no effect.

LIBERALS DODGE RULING TO URGE EXCISE TAX CUT

Repeal of Car Levy Suggested to House

OTTAWA (CP)—Where there's a will, there's a way, especially when Liberals in the Commons want to speak about the 7½-per-cent excise tax on automobiles.

The Chair ruled them out of order Tuesday night when they tried to raise the issue, but they made their point nonetheless in oblique references that were just as telling as their abortive attempt to propose repeal of the levy.

J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) asked the opposition critics with a series of barbs that Finance Minister Fleming later described as an exhibition of slapstick comedy.

Mr. Fleming's budgetary resolution proposing some excise tax changes—none of them referring to the levy—is now under discussion at the time.

Mr. Pickersgill commented the tax changes practically one by one, and compared most of them to tax benefit that would accrue to taxpayers if the excise tax on automobiles was removed.

CHEER HIS EFFORTS

The Liberal benches cheered Mr. Pickersgill's efforts to begin reading, and the Chair's ruling up jab at the government. Most of the Conservative backbenches sat silent.

It all began when Paul Martin (L—Essex East), who represents part of the auto-making city of Windsor, rose on a point of order to protest the ruling.

Deputy chairman Charles E. Johnston he wouldn't speak about it because the tax wasn't mentioned in the budget.

Liberals appealed his ruling—first such appeal this session—but Mr. Rea was upheld by the Progressive Conservative majority on a vote of 141 to 36. The CCF supported the Liberals.

Then Mr. Martin proposed an amendment to repeal the tax. Mr. Rea ruled that out too.

Mr. Pickersgill asked, said Mr. Pickersgill later, "makes a mockery of our procedure that we are gagged and circumscribed by the rules."

During the two-hour debate Mr. Pickersgill turned to the revenues promised voters to repeal or greatly reduce the auto tax, which came out to 7½ per cent from 10 last autumn.

FLOOR COVERINGS

Mr. Pickersgill turned to the removal of the tax on "underlayment" of felt for hard-surfaced floor coverings.

"The sex-appeal of that is appalling," he said, "to contrast what the people expected when they came to have the tax taken off motorcars."

As for the repeal of the test on the auto, Mr. Pickersgill added, "I don't know if I would be thought to be a member of the government, the symbol of whose budget is the repeal of the tax on rat poison."

Mr. Martin, Liberal MP, and H. McMillan, Welland, and Hugh Horner, Jasper-Edson, Williams, edged in the subject of the auto tax by suggesting it be removed on fishing gear, trucks and cars by school boards and municipal work.

ACTRESS LEAVES HOSPITAL

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Suzy Parker, her left arm in a sling, Tuesday left the hospital where she had been treated for injuries suffered in an auto accident. Miss Parker arms were hurt June 7 when a car in which she was riding was struck by a train at St. Augustine, Fla. Her father was killed in the accident.

Right-Wing Express, Daily Worker Only Papers to Assail Macmillan

LONDON (AP) — The British press today hailed Prime Minister Macmillan's "moral" visit to New York" reply to the Soviet invitation to summit talks, but there was sporadic sniping at President Eisenhower's apperance Tuesday.

Only the right-wing Daily Express and Communist Daily Worker dissented. Both attacked Macmillan's proposal that the summit meeting should be brought into the picture.

Says the usually anti-government Daily Herald:

"Full credit to Mr. Macmillan. He has recognized the strength and unanimity of British public opinion in favor of having a summit conference with Mr. Khrushchev on the Middle East crisis."

The Liberal News Chronicle: "Mr. Khrushchev now knows that west is willing to talk. It is his turn to show he meant what he said when the invitation was issued."

The Conservative Daily Mail said Macmillan's reply is "brilliant" and said:

"The world will hold its breath waiting for something it hardly dare hope for. It is that East and West will get together in an honest-to-goodness attempt to banish at least one cause of war."

The Daily Express says: "What a pity about Ike."

"In place of a few big powers on a business-like footing, Britain proposes a public meeting at the heart of all muddles and intrigues — UNO. Britain's answer is made worse because it involves delay."

The Daily Worker says: "It is clear the proposals can afford the maximum opportunity for delay and evasion."

Diefenbaker Terms Britain's Parley Plan Novel, Effective

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has emphasized her backing of the United Nations as arbiter in the Middle East crisis by assigning additional peace observers and by stating its unqualified support for a summit-level meeting of the UN Security Council.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker outlined the stand Tuesday to the Commons and declared the next step in solving Middle East events is up to Premier Khrushchev of Russia.

Meanwhile, Canada would back immediate UN moves in the situation by contributing three more men to the Lebanon observer team in Lebanon. UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold said Tuesday he will go ahead with plans to more in 40 more observers, including the three extra Canadians.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Canada will give sympathetic consideration to more personnel if requested. She already has 30 men on the team.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he thinks British Security Council summit proposal is both novel and effective in helping Britain's weekend call for a conference of

Nasser, Khrushchev Forecast Doom of West's 'Imperialism'

CAIRO (CP) — President Nasser and Premier Khrushchev have turned their heavy artillery on Western intervention in the Middle East, predicting the inevitable doom of Western "imperialistic aggression" and success and true life for Nasser's Arab union movement.

Nasser, addressing a crowd estimated at 20,000 to mark the fourth anniversary of the overthrow of King Farouk Tuesday said the nationalist drive will "sweep the Arab world."

"There is no place for imperialism in our world," the president of the United Arab Republic said.

Khrushchev did not threaten the West with the use of Russian "volunteers" in the Middle East as he did during the 1956 Suez crisis, but he said Britain and the U.S. will be forced to show the wisdom and understanding of the times and pull their troops out of Lebanon and Jordan.

The Soviet premier told a gathering at the Polish Embassy in Moscow that Britain's policy is "brilliant" and said:

"The British have its breath waiting for something it hardly dare hope for. It is that East and West will get together in an honest-to-goodness attempt to banish at least one cause of war."

The Daily Express says: "What a pity about Ike."

RUSSIA FAILS TO WIN MEETING OF UN ASSEMBLY

Security Council Bows Out of Picture

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The United Nations has technically sidestepped the Middle East disasters in the hope that a summit conference on the crisis will bring the big-power governments heads in UN Security Council to an unprecedented top-level meeting.

The UN Security Council bowed out of the picture despite opposition from Soviet delegate Arkady Sobolev, who fought to the end for an immediate emergency session of the UN General Assembly.

The Russian position as outlined by Sobolev was that such an extraordinary UN meeting would not prejudice efforts towards the big-power talks his own premier has been seeking.

HOPED FOR SUPPORT

He accused the other Security Council members of using the Soviet summit call as an excuse to stop working. And it was apparent at the UN that hopeful of strong support, among the 81 UN member nations who would participate in a General Assembly session, for Russia's opponents to lash out at British-American armed intervention in Lebanon and Jordan.

When the other 10 council members voted for an indefinite adjournment of the council the Soviet delegate was caught in a procedural tangle where his veto did not apply. And the passage of this adjournment by a vote of eight started a round of speculation that a top-level meeting may be held there perhaps in the next few days.

Less than an hour later, however, Ambassador Menshikov of the Kremlin was made public. It set UN observers guessing as to whether the American leader would go along with the summit idea.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, whose position as a representative of the world organization as a whole has made him keenly cautious in commenting on big-power clashes, did not intervene. Neither did he step in when the late Tuesday call for a summit was voiced a Yugoslav compromise proposal for an extension of the UN's observer force, which was aimed at bringing about withdrawal of the American troops who landed there a week before.

Sobolev had cast Russia's 85th veto on this motion because it failed to call on the U.S. to pull its troops out immediately.

Dismiss Charge Against Chief

GALT (CP)—A careless driving charge against Police Chief Harry Pickett of nearby Ayr has been dismissed but a second charge—driving the late Miss Ruth Roos—has been transferred to a Kitchener court for hearing.

This was announced in court here Tuesday by Magistrate J. W. Kirkpatrick. Evidence on the careless driving charge was to be heard earlier by Magistrate J. E. Barron.

The case had been adjourned for a week after Pickett on Monday pleaded innocent to the charge which Chief Pickett was severely injured.

Expect Russia To Propose UN Assembly Meeting

May Suggest It Follow Conference 'at Summit'

WASHINGTON (CP) — Moscow came out with an unfavorable reply today in its first response to the West's call for a summit meeting within the United Nations Security Council on the Middle East crisis.

But it stopped short of saying Premier Khrushchev would reject the proposal. Western officials were predicting that the Russian premier will accept, although he first may seek to attach several conditions to the offer, made in varying forms Tuesday in notes from Britain, the United States and France.

The official Soviet newspaper Izvestia objected to the proposal, saying that "everyone knows the U.S.A. can rely on a mechanical majority in the Security Council." It added that the U.S. is trying to prevent a five-power summit meeting as proposed originally by Khrushchev last Saturday.

FORESAW CRITICISM

Prime Minister Macmillan, however, appeared to have foreseen this criticism and had sought to remove it in his note, the frankest yet, to Moscow from the three Western replies.

He suggested that the summit Security Council meeting should seek only to discuss the Middle East problems, and not to vote on any specific resolution unless the major powers agreed on it in advance.

The tone of the replies marked the first signs of a real Western thinking on the Middle East crisis.

Macmillan said he would be glad" to meet Khrushchev "face to face."

"I would certainly be ready to attend such a meeting if you would also go; and I take it from the terms of your message that you would."

President Eisenhower in his message said: "If our differences were genuinely desired, the United States would join in following that course of action."

Premier de Gaulle said that, while he supported the idea of a summit meeting, he does not think the UN has the calm and reasonable atmosphere such talks would need for success.

REJECTS CONVENTION

Izvestias article in his reply that he rejected Khrushchev's contention that the Middle East crisis had brought the world to the brink of war.

It also said in full and certain knowledge of the pacific intentions of the Western powers declared the belief that the Soviet government would not themselves take a step which would lead to world war."

He continued:

"However, although I regret your promises, it by no means follows that I reject your conclusions. Indeed I agree with you't that it would be useful to meet and discuss the Middle East, and discuss the Middle East, it should certainly be on a plain to you face to face how Her Majesty's government sees the problems which beset the area."

"It would not be the intention of Her Majesty's government that any resolutions should be put forward — unless by agreement — in advance of previous agreement. In other words, the object would be to reach friendly understanding rather than to register differences by votes. I hope this spirit will prevail."

WILL ATTEND

Eisenhower's carefully worded reply did not say that he would attend any summit meeting at the UN; but administration officials said that he would if he felt it will if the meeting is set up.

Eisenhower later strongly indicated that he considers the Kremlin to be behind much of the turmoil and trouble of the Middle East.

Hear Churchill Plans to Make Home in France

LONDON (Reuters)—The News Chronicle says Sir Winston Churchill is planning to leave Britain in the autumn for permanent winter quarters in the south of France.

The newspaper says the 83-year-old statesman is unlikely to "ever make a home here again."

The newspaper adds: "The doctors feel the time has come for him to steer clear of the dank, shivering British winter, though we may expect him to be here during the summer months for short stays."

Middle East At a Glance

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Moscow—Izvestia, Soviet government newspaper, opposes summit meeting on Middle East in Security Council, where it says United States has mechanical majority." Khrushchev says U.S., Britain must pull troops out of Lebanon, Jordan or they'll be crushed by force of Arab nationalism.

London — Prime Minister Macmillan says he's ready for UN council summit conference but suggests meeting unless all conditions agree in advance on resolution.

Washington — President Eisenhower refuses to meet Premier Khrushchev but says United States will attend UN summit meeting if that "generally desired."

Paris—Premier de Gaulle also willing to attend a summit meeting but says UN lacks the necessary calm atmosphere. Recommends meeting be held elsewhere.

Rebel Speaker Adel Osseiran postpones from Thursday to next week election by Lebanon's parliament of successor to pro-West ex-President Camille Chamoun.

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons that the premiers will be asked to discuss the economic situation and the measures that have been taken to meet it.

Toronto Police Plan More Arrests In $130,000 'Fixed Race' Swindle

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they expect to make more arrests in connection with an alleged international racing swindle in which Toronto York district residents may have lost more than $130,000.

The four-month investigation of a race-betting syndicate came to light Monday night when police raided five homes and a downtown business suite.

Meyer Rush, 34, an executive in his brother's advertising firm, and his secretary, Marjorie Hayward, 23, of nearby Ajax, were charged with conspiracy to defraud.

One investigator said "everyone involved in this operation is Canadian."

Police were shielding the identity of a New Yorker whose complaint touched off the investigation. They said the man, who refused to testify Monday, is a multiple, fearful reprisal of U.S. bookmakers.

Another complainant has told police he lost $6,000 and detectives said they expect to hear from more victims.

Police said operation involved several agents who posed as public well-to-do Americans and offered to take bets on several races which they said had been "fixed."

In some cases the horses named were winners but the victims received no money.

Detectives travelled hundreds of miles through New York state and Ontario collecting information on the syndicate's operation. They said it involved "a million dollars a year."

FIND STOLEN CAR AT SHANNONVILLE

OPP headquarters here reported the finding last night of a stolen car in Shannonville. Owner of the car is believed to reside in Toronto. No arrests were made. Constable Gordon Oliver found the vehicle.

Arrest Four In Connection With Motor Theft

Police Chief E. McGeachy of Frankford and Constable Kenneth Williamson of OPP headquarters in Belleville, arrested four young men this week in connection with the theft on June 26 of a 7 1/2 horsepower outboard motor from Mervin Patrick of Frankford.

Jack Ferguson, 21, and Douglas Ferguson, 17, both of Frankford, have been charged with possessing stolen goods. Roderick Hilts, 21, of Hilton, and Melvin Lawes were apprehended later by Mr. McGeachy, assisted by Mr. Williamson, presiding minister of the Belleville congregation, in announcing the plans of the local assembly, said that it has been necessary to cancel all their meetings from July 27 until August 7, due to many being away for the Christian convention.

Mr. Wickerson said the convention will be held in the Queensborough Stadium, Toronto, and will also demonstrate, to the world how the Bible message and Christian living can unite people from all walks of life, regardless of race or creed, backgrounds that tend to divide the world.

Watchtower officials in New York point to the record attendance of 165,000 at the 1953 international convention in New York city's Yankee Stadium. At that time several overflow areas provided space for the Witnesses, now numbered persons. Yankee Stadium has again been secured because of the cramped quarters of the previous assembly the Polo Grounds will be used in addition. The program will be presented by the same participants following the first presentation in Yankee Stadium.

Most of those from the Belleville congregation will be staying in private homes in New York city and nearby areas.

Fine Performance Given In 'The Winter's Tale'

By ROBERT TANNER
(Special to The Ontario Intelligencer)

In the presence of the Governor General, paying his first visit to the city of his name, the Shakespeare Festival, the Stratford Company gave the opening performance of "The Winter's Tale" last night. Of the three plays presented this year, the third must have presented the greatest challenge to director and players alike. The complex plot and the somewhat excessive verbiage of the aging playwright, it is seldom regarded as one of Shakespeare's more successful plays, for the Stratford presentation gives it life and credibility, even if there are occasions when one would wish Father Time, as he himself says in the middle of the II on "was his wings." But apart from its length, it is a very striking production, beautifully decorated in the grand manner, so that the stage becomes an ever-changing picture of flowers and fawns, now of reds and golds, now again of soothing grays with touches of pastel shades. Here is Tanya Moiseiwitsch at her best in costume and setting.

This play is the first that Douglas Campbell has directed at the Festival, although, as those who have followed the fortunes of the Festival from the start will know, he has been associated with it by no means his first effort in direction. His firm hand was to be seen in the certainty, and introduces many dramatic and humorous touches to all he does, and assist him admirably. Outstanding among a most competent cast is Douglas Rain, out doubt Eileen Herlie, in the role of Paulina, to which she brings warmth, judgment and dignity. It is by no means his first effort in direction. His firm hand was to be seen in the certainty, and introduces many dramatic and humorous touches to all he does, and assist him admirably. Outstanding among a most competent cast is Douglas Rain, out doubt Eileen Herlie, in the role of Paulina, to which she brings warmth, judgment and dignity.

Jason Robards Jr. gives a forceful portrayal of Polixenes, but becomes wrongfully accuses, but once again his strong performance fails to blend with the softer speech of his colleagues. In Christopher Plummer as Camillo, the Shakespearean production, for the ladies to win top acting honors, but in that slight part, Charmion King as Leontes' wife Hermione, and Francis Hyland as her daughter Perdita both give very fine performances in rather thankless roles. The sheepherds, Father and Son, who find the baby Perdita, are played by Bryan Bedford and Douglas Rain and together with Richard Bruno provide a delightful interlude. Autolycus, they provide much of the comic relief in the capable hands of director's son young Dirk Campbell, made his professional debut as the rogue, and, without fuss, in a winsome little performance.

The music of John Cook, though at times a trifle too prominent, provides a very pleasant accompaniment to the play, and the company once again gives us a chance to sing, as they do so delightfully.

"The Winter's Tale" has been selected as the play which H.R.H. Princess Margaret will see on July 31st, as well as for the Actors' Equity benefit matinee performance on August 8. This latter event has become an annual one, the proceeds from which go to the benefit fund for Canadian actors, which has done so much worthwhile work in the past, and will no doubt continue to do so.

Judge from the first night performances, which is always a rash thing to do, "Much Ado About Nothing" still remains the best of this season's productions at Stratford; but all three plays in their widely different ways, are great and stimulating entertainment, their very differences emphasizing the versatility of the Stratford company.

Kiwanians Hear Tape Recording Of Convention

A tape recording of some of the highlights of the 43rd annual Kiwanis International convention, held recently in Chicago, Ill., which was attended by local club President Charles Lusk and Secretary Wilf Mills, Mr. Bush, who was played for local Kiwanians during the regular meeting Tuesday.

The tape, made by the Ottawa Kiwanis Club, included portions of speeches by several dignitaries and Kiwanis International officers attending the convention; among them, the newly elected president of Kiwanis International, Dr. Harold D. Loleed, a Toronto businessman. Mr. Loleed has been a member of Kiwanis for 23 years.

Also included, strictly for laughs, was an hilarious speech given by a "tongue-lied" Texan inviting Kiwanis International to have its convention in Dallas, Texas.

Prior to playing the tapes President Charles Lusk remarked on the Key Club International regional convention, recently held in Ottawa. He said it showed the Key Club to be a progressive part of Kiwanis, and expressed appreciation of the efforts put forth by local Key Club chairman Tom Allison, and director-supervisor Don Rose.

President Lusk expressed regret at missing the Monday evening convention's session and the musical presentation of the Leslie Bell Singers, but was happy with his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilf Mills, were ill with food poisoning after the banquet.

"It was an excellent convention and we appreciate the opportunity of being able to represent the Belleville Kiwanis Club," he said.

Congratulations were expressed by President Lusk to Ed Bryant and the club to Frank Creeggan, recently elected District Deputy Grand Master of Prince Edward District at the session of Grand Lodge, A.F. & A.M., of Canada, held in Toronto.

IN MEMORIAM

REID — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away July 23rd, 1954. The rolling stream of life rolls on, But still the vacant chair Recalls the time, the voice, the prayer.

Of him who once sat there.
—Sadly missed by wife, Marie, Malcolm, Pearl, Marvin and Ruth.

MOLLOY — In loving memory of Rose Marie Molloy, who passed away July 23rd, 1957.

Lonely is my heart today;
For the one I loved so dearly,
Has forever been called away.
I think of her in silence,
No eye can see the weep;
But many heartaches are shed,
When memories are stirred
By a loved one remembered, by her mother.

SCULTHORPE — In loving memory of a dear father, Thomas Sculthorpe, who passed away July 23rd, 1954.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach;
Sweet to remember him who once was here,
And when though absent is just as dear.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter Dorothy and grandson Brian.

SCULTHORPE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Thomas Sculthorpe, who passed away July 23rd, 1954.
The face I loved is now laid low,
No heart so fond as mine;
The hand I held in life's warm glow
Lies now in death's cold chill.
I sit alone with memories
When I, am all alone;
For memories are the only thing,
That grief can call its own.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by wife Vera.

COLCLOUGH — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Charles E. Colclough, who passed away July 23rd, 1951.
Those we love best leave heartaches,
Only those who have loved can tell
The grief we bear in silence
For the one we loved so well.
—Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by wife Emma and family.

Police Probe Two Break-ins

City police officials are investigating two local break-ins which occurred during the night.

Inspector Clair Hayes said this morning that CleanRite Cleaners on Pinnacle St. was entered last night and the grand sum of 65 cents was stolen. Police are puzzled about how the thief or thieves entered the premises, but they know the culprits left by a back door. The premises were not damaged.

The other break - in occurred at Canadian General Electric on Harriet St. There, police said, the thieves entered by forcing the main front door after failing to get in through the windows. Drawers were rifled and "under $100" was stolen.

Councillors Suggest Churches Name Own Traffic Officers

TRENTON — Councillors have indicated they felt it would be quite satisfactory to all concerned if churches in town appointed their own traffic officers rather than to have police "direct traffic" when church services and Sunday School sessions are let out.

The matter was brought up at the town council meeting Monday night when a letter from Grace Church was read requesting that the councillors instruct town policemen to be on hand at noon on Sundays to direct traffic while members of their congregation are crossing the street.

Mayor Ross Burti told the council he had discussed the matter with Chief of Police Jack Taylor and he was satisfied the Chief now has the situation under control.

Councillor Jim McDonald, who is chairman of the police and traffic committee, said if this service was granted to one church then all requests from all other churches and groups would require additional manpower on the police force to look after all. On Sundays the normal duties of the police duty is not as large as it is during the week days. He said he felt members of the various churches could be given authority to direct the traffic if needed.

Councillor Fox said he was more concerned about the Sunday Schools, where children are involved.

Councillor Lange said the matter should be referred back to the traffic committee with the suggestion that it mean more a rule than should be given while bells and stop signs may be installed later for the traffic at their convenience if their church should need it.

Mayor Ross Burti told the council the Chief of Police has contacted a number of the Grace Church and has made arrangements for him to look after any traffic control.

Council Debates Sidewalk, Lights At Meeting

TRENTON — The building of a sidewalk from the end of Bay Street to the Community Centre and the putting up of flower lights from the same street down past the Lighting Sidney Street to the town property was the subject of considerable discussion at Monday night's Council meeting. The issue was brought up by Councillor Joe Gould during his report as chairman of the Public Works Committee.

It was decided the matter would be left over until such information could be obtained from the Public Utilities Commission on what the lighting would cost. Mayor Ross Burti told the council he would like to see the matter go before the commission meeting which will be held tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon.

In his report Mr. Gould recommended that a sidewalk be built on Bay street from the end of the existing one to Sidney Street and Sidney Street to the Town Community Centre. He suggested this sidewalk be five wide where possible feet wider than normal but would be "most advantageous for pedestrian traffic during the next day's traffic."

Town Engineer brought up the question of whether it should be paid for by the town, due to the fact that the street is not a town street, or should it be done under local improvement by the property owners in the future for this type of work.

Mayor Ross Burti told the council they could not change the system and he felt it should go under local improvement. He also reminded the councillors that the walk on the other side of Bay Street was in "terrible" condition and it should be repaired. He said he felt in order to do this it would be raised to let the water run off after a rain.

On being informed that the present sidewalk under question at present just went to the Interprovincial Bridge and Foundry Street Councillor Vago Lange said he felt the residents on Bay Street should be contacted to see if they wanted the walk and to pay for their share under the local improvement by-law. He said, however, they would be in favour of a wide walk and if the town wanted a six-foot walk that it would be obliged to pay the full costs of the extra twofeet.

On the lighting problem Councillor Lange said there should be something done to the lights as they should go to the water's edge. But he said he felt an estimate of the cost would next should also be obtained.

Included contained in Councillor Gould's report was information on various sidewalks in the town which were undergoing repair and in some cases were being completely renewed. One was that in front of the front of the post office where the old walk has been taken up and the new one will soon be put in. At present it is under the process of curbing.

He also told the council that town crews are carrying out the town maintenance jobs on town streets.

She felt they should be able to shut them off when not in use. Mayor Ross Burti said that so many persons were using them and they should not be left unattended continually. Councillor Saylor was appointed to confer with the Parks Committee on mission and ask for their suggestion on the matter.

Thomas A. Parker told the board the town gardener, Bert Boers, has reported the persons occupying the 'trailers' now in Hanna Park have been warned to move on several times and they have been warned.

Attending the meeting, which lasted just over one hour, were: Ted Parker, Miss Marion Baker, Mrs. Bert Strand, John Saylor and Bill Ireland.

Margaret Ends B.C. Visit On Saturday

By NAT COLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Princess Margaret today continued an exhausting round of official duties which won't end until after she leaves Victoria on Saturday.

She resumed the active part of her tour of the province on Tuesday after a three-day rest in the sunny Okanagan Valley. At Fort Langley, she opened recovered Indian village at the B.C.'s first capital. At night she attended a Vancouver symphony concert conducted by Bruno Walter.

Princess Margaret left Kelowna Tuesday after an early swim in Lake Okanagan. She flew to Vancouver in a float equipped Mallard plane and changed to an RCAF C-3 aircraft which took her to Abbotsford, 45 miles east of Vancouver. A car took her on there to Fort Langley.

Despite 80 degree heat and swirling dust which surrounded the fort, the princess appeared cool and composed. She wore a pale blue spotted chiffon dress, white hat and gloves and carried a white handbag. A scarf effect at the neckline was pinned with a diamond brooch.

TO CONTROL TRADE

Fort Langley, first permanent settlement in the Northwest, was built in 1840 by the Hudson's Bay Company to control trade west of the Rocky Mountains.

It was there, in a building 100 yards from where Princess Margaret now stands, that the first log ceremonies Tuesday, that the British colony of British Columbia was proclaimed and James Douglas was sworn in as the first governor in 1858.

The fort is being restored in a joint effort by the federal and provincial governments. The princess called it "most fitting" that the important work should as a major centennial project.

She said the fort is "an important link with the romantic past of this province . . . I am sure it will continue to be a source of pride to British Columbians and visitors alike."

The public address system went dead for a few seconds halfway through her speech and the crowd of about 8,000 missed several words.

After watching the changing of the guard by soldiers of the Royal Engineers Regiment and the Royal Canadian Engineers, the princess spent some time at a museum in the only building of the original fort which still stands.

Parks Board Hears Reports On Committees

TRENTON — Reports from various committees were the highlights of last night's meeting of the Parks Board, a meeting which was held in the Board Room of the Public Utilities Office with all members but one present.

Ted Parker, chairman of the group, reported he had been up to see the Rev. Father Pellon and they had now been finished and the railing had also been set.

A brief discussion was also held on the curbing which the board had stated it will do out of Gilmor Hill Park and would run along the line of their property.

A letter from Town Engineer Eric Adlington on the matter of curbing at Colitrell Park was discussed and the town crew have finished digging the necessary trenches and were awaiting the crane which would be able to lift the sections of curb and place them in position with the work there. The engineer also reminded that the curbing was to be the same as been graded and is ready to be poured over by the board. His letter also said he would like to meet with a member of the Parks Committee to look over Hanna Park.

Following a brief discussion on the Third Ave. Park it was decided that Ted Parker would fill and put a layer of gravel and covered with grass sod and this would be compared with the costs of seeding.

Mr. Parker said he would also meet with the town engineer on the Hanna Park road.

Miss Marion Baker brought up the matter of the drinking fountains in the Gilmor Hill Park and Manna Park. She said

Margaret Will Meet 90 Canadians At Ottawa Informal Dinner Dance

OTTAWA (CP)—Princess Margaret will have an opportunity to meet some 90 young Canadians at a Government House dinner dance here Saturday, Aug. 2.

The event, unofficial and informal function, at which about half the guests are from outside Ottawa. Guests were not invited for their social standing, but represent younger Canadians whom it is believed, the princess would enjoy meeting.

Dinner dances at Government House were instituted by Governor-General Massey for the purpose of meeting young Canadians. He has held about 20 since becoming governor-general in February, 1952.

Guests will be seated at tables of eight and will dance between courses to the music of Ottawa band leader Fred Quilroot.

Men will wear black tie. Women have the choice of either floor length or afternoon length dresses as is the custom at similar functions in London. It is understood the princess will wear floor length dress and that most of the women will do the same.

Accepts Tender Installation of Air Conditioner

TRENTON — Councillor Joe Gould in giving the report to council as chairman of the Public Works Committee told his fellow councillors at the regular meeting Monday night that his committee had decided to accept the tender of Lyle Carr for the installation of an air conditioning unit in the board room.

Mr. Gould said the unit will be much larger than the one presently there and would have two units. It could be used with one unit or two as which ever was necessary and would cost in the vicinity of $950 completely installed or $850 if the old one taken in trade-in

Mayor Burti reminded the councillors if they decided not to trade the old one in it could possibly be installed in the office.

The present conditioner is suitable for a small room or the board room if only a few people are in it. But on council meeting week and the arrival of the number of persons in the room it appears to have little effect. This was the main reason the council decided about two months ago to install a larger unit.

Mr. Gould also mentioned that the J.D. Lee report on the repairs needed for the town bridge was in the engineer's office and could be read and studied by any councillor who wished to. The report was received by council with the consultants had been held last week but only routine matters were dealt out along with the mayor.

Specifications Of Ladder Truck Before Council

TRENTON — The specifications as to the requirements needed for the new ladder truck were placed before the town council at the regular meeting in the board room of the Municipal Building on Monday night.

The "specs" call for various items required for the new truck which will be a combination pumper but Fire Chief Clarence Rollins attended the meeting, explained to the council that perhaps most important was the engine and the engine companies make their engines with their own chassis under them. He also found that these chassis are too high and would not fit the truck that the town presently owns at the firehall. Therefore it was necessary to have a ladder chassis put under the truck and would have to be built by a car manufacturer.

He said no decision has been made as to what chassis there will be bought but that the tenders will now go out also with the specifications. He also said he and his men have travelled and have attended some far more than was required of them. He said the town can be well assured that the truck which is finally bought will be a good one and will serve the town effectively.

Nova Scotia's Coal Industry Outlook 'Rosy'

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons resources committee has heard the long-range future of the Nova Scotia coal industry described as "rosy."

Dr. J. Uren, chairman of the Dominion coal board, used the term Tuesday before the committee. After a discussion, the committee approved the board's 1958-59 spending program of $10,760,645, up $1,689,920 from the previous fiscal year.

Dr. Uren expressed puzzlement that increased man - day production level through greater mechanization had not been reflected in lower costs. Coal rose from two-thirds completion a planned mechanization program would result in at least a doubling of efficiency.

He said there is a potential annual market in Canada for up to 1,600,000 tons of Nova Scotia coal. The Ontario Hydro — Electricity Power Commission was to build several thermith electric plants. The plants would need that much coal.

The A. V. Roe Company had been making an "aggressive" effort to sell coal—in Ontario and Quebec particularly—to purchase Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, he said.

Mercury Near 100-Degree Mark In Saskatchewan

EGINA (CP) — Four Prairie points experienced recorded temperatures Tuesday as the mercury rose almost to the 100-degree mark in Saskatchewan.

Regina and Moose Jaw shared honors as the hottest spots in Canada with readings of 99.

It was a record for Regina. The previous June 22 high was a 98 registered in 1928, Moose Jaw's previous record was 100 in 1924.

At Yorkton, Sask., the afternoon temperature reached 96, eclipsing the former mark for the date—99 in 1945.

In Manitoba, The Pas reached 91, compared to the previous July 22 high of 87.4 reached in 1941. Brandon reached 90.

Lower temperatures were forecast for today.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — A grass fire on South Murray Street brought town firemen out for the second time during the past week. The firemen were called by Frank Long of 12 South Murray Street, but he and his friends had the fire out when the fire truck arrived.

Five Sea Cadets from Trenton will leave this weekend for Sydney, Nova Scotia, where they will spend two weeks on HMCS Acadia. The cadets were chosen from 16 who were eligible and they will be leaving on Saturday. They will go by train to Montreal and from there aircraft will carry them to the Cape Breton port. Those attending summer training course from RCSCC "Trent" at Trenton will be Leading Cadet McAlpine and Able Cadets Rose, Smith, Southall and Newton.

This one is apparently true. At least bus driver Gerry Holmbeck and Edward Wood of the Lotus Cafe believe it. They say that an unidentified banker was fishing in the Trent River near Frankford when he happened to see a sea gull swoop in for a landing on the water. The gull had just about reached the river when a big muskie jumped up, grabbed the gull and pulled it under the water. The sea gull did not re-appear.

It was incorrectly stated in yesterday's column under the Council Brief that the total cost to the town for police wages increase and uniform fees was nearly $60,000. This should have read nearly $6,000 and it was also mentioned that this sum included the raise in salary for the Chief of Police as well; and that the chief's raise, like the other officers, was retroactive to the first of January 1958.

A letter signed by James Moon of Trenton was read to the council at the meeting Monday night. The letter was from Councillor Fox and read in Council and II concerned the pollution of the Trent River.

Work on the extension to the Quinte Dry Dock and Boat Yard is completed. Howard Aziz, owner of the plant, says he expects it will be in operation by the first of next week at latest. The dock has been installed on the back of the building and it is expected the roof will be finished tonight. The additional space will be used for dry dock storage, tierfields and rugs. Yesterday the special job of cleaning the top of a convertible was being undertaken in the new extension.

Police Court

TRENTON — Allan McKenzie of no fixed address was sentenced to three days in custody last after he appeared in Magistrate's court yesterday afternoon.

McKenzie had apparently gone into a local eating place, ordered a meal, along with second helpings, dessert with ice cream, remarked that he had no money and refused to pay for the meal.

In speaking for himself the accused said he had had a boiler but had lost it and after he had installed the man had ordered the owner of the restaurant his wallet in payment. He told Magistrate T. V. Wills the wallet was new and had cost him $8.

Police Chief Jack Taylor told the magistrate in giving evidence, that if the man had gone into this restaurant and asked for a meal he would not have been turned down.

In questioning the man as to where he got the money to buy a wallet or if he could tell the court where he had worked for over three days in the past months the accused was unable to answer.

Magistrate Wills then sentenced him to three days in jail with the hope it would give him a chance to be fed and then be able to get on the money.

William A. Williams was given three weeks to pay three fines of $10 each, instead of attending on town streets. He pleaded guilty to doing 45 miles per hour in 30 m.p.h. zone.

Andre Cleft of no fixed address was also sentenced on a vagrancy charge was remanded for one week.

A. R. Pattern of Brighton, charged with giving a worthless cheque in payment for the purchase of some jewellery was also remanded and the magistrate suggested the accused seek legal advice in the matter. The court was told the accused had lived in Brighton since last March, had issued the cheque last April and the charge had been laid until July 9.

A COURAGEOUS STAND

Prime Minister Diefenbaker has earned the gratitude of all, and will receive the thanks of most, Canadians for his courageous advocacy of talks about the Middle East "at the highest level" and "as soon as possible."

His courage lay in being the first to say publicly what many of the western world's leaders must have been thinking in private.

The fact that within a day President Eisenhower had agreed to attend a summit meeting of the United Nations Security Council, if that is generally desired by the Western powers and by Russia, may lead some to the conclusion that there was scant need for Prime Minister Diefenbaker's plea. Some may see the fact that the U.S. yielded on Britain's insistence as additional proof that Canadian influence in the decision was small.

These facts, though, suggest that the reverse may well have been true, that the forthright announcement on Canada's position may have been exactly what was needed to strengthen Britain's hand and to convince President Eisenhower of the wisdom of the British argument.

That Canada, of itself, can carry scant weight in the councils of the great powers is self-evident. However, we like to think that this country has been building up a reputation amongst the smaller nations as one which is not afraid to take an independent position. Perhaps this belief is nothing more than foolish national pride in what we regard as an excellent record in the post-war years, but if this belief is shared by others in other lands, then Canada's opinion may eventually carry a weight out of all proportion to the nation's military power because it will be speaking for much more than itself.

This is the second occasion on which, during a major crisis in the Middle East, Canada has shown commendable independence in advancing a suggestion aimed at an eventual solution of a deadlock. The earlier occasion, of course, was during the Suez crisis. It is noteworthy that, on both occasions, the government's policy received considerable support from Opposition members, and indeed Prime Minister Diefenbaker's stand on Monday was immediately endorsed by Opposition Leader Lester Pearson, who had been the author of Canada's policy at the time of the Suez crisis. This we find heartening. By this we do not mean to suggest that Canada has, or ought to have, a "bi-partisan" foreign policy in the same sense that this term is used, or used to be used, in the U.S., where criticism of the administration's policies has all-too-often been regarded as unpatriotic. It makes us feel much safer to know that Mr. Pearson's support for the small Prime Minister Diefenbaker's pronouncements on foreign affairs, if he thought these unwise, just as we used to feel happier to know that Mr. Diefenbaker, and his colleagues, would not have refrained from harsh criticism of Mr. Pearson's conduct of the external affairs department had they thought such criticism justified. But both parties - - nay, we think all parties - - have proven themselves big enough to avoid criticism on the barren grounds that the parties must disagree. The parties individually have been as ready to think independently as has Canada as a nation. That this independent thought should on so many occasions have resulted in different parties reaching a similar conclusion, and that these conclusions should on more than one occasion have contributed something new to the councils of the western alliance seems to us to justify the claim that, if Canada's voice carries farther and has much greater influence than mere size would lead one to expect, it is a distinction well earned.

BUSINESS AS USUAL

The Canadian Press noted Tuesday that "diplomatic manoeuvring and internal politics appeared today to have taken some of the heat off military actions in the Middle East, at least temporarily."

And yet this same Canadian Press despatch reported that "for the first time" British troops in Jordan were carrying arms on the streets, as the result of a series of bombings in Amman, and that, also "for the first time since U.S. Marines landed" rebel and government forces in Beirut and Tripoli fought sharp engagements.

With the danger of an immediate major war ebbing, insurgents were resuming "business as usual."

What might well disturb U.S. authorities is the possibility that their forces will be tied down in the Middle East for months, or even years, fighting the same kind of war of attrition against terrorists and rebels which the French have come to know so well in Algeria and the British in Cyprus. It is a moot question whether the Americans are temperamentally equipped to engage in this kind of a struggle.

HOT WEATHER IMPERFECTIONS

In weather like this
I am keen for the shade,
For the comforting bliss
Of a long lemonade.
And the songs I might sing
And the deeds I might do
Are like birds on the wing
Under skies that are blue.
Oh, it cans not for fame
Nor the web of life's plot
Nor success in the game
When the weather is hot.

When the weather is—hot
I'm a loafer at heart.
I'm content with my lot.
And there's no task I'd start
In the shade of a tree
By the side of a lake
I would stretch out and be
Free from all that's at stake.
Fame will come—later years,
Lazing me to the test;
But I'll lie in the grass
When the weather is hot.

Yanks Trying To Pinch Poke

Vancouver Sun

There's a sharp bit of flimflam going on to the north and south of us. Unless we whoop and holler and pound our fists on the bar the Yankee bandits are going to wind up pinching our poke. And it ain't a thing something a spootin' sight more precious than mere gold dust.

Ever since the Alaska statehood bill was passed down in Foggy Bottom there's been an agitation in Yankeeland to claim as their own Canada's Yukon territory and dodge of considerable note. Now, they state Unchained, we can't carry with it, and they've robbed us blind oh, half a dozen other times. But here comes Barry and going to get the Bard of the Yukon.

The day the statehood bill passed, one Seattle paper talked about the land Service would famous. A few days later the other Seattle sheet printed a dispatch from a female of U.S. columnist name of Inez Robb. And in 553 words described the Canadian Service as a guest of honor at the Alaska party, she never once managed to mention the Yukon or the name of the Klondike. She even said Service was famous for his tales of the Alaska gold rush than any sourdough.

Service was never in the Alaska gold rush. Service was in the Klondike in 1897-98 and his home was in the Yukon which is in Canada. The Alaska gold rush was practically all offshoot of it. He worked in White-horse and Dawson City, in Canadian territory, for the Canadian Bank of Commerce. He became known as the Canadian Kipling. He served with the Canadians in the First World War and lived sometime in Vancouver in the Second.

The Yanks have tried this literary banditry before now. They tried to lift Stephen Leacock from us but failed dismally. They're going to fail again.

For they've tangled with the wrong breed. We can hold up a bar long as any Yank, and probably two or three eyes longer. We can play a game of stud poker, our mouths just as tight and our eyes as narrow, as any Yank. And when the chips are this high, we'll have no tampering with the cards, friend, no tampering, all of us. Our flats get awful tricky.

In a way, this attempted bit of claim jumping is a good thing. It'll remind us, when the tale gets around to roads and railways through B. C. to Washington state from Alaska, that the Yankee border is still a Yankee trader. And the reaction will remind them that from here on in we aim to fight for our rights.

And this particular claim is well registered. Even the English look upon Service as a woman. He is the bard himself. Just half a dozen years ago he went on record for an American newspaper as "Born in Lancashire, England . . . but I consider myself a Canadian. I consider myself Canadian. The Canadians themselves consider me part of them."

That we do.

Faced with all the evidence, it would be only kind to assume that these Yanks are just confused. It's Sam McGee's name from Tennessee.

In any case, these budding claim-jumpers will have to ponder on him a while. He's the lad, remember, who penetrated on the shores of Lake Laberge. In the Yukon. Canada.

And nobody was even mad at him.

The Purple People Eater

New York Times

This now is the summer of 1958. At thousands of resort hotels, playing vacationers, dressed in their newly purchased best, are having a fortnight away from the dreary fling of cards, the clatter of typewriters. Nativity they are not living in hopes of marriage, perish this thought. Their children, however, that will be all to the good for a summer romance will blow like a breeze in the long days lying ahead. As the orchestra tunes up for the evening in the ballroom, they are ready. Also by now the schools and colleges have closed their doors for a time releasing into the wonder world of fun, flirters, hors d'oeuvres and life guards. All summer days are followed by summer nights and these evenings are their own. The refrain comes to a close, the music, the jangle of coins in the pocket, the click of coins as they are tossed on the box to signal music for dancing. Here, too, the young people of the youth and music and summer evenings are in the tradition. But won't it be '58. Will it be any different from the future upon this summer's night? Is a song like this year's "The Purple People Eater."

Youth and music and summer evenings have been in the tradition. Sitting in their locale-style garrets, poets turn out eulogies about them. When their mood is right, sleples when it is something else. Sitting in the parlor of their East Hampton cabanas, novelists use the flash-back technique to bring back some middle-aged heroes in an effort to show how they are dancing to a certain song. Sitting at the edge of their swimming pools, playwrights recapitulate the same thing as the novelists, and sometimes there began that way. Youth and music and summer evenings are in the tradition as well known as everywhere as so effective evangelistic preachers. Millions of people were led to repentance by his message.

But he didn't threw his newly made converts into consternation by sounding the note of terror in daily living. Many who came to him wanting to confess their every sin and be saved from it, left sad and sleeping habits were. Besides was sure that what many people who came to him for aid diagnosed as a sense of sin was really a pain in the head — or some-

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The most interesting thing I have observed about gourmets is that they eat with their eyes and their mouths than most of us do. True, they are also particularly interested in the taste of food and in the equally engrossing subject of its texture, but the appreciation of what foods go with other foods to the greatest satisfaction of the senses of taste, smell and touch. Touch, that is with the teeth, tongue and other tactile instruments of the mouth. Touch, that is, with smoothness, and smoothness, the feel of food in the mouth, as well as the taste.

No matter how good the food, most of us think that our mouths are merely receptacles through which food is passed to the stomach. The purpose of food is to be swallowed. The sensation of food, rather than its transit, is what interests most of us. We taste it in passing.

But to the gourmet, the passing is everything. Once the food is swallowed, it becomes mere chemistry, mere science, not art.

Thus you see gourmets holding, lingering each forkful in their mouths, breathing reverently, deeply, half closing their eyes and generally taking their time.

It is with deep regret a gourmet performs

To Your Good Health

KEEP ALL POISONS OUT OF THE REACH OF CHILDREN

Thousands of people poison children every year! Not deliberately, of course, but they do it all the same.

Some figures have come to my desk on the number of calls received by the Poison Control Centre which my colleagues and I established. It was one of the early centres of its kind, but it is far from being the only one. Regularly I hear of some other city establishing one — a centre which salutes its knowledge about poisons and can give up-to-the-minute advice on the best way of handling whatever type is involved in a case.

In a year there were 1,170 calls to our centre alone; we know that other cities likewise are receiving hundreds of calls. We can conjecture safely that the number of calls to the centre represents only a fraction of all the poisoning cases, because in many households the poison is familiar and nobody needs to ask what to do.

The terrible thing is that 95 per cent of all these poisonings that we hear about and the terrible concerns children under five year old. The worst dangerous ones — from five down to whatever age a child is able to unscrew caps and get at poisons — these youngsters by leaving poisons where the child could reach them.

Among the common poisons—liable to be found always in think of them as poisons — are furniture polish, mouth sprays, DDT, weed killers for the garden, aspirin, sleeping pills, fingernail polish and polish remover.

IRON PILLS ARE BAD

Even mother's iron pills (many a mother with a touch of anemia is taking iron) can poison a baby. Other poisons include gasoline, paint thinners, turpentine, alcohol (whether it is rubbing alcohol, wood alcohol, whiskey, it still is poison to a toddler who sees nothing much before he realizes he doesn't like it), spot remover (it almost any type, flammable or not, odds and ends of medicines and, of course, which is largely alcohol) and insect sprays. Remember also that DDT and some of the other things mentioned are cumulative, and repeated doses can add up to poisoning.

Farmers learned long ago that in spraying barns to destroy flies, that they should be careful not to spray the cows, or to spray in areas where cows might get traces of DDT in their food. If they weren't careful, DDT could and did start being found in the milk!

And I hope I don't have to mention the corrosive drain cleaners and toilet bowl cleaners and the like, when it comes to household poisoning cases.

Keep all these things locked away, or in cupboards too high and inaccessible for a child to reach. Don't keep the bleach bottle on the floor in the basement or in the backyard under the sink.

If in doubt — keep a bottle or can of such stuff out of reach anyway. If you make a habit of doing this with household fluids and powders, then you won't ever make a mistake and leave it where it can poison a child.

And as I've said before, when you add medicine to the above list, better put eggs. Just fruit, vegetables and lean meat, is this an adequate diet?—L.K.*

* couldn't say, because the finest thing about a diet is what it leaves out, provided it doesn't. Certainly it is entirely possible to live on a diet of fruit, vegetables, lean meat, and get everything you need for health.

* * *

Note to Mrs. A. H.: Maybe it's poison ivy. Other rash could be caused by a number of some other ailment. My best advice is to stop fooling around with it, to odds and ends, and go to a skin specialist.

* * *

Are you considering the removal of your child's tonsils? If so, remember that nature provided them for a purpose, and this is explained in my pamphlet; "Don't Trifle With Tonsils." To receive your copy, write to me for it in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, stamped and self-addressed envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MORE ON REGIONAL WRITERS

The South has one of the finest regional novelists in Harnett Kane of New Orleans, author of a dozen books about the South. Kane is concerned with notable figures of the South, but all excellently written. His books, by Huey Long, "Louisiana Hayride," starring Governor Richard Leche, and his most recent books is "The Gallant Mrs. Stonewall" (Robert E. Lee). All of his books, however, are well worth reading.

The first regional books in fiction me were written by Conrad Richter. The first was his "A Sea of Grass." That started me off and today I have every book he has written — his latest being "The Lady," a brief novel that you won't forget! Then I was led to read all of Richter's books — some twenty all together. Read his "The Trees" and "The Fields" and "The Town."

Other regional books that attracted interest were those by Jesse Stuart. He is called the novelist of the Kentucky hills. He has immortalized Greenup County, Kentucky. He has been lauded for his fine writing. His first book was a just reward for having struggled in early life. He worked on it for years. It was called "Beside Still Waters." Then he followed that with "The Thread That Runs So True." He was once a school teacher. The book that started him to fame was a book of poetry.

Another interest in regional writers is that of a Missouri writer — Daisy Pal Stockwell, whose first book has ensemble been tub-

Last of Serfs Work 98 Hours

London Spectator

The trade boats on the canals are long and lean and low in the water. They are built to pass washes in the shiny coal in the open hold and still leave a clear face of the captain at the tiller.

As the diesel engine put-puts its warm gargle and the willowy banks slide by at three miles an hour, the water lilies and the reeds and the fish seem a living desperation and sink below the surface, where the fish undertow. The reeds rise in the water and then bend low in a courtier's bow. The cattle stare like Hollywood talent scouts with blank, cow eyes and ceaselessly rotating gum-chewing jaws. A heron creaks low, trailing its toes in the ripples.

The boatmen work fourteen hours a day seven days a week. On these interminably winding ribbons of water, rarely more than six feet deep and often no more than four, the men are as isolated from the dry, bricks-and-mortar life of the other side of the face of the captain at the tiller.

Some lure enemies with a native's knowledge of the waterways who may have as many as eleven children crammed with them on the earth floor in a tiny cabin. Sometimes a pair of boats are in a man and his son—tiny, flat-faced, brown creatures dressed in patched black sacking, with bare legs and huge bulbous-toed boots. Others are families, complete with mothers with masses of Teddy-boy curls and brawling cigarette perpetually pasted to their curled upper lip.

Their lives are endless, slow, circular pilgrimages from wharf to wharf through the ugly backsides of a modern and picturesque country towns. The day begins at five-thirty with the farmers are still turning in half-sleep. It is divided not into hours or miles but into locks.

Tirelessly they run up and down the linger-and-lose locks, while around the stiff, rusting paddle handles, and push the creaking, wooden gates which are like the gates of abandoned mediaeval cities. Dusk ends their day at some forgotten tiny canal-side pub where they drink themselves into unconsciousness and tumble in a daze into their claustrophobic bedcaves bunks. They are the last of the serfs.

Town Council Holds Meeting

DESERONTO— Regular meeting of the town council was held on Monday night in the town hall with all members present with the exception of Councillor Marks. At the request of the mayor a motion was passed to proclaim Monday, Aug. 4th, a Civic Holiday.

A letter from the local branch of the Canadian Legion regarding a plaque to commemorate the fallen of World War 2 and the Korean Campaign came in for some discussion but was finally referred to the Finance committee to investigate.

The caretaker of the town hall requested consideration for holidays and the chairman of the streets committee stated his employees also should have some consideration. After a lengthy consideration A. Stubbs moved that W. Rowland be granted one week's vacation with pay and that he be given an additional week's pay in lieu of the holidays he should have had last year. The streets employees were granted an extra week's pay in lieu of holidays with a bonus of $10.00 each at the end of the year.

Mrs. R. F. Gill wrote council regarding weeds on vacant lots on Maple Avenue and the letter was referred to the streets committee.

There was some reference to the extension of Stanley Avenue in view of the sale of some building lots on the hill. The matter was finally left in abeyance. There were letters from Miss M. Johnston and H. Vardy complaining about water from street drains seeping into their basements and these were also referred to the streets committee.

The problem of crossing guards for the school was brought to the attention of Council by the school board who advised that the auditor stated that the cost for such guards should be charged against the general rate. This was referred to the police committee.

Reeve Alford introduced a motion stating that lots should be sold for not less than 50 dollars. This matter was turned over to the property committee to investigate the price per foot frontage that should be charged.

Reeve Alford addressed council regarding the expenses of the chairman of the streets. After some discussion Councillor Howard moved that the chairman of the streets committee be allowed $5.00 per month for a gasoline allowance.

A by-law was passed to permit the sale of some property to A. O'Coin. Councillor Gill gave notice of motion regarding the re-introduction of fence viewers in the town.

A. Stubbs advised council that business was considerably better in the town and Mayor Sweetman told the members that the mileage signs had been removed from the cut-off at Marysville.

This - - - and That

If you have any thoughts about a big shopping spree, now is the time to do it. One shop after another on Front Street is covered with sale banners,— ladies', men's wear, shoe stores, almost every place.

Remember, these are summer clearance sales and not fall buying. Purchases would be for the left of summer, late holidays, or even for next summer. Shopping a year ahead of time is a risk, so be careful not to choose extreme styles. No telling what will be out of date next year.

Then after the end of the month when the sales are over, fall merchandise will make its appearance and we will be into another season.

We also noticed sales of canned fruits and vegetables which will also be making way for fresh new supplies from this year's pack.

Possibly most of us do not realize how much less food is canned and how much more is frozen. In one plant alone about seven miles from Belleville, a million pounds of peas are frozen every year. Many factories that used to can fruit now have ceased operation. The fruit is washed, cleaned, sorted, sugared and frozen. This does not mean that canning is out of date — not at all. Many items are put up such as rice pudding I believe it or not. Have you tried canned rice pudding?

Speaking of canning, freezing, jam making and so on, these processes may be affected by world situation. There are indications that the price of sugar may go up due to the events in the Middle East.

Browsing through one of the large chain stores the other day, something incongruous struck my ear. The notes of "Vesti la guibba" carried by a strong operatic tenor were coming from the record section at the end of the lunch counter. It was indeed a change from the hit parade. Two men were standing listening, but they decided against it and chose next to put on a rousing march. We do not know their final choice, but they did not seem to be interested in Rock'n' Roll.

T and T hopes you have good shopping by taking advantage of the many summer sales bargains to be found in our local stores.

A few days ago a strange car drove up to our house. We thought surely that it was someone on the wrong road because this is a common occurrence. A fine looking young man got out and asked if we would mind if he and his wife camped over night. The unusual and new request surprised us because there is no river or lake or bay on the property. As a matter of fact the most prolific crop is old pasture grass; out our visitors were serious. Before you could say Jack Robinson they had a little sleeping tent erected and they were set for the night. They went into Belleville for a show and since they were back early we asked them to join us in a cup of tea. We got to know each other quickly and in no time it was one o'clock. The husband is a descendant of Swiss French parentage and his wife is a lovely French-Canadian brunette.

We discovered that we had a great deal in common, not the least being that we were after all Canadians. In no time it was learned that they had a business of mutual interest. This happy young couple were seeing Canada economics and a bit intimately. They had been around the Cospe during May long and are on their way to the head of the Great Lakes now. It was interesting and fascinating to listen to their tales and their optimism was an infective thing. They said that in all their travels they had experienced a minimum of unpleasantness and a great deal of friendliness. They described how the influx of new citizens since the war has affected their city of Montreal. They are concerned and we were surprised to hear that ac-

Handicapped Pupils Taught Stenography

REGINA (CP) — Marjorie Sinclair, head of the commercial department at Balfour Technical School here, employs unusual methods in teaching her students stenography.

Many are blind and some lack the use of an arm, hand or several fingers. Others are hampered by paralysis, malformations or injuries caused by accident.

Miss Sinclair has had notable success in teaching them.

One of her pupils—with only five per cent vision — can type 60 words a minute. Another — the fingers on his right hand fused together at birth—uses a special keyboard. He is blind also.

Miss Sinclair considers that the most important thing in training the students is to study their problems and figure out what they can do.

To help blind students, she has designed an uneven keyboard for typewriter, raising keys slightly on every second diagonal row.

cording to them there are sections in Montreal where ethnic schools are developing and French and English are little spoken. Our visitors do not think this a hostile Canadianism and, if what they say is true, T and T agrees.

We belive that Canadian citizenship must come first as our two new Quebec friends feel. There must be only one nationalism in Canada and it does not need to be chauvinistic nor a denial of pride in ancestry. It is good to meet and know these two travelling goodwill ambassadors from Quebec. He is fortunate to mix business and travel and is fortunate too that his charming wife loves to share it. It is really quite wonderful to know that there are two young people travelling through the nation spreading their faith in the words that will unite us. They are not on a mission, nor on a crusade — simply on a business trip, but they believe in Canada and are unashamed to express their convictions of prejudice and divisive elements.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP: ON VISITORS AND TELEPHONES

It is practically impossible for some people to pass by a telephone in a friend's house without using it. Too often with not even a "by your leave." This I've noticed with practically no enthusiasm, is particularly true of summer visitors. Of course your hostess won't mind a bit if you use her telephone on the occasions when it is necessary. But you won't endear yourself to her if you are that pest, the telephone-monopolizer, the telephone-by-the-hour.

And don't stoop to make a long-distance call on the telephone: first ask your hostess if you may make the call; reverse the charges if it is at all possible (and usually it is possible); if not, promptly ask the operator for the charges and leave this amount in an envelope by the telephone with a notation of the date, number called, charge, and a note of "Thank you, so very much, Katherine." Do follow this honest and considerate way-to-do, ye house guests, and you'll rate an A-Plus for telephone-conduct!

THOSE IMPORTANT THANK-YOU NOTES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I go to visit relatives or friends, for a week-end or longer visit, and friends of theirs include me in their invitations to, say, a buffet party, an after-swimming luncheon party, a cook-out dinner, a cocktail party, is it necessary, when I return home, that I write a thank-you note to each hostess? Of course, when I left, I thanked each hostess and host most enthusiastically for their hospitality. — E. L.

Thank-you notes aren't perhaps "necessary" for these gestures of hospitality . . . but certainly they are very fine social procedure. For three excellent reasons. First, you will make your own hostess and host mighty proud of the good manners of their guest, you. Next, you may be very sure your hosts' friends will tell them something like this: "We had such a charming thank-you note from your delightful friend (or 'cousin'), Edith Lane." Second, your thank-you note will please your hosts' friends, who generously included you in their hospitality. And third, I'm sure you'll be proud of yourself for being a mannerly guest, willing to take a few minutes to write notes to show you really appreciate hospitality given you.

Nice going, lady, on the thru-way-to-courtesy!

NEWSPAPER ANNOUNCEMENT OF MARRIAGE OF WIDOW

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, to be married soon in a quiet ceremony. Will you please tell me how to word the announcement I am planning to send to the local newspaper after the wedding? — Widow

The announcement might read: "The marriage of Mrs. Arthur Graham Ellis, of (address), this city, to Mr. James Clark, of (address), took place yesterday in the chapel of — Church." To this you might add any details you wish: The name of the minister who performed the ceremony; the names of your parents; the names of your bridegroom's parents; the names of the two attendants; the place of the reception, if there is to be a reception; schools attended; clubs or organizations, and so forth.

Skirt Interest

By ALICE ALDEN

Each time there is a gala evening, the draped skirt enjoys a wider and more varied representation. So, no matter the line, skirt interest is waxing strong. Ines da Roma did a beauty of a dress in tissue-thin, crisp silk taffeta in a delicate shade of old rose and gave it a most interesting skirt. The top is simple so that the skirt becomes the focal point—and there is plenty to see. It has something of a turnip shape and is caught at the knee with yoices of matching fabric. Not for every type, naturally, but perfect for the slim, graceful woman who knows clothes and how to wear them.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Barbara B. — Paula should play dumb.

Barbara B. — I am 26, have loved for what I am.

Barbara B. — I am 26, have been married four years and have two children. My sister is two years older than I am and still single. I am very eager to see her married.

Paula is a very superior girl in looks, intelligence and education. But I feel she shows her superiority a little too much and probably frightens men away.

I have tried to tell Paula that it wouldn't hurt to play dumb. After all, it is better to make this sacrifice than to remain single. Besides, Paula is too critical of others. She won't even go out with a man who isn't wonderful looking and terribly brainy — and those are few and far between.

Paula S. — Everyone seems to be gunning up on me, telling me the same kind of thing — play dumb, don't be so funny, etc. I can't agree at all.

I think marriage is a very precious thing and if I have to hide myself and pretend to be something I'm not, the whole beauty of the relationship is gone. I want someone to love me for what I am. I am not conceited about my IQ, but I want to be liked for it as much as for my face and figure.

I try, not to be overcritical of people, but I can't help my tastes. I find it very disagreeable to go out with men who are not attractive and I lose patience with those who are silly or slow-minded. I think it's better to be single than to marry a dunce.

The Council: As she states her case, we think that Paula is perfectly right. The question is, has she stated her case correctly? We doubt it.

When "everyone" tells Paula to play dumb, they are probably using the terms a little loosely. They really mean "stop holding your IQ like a sword in front of you — it terrifies people."

We don't believe mature, intelligent men favor dumb girls, but we do think they resent playing the foil to a woman's mental superiority. It is worse than frightening. It is usually terribly boring.

We do not think that Paula is really conceited about her IQ or anything else. Actually, she lacks self-confidence. Her need for the "wonderful looking and terribly brainy" man is a search for some glory through which she can prove her own worth.

In this frame of mind Paula cannot possibly embark on any successful marriage. Men who want a complete and happy relationship in marriage will sense that Paula wants to use them in some way and will avoid her. A man with outwardly desirable characteristics, but with some vital inner lack, could fall into Paula's trap, but the results are not likely to be satisfactory.

The answer for Paula is not to play dumb or to give up her judgment and marry a dunce, but to use her intelligence to uncover her own deeper feelings, to recognize that her own value comes from within and to learn to give something of herself to others. She will then see that others are slicer to look at and listen to than she has suspected.

Melton Mowbray Veal And Kidney Pie

by Mary Moore

Smitten by a doubtful compliment I hurry today to balance up yesterday's extravagance. A reader wrote: "... your recipes are Oh so good but Oh so expensive ...."

Here I toil and moil making hamburg meat into company dishes and beans into banquets and other budget bowing dishes to pass on to low-income families and sudjenly I hear I'm extravagant.

I'll admit yesterday's recipe for Salmon Mayonnaise was a budget-buster but to tip the scales in the other direction here is a pie I made for the same Press Club garden party. Some said it was the best.

What happened was I went shopping for beef for a beef and kidney pie, but even stewing beef was 69c per lb. But right beside it was the best-looking stewing veal for 59c. That was for me. Then I saw 2 veal kidneys just waiting for my knife. They turned out to be 13c each. So for 90c plus 31. I had meat for ten — and royal fare too. See for yourselves if you do not agree.

VEAL AND KIDNEY MOWBRAY PIE:

Excellent as the one hot item for an otherwise cold summer supper. The English Pastry: (For sides and top of one 10" x 2" casserole.) Three cups unsifted flour, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1¼ teaspoon salt, 1¼ cups best quality shortening, ¾ cup boiling water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 egg yolk. Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt and cut in ¾ cup of the shortening with a pastry blender. To remaining shortening add the boiling water and stir until shortening is melted. Add lemon juice, then the egg yolk and stir. Stir this into the flour mixture then knead for 3 minutes. Chill for 1 hour so it may be handled easily. The Meat Filling: Trim and cut up 2 veal kidneys and soak in cold water ½ hour. Drain and dry. Cut up 1½ lbs. stewing veal. Dredge all of this meat in ¼ cup flour to which you have added ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon each curry powder and MSG and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Melt ½ cup butter or margarine in large frying pan and in it saute 3 small chopped green onions and tops until limp. Add floured veal and kidney to pan and brown on all sides. Add 1 13-oz. can mushrooms (broken pieces and stems are fine) including the liquor and 1½ cups boiling water, stir until thick. Let simmer over very low heat while you roll out pastry. Divide pastry into halves. Roll out one half into long narrow strip to line sides of casserole. When it is in the dish you can readily press and shape it to fit the sides for it is pliable. Pour in the filling. Roll out top crust to just fit, and gash top liberally (artistically too if you like). Press edges firmly to prevent side leaks. Brush top with beaten egg white. Bake at 450 deg. for 10 minutes then reduce heat to 375 deg. for 2 hours. Wonderful hot of course but could be served cold English style.

Every Car That Stops in Town Because of Museum Worth $15

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Every chamber of commerce interested in attracting tourists should open a museum, says Ruth Home, director of museum research studies at Ontario College of Art.

"In the United States there is tremendous interest in history . . . this could be echoed in Canada," Miss Home said. "It is estimated that every car that stops in a town to see a museum is worth a possible $15 in money spent in the community."

She believes a survey should be made of Ontario to find suitable spots for museums.

USE FOR GHOST TOWNS

"Ghost towns have been utilized as museums in the United States and similar towns in Northern Ontario could be exploited as tourist attractions."

"In Canada we are in danger of losing our heritage by not taking sufficient interest in our history," said Miss Home, part of whose work is to encourage the establishment of local museums.

One of these is at Jordan, Ont., near St. Catharines, which includes relics of the wine trade as well as local history. She has worked with other museums at Niagara, Napanee, Cornwall and Windsor, and now is assisting in establishing one at Edgeley in the Toronto area.

"Women are giving much help to museums by creating community interest, and the Women's Institute in Ontario is helping history by assembling reports about different areas of the province," she said.

VITAL TO ART STUDY

Miss Home says museums are essential to the study of art.

"Students must understand the history of a particular period in order to understand the art it produced," she said. "They can also compare modern trends in art as an aid to their own designing."

Though she has won three scholarships to study museums and allied subjects and has written a book about ceramics, Miss Home first specialized in political science and has a master of arts degree from the University of Toronto.

She worked at a Toronto public library for a while, studied at Smith College, Mass., and then became a lecturer at the Royal Ontario Museum.

She was supervisor of education when she left there 12 years ago to join the college of art. After a life's work in museums she says of them: "They grow on you."

Mrs. Harold Pound, Mrs. Ella Hines and Mrs. Milton Treverton assisted Mrs. Ritz.

Mrs. John Ritz and Mrs. Frank Walker were in charge of the program, which included readings by Mrs. Frank Walker, Mrs. Douglas Martin and Mrs. George Sills. "Ten Rules for Prayer." "Prayer at a Woman's Meeting." "Great People Are Grateful."

Miss Dianne Tummon favored with a solo. Mrs. Ritz gave the stewardship reading "Where Do I Come In," followed by a temperance reading by Mrs. David Martin.

During the business period in the absence of the Community Friendship convener, Mrs. Ritz received the reports of the cards and sick calls made. It was decided to cancel the August W. M. S. meeting and have a W. A. meeting instead.

Mrs. Easter, the W. A. president, conducted a short business period during which plans were made for catering at the Scott Sales Barn.

A social time was spent and refreshments served by the 3rd line ladies.

Royal Commission on Energy Starts Sifting of Evidence To Prepare Interim Report

MONTREAL (CP)—The Borden energy commission has entered the final phase of a job which may set the pattern of Canada's oil and natural gas policy for years to come.

After hearings during the last six months in centres between the Pacific and the St. Lawrence, the commissioner adjourned indefinitely today to start the mammoth task of sifting through volumes of evidence to prepare an interim report.

Chairman Henry Borden, a Toronto lawyer and industrialist, said no further hearings will be held until the report is completed. This was interpreted as an indication of urgency with which the federal government views the problems of Canada's fledgling oil and gas industry. Some federal sources have said the report is expected in September.

The commission report will undoubtedly deal with the thorny problems of gas export to the United States, crude oil imports and the question of building an oil pipeline to serve the rich Montreal market area with Prairie crude oil.

SET UP LAST FALL

The government established the royal commission last fall to work out recommendations for a national energy policy.

The order-in-council also asked that special consideration be given to determine "whether any special measures need be taken in relation to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited in order to safeguard the interests of Canadian producers or consumers of gas."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker made clear at the time that no decision would be made on the question of gas exports by Trans-Canada to the U.S. at Emerson, Man., until the commission reports.

Meanwhile, Midwest Gas Transmission Company, which reached an agreement with Trans-Canada to take its gas, has a long-stalled application before the U.S. Federal Power Commission for a needed import permit.

The prime minister's statement was viewed as a severe blow to TPC, where it has strong opposition from American coal and other gas interests.

There was almost complete unanimity in the oil industry on the importance of permitting exports of natural gas in the near future.

SECOND BATTLE

During the hearings a second battle shaped up—that of the desirability of supplying Montreal refineries with western Canadian crude to displace petroleum imported from Venezuela and the Middle East.

Western Canadian independents in a drive spearheaded by President R. A. (Bob) Brown of the Home Oil Company Limited, said a pipeline to Montreal is the only foreseeable solution to the industry's marketing problems.

Mr. Brown told a commission hearing in Toronto he could start building next year a 1,800-mile pipeline to supply the Montreal interests "economically". Construction depended, however, on government help to persuade refiners in the Prairie crude instead of foreign oil.

The western independents claim Montreal refiners are reluctant to agree to this because they find it more profitable to use crude from foreign fields which are owned by parent or affiliated companies.

Montreal refinery operators have lined up solidly against the proposal. Imperial Oil Limited, operator of one of the biggest refineries in the area, said feeding of western oil to Montreal was "not a permanent solution to the over-supply problem in western Canada and the rest of the world."

GIRL MAILS CAT

DETROIT (AP)—Nettie Angelo, 3, wanted to send a gift to her grandmother, recovering from an operation. Monday she dropped her kitten Blackie, into a mailbox without benefit of stamp or address. The girl's father called postal authorities who opened the box and found Blackie asleep on a pile of letters.

Lesage Charges Colonization Funds Misused

MONTREAL (CP) — Hon. Jean Lesage, leader of the Quebec Liberal party, Tuesday night charged the Union Nationale government with abandoning its colonization program for the pleasures of cabinet ministers.

He told a press conference after completing a speaking tour of northwestern Quebec that he was "scandalized" at the conditions in which settlers in such regions as Abitibi live.

"Those are the settlers who remained, and they have little," he said.

The reason for the deplorable situation, the Liberal chief said, is colonization has been abandoned by the Union Nationale.

In the 1930s, he continued, an annual budget of $2,500,000 had been made to help settlers and found communities. Today, with an annual budget of $10,000,000, the settlers appeared worse off.

The colonization money is being used to build roads to take the cabinet ministers to fishing grounds, the colonization areas are taking them to baseball games in New York City and to hockey games in Montreal while the settlers suffer."

Toronto Land Sells for Four Million

TORONTO (CP)—The largest private sale of undeveloped land in Ontario—and probably Canada —was announced Tuesday by the Toronto real estate firm of W. H. Bosley and Company.

Robert McClintock, a Toronto developer and contractor, has sold a parcel of 274 acres for $4,000,000 to Toronto Industrial Leaseholds (1957) Limited, an affiliate of Webb and Knapp of New York.

The land, four former farms situated in the Don Mills area of suburban North York, is to be used for an industrial, commercial and residential community. A new expressway is being built through the property.

Slain Iraqi Premier Warned Disaster Predictable Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Iraqi Premier Nuri Said, slain in the Iraq revolution, left behind him an article decrying Western policy toward the Middle East.

"Speaking as an Arab and friend of the West, I'm fed up," he wrote in the current issue of Life magazine. "Most responsible Arabs feel the same."

Said declared the world seems utterly indifferent to the fate of 1,000,000 Arab refugees and that neither the United States nor any other big power is even discussing Arab claims against Israel.

"The sense that the West has abandoned us is as strong as it was in 1956 before Nasser stockpiled the Arab world by his arms deal with Russia, or even stronger," Said wrote.

"We who believe in the West warned them of ultimate disaster. We were ignored and the disaster came. Disaster is equally predictable today. If it came once the Nasser way, it could be as a Communist coup next time."

Arbitration Starts on Tobacco Price

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP)—An immediate start on arbitration proceedings to set a minimum average price for the 1958 Ontario flue-cured tobacco crop was asked Tuesday night by the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Board after "last ditch" talks here Tuesday with buying company representatives failed to reach any agreement.

Jesse Gray, board chairman, said the companies refused to name their three-members of the six - man negotiating committee for tobacco, the body empowered to conclude any agreement on an average price.

It was expected to start on arbitration proceedings would be automatic, as the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board warned last week in setting Tuesday's session that if a start was not made on price negotiation "arbitration will start immediately."

Member's Widow Seeks Seat In Parliament

SPENCERVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Jean Casselman, widow of former member of Parliament A. Clair Casselman, has been chosen Progressive Conservative candidate for a federal byelection in Grenville-Dundas.

She was chosen Tuesday night on the fourth ballot at a nominating meeting attended by some 1,200 persons, edging out Morrisburg, Ont., lawyer W. G. Gorrell, 32 votes to 30. Three other candidates dropped out after earlier ballots.

Mrs. Casselman of Prescott, will contest the byelection, expected to be called in late August, for the seat left vacant by the death of her husband last May 11 after 33 years in the House of Commons.

R. Alan Hay, Prescott farmer-businessman, and Reeve J. R. Patterson of Kemptville dropped out after the second ballot. Stan Sanderson, Oxford Station cheese exporter, was eliminated after the third.

DAUGHTER OF ROWE

Mrs. Casselman is a daughter of the Hon. W. Earl Rowe, MP for Dufferin-Simcoe since 1935, former minister without portfolio in the Bennett cabinet and dean of the Commons. Her husband was dean of the Commons prior to his death.

Neither Liberals nor CCF have chosen candidates for the expected byelection, and the Social Credit party has announced it will not run a candidate.

Were Mrs. Casselman to succeed her husband as member for Grenville-Dundas, Commons history would be almost repeating itself.

After the death of F. C. Casselman, Liberal member for Edmonton East, in 1941, his widow, Mrs. T. Cora Casselman, was chosen in a byelection to succeed him. The two Casselman families are not related.

Drugged Fish Packed in Ice Said Success

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP)—Fish that were drugged, then packed in ice and moss, have survived a long air trip to a hatchery here. The Ontario department of lands and forests said Tuesday the initial success of the new waterless technique in transporting fish will open up new and more efficient avenues of stocking streams and lakes for sport and commercial purposes.

The experiment called for the transfer of adult fish about 300 miles from Algonquin provincial park to the Tarentorous hatchery near here. A considerable number of splake—speckled trout-lake trout hybrid—three to five pounds each, were anaesthetized, packed in moss and ice and loaded on an aircraft.

Talk Out Bill To Bare Sources Of Party Funds

OTTAWA (CP) — A CCF-sponsored bill that would oblige political parties to disclose their revenue sources, as well as election campaign expenses, ran into a Progressive Conservative roadblock in the Commons Tuesday.

The measure, proposed by Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena), was "talked out" during the 40-minute period allowed for private members' bills. It now drops to the bottom of a list of 18 other private members' bills and may be discussed again only if it gets back to the top of the list.

CCF Convention May Strive To Delay Selecting Leader Until 'People's Party' Formed

MONTREAL (CP)—The CCF in its national convention opening here today will harness election dances, consider leadership problems and give searching study to a proposed alignment with the Canadian Labor Congress.

About 300 delegates representing all provinces were expected here for the three-day convention, first in Montreal since 1944.

The two main problems facing the convention are what to do about a national leader and how to proceed with a proposal by the 1,000,000-member CLC for co-operation in establishing a "people's" political movement.

In addition, delegates have brought with them a raft of resolutions, numbering now toward 400. These must be boiled down to manageable size by the convention resolutions committee for consideration by the convention before it ends Friday.

The possibility arose Tuesday night that the leadership would be left open for two years, until the next national CCF convention, or that M. J. Coldwell would be named honorary head of the party to get around the leadership problem at this time.

Mr. Coldwell, who has held that post since 1942, told a press conference he definitely is not available to continue in the job.

CCF national chairman David Lewis spoke up at once to say that the party's national council had not yet accepted Mr. Coldwell's resignation and party officials met later in the evening presumably to make a further try at working out some arrangement to keep Mr. Coldwell at the helm.

But the 69-year-old leader, like much of his former Commons colleagues in the party defeated last March 31 said:

"I feel as though a weight has been lifted . . . I'm free of tension and responsibility and I want to stay that way."

He plans to spend a few weeks in Britain and on the Continent, leaving in about 10 days, in September and October he has some speaking engagements with Canadian clubs in British Columbia.

Other party officials, their Commons ranks cut from 25 down to eight in the March 31 election, appeared anxious to keep Mr. Coldwell on for two more years until some arrangement more agreeable than now exists can be worked out with the CLC.

The CCF national council has drafted a resolution for submission to the convention that would authorize the party executive to enter into discussions with the CLC, "interested farm organizations and other like - minded groups and individuals."

Mr. Knowles told Tuesday night's press conference some informal discussions already have taken place between CCF and CLC officials on this matter. They had proceeded to the point where sub-committees were formed to approach farm groups and others interested in the proposed new movement, which would have the CCF as its nucleus.

Weslock Confident of Repeat In Canadian Amateur Golf

By W. R. WHEATLEY

TORONTO (CP)—Nick Weslock of Windsor starts out today in defence of his Canadian amateur golf championship confident he can repeat.

Weslock came out of the two 18-hole qualifying rounds of Monday and Tuesday with a medal score of 150, two strokes under par for the 36-hole route over the Scarboro club's 6,616-yard layout.

Two rounds of match play are scheduled for today. Among the 64 "starters" Weslock figured half a dozen Americans and at least four Canadians will be tough to beat.

Significantly he placed at the top of the toughest contenders two veteran Americans who shared medallist honors with 137. Jack Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla., who went farthest for the American contingent in the British amateur this year, and 240-pound Marty Stanovich of Chicago were the two most feared by Weslock.

Penrose and Stanovich matched scores of 69-68 in the qualifying play to finish two strokes ahead of Weslock.

At 150 with the defending champion were Gary Cowan of Kitchener and Bob Brue of Milwaukee. Both were on Weslock's list of formidables.

Other Americans tabbed by Weslock are Ward Wellmeier of Buffalo, who compiled a 36-hole score of 140; Bill Hyndman, III of Philadelphia, 145; Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, 148, and Tom Draper of Detroit, 148.

Along with Cowan among the Canadians, Weslock singled out Bobby Kidd of Vancouver, with 143 in the qualifying play; Doug Sigsby, also of Vancouver, with 144, and Hugh Paterson of Toronto, who finished with 151 and squeezed through a playoff with six others.

"All of those Americans can be dangerous," said Weslock. "I haven't played against them all but I know what they can do."

"That fellow Sigsby might really get going and I know Paterson hurt it in him because he has a good swing. I'm not worried about scores in the qualifying round. I'm worried more about the fellows with swings."

Dawe Nips Hull in Hill Thriller

Cobourg Edges Bobcats 3-2 in 12

By GARRY AEXANDER

Cobourg Merchants pushed across one run in the bottom of the twelfth inning in Cobourg last night to shade Belleville Bobcats 3-2 in what was likely the most exciting baseball softball fixture played in Cobourg in years.

The victory gave Cobourg a one-game lead in the three-of-five Belleville and District softball league semi-finals. Second game is slated for CNRA Park here Friday night with the third in Cobourg Saturday.

The game featured a terrific pitching duel between the Merc chants' "Sleepy" Dawe and Bobby Hull, great fielding plays, plenty of strikeouts and some queer base running.

The Bobcats, behind Hull's great pitching, built a 2-0 lead with single runs in the fourth and eighth and appeared to have the game wrapped up when "Wieser" Brown signed Turpin's liner for the first out in the last of the ninth. Pete Dawe cards kept Cobourg's hopes alive when Crawford couldn't handle his infield single. This brought Dawe to the plate. "Sleepy" teed off with a wrong - field homer to knot the score at 2-2.

But with the fixture tied at 2-2 the pitching duel continued as Dawe and Hull battled pitch for pitch. Cobourg loaded the sacks in the 11th on a single, an intentional pass to Dawe and another walk but the 'Cats pulled out.

Temple's crew got one on in the tenth on a walk and two in the 12th on a walk and error but Dawe bore down to pull out unharmed both times. But in the last of the frame the Merchants filled the sacks again with one out on Belleville's lone error and two walks. Turpin cleared the winning run home with a fly ball to left field for the 3-2 win.

Bobcats opened the scoring in the fourth when Hull strolled and Bert Faulkner lined a double to left-centre. They got a gift run in the eighth when Dawe fanned four batters. Crawford whiffed but reached first on the dropped third strike. Dawe whiffed Brown and Hull but a passed ball and another error scored the run before Faulkner also went down on strikes.

Dawe scattered four hits over the 12-inning distance and toseed no-hit ball during the last five frames. He set a new season strikeout record by blasting third strikes by 23 Bobcats, getting the side four times.

Hull, who had allowed only an infield single until the seventh, ended up with a seven-hitter. He got pace with Dawe in strikeouts for a while, getting ten in all, while passing five, one intentional.

Leftfielder "Bep" Guidolin came up with a magnificent circus catch in the sixth inning. Turpin hit the ball over Guidolin's head but "Bep" backpedalled and made a back-handed catch falling backward as he threw himself in a last attempt.

Dawe and Turpin shared batting honors for Cobourg. The winning chucker had his two-run homer and a single while Turpin singled twice and drove in the deciding run with his fly ball. Pete Dawe, Crawford, Burke Clarey and Brian Hart had the other safeties.

Bert Faulkner's double was the big Bobcat blow while Hull, Paul Russell and Doug Bone shared singles.

Bobcats — Barclay, Crawford, Brown, Guidolin, Faulkner, Casey, Russell, Bone.

Cobourg — Turpin, Boocardo, Dawe, Clarey, Bevan, B. Hart, O'Brien, J. Hart, McSporran, Campbell.

Umpires — Al Kelleher (P) and "Shud" Ethier. Time — 1:56.

Champ Brown 12-5 Favorite Over Lane in Title Match

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Tough-talking Joe Brown meets the last of the persistent challengers for his world's lightweight championship tonight with the prediction that he'll dispose of this one —Kenny Lane of Michigan—about like he has all the others.

Brown will be defending his title for the fifth time in 23 months. He disposed of the previous four challengers — Wallace (Bud) Smith, Orlando Zulieta, Joey Lopes and Ralph Dupas—by knockouts.

It will be Brown's second big pay day in less than three months. The little Negro from Baton Rouge, La., pulled down $40,000 for whipping Dupas here May 7. He should get about the same out of tonight's fight.

Texas Boxing Enterprises, the promoters, said almost $50,000 already was in the till and it should approach $60,000 by fight time, 10 p.m. EDT. There will be $45,000 from radio and television.

Out of about $100,000 from all sources, Brown will draw 40 per cent, Lane, who says this will be his biggest pay day, will get 20.

HARSH WORDS SAID

A lot of harsh words have passed between the two camps, with Brown irred mostly by aspersions Lane has cast on his age. The Muskegon, Mich., farm boy has said he'll wear Brown out over the 15-round route because Joe's too old to stand the pace of a 25-year-old, Brown is 34.

The fight culminates a two-year campaign by Lane for a chance at the title.

"He gave me the run-around because he didn't want to fight anybody who had a chance with him," said Lane grimly. "Now we've forced him into it."

For the record Brown has fought 96 times, won 79, lost 15, had 9 draws and two no-decision bouts. Lane has gone forth 37 times, won 32 and lost 5.

But Brown will go to the post a 12-5 favorite, mostly because he is such a terrific puncher—something for which Lane isn't noted.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Lightweight champion Joe Brown, who meets seventy-two Kenny Lane in Houston, Texas, tonight in defence of his world bauble, has developed the planefeathers of a struting young cockerel.

Joe holds his patience for lightly. In fact so much so that he has made plans to go to bed early. His own bed, that is. It could be the cozy cushion that covers the ring floor.

Magnanimous Joe is not going to disappoint the Texas ring faithful. No quick knockouts for him. The ten-gallon hats are going to get their money's worth for Joe has decided to let Lane stick around a while and take in the local territory.

The lightweight champion makes no bones of what he thinks of Master Kenny and his chances to snatch the lightweight bauble from Joe's kinky locks. "I could," smiled Joe bashfully, "put him away early in the fight, but I think I'll let him stick around awhile, just to let him suffer."

"I could get him out of there in three or four rounds, but I think I'll let him stay six or seven just to make him pay for all that bad mouth that's been coming from him," added Joe.

The two men in a fifteen-round title match in the Sam Houston Coliseum. The bout will be televised in the United States and Canada and will get under way at ten o'clock.

Lane has been no shrinking violet as far as voicing his opinions of Brown and his chances of snatching the crown. He thinks his six-year age advantage over the 33-year-old champion will give him the edge. If he wins he will be the first southpaw to hold the lightweight title.

That in Joe's opinion, is the worst thing that could happen to any title. "I want to save the lightweight division from such a fate as that," he snorted derisively. "Those lefthanders, they ought to take 'em out and drown 'em before supper." Nice fella, eh?

But the crafty titleholder has not been taking any chances. He has been putting in long sparring hours with lefthanders, since Lane is noted for his leading with his right. He quit training on Monday and has been taking it easy since.

Brown is a fighter of the old school, a journeyman who roamed the world over making a living with his fists. He considers Texas his good luck charm for after he adopted the Lone Star State his fortunes changed for the better and he began to get recognition and money.

It was in Houston in 1956 that Joe decisioned Wallace (Bud) Smith in a non-title bout. Three months later he won the title from Smith and since then has defended successfully against Smith, Orlando Zulueta, Joey Lopes and Ralph Dupas.

Lane will carry an old man's dream with him when he climbs into the ring tonight. The old man is Jack Kearns, Kenny's septuagenarian manager and the dream is that of directing another million-dollar champion like Jack Dempsey or Mickey Walker.

Kearns made and spent a fortune piloting Dempsey into the heavyweight title, and another one with Walker, the Toy Bulldog who won the middleweight championship. He had several after this pair but none even came close.

Then along came Lane and the canny Kearns manoeuvred the 26-year-old scrapper from Muskegon, Michigan, into the top ranks of the lightweight division. After his tiger had defeated such contenders as Ralph Dupas, Glen Flanagan, Frankie Ryff and Orlando Zulueta, Kearns began to clamor for a title shot.

But champion Brown and his manager, Lou Viscusi, ignored the vociferous demands of Kearns! His persistence, however, paid off and the National Boxing Association ordered the winner of the Brown-Dupas fight to meet Lane within three months. Brown won that one, setting the stage for tonight's showdown with Lane and the last of an old man's yearning dream about one more champion.

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

This is the night a lot of people have been waiting for. Tonight Cliff MacKay and his Holiday Ranch and Square Dancers will be at Memorial Arena in a slambang toptlight variety show that amazes millions of Canadians weekly via television.

Cliff has not appreciated his show for this appearance. Patrons will get the full treatment, in fact a lot more than they get via the TV screen. He does not stick to one phase but produces entertainment for the entire family.

The show is sponsored by the Islam Caravan. Order of the Alhambra and Islam arranger Eddie Lee and the McFarlands' Overseas Fund are looking forward to a bumper crowd. The Islam Caravan has generously donated every cent of the proceeds to the hockey club's fund, and by purchasing a ticket you will not only see an outstanding stage attraction, but will be helping send the Maes to Fragne next February.

Yankees Blast Hit Record; Braves Nudge Cards

Bomber Bats Get 23 Clouts To Give Turley 15th Victory

Aaron, Mathews Help Willey

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer

That American League "race" may be dead, but you can't say they're not trying to liven things up as the New York Yankees romp along with a 12-game lead.

Take Tuesday night.

1. Cleveland's Vic Power missed most of the first game in a twi - night doubleheader with Washington. He thought only a single game was scheduled. Washington took the opener 4-3 in 12 innings, but the Indians, with Power lining a two - run single, won the nightcap 9-3.

2. The Yankees clipped Detroit 13-3 as Bob Turley won his 15th, but the Yankees made it a bit out of the ordinary by getting 23 hits, high for the season in the AL.

3. Baltimore and Chicago White Sox, running 1-2 in team fielding, booted the ball around for five unearned runs in a 4-2 Chicago victory.

4. Kansas City got only four hits, but beat Boston 4-3 on Vic Lopez' two-out, two-out homer in the ninth. Three governors and former president Truman, an old hand at waiting out final returns for victory, were on hand for Bob Cerv's night.

Turley, who has lost but three, had a four-hitter and a 13-1 lead going into the ninth. Then the Tigers counted two on Gus Zernial's fifth homer and doubles by Frank Bolling and pinch-hitter Tito Francona.

The Yankees built a 5-0 lead in four innings with the help of two-run homers from Norm Siebern, who had four hits, and Gil McDougall. Paul Foytack was the starter and lost it for a 7-9 record. He's 0-3 against the Yankees. who scored six in the sixth, two of 'em on a wild pitch and an interference ruling.

The White Sox jumped past the Tigers, who have lost six of their last nine, into fifth place as Billy Pierce, 16 games behind last year's 20 victory pace, won his 10th.

The stubby southpaw had a shutout for 8 2-3 innings, then needed Turk Lown's relief help when he walked two runs home after an error by shortstop Luis Aparicio. Jack Harshman (7-6) lost it, supplying the error that led to a three-run fourth.

Cerv had an RBI WaPt as the As scored two in the first. But Tom Brewer got in Bill Skowron 'em on two hits until he gave up a two-out walk and Lopez's ninth homer. Jackie Jensen hit his 20th homer. tops in the majors.

HOSKERS GIVE FIRST

Consecutive home runs by Norm Zauchin and Ken Aspromonte won the opener for the Senators and reliever Dick Hyde (8-3).

Indian manager Joe Gordon rushed Washington starter Camilo Pascual after he had split Gary Geiger's helmet with a pitch that narrowly restrained reaching the mound. Gieger wasn't injured seriously.

Hal Woodeshick and Earl Averill, who combined to beat Baltimore last week, hooked up again to beat Washington in the nightcap. Woodshick gave up nine hits but gained a 2-0 record when Averill broke a 3-2 tie with a two-run single in the third. Rocky Colavito homered in both games for the Tribe for a total of 18.

Harness Racing

TORONTO (CP) — Marjorie Canuck, a two-year - old filly owned by Russ Miller of Dutton, Ont., is going to be the richest trotting race in Ontario for the second start in her brief racing career.

Russ had paid $200 in nomination fees for the $10,000 Canadian Juvenile stakes which go here Saturday at Old Woodbine track.

He started Marjorie Canuck in her first race Tuesday to see if it was worth spending another $100 entry fee.

Marjorie Canuck stepped smartly through the stretch to win a nose decision over Sue Princess in a head-to-head finish.

That was enough for Russ—Marjorie Canuck is going to the stakes.

Aussies, Britons Battle For Games Top Honors

Canadian Athletes Pick Up Gold, Three Silver Medals; Male Sprinters Make Finals

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — With Australia and England fighting it out for top honors in the early stages of the Empire Games, a study of the medals won and lost indicates a changing trends of international sport.

The Aussies in recent years have gained the reputation of being speed crazy. The record-making performances of their swimmers and girl sprinters took the spotlight at the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne. Their earmen have been cleaning up at Henley in recent years, rivalling the Scandinavians in acquiring English riverware.

Meanwhile, the English athletic reputation has been based largely on endurance. It was Englishman Roger Bannister who first broke the four-minute mile. The record books have been studded for years with the achievements of Gordon Pirie, Chris Chataway, Derek Ibbotson, Dennis Johnson and Chris Brasher at distances of half a mile and up.

At the present Games the Aussie sprinters and swimmers still are in ascendance though meeting unexpected competition from the English girls in the short distance track events. English runners placed second and third behind Aussie gold medalist Marlene Mathews-Willard in Tuesday's 100-yard dash final, ruled today's Olympic champion Betty Cuthbert, another Aussie, into fourth place.

MAY MEAN THREAT

With two English girls qualifying for the 220, this may mean a future threat to Australian supremacy. But the Australians already are making impressive inroads on the English strongholds.

In the first three days the Aussies captured two distance track events—the half mile and the six miles. Both previously were won by British runners. Both Aussie winners set Games records.

But the medal-stealing traffic hasn't been all one way. In fact, England has captured more titles previously held by the Aussies than it has lost to them. Against those two distance defeats, the Englishmen can point to no less than five titles wrested from Australian defenders.

Three of them are in the rowing events. In Vancouver four years ago the Aussies won the double sculls and the fours with cox. The fours without cox hadn't been on the program since 1938 but the Aussies were the last to hold the title. This year England won them all.

The English also dethroned the Aussies in the team epee fencing and the men's javelin.

In Tuesday's program South Africa's Gerhardus Potgieter set one while dethroning Australian David Lean in the 440 hurdles and England's Margaret Edwards improved on her world mark in the 110 yard backstroke while swimming a leg of the medley relay.

The Canadian team of Sara Barber, Brantford, Irene Service, Vancouver; Margaret Iwasaki, Vancouver, and Gladys Priestley, Verdun, Que., qualified for the final and Miss Iwasaki also qualified in the women's butterfly.

Montreal's Cameron Grout was the only other successful Canadian swimmer, gaining a qualifying berth in the men's 220-yard butterfly.

Rob Steckle, the Kitchener Ont., light - heavyweight, planned T. B. Dodd of Wales in one minute 15 seconds in his first wrestling bout. Steckle had drawn a bye in the first round.

Meanwhile, Canada picked up one gold medal, her first of the Games, and three silver medals as the University of British Columbia eight edged Australia and the fours with and without cox placed behind English crews. The remaining medal came from the epee fencing team which finished second behind England.

Canadian sprinters reached the finals in both the men's and women's 220 to somewhat atone for the girls' dismal showing in the 100 where none of the three Canadian entries survived heats. Stan Levenson of Toronto bowed out against a powerful field, finishing ahead of the 100 champion, Keith Gardner of Jamaica in the semi - finals in which Canada's English sprinters Dave Segal and Peter Radford failed to qualify. Eleanor Haslam of Saskatoon survived two rounds of eliminations in the women's 220.

Vancouver's Bob Cockell and Cumberland, B.C., also looked capable of reaching the final as they won a heat in the second round of the 440 without being pressed. All three events will be decided Thursday.

The powerful UBC eight, which looked like a winner in its preliminary heat Saturday, maintained its form despite rough water and a vigorous challenge from an Australian crew that never gave the Canadian half a length behind.

The international expérience of the Canadians eventually paid off. Four of them, Don Arnold, Walter d'Hondt, Lorne Loomer and Archie MacKinnon, had won gold medals at Melbourne in the 1956 Olympics in the fours without cox. Three others, Bob Wilson, Wayne Field and Bill McKerlich, were in the UBC eight that won a silver medal at Melbourne.

Of the other two, Bill Mervyn has been rowing since 1955 and only Norswain, Tom Bibb, is in his first year of the sport.

The effort of four of the victorious eight, along with Bibs, to win the two events in a day by competing in the fours with cox proved to be a bit too much for them.

The pickup Canadian crew got a break in Monday's preliminary round when the formidable English foursome hit a patch of rough water early in the race and caught a crab.

There was a hint of trouble to come when the Englishmen recovered smartly to take the lead, but the extra burst sapped their strength and the Canadians earned a place in the final by finishing in front.

GO WAY IN FRONT

But the crew, who won the event at Henley, rowed away from their rivals in Tuesday's repechage and finished 4½ lengths ahead of the Canadians.

An effort to achieve a double also probably played its part in the most resounding upset at Lake Padarn, the defeat of the strongly fancied Australian pair of Donald MacKenzie and Mervyn Wood in the double sculls final by England's Michael Sprackien and Geoffrey Baker.

MacKenzie, the Diamond Sculls champion, proved his status as the world's greatest singles sculler earlier in the day but he and the veteran Wood were unable to cope with Englishmen, who beat them by five seconds.

The UBC coxless four, which included two members of the olympic eight, an into one of the greatest of this year's Henley champions, the National Provincial Bank crew of London.

The Londoners, who electrified the Henley crowd with their fin-ishing spurt to upset the favored Russian entry, were flown the Canadians the same way to win by three lengths.

Snyder Meets Miller Friday; Midgets Here

The biggest little show on earth as far as wrestling is concerned will be back Friday night when Little Beaver, the king of the midgets and his miniature mates appear at Memorial Arena.

Last time out the small ones brought down the house. Led by Beaver they put on a show that had the rafters creaking. This time Beaver pals up with Tito Infanta, a Spanish grandee of the ring against the well-known but unpopular Fuzzy Cupid and Ski-Lo-Lo. For laughs and smart wrestling, don't miss it.

The main bout should be a thriller with the popular Wilbur Snyder back again with the arch-villain of that trio of "bad guys", the Miller brothers' big Bill. Snyder attend a lot of friends on his last appearance here and the agile youngster will need all our support Friday night.

Another third of the Millers, 260-pound Ed will be around too. He mixes matters in the opening fray with Leo Garibaldi and probably won't be too far away when brother Ed is busy in the main bout.

Moore May Meet Fullmer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)— Archie Moore says he is agreeable to a defence of his light heavyweight boxing champion ship against Gene Fullmer and confirmed that negotiations are being made for such a match.

"We are attempting to put together a match with Fullmer for the week of Sept. 10 in Salt Lake City," said Moore. "I think Fullmer would get an okay for the fight."

He's grown out of the middleweight division. It would be a big match. It's just a matter of putting together a few things."

Senior Lacrosse

BRAMPTON (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors defeated Minico Minnies 17-4 in a Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association game Tuesday night.

Rev Bennett led the scoring for the winners with five goals. Bruce Wanless, a junior player called up for the game, scored four. Lloyd Smith notched three and Clarke Pulford netted two. Singles went to Joe Caruso, Bill Wanless and Harvey Madgett.

Leo Peatro, Doug Vipond, Bill Dicks and Charlie Ludlow scored for Minico.

Point Anne Defeats Trenton Jrs. In First Game League Semi-Finals

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The Point Anne bludgeons beat out a 16-hit tattoo off two Trenton hurlers last night in a 9-2 victory over the Legion juniors in the first game of the district league semi-finals.

Manager Charlie Drake's youngsters were deprived of the services of their ace hurler Gord Mirorney who was refused permission to play in a last-minute OASA decision.

Mirorney, an over-age junior, it appears had signed with Point Anne for the OASA playdowns prior to last night's game and on this account was not deemed eligible, for the juniors in the league playoffs.

Manager Drake assigned Ron Wannamaker to the hurling chore but his shools proved no match for the Point Anne bats. They touched him for nine runs and fourteen hits for the six innings he worked before giving way to Whitney, Whitney choked the Ox Pointers with two hits and no runs over the rest of the route. Wannamaker walked four and whiffed one.

Pat Maracle went the route for the winners giving up eight hits but walking none and sending down four vis the strikeout route.

Jackie Elliott jr. powered the Ox Point attack gunning out a homer and single in two times at bat after going into the game in the sixth inning.

Claude Carr, Davy Jones and Jackie Wardhaugh had a double and single each with Doug Hull, John Batchelor and Charlie Kingston hitting two singles each. The two Pats, Gilmour and Maracle each had a single.

Carl Austin with a double and single paced the Trenton offensive with Moxam driving in two singles. Drake Asseltine, D. Cole and Long each had singles.

The Ox Pointers grabbed a first-inning two-run lead off four hits, a walk and two Trenton errors and never looked backward. They added two more in the second off two hits and the third Trenton bobble.

They put the game on ice with a five-run five-hit outburst in the sixth that saw Wannamaker be on the showers. Jones double and singles by Batchelor and Kingston were topped by Jackie Elliott's two-run home and a single by Maracle.

The Juniors scored their brace of runs in the fifth innings. With two out Austin doubled and Drake and Asseltine hit back-to-back singles good for a pair. Maracle stopped the rally by whiffing Alexander.

They threatened in the second when Austin and Drake on a row loaded the sacks after two men had been retired. Maracle forced Wannamaker to pop to third to end the uprising.

The teams:

Trenton — Austin, Drake, Asseltine, Alexander, Moxam, D. Cole, Long, Whitney, R. Wannamaker, L. Wannamaker.

Point Anne — Carr, Wardhaugh, D. Hull, Batchelor, Kingston, Gilmour, Jones, Gary Goyer, J. Elliott jr., Maracle.

Solving Education Problem No Trouble for Ryan Family

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Many people talk about getting a better education for their children, but Robert Ryan and his wife Jessica did something about it.

They went to the extreme of starting their own school. And the project has been a rousing success that has attracted interest from educationists in many parts of the country.

It all started about eight years ago when the youngest of their four children was ready to begin kindergarten. Mrs. Ryan decided the public school situation in their North Hollywood neighborhood

She reported to her husband that the situation wasn't good. The classes were packed and classes were on half-day sessions.

"What'll we do about it?" the actor asked.

"Let's start our own school," his wife said.

MEET OTHER PARENTS

They held a meeting with other parents in the nursery school their son was attending. Only two families expressed interest. The number was swelled to 12 when the word got around. So the Ryans and friends opened the Oakwood School in an abandoned building.

The staff: Two teachers for the first and second grades plus kindergarten. Gradually, the staff and grades were increased and a new building was built on property purchased by the school.

"We now have 200 students, seven modern classrooms and a new playing field," Ryan said.

"It is not a celebrity school—I'm about the only actor connected with it. Nor is it a school for problem children. Unfortunately, that is what a lot of private schools attract; parents who don't start worrying about their children's education until problems can't read or starts beating up the teacher.

"We're not fundamental and not progressive, a word which has lost its meaning through misuse. We stress the arts, but our curricula is about the same as the city schools. The difference is that we can give special attention in a class of 14 instead of 40.

"The results have been beyond our fondest hopes. The I.Q. of our students is 25 points above public school—and the I.Q. is something that is not fixed, some people think, but can be raised by education.

"Some have suggested that our students might not be able to adjust to bigger schools. But half of them have gone on to be presidents of their classes. And we've had a steady influx of principals and educators visiting us to see how we operate."

One of Rarest Sights on TV Will Be Live Dramatic Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Unless something exceptional occurs during the next month or so, one of the rarest sights on fall television will be the live dramatic show.

At this moment, approximately one-third of what is considered prime viewing time (from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.) remains unsold by the three major networks, according to a checkup by Variety, show business trade paper. These unsold 13 hours add up to about $75,000,000 worth of airtime and almost as many millions again in production costs.

If sponsors don't turn up to pick up the bills, the networks are certainly going to do some economizing—with results visible on home screens.

An answer to the question of where the sponsors and their bankrolls have gone is offered by one important advertising agency executive whose job it is to watch television trends and currents.

"One of the big reasons for sponsor resistance to television," he says, "is that most clients and their agencies continue to look for another Gunsmoke, another I Love Lucy, another $64,000 Question.

"The search for these goes on but each day it is more probable that they will never be found, for the day of the outstanding show, the show with the 40 ratings, is past. Nowadays, no time period is unopposable.

Programming now has reached a point in quality where there are a lot of shows around, and all of them good, he says.

"The whole thing has led to a levelling off. Clients are just not going to find any one outstanding show because almost all shows have reached a reasonably good level."

What will it mean? That depends, but probably it will mean fewer expensive talent shows, more movies, more inexpensive panel and audience participation shows—and more plugs for coming attractions instead of the regular commercials.

AT THE PARK — Jack Kelly, known to millions of viewers of the "Maverick" television, is starred in "Gunsmoke" production "Hong Kong Affair" at Trueway's at the air conditioned Park Theatre. The film, made entirely in Hong Kong, also stars Mary Wynn. On the same program is "Bullwhip" starring Guy Madison and Rhonda Fleming. Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

"BULLWHIP"

New Action Film

Allied Artists' newest action film, "Bullwhip," a Guy Madison-Rhonda Fleming starrer, is due to open Thursday at the air conditioned Park theatre.

The story, placed in the days of the Frontier West, was written by Adele Buffington and gives both stars plenty of opportunity to meet with much excitement.

Included in the cast of top supporting players are James Griffith, Done Beddoe and Peter Adams.

It was filmed in the area of Angels Camp and Sonora, Calif., on the famed Mother Lode of the Gold Rush days. It is in Cinemascope and color by De Luxe. Singer Frankie Laine sings the title song in Allied Artists' "Bullwhip."

SECOND FEATURE

PICTURE MADE IN HONG KONG

Allied Artists' "Hong Kong Affair" the second feature at the Park theatre, was filmed in its entirety in Hong Kong, one of the world's most fascinating cities.

The action-packed screenplay dealing with romance and intrigue stars Jack Kelly, known to millions of viewers of the "Maverick" television show, and May Wynn.

ANOTHER ZENITH FIRST!
SUN-POWERED EYEGLASS HEARING AIDS!
SOLARIS is the name . . . because this amazing new eyeglass* hearing aid converts the sun's rays into useful electrical energy. Again, Zenith puts modern scientific progress to work for better hearing . . . this time harnessing the sun's energy, using the same principle being used to transmit messages from the Vanguard satellite in outer space.
SOLARIS not only operates on free "sun power" . . . it also stores up reserve power when sufficient sun rays are available, for use anytime, anywhere, in either mercury or rechargeable nickel-cadmium batteries. SOLARIS will always operate at full power on batteries alone.
SOLARIS is available only through Zenith Hearing Aid dealers. Be first to see and wear this pace-setting addition to the Zenith line of Quality Hearing Aids . . . a type for every electronic-deafness-correctable hearing loss.
ADVANTAGES OF ZENITH QUALITY
• 10-Day Money Back Guarantee
• 1-Year Warranty (Quality Proof)

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, July 24

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — An acquaintance is endeavoring to pull you into some sort of venture that you could perhaps profit because you feel he or she is a good friend. But this could leave you quite bankrupt. Hence, say you will take it under advisement.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — A conniving partner endeavors to place you in an uncompromising light while he or she takes the spoils today. If you permit, be warned and pretend you do not understand while working out a quick and ethical solution to the affair.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — One of your comrades tries to twist things around today in a most cunning and clever way. Don't reveal that you are in the know at this time. Await developments so you plan the right attack. P.M. be kind to the needy, the hungry.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — If you are too demanding of sweetheart today, or try any histrionics to gain affection, there will be a great deal of misunderstanding. Be patient, thoughtful and kind. These qualities never fail to win the coveted person.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Don't try to jump into that new venture just yet that you feel will be the most successful. There is much preparatory work yet to be done and family problems ironed out. Be at your laconic best, bide your time and clear up odds and ends.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — You will undoubtedly get some word or data that is erroneous from a letter, a telephone call or some acquaintance today. Pass it off as a prank. Jealousy could have caused it, so simply be big and understanding.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Show other persons how much you appreciate the practical ideas given you. By using them you can set up a finer financial arrangement for yourself now, provided you give them the test of time.

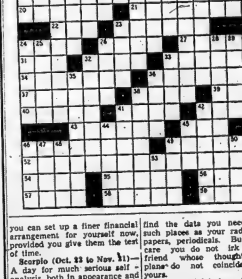
Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 22) — A day for much serious self - analysis, both in appearance and position in life. You will then realize there is a great deal of room for improvements now and you will have no time to study others.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Private manoeuvring is fine for you today, since they will be the means by which you can successfully handle most of your problems. Later, take time to help those in need and who look to you for real assistance.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Remember that vital person in your life is as important as the lady fortune you are trying to amass, so be careful not to neglect him or her. Plan your hours better in order to have leisure time for recreation.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — There is an opportunity today to investigate those unusual circumstances that puzzle in connection with work, political or social matters. Then you have a clear picture of situation. Support a harassed authority.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — You have the time today to find the date you need from such places as your radio, TV, papers, periodicals. But take care you do not ink a new friend whose thoughts and plans do not coincide with yours.



If your child is born today ... The wonderful child born today will have such fiery determination that nothing and nobody can withstand his or her methods. So it is important your progeny early has fine spiritual education in order that ambitions will be channeled in right directions. The great leader is in this chart, and particularly the ball coach, movie director, perhaps even a government head of great power.

Neat as a Pin

The owner has just finished doing all the work and now offers this attractive 3-bedroom home for sale. Situated on a large lot. Well we have never seen a home that has been better cared for, or more complete in every detail. The basement has just been finished with a super recreation room. This home is a brick — there are Rusco aluminum storms and screens. Three bedrooms, a tiled bath, big kitchen and living room has gone — we have the key, and we know you will want to see you. You may buy it. We are right beside your phone.

Chinese Waiter Killed Trying To Stop Fight

TORONTO (CP) — A 36-year-old waiter died early today during a fight in a lakeshore cafe in suburban New Toronto. Police have charged five youths with creating a disturbance.

Dead is Kwong Hoon Fang, an employee of the restaurant for a year with no known relatives in Canada.

Police said a fight broke out in the restaurant about 1:30 a.m. and later moved out to the street. Police were called while the waiter tried to break it up and was knocked to the ground, a detective said, and was dead on arrival at hospital. He suffered a fractured skull.

Charged with creating a disturbance are Thomas H. Akister, 22, of Norwood, a village 18 miles east of Peterborough; Gordon Weaver, 18, of suburban Willowdale; and three New Toronto youths, Robert T. Hannivan, 21, Allan E. Hannivan, 24, and Wallace Libgwe, 22.

Dosco Expands In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation will modernize and expand operations of its Canadian Steel and Wire division plant in Montreal, H. R. Smith, Dosco vice - president in charge of steel fabrication and manufacturing, announced Tuesday.

The plans, being put into effect immediately, call for additions and improvements to existing mill facilities to enable "production of a full line range of pipe, tubing and allied products for Canada's growing steel demand," the announcement said.

SORRY ABOUT FLIGHTS

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The United States has told Australia it regrets flights over Australian territory by unarmed transport planes "during the pressure of Middle East events," the state department said Tuesday.

ROY CAMPANELLA says "I'LL WALK AGAIN"

Now, in a Saturday Evening Post exclusive, the great Dodger catcher Roy Campanella tells of his agonizing struggle against death and paralysis after his tragic accident six months ago! Speaking from the hospital bed, Campy tells:

Exactly what happened that fateful January night when his car turned over.

How much progress he has made in his battle against paralysis.

What the doctors predict of his future.

Why, for a long time after the crash, he refused to see even his own children.

The part his wife, Ruthie, has played in his recovery up to now.

His present relationship with the Dodger ball club.

And you'll learn what's given him the most comfort and solace ... how Ike and Nixon encouraged him ... and the doctor determined to get back into baseball — all in "I'll Walk Again" by Roy Campanella himself.

IN ALL, 7 articles, 4 stories, 2 serials, many cartoons and exciting photographs.

Diefenbakers Join Princess In Prince Albert

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker will accompany Princess Margaret to his home town when she visits Prince Albert, Sask., next Tuesday, July 29.

A detailed program of the royal tour released Tuesday shows Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker, then join the princess—making her way east through Canada after attending the British Columbia centennial at Calgary and fly with her to Prince Albert.

Mr. Diefenbaker will remain with the princess during her helicopter trip late Tuesday to Waskesiu in Prince Albert National Park and on her Wednesday morning tour of a farm.

Mr. Diefenbaker parts company with the princess at 1 p.m. Wednesday when she leaves Prince Albert airport for Toronto and he returns to his duties in the capital.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

(Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In most cases, after use of another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinkage) of the swollen, sensitive tissues took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make this statement as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of long standing!

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a research institute laboratory. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in a suppository-ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H. ointment. Use as special applicator. Preparation H. is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

POSTPONE THE HOG VOTE

Officials of the Ontario Hog Producers' Association are campaigning for a favorable vote on the Ontario hog marketing plan, which marketing has been contested in the courts. In spite of adverse rulings by the Supreme Court of this province, hog producers will vote on the 25th of this month for or against a marketing plan. Two appeals against these Ontario court decisions have been announced.

The results of these court actions, won by producers in opposition to the plan are ignored by its advocates. They ignore the possibility of the decisions being upheld by the Supreme Court of Canada. And they are attempting to make it appear that an adverse vote of producers, under these conditions would put an end to all centralized marketing plans.

The fact is that new legislation meeting all the conditions implied in existing judgments and possible appeal judgments would be highly desirable. The proper procedure of the Producers' Association would be to postpone the July 25 vote until the courts have had their say on the validity of the operations brought before them.

A letter on this page today by one of the province's major hog producers outlines the gravity of the position into which the Association would push its members, and those now being sought as members. The letters before producers as whether they will permit themselves (a) to be bullied or cajoled into voting for marketing procedures which they believe to be unsound, (b) whether they will allow themselves to be fooled into believing no other scheme is possible; or, finally, (c) whether they will sacrifice an opportunity to have a further say on the kind of hog marketing plan suitable to their needs and in conformity with those social principles which underlie the law of a free, democratic society.

A NO VOTE STANDS FOR THE BILL OF RIGHTS

Princess Margaret to Occupy Royal Family Cars on Tour

MONTREAL — Princess Margaret, during her tour of Central Canada and the Maritimes, will occupy two railway cars which have come to be known as the Royal Family Cars. They form part of an 11-car Canadian National Railways Royal Train which has just been refurbished at CNR's Pointe St. Charles shops here.

The Royal Family Cars were used in 1939 by King George and Queen Elizabeth and in 1951 by the Queen when she toured Canada as Princess Elizabeth. They are normally used by the Queen's representative in Canada, Governor General Vincent Massey.

The rear car on the Royal Train will contain Her Royal Highnesses' personal suite, an observation lounge and bedrooms for her attendants — Ladies in Waiting Honorable Iris Peake, M.V.O., and The Lady Elizabeth Cavendish.

The adjacent car contains an office and bedroom for her private secretary, Major The Honorable Francis M. Legh, and the royal dining room.

THREE DIESEL UNITS

The train will be powered by three CNR passenger road diesel units coupled. They are stabled at either end, thus obviating the necessity of turning the locomotives enroute.

Other equipment in the train includes two seven-compartment lounge cars, "Burrard" and "Bedford." One will accommodate the Princess' maids, equerry, press liaison officer and doctor, and the other, several of the Canadian members of the party; the Chief of Protocol, secretary of the Government Hospitality Committee, tri-service co-ordinator, auto transport officer, tour baggage officer, an RCMP inspector and a representative of the Department of State.

"Thunder Bay," a five-bedroom, 10-roomette sleeping car will be used by the Princes' footmen, hairdresser, detective, and secretaries, while the "Acadia" will accommodate the Canadian cabinet minister and his wife who will travel with the Princess, and Frank T. Collins, special assistant to the Minister of Transport.

A car for the use of railway officials and a "fancy-chair" dining car will also be included in the train. Three service cars, a baggage car, crew dormitory car and battery charging car, complete the consist.

Special facilities were added to the train when it was being refitted, including radio and telephone communication between railway officers riding the locomotives and those in the train, typewriters and dictaphones in the offices of the train and clothes pressing equipment in one end of the dormitory car.

Every wheel on the train has been freshly turned for smooth rolling, and coupler draft gears have been adjusted to ensure ultra-smooth starts and stops. All the cars are equipped with roller bearings, and the eight passenger-carrying cars are air-conditioned.

Following the Princess' arrival at Malton Airport, Toronto, on July 30, the Royal Train will travel nearly 2,000 miles on the Eastern Canadian tour.

Her Royal Highness' first night in Ontario will be spent on board and next morning she will visit Toronto, leaving there at 11.00 a.m. 2.30 p.m., E.S.T. for Stratford to attend the Shakespearean Festival. That night the train will make her to Niagara Falls which she will visit next morning, August 4. In the afternoon she will visit Hamilton and leave the same night for Ottawa.

Functions in Ottawa will commence with her arrival at 11.00 a.m. EST, August 5. She will spend some time relaxing in the Gatineau Hills and during the afternoon of August 5 the train will take her to Montreal for a brief visit which will include a civic reception in the new Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

The following afternoon she will fly to Quebec City, and again board the train there that evening for Fredericton, N.B. On August 7 she will have a busy round of activities in the New Brunswick capital and, after one day with no engagements, will inspect Camp Gagetown on August 9.

Her Royal Highness will leave for Yarmouth, N.S., by air later that day and will tour Western Nova Scotia by helicopter and train, boarding the royal yacht at Digby, N.S.

The train will stay overnight at Cornwallis and will stop at Annapolis Royal next morning. Sunday, where the Princess will attend church. After brief halts at Middleton, Kentville, and Windsor, the train will arrive at Armdale Station in Halifax at 2.00 p.m. EST, where the Royal party will leave it for the last time. August 11 is the last day of Princess Margaret's Canadian tour and she and her party depart for the United Kingdom by air that evening.

Gas Directors Face Charges

TORONTO (CP)—Three directors and a former director of Northern Ontario Natural Gas Company Limited have been summonsed to appear in court here July 30.

Charges against the company and the four men were laid earlier by the Ontario Securities Commission. They are accused of breaches of the Ontario Securities Act concerning transactions in company shares.

Boat Flotilla Begins Cruise Through Trent Canal System

CAMPBELLFORD — A flotilla of both inboard and outboard boats that has been assembling here since Sunday evening, moved out of the Department of Transport docks in Campbellford on Tuesday morning on the start of a cruise up the Trent Canal system. The cruise will end at Severn Falls, about 13 miles south of Georgian Bay on Labor Day.

The cruise, which started with about a dozen boats from Toronto, Burlington, Niagara Falls and other points, is sponsored by the Toronto Power Squadron. Commodore of the Trent cruise is Vincent Watt, a member of the Toronto Squadron for the past three years. He and his wife and family are making the trip aboard the yacht "Jeavin," which is a combination of the first names of Mr. Watt, whose first name is Vince, and Mrs. Watt, whose first name is Jean. The Trent cruise is not limited to members of the squadron, and many boat operators will travel with the flotilla, joining it during the trip, so that they may gain more knowledge of the handling of their craft by observing more experienced yachtsmen.

During the trip, the group will pass through literally dozens of locks and will travel over one marine railway. This is at the Swift Rapids locks above Severn Falls. The boats will be lifted out of the water onto a special flat car, one or two at a time, and transported a short distance overland, where they will be placed in the water again on the other side of the falls.

A courtesy boat owned by the Outboard Marine Limited of Peterborough is making the trip with the group, carrying spare parts and an experienced mechanic, in case the boats encounter any trouble on the trip.

EVENTS PLANNED

Ed Hopkins of Toronto, is the Flag Officer for the trip, and J. R. Beale is the Special Events Officer. Also making the trip, with his own boat is Jim Mickle, the past commander of the Toronto Power Squadron. Many events have been planned to take place during the cruise.

On Monday, after the arrival of the commodore and several other boats, Mayor Virgil R. Maybee of Campbellford, and many members of the council, as well as C. H. Davidson, president of the Campbellford Chamber of Commerce, met with the officials of the cruise and extended an official civic welcome. Cars were provided for the crews of the boats so they could tour the town. The campsite used by the flotilla, as well as laundering ramps, were provided by the town and the Chamber of Commerce.

The party travelled through several locks above the town on Tuesday morning and planned to stay at Hastings over night. There, more boats will join the flotilla, and additional boats will join along the way. Several boats are waiting in Peterborough to swell the size of the group. They expect to reach Peterborough on Wednesday afternoon and will stay there on Wednesday evening.

Commodore Watt said he hoped the cruise would become an annual event, and expressed his thanks to the town officials for the welcome they had received, and for the facilities that had been provided for the handling of the boats and the crews.

To The Hog Producers Of Ontario . . .

On Friday of this week, the Hog Producers of Ontario are going to the polls to settle the validity of an already invalid compulsory marketing scheme. The word "compulsory" always strikes a discordant note, bringing a forewarning of a Socialistic trend. Farmers, who have been branded as rugged individualists throughout the years, may on Friday lose some of their individuality. J. C. Broderick, of St. Catharines, speaking in favor of producers' marketing boards, at the Annual Convention of Ontario Federation of Agriculture, in a daily paper of November 6, 1957, says "The individualist must be destroyed". Does this mean every farmer?

It is to be hoped that every hog producer makes a careful study of the issues at stake before casting his vote. Regardless of the final outcome, it is the money of every hog producer that is fighting a propaganda war for compulsory marketing. Opponents of the scheme are willing to pay double to vote it down. Should they as individualists be destroyed because they are willing to pay for something they believe to be better than compulsion.

A voluntary marketing co-op would be favorable to every farmer —a compulsory marketing co-op is not a co-op in any sense of the word.

The law of "Supply and Demand" still rules the markets in a democratic nation. Any tampering with this law by enforcing of compulsion is the first stake of socialism.

A "NO" vote on Friday doesn't end all hog marketing schemes, but gives us a chance to replace the present unsatisfactory one.

VOTE NO! ON JULY 25
To Preserve Free Enterprise

This advertisement is sponsored by hog producers who are opposed to the present compulsory marketing scheme, and paid for with funds received by the advertising committee appointed at a protest meeting in Tavistock.

Diefenbaker Sees Khrushchev Reply Near Own Stand

Gives First Reactions Promises Serious Study

REVOLUTIONARY REGIME IN IRAQ WINNING FRIENDS

Tension Is Subsiding, Troops Quit Baghdad

BAGHDAD (CP)—The new revolutionary Iraqi government apparently continued to find favor today both with its people and the West.

This trend was seen by some observers, from both the West and Arabic countries, as offering the brightest hope for a settlement—or at least a truce—in part of the latest Middle East crisis.

While the world watched Moscow, London and Washington to see whether a summit meeting within the United Nations Security Council will be set up in an effort to settle some of the deeper Middle East issues, the Iraqi government continued to entrench itself.

Troops which took over here early last week, killing King Faisal and his top advisers, were withdrawn from this city Wednesday, Maintaining order was left in the hands of the regular police.

The government continued to say that it will respect its all commitments to the West and there were reports from London and Washington that it will be accepted and eventually recognized by British and the United States. It apparently has turned thumbs down to overture by the United Arab Republic, headed by Arab nationalist Gamal Abdel Nasser.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis — Generally sunny weather is expected over Ontario today with afternoon temperatures rising to the mid-80s. In Northern Ontario a few thunderstorms will develop by late afternoon. These thunderstorms should become more widespread through the next area tonight, as a weather disturbance brings in cool air from the Prairies. On Friday, the cool air will advance towards Southern Ontario bringing with it a number of thunderstorms.

Lindsay's Fighting Bulls Will Die But in Slaughterhouse, Not Arena

LINDSAY (CP)—Six Mexican fighting bulls ordered up for the "bloodless bullfight" here Aug. 2 and 4 are coming to Lindsay to die.

They will not die gloriously on the field of battle. The Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty in Canada announced Wednesday it will have two cars, a truck and a final force of inspectors on hand to make sure they escape harm.

The bulls will go to their death in a manner seldom experienced by their breed: A knock on the head and a slash in the throat in a commercial slaughterhouse.

The unusual ruling has been decreed by officials of the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce who purchased the bulls at about $600 each last month from a Mexican rancher. The animals haven't yet arrived.

Ed May, secretary-manager of the chamber and one of the two men mainly responsible for the bullfight idea, said in Toronto this week the chamber won't be able to return the bulls to Mexico.

Matadors will not face a bull which they know has already been at the ring. It has been discovered, they say, that a bull

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker, commenting upon Russia's conditional agreement to attend a UN Security Council emergency meeting on the Middle East, says the Soviet statement will receive "serious and considered study by the Canadian government."

The prime minister, after studying press dispatches Wednesday night of a Moscow report that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev had imposed as a condition for talks that Arab leaders and India's Prime Minister Nehru attend, said Mr. Khrushchev's official statement would first have to be studied before the government's views could be determined.

"I would note, however, that Arab states already are represented on the Security Council," Mr. Diefenbaker said, reporting after a cabinet meeting. Iraq, now on the council, is an Arab state.

It always had been understood that Mr. Nehru would participate, Mr. Diefenbaker said, a first reading of the report indicated Mr. Khrushchev's response to be not far from the position the prime minister himself had taken in the Canadian House of Commons last week.

NO OBJECTION

Mr. Khrushchev's suggestion of Monday as preferred date for starting the UN meeting—which Mr. Diefenbaker already had indicated he would be prepared to go along with—is no objection from Canada.

"As far as Canada is concerned," the prime minister commented, "the suggestion that we should meet is acceptable but there are other countries to consider."

"We are the closest country at hand, and so it would be no problem for us to be there."

If Mr. Diefenbaker attended the meeting he likely would miss accompanying Princess Margaret when she visits his home town of Grey North Tuesday next Thursday.

He is scheduled to join her in Calgary and be with her on arrival at 9:30 p.m. (EST) when she lands at Prince Albert. The tour program calls for him to accompany the princess until Wednesday at 1 p.m. when she continues eastward to Toronto.

BLAME ENGINEERS

LONDON (Reuters) — Railway authorities blame two locomotive engineers for separate train wrecks that killed 100 persons in dense fog last winter, Chief Inspector C. A. Langley said on Wednesday. Driver William Reginald Barnes, 65, both missed signals and would have prevented the disasters.

UNITED NATIONS HURRIES TO SET STAGE FOR MEET

Russia's Acceptance Brings Quick Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) United Nations headquarters buzzed today with preparations for a summit meeting starting Monday.

Protocol and security heads were working at top speed to set up the stage for a gathering under this roof of the most important figures of these momentous times.

Immediately after Russia's Premier Khrushchev indicated late Wednesday that he was ready to fly to New York for a heads-of-government meeting within the framework of the UN Security Council, the machinery of the UN's permanent organization was set in motion to line up arrangements for what may be the gravest gathering in the world body's 13-year history.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker already has said he will attend such meeting as Canada's Security Council delegate.

TERMS UNCERTAIN

The exact terms of the summit meeting—assuming that all sides agree to get it under way on the July 28th date mentioned by the Soviet leader—are still uncertain.

Khrushchev's message gave support to the idea advanced by Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan that the meeting should be held within the UN Security Council. But he insisted that India's Prime Minister Nehru, the Asian neutralist leader, should attend and that the governments of the Arab states concerned participate in the discussions of the Big Four leaders and India. Nehru already has agreed to attend.

India is not at present a member of the Security Council, but could be invited by the council president to sit at the conference table as an interested party. The same would go for other Arab states such as Nasser's United Arab Republic, Lebanon and Jordan, also attended the Security Council Middle East debate during the last week under this arrangement.

Neutrals at UN Want West To Accept Waning Influence

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The underlying problems of the Middle East as projected by the latest crisis there are getting more attention at the United Nations than the red-tape questions involving a UN summit conference inside the United Nations.

With Soviet Premier Khrushchev's announcement that he is willing to come to UN headquarters Monday for a top-level meeting, the procedural worries over a framework for the meeting of heads of government become secondary. It is felt that no formal drawbacks to a gathering of world leaders would be allowed to delay it for one minute.

At the same time, the Middle East situation as it stands now has given rise to privately spoken opinions among neutralist delegates which contrast sharply with the stated views in the official setting of the UN Security Council sessions of the last week.

These sessions now have been suspended to clear the way for summit talks, since the council meetings resulted in a formal division between Russia and the West which would have made peace-keeping organ which blocked further official authorization for the UN to extend its observer group in Lebanon.

This block is not as serious as it appears from the negative voting position in the Security Council, however. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold is working outside the political arena to bolster the UN observers perhaps even to the extent of posting armed forces under the UN flag to take over from United States and British troops now in Lebanon and Jordan.

Khrushchev Seems Delighted Over Chance to Visit U.S.

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Premier Khrushchev, who has never been to United States, is obviously delighted at the prospect of a trip to New York in the near future.

He was bright-eyed and full of energy Wednesday night when he appeared at a diplomatic reception after dispatching his agreement to the West's proposals for a summit session within the United Nations Security Council.

In his message to Prime Minister Macmillan, Khrushchev welcomed the British suggestion that the meeting should not attempt to achieve hard and fast resolutions at once. This seemed to in dicate a Soviet hope that a broad general plan could be achieved as a first stage.

It also appeared certain that, once in New York, Khrushchev would be willing to go beyond the subject of the Middle East to explore other world problems.

Union Officials Honor One-Man Picket Line

PORT ARTHUR- (CP)—A unionist fired by a trade union picketed the lone building here—and all but two officials honored his one - man picket line.

Joe Bodnarchuck, dismissed as an organizer of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union, picketed the Trades and Labor Hall to support his demand for a legitimate explanation as to why I was fired."

He said that shortly after he was dismissed as redundant, the union hired another man to fill the same position.

Some of the labor executives and union staff members who respected the picket line went home while others sat in the cars and awaited developments. Representatives of five unions were included.

Khrushchev Enthusiastic While Macmillan Is Willing But Eisenhower Suspicious

Reactions Vary to Red Chief's Eager Acceptance of West's Plan

WASHINGTON (CP) — World leaders appeared almost certain today to sit down soon as a summit meeting within the framework of the United Nations Security Council, but with varying degrees of enthusiasm.

Reports from big power capitals saw Premier Khrushchev enthusiastic, Prime Minister Macmillan willing, Premier de Gaulle aloof and President Eisenhower cautiously suspicious.

Khrushchev Wednesday night snapped up Western proposals that a summit meeting on the Middle East be held within the UN. He suggested it start Monday.

Intense study of Khrushchev's reply was underway today here and in London, Although the state department was reported looking at it more critically than London's foreign office, diplomats in both Western capitals said any obstacles appear to be ones that come without too much difficulty.

Eisenhower was to meet with State Secretary Dulles today to consider the note, and Macmillan was to meet with Eisenhower and Dulles have approached the question at the meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

The American leaders obviously do not share London's apparent sense of urgency as do their Allies in the summit approach proposed by Khrushchev and endorsed by Britain's Prime Minister Macmillan, Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker and other Western and neutralist leaders.

GRUDGING APPROACH

There are other factors, some of them domestic, behind the grudging American approach to a summit meeting.

One is a concern on the part of the Eisenhower administration over the possible reaction in Congress and, beyond that, over the public reaction in the approaching November congressional elections to its participation in a meeting with the Soviet chief.

Congress, especially the Republican elements, has had a distaste for heads-of-state meetings with the Russians—going back to the Yalta conference where, the Republican party later claimed, President Roosevelt was hoodwinked and double-crossed by Stalin.

Another factor is a feeling around Washington that the White House is concerned over how the president, a very patient, might stand up in a series of strenuous sessions with so rugged an individual as Khrushchev.

U.S. Ships and Planes Searching For 'Little White Mouse off Africa

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) United States ships and planes searched Atlantic Ocean waters off the African coast today for a small white mouse who could span a lot about the perils of travel in outer space.

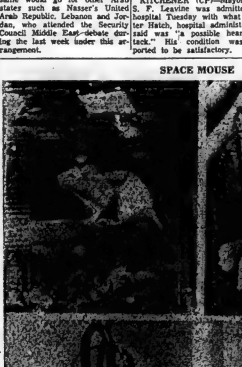
The mouse named Wickie was blasted aloft Wednesday. She rode in the nose cone of a rocket her inside the nose cone of a Thor-Able rocket.

The rocket, said the U.S. Air Force, performed satisfactorily. That meant it climbed 600 miles miles above the earth, then arched over to the southeast and that reached 6,000 miles to the vicinity of Ascension Island near the African coast.

If Wickie survived, it would be the first known time that a living animal had gone into space and returned alive.

This was the third test of a Thor-Able rocket, a two-stage vehicle which can propel cargo of air force and navy weapons. The first stage is the air force Thor on top of that is the second stage of the navy's Vanguard satellite launcher.

The first Thor-Able test failed April 23 when communications with the rocket was lost soon after blastoff. Not until after this flight was it learned that a mouse was aboard.



On July 9, the second Thor-Able became the first U.S. ballistic missile to travel the 6,000-mile intercontinental range.

Attempts to recover its nose cone and a mouse rider named Lasika were unsuccessful.

Scientists reported, however, that Lasika lived for at least 32 minutes after the blastoff.

That information, relayed back by telemetry equipment strapped to the little animal's body, indicated that Lasika survived the tremendous lunge upward, the 12,000 mile-an-hour flight through space, the dive back to earth.

After plunging far into the lower part of the atmosphere, a parachute was scheduled to open and lower the nose cone gently into the sea.

Wickie, the white mouse that stole a Thor-Able rocket into outer space, is shown how it was done in this sequence a few hours before launching. Top, from left, Wickie slips water inside her glass container; dehydrated mouse food and swiveling cage that carries mouse in flight. Bottom: the "Mouse house," Wickie's home inside the nose cone; Capt. C. E. Griffith points to radio beacon and balloon that locate the nose cone in the Atlantic Ocean. (AP Wirephoto).

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today welcomed Russia's acceptance of the proposal to hold a summit meeting within the United Nations Security Council but described the suggestion that it start next Monday as "unrealistic."

The statement was issued by a foreign office spokesman at a press conference this morning.

"The proposed date seems to us unrealistic though we are quite prepared to meet as soon as a special meeting of the security council can be conveniently arranged," the spokesman said.

Stating that the proposed date of next Monday was "unrealistic," the spokesman said he would not expect the United States and French governments to differ from the British government about this.

As to the Soviet suggestion that representatives of India and Arab countries should be present, the spokesman said it is for the security council itself to agree on the precise representatives of other states.

Snores Baffle Effort to Make Hospital Quiet

LONDON (AP)—Thousands of pounds are being spent to bring quiet to hospital wards, but the snore still baffles the experts.

Words are soundproofed, trolleys stopped from squeaking. Nurses wear noiseless shoes.

The snorers snore on.

"This is a most acute problem," Miss Edward Boyle, Hospital Charity Fund said in its annual report Wednesday.

Hospitals tried putting snorers together in special wards. They didn't work.

Separate cubicles were tried. The snores sounded even louder.

The next experiments will be with soundproof curtains, noise-absorbing tiles and beds that keep patients on their sides while they sleep.

Trailed Woman For Months; Gets 20 Days

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Karen Deutschmann told a court Wednesday that Klemens Nicolov, 35, has been following her for months.

She said he trailed her to work every morning, back home every night and parked outside her house on weekends. Mrs. Deutschmann said Nicolov once told her he would never leave her and "when I married four months ago it got worse."

Nicolov pleaded not guilty to a charge of watching and besetting but admitted he had pleaded guilty to the same charge involving Mrs. Deutschmann last October.

He drew a 20-day jail sentence. Said Mrs. Deutschmann afterwards: "Maybe he likes me. I don't know."

Police Blotter

Last night was a time for a couple of oddities in the city police department. For instance, a drunk walked into the station and asked for 10 days in jail so he could rest his feet. He was obliged.

Then, early this morning, police recovered a male patient from the hospital who had walked out clad in his pyjamas and carrying a bottle of smooth wine.

A few very minor vehicle accidents were investigated.

O.P.P. headquarters reported a quiet night watch.

Cliff McKay Holiday Ranch Show One of Best Seen Here But Crowd Is Disappointing

The Cliff McKay Holiday Ranch show — one of the best musical shows to come to Belleville in many years — played last night at the Memorial Arena before a disappointingly small crowd.

Indeed the audience lacked in numbers however, it more than made up in enthusiasm and appreciation for the top - notched performance they were all-out to give them an entertaining show. Several of the performers were brought back for two or three encores.

Comments such as "an excellent show," "wonderful," "first-rate", were heard after the show.

The show was brought to Belleville by Islam Izagwon Orator of the Alhambra, (composed of Third Degree Knights of Columbus) to help raise funds to send the Mass to Prague next year for the World Hockey championships.

Team captain Floyd Crawford and seven of his team - mates were introduced and given a rousing welcome.

Mayor Gerald Hyde, who was introduced by Grand Commander of the Caravan, Ed. Lee, gave a brief address. He thanked the Order of the Alhambra for the efforts to make money for the team's overseas trip, and said: "It is unfortunate there are so few of us here, but those of us who are here I'm sure are going to enjoy the show."

Dick Beare, president of the Mass Executive Club, also said a few words, thanking the Order for its efforts.

VARIED PROGRAM

Rated the number one Canadian television show among Canadian viewers, the Cliff McKay Holiday Ranch Show offers a variety in musical fare — from hot boogie to inspirational-type music, from exciting 'Latin rhythms to country hoedown. It is lively, fast - moving, and fairly bubbles over with good spirits.

Everyone seems to have a good time on the show, and this feeling is soon caught by the audience.

From start to finish the two-hour show was well-received by the local audience.

The show is responsible for keeping the show running smoothly is the genial M.C., Cliff McKay a first-rate musician himself who plays a mean clarinet, as well as exercising his vocal chords.

The show got off to a rousing start with "Gonna Have A Big Time Tonight", played by the group, with a well executed exhibition of square dancing by the Holiday Ranch Square Dancers. The octet — the girls dressed in pink blouses and red skirts and the boys in red shirts and black pants — next played a medley of songs with military-like precision aided by caller Tommy Thomson.

COMEDIAN POPULAR

The most popular act on the show was comedian — impersonator Jack McLean, of Toronto. Primarily a night-club entertainer, Jack McLean of the Ranchers on personal appearances tours

His lively patter and clever impersonations of such famous entertainers as Liberace, Arthur Godfrey, Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd, George Formby, "Satchmo" Armstrong, the late Al Jolson and Johnny Ray, drew rounds of laughs and applause and brought him back for three encores.

He concluded his act with a hair-clipping rendition of "The Whole World In His Hands," in which the audience participated, and another hit with the audience particularly the teenagers, was handsome, blond - tressed singer Jack Bailey. The 20-year-old Peterborough youth, who also plays the guitar, was also brought back for three encores.

His renditions of the Lonesome Me", "It's Been A Blue Blue Day", and others, were well received. Jack, who appears on the Holiday Ranch T.V. show once a month is scheduled to appear on the August 2 show.

Another popular entertainer was pert, blonde vocalist, Anne Gable, a regular with the show, who delighted the audience with a jump tune, "Bells in My Heart," the beautiful ballad, "Tenderly" and an exciting Latin-American number, "El Cumbanchero."

McKAY SINGS

The inspirational part of the show was beautifully done by chief McKay. Cliff, dressed in a truly top-notch show.

Police Court

Magistrate Wills remanded four district youths for trial next week when they appeared before him this morning in Belleville.

Jack Ferguson, 21, and Douglas Ferguson, 17, of Frankford, will be tried next Thursday for allegedly being in possession of a stolen outboard motor.

Roderick Hillz, 21, Hilton, and Melvin Lawes, 16, Wooler, will appear for trial in Trenton on Tuesday. They are charged with breaking and entering and theft in connection with the motor.

Also in court this morning, James Simpson, of Trenton, pleaded guilty to driving while his ability was impaired and was fined $100.

Ontario's Oldest Baptist Church To Be Commemorated July 27

On Sunday, July 27th, commencing at 2 p.m., ceremonies in connection with the unveiling of an historical plaque to commemorate the province's oldest existing Baptist church will be held at Adolphustown in Northumberland.

This plaque is one of a series being erected throughout the province to commemorate persons, places and events of historical significance. The body responsible for these plaques is the Archaeological and Historic Sites Board of Ontario which functions under the jurisdiction of the Department of Travel and Publicity. The board is composed of nine private citizens vitally concerned with the promotion of an interest in local history. During the month of July 8 plaques were unveiled and it is hoped that a similar number will be put up this year.

MANY NOTABLE VISITORS

The program will be sponsored by the Northumberland County Historical Society whose president, Mr. R. J. P. Davidson, will act as chairman. The government of Ontario will be represented by the Hon. William A. Goodfellow, Minister of Agriculture, and the Historic Sites Board by Prof. T. F. McIlwraith of the University of Toronto. The warden, Mr. R. Bothwell, will speak on behalf of the County of Northumberland and Mr. Douglas Johnston of Haldimand on behalf of that township. The plaque will be unveiled by Mr. W. P. Hinman, well-known local historian and dedicated by the Rev. James Hughes, minister of Colborne Baptist Church.

The organization of the Baptists in the townships of Haldimand and Cramahe may be said to have commenced in 1796 with the arrival of Reuben Crandall as a settler in Cramahe in that year. On June 23, 1796, a meeting was held to form a "church" for these two townships and, on October 27, 1799, Crandall was ordained. For sixteen years he travelled throughout the district preaching religious services.

Crandall resigned in 1812 and the absence of a regular minister, combined with the exigencies of the war with the United States which broke out in that year, impeded a severe restriction on the growth of the congregation.

FORMED OWN CHURCH

However, in March, 1817, the Haldimand branch of the church felt strong enough to assume a separate existence and formed their own church at Wicklow. The Rev. Peleg Card became its first pastor in 1818.

The present simple but attractive frame building, the oldest existing Baptist chapel in this province, was completed in 1824. It is no longer used for regular services but is preserved because of its great historical interest. An anniversary service is held in the old building each summer.

Obituaries

PERCIVAL S. CAVERLEY Madoc

A resident of Madoc for the past 19 years, Percival Sherwood Caverley, husband of the former Helen M. Hearn, died Friday at William Rose Caverley of Madoc, died at home on Wednesday following a short illness. He was 79.

Born in Rawdon township, Mr. Caverley at one time lived in Zion Hill and briefly in Port Hope and Belleville.

Besides his wife and son, Mr. Caverley leaves two sisters, Mrs. E. James (Ethel) Foster of Madoc and Mrs. Foster of Picton, and two grandchildren.

Employed until 20 years ago, when he opened an automotive parts and sales shop in Madoc, Mr. Caverley, a well-known and highly respected citizen of the village, spent the years until his retirement in 1955.

A member of Trinity United Church in Madoc, Mr. Caverley was a member of the Board of Elders. He was superintendent of the Sunday School in Zion Hill for about 20 years. Deceased was also a life member of the Independent Order of Foresters and for many years was the secretary of the Order in Thurlow township.

Mr. Caverley was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Caverley.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Golds shone on the stock market today in moderate trading.

Golds, after gaining more than three-quarters of a point Wednesday, added another half-point to their index in today's first hour.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 897,000 shares, down from Wednesday's 959,000 at the same.

Industrials were practically unchanged, down one-tenth of a decimal point. Western golds were off less than a quarter while base metals dipped almost one-third.

The rise among golds was general across the section. Campbell Red Lake was a leader adding 55 cents at $6.20. Hollinger was an exception, off ¼ at 23½.

Senior mines were mixed with losses slightly outnumbering gains in base metals. International Nickel pulled both industrial and base metal indexes off, losing ⅝ at 75¼.

Among industrials Ford A was the big winner, adding 1 at $72 but its gain was not sufficient to balance ¾-point slips by Aluminum at 36¾ and Dominion Stores, at 70¾.

New Rosco was the most active speculative, ¼ lost 30 cents at $3.00, on a turnover of 43,000 shares.

REVOLUTIONARY

Business apparently was continuing here as usual, with no indications of counter-revolutionary plans.

In Lebanon, where U.S. Marines landed the day after the military coup here, the impressing Iraqi situation was seen as eliminating the need for any Western armed intervention there.

Rebel leader Saeb Salam said in Beirut that, with the Iraqi situation calming down, the U.S. "can no longer justify keeping troops" in Lebanon. Getting the marines and paratroops out of the country now is the major issue there, he added.

He indicated that, once U.S. forces are gone, the dispute over the presidential election which sparked Lebanon's two-month revolt can be resolved.

Admiral James L. Holloway, commander of the U.S. Lebanese force, said in an interview Wednesday that the danger of a world war breaking out because of Lebanon has been "very much reduced."

He added that he believes his troops will be able to withdraw without any fighting.

Despite the hopeful signs here and in Lebanon, however, the Jordanian crisis remained unchanged. There were no indications of any favorable break there that would allow British paratroops, landed last week in response to an urgent plea from King Hussein, to leave.

Legion Branch Membership Sets New Record

TRENTON — With the addition of the eight new members initiated at the regular Branch meeting on Monday night, the Trenton Legion has now reached the highest membership total in history.

Paid up 1958 members numbered 651 as at July 21 and the Branch is growing daily.

The previous record total was 624, established last year and already exceeded with still five months to go in 1958.

Mainly responsible for the tremendous growth of the Branch are Membership Chairman Carman Livingstone and his deputy, F/L Donald B. Craig.

The Branch's membership target for 1958 is 825 and with approximately 100 applications on hand awaiting processing, plus the impending re-instatement of many former members, it appears reasonably certain that that figure will be reached, if not exceeded.

In all the Province of Ontario, comprising 274 Legion Branches, there are only 9 Branches larger than the local Legion.

Latest Provincial membership figures, just released by Provincial Secretary Patrick Biggar, of Toronto, show that as at June 30, there were 64,161 paid up Legionnaires in Ontario.

With its rapid growth to date this year, it is quite possible that by the end of 1958, Trenton will rank 2nd or 3rd in all Branches exceeding many communities with far larger populations.

At present, the largest Branch is Kitchener with 1,004 members, followed by Sudbury with 826.

Right now, Trenton is the largest of the 8 branches in Zone F-2 and the second largest in all District "F", which includes approximately 50 braggies from Whitby to Napanee.

The only larger branch in the District is Oshawa, which has a population of approximately 60,000 and it is quite possible that Trenton's membership will exceed that of the Oshawa Branch before the end of the year.

Regimental Cap Badges Displayed

TRENTON — The regular monthly meeting of Legion Branch No. 110 was held in the auditorium of the new Trenton Legion Memorial Hall on Monday evening. The meeting was well attended, with approximately 200 members present.

Eight new members, Comrades R. S. Awer, T. J. Clairmont, E. Fitzgibbon, R. A. Holloway, R. E. Parent, D. J. Perrette, J. T. Westervelt and R. A. Wickens were welcomed into branch membership with the initiation ceremony being conducted by the branch executive, assisted by District Commander Louis Knack and Deputy Zone Commander W. Earl Donaldson.

Vice-president Horsewell Ketcheson, reporting for the housing committee, advised that the beautiful new drapes, recently installed on the auditorium stage, were donated by Mr. K. Couch of the Couch-Newton Co.

The financial report, read by treasurer W. J. B. McLaren, revealed that the branch is in excellent shape.

An interesting feature of the evening was the display of regimental cap badges, exhibited by Comrade Fred Genereaux. These number approximately 1200 and are all carefully catalogued. Practically every unit in Canada and many foreign countries are represented and the whole display is beautifully mounted.

House Building Industry up From Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Statistics show Canada's house building industry is more active so far this year than in 1957.

Housing starts in the first six months of 1958 totalled 50,535, compared to 31,588 in the first half of last year.

June starts were 12,910 compared to 11,177 in June, 1957.

The preliminary figures were released Wednesday by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to replace incorrect figures issued earlier in the day. They are based on a survey of communities of 5,000 population and over.

House completions in June totalled 7,175 compared to 5,702 a year earlier. They totalled 42,991 in the first half of this year, against 35,940 in the 1957 January-June period.

January-June starts in Ontario totalled 21,922 compared with 12,241 in the same period in 1957.

Lending totalled $411,900,000 under the National Housing Act in the January-June period this year and covered 38,685 units. This compared to $163,300,000 on 13,849 units in the corresponding period of 1957.

Meanwhile, building costs continued to climb. The price index on materials and wages stood at 143 in June, three points higher than a year earlier. The index is based on 1949 levels equalling 100.

Shot to Death Near Olympus

HAMILTON (CP) — A former McMaster University student has been found shot to death in a tent by a roadside near Mount Olympus in northern Greece, reports reaching here from Greece relayed.

The victim was identified as Steven Valavanis, 30, who was believed to have studied here between 1948 and 1951 as Stefan Vail.

The Spectator said it learned of the death under investigation as a murder, from Spectator reporter Ian Vorres who is also vacationing in Greece.

After graduating from McMaster, Vail went to United States universities and was recently on the teaching staff of Harvard as a political scientist. He was a Canadian citizen.

Tension Mounts In Strike After Fire, Explosion

FIELD, Ont. (CP)—Tension appeared to be mounting Wednesday in the strikebound Field Lumber (1950) Limited mill as fire marshals, police and insurance company investigators arrived to probe a fire and explosion.

The blast occurred three miles away at Lake Muskosung Wednesday. It wrecked the private float plane of mill manager John Hope and damaged a resort near which it was moored. The day before fire raged a storage shed at the strikebound mill in this community 40 miles west of North Bay.

Meanwhile about 50 members of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) are taking turns picketing the mill they struck against about a year a contract dispute.

Union organizer L. M. Gagnon of Timmins said Wednesday night he is sure none of the strikers were responsible for the incidents.

Police said they have received reports of at least two threats to families of men who crossed the picket line to return to work. There also were reports that employees' wives threw stones at the homes of non-striking men.

The company has attained a court injunction prohibiting the strikers and interference with workers who cross the picket line. Only about 100 men, however, of four men on picket duty at a time.

The union is seeking a 10-cent increase an hour basic rate of $1.10 an hour, a 40th statutory holiday, a joint safety committee and a union shop.

Bowmanville Man 29, Greets His Mother for First Time

By GERALD FREEMAN

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Grimacing to control his emotion, Don Whillan dashed across an airport terminal today and embraced his mother for the first time in his life.

His mother, Mrs. Kathleen Musson, her face also working, stepped off an airliner from London, England, and into the arms of the tall young man she had given up for adoption as an infant 28 years before.

Later she left with Don and his 21-year-old brother, Fred Musson, for Lindsay and a two-month visit to Fred's farm home where families of both sons will live during her stay.

How did it feel to find a mother? Don groped for words, gestured futilely with his hand. "Well," he said, "you understand...."

And is rediscover a lost son? Mrs. Musson also groped. "Wonderful," she said at last, lamely.

Mrs. Musson was deserted by her husband before Don was born, when she was 21. She fraught, she felt her child's best chances lay in being raised as a son in one of good adoptive parents.

She took her older son, Fred, to live with her mother in England, and did not return to Canada until today. She heard Don had been placed with well-to-do parents, an important consideration during the depression and war years.

Don was adopted by a Whillans family. "I guess it was all right until his wife died when I was a year old," he said. "Then there was a succession of housekeepers."

When Don showed up in kindergarten one day bleeding from a beating administered by housekeeper, he was turned over to the children's aid.

He was raised in 13 foster homes, in two of which he was happy, and believed himself to be an illegitimate child.

Don urgently wanted to find his mother, to tie up the ends of his existence, and never lost hope. But he was 30, married, father of two children, and an electrician with a job in Bowmanville before he made it.

A lawyer's letter led him to discover his brother Fred living at Lindsay, only 41 miles from Bowmanville, four months ago. Fred had returned to live in Canada in 1953.

Mrs. Musson is to visit for two months, then return to care for her ailing, 83-year-old mother. Later she will move permanently to Lindsay.

New Mercury Vapor Street Lights Being Installed at Intersections

The police department some time ago began singing a song that some people may remember from their childhood, "Bring a Torch, Janet Isabella."

The Belleville Utilities Commission happened to be tuned in and heard the police singing.

Result: 36 new and modern 400-watt mercury vapor units at various intersections throughout the city.

Two of the new units have been installed at the corner of MacDonald Ave. and Dundas St. East—a third has been there for some time; there have been put up at Foster and Dundas East; two at Bleecker and Bridge St. East; one at Pinnacle and Victoria.

Three units are slated for the intersection of Bleecker and Dundas; one for Dundas and Church; one for Church and Pinnacle; one for Pinnacle and Dundas; one at MacDonald and East Bridge; one at MacDonald and Victoria; one at Church and Victoria; three at North Front and Moira St.; one for College St. and North Front; one for College and Cannifton Road; two for Station St. and Cannifton Rd.; three for Coleman and West Moira; two for Sidney and Dundas West; two at Highland Ave. and Dundas West; two at Bridge West and Highland Ave.; one at West Moira and Yeomans St.; one at West Bridge and Yeomans St. and one for Bleecker and Station St.

The police said today the lights will provide three to five times better illumination than the old lights.

Both the police department and the Utilities Commission hope motorists and pedestrians approaching the intersections will be better able to see and be alerted for traffic. The new lights were installed to try to cut accident rates in the city.

Incidentally, the policemen are now singing "Glow Little Glow Worm, Glow."

FRIENDS AND STRANGERS

We doubt whether many people in Madoc, or in Deseronto, will begrudge the extra dime a month which residential telephone service in these communities will cost as the result of routine regrouping, but the principle behind this system of determining the rate for telephone service on the basis of the number of telephones in a community raises an interesting point.

We do not doubt that, on the whole, the number of telephone calls which a business receives bears some relationship to the number of potential customers who have telephones.

But is the same thing true for the householder? Does the use which he gets out of his telephone increase as the number of telephones in a community increases?

Obviously, this is a question which cannot be answered by a quick negative or an equally prompt affirmative. It depends on the needs of the individual subscriber. Then, there are other factors to be considered. In Toronto, for example, many of the telephones which can be reached without extra charge are miles apart and in other localities such calls would involve long distance charges. Something extra, obviously, must be paid for this additional service. At the other extreme, it is obvious that if, in a hamlet, the number of subscribers doubles without any increase in the population, the value of the telephone to the individual subscriber is enhanced. He can reach more of his friends.

But apart about those communities in which the growth in the number of telephones approximates the increase in the number of inhabitants, and in which no great increase in the area served by the exchange is involved? Does the average subscriber match the progress of the telephone company, not by increasing the circle of his acquaintances by the same number as the telephone company increases its list of subscribers, but in proportion. If the average resident in a town of 5,000 people, with, let us say, 1,000 residential telephones, uses his telephone to communicate with 100 fellow citizens, will his circle of friends and acquaintances grow to 150 if the town's population jumps to 7,500 people served by 1,500 telephones?

In other words, does the average resident's contact with his fellows widen with the growth of the community in which he lives and if so what are the optimum limits, the point at which a growth in the community's size brings little or no further increase in the average citizen's acquaintances, but only serves to swell the number of strangers he meets on the streets?

FROM GENTUS TO FAILURE

Is your handwriting a scrawl? Take courage. It is a sign of genius. But do not be too elated. Genius can place a ceiling on your attainments.

These conclusions are some of several reached by Dr. Dwight N. Mason, professor of education at the University of Southern California. Although the good professor's findings may seem confusing when presented in capsule form, as in the first paragraph of this editorial, they are quite logical if one starts at the beginning and follows his reasoning.

The familiar teacher's pet.

Because he does not play, his muscular control never develops properly.

Another familiar figure, the boy with the steel trap mind and the butter fingers.

Because his muscular control does not develop, his penmanship is poor.

The gifted child whose handwriting is poor finds that there is a gap between his powers of thinking and his powers of communicating these thoughts to others in writing. He never develops organizational ability. Here is the first ceiling on his attainments.

A second ceiling is provided by the fact that even the genius soon finds himself grappling with problems too complex to be solved mentally, "done in his head." To solve these more difficult problems he needs to properly organize them with pencil and paper. And this he has never learned to do.

The end result—a genius with bad handwriting who ends up a failure.

ENVY

Tothing man, if I could have my way
As I take this cigar from you,
I wouldn't be for wealth or fame,
For glory or an honored name,
But I would be that I might,
too,
Come down the street, my head
aright,
And shout "Here, smoke, for it's a gift!"
I envy no king crown or throne,
He may own all of his wealth;
I envy no man's splendid home,
The leisure that he has to roam.
I am content to have fair health,
But in my heart I envy you;
Cigars I'd like to pass out, too—

I've lit your good cigar, and now
Are visions dancing in the smoke.
Time was my heart leaped with the thrill
Of joy as yours—but now 'tis still.
And I—I sit and choke.
So, it's a girl! Hooray! Horoo!
But, young man, how I envy
you.

Too Proud to Fear

By F. Norman Smith in The Ottawa Journal

Western carelessness and Russian mischief have combined to bring the democratic peoples to the point where, though on sure and unfavorable ground, they must take a picture of defiance and stand by it implicably.

As to the immediate crisis we can do no other.

There must, however, have been democratic blindness or wrong about a course which brought a people of good will to this predicament. In the belief that fate has not chosen this week in our history for a test of patience, and that we may be given yet another chance to do things differently, the following thoughts on the failure of the Western democracies are presented for consideration.

They may not be the whole truth, but certainly somewhere we have gone wrong and we must search out and reincorrelesingly to find where.

One thing is sure: "Our world is never going to be the same again."

It isn't "our" world any more. Our biggest asset, maybe, was in ever thinking it was.

To our credit, perhaps, is that we didn't know that we enjoyed a selfish way but in a careless way.

Yet to excuse the convulsion we have wrought by saying we didn't know because the blunder proclaiming he didn't know it was loaded.

It has been said the British public wants "to be left in a state of blissful ignorance; it may yet be said that the American public was lost in the reverse way—in a bout of narrow mindedness.

Both of our besetting sin was the old one of taking friends for granted.

The West looked towards many of the backward countries in the Middle East and Middle West with a kind of gratuitous sigh of pity, because the poor, would always be with us.

Indeed, because they were poor they were a source of income to us. We'd have to bail them out occasionally, but it was worth them a few dollars for their children and their hospitals, perhaps throw in a gunship, or a few agricultural experts. And if the worst happened we would let them bring their flags and strange clothes to the United Nations Assembly and we could play house.

But what we don't spoil them, we said. They aren't "ready" yet, we said. They must work out their own salvation by the sweat of their brows, we said. "Heroics" will only harm them.

Yet most of those lands and peoples were working out their destinies centuries before Canada was born, and with hot and dirty and unhealthy sweat not only on their brows but over their bodies, beds and food.

Take Russia. Four out of every handout in Canada has come from the Almighty in the form of a bumper crop, and honey, boundless opportunity and a chance to make great wealth.

But that's different, we say. That's Nature and literature Canuck, a kind of Divine purpose for a chosen people. Besides, we've worked hard, too, clearing fields, damming rivers and all that.

Ever by doing those things in arid lands where millions subsist on one crop, we've shown what life held for them if only they'd copy us — and obey us.

Taught them how, we did; to add and subtract, and in Russia to read and write. For a time it was fun for them and the gadgets of sophisticated civilization fascinated them.

But as they developed thought it dawned on them that they weren't free men. They were impatient, perhaps; wanted to know where they could walk. But who taught them impatience? Who shoved them out of their lazy Eastern habits and made them the shame of sloth? Who held up before them the pictures of two-car-garages, houses and gleaming ice boxes and wheat fields and fruit in the sun?

We did.

Not the Russians.

We did.

And who preached to them about democracy and self-determination?

We did.

Not the Russians.

We did.

Now they are restless and on the march, and we are sold down the canller they would be. Only they want to do it in a hurry — even as we did when we were restless and before the light of democracy was upon us.

Comes now on the scene, and only now, the Russians. They are real hustlers and in addition they are a hard-promising crew in making friends and a hard-shooting crew in beating enemies.

We don't care for the Russian system and say that we have known from the beginning what they were up to. World domination, that's what.

But though we've seen through them from the beginning we've let them overtake us and surprise us — over and over again, here, there and everywhere.

The fault with us has not been in our system but in our excesses, as this reporter wrote several years ago after a visit to Russia. We have not really put our system to work, either at home or abroad.

At home we idle in short hours, live high off the hog and make of democracy a freedom rather than a responsibility.

Abroad procrastinate about meeting the blank cheques we have signed to backward peoples, and after we drop our little miles in Colombo Plans and such we open fire on the other side — feeling rather righteous about the light we give unto the darkness.

We've seen the Russians about their nefarious propaganda businesses abroad all right, but we neglected to see what hard Russian offers of progress and independence did to those who have nothing to lose.

At home, we've watched Russia out-produce, out-work, outarm and out-educate us; but instead of bestirring ourselves we proud to fear and have gone on our way rejoicing and relaxing.

Our leaders are much to blame, but we, too, have been shown up only the easy way.

Yet the people are equally to blame for we have almost insisted upon the lazy way. Neither leaders nor people have faced up to the obvious truth that Democracy can win over Communism in the World's Series unless it works at it.

But come a fresh flood of a people's passion to be independent, and we plunge into action, though with misgivings.

If the democracies had worked with imagination, generosity and vision in the years since, even these last five years we could not today have to charge selectively into the jaws of desperation and much confusion.

And the worst confusion is in our own team.

Our own team plays only fitfully together. We know well who plays for the other side, but we leave our own line-up somewhat to chance, short on practice, no generalship, and with no real leader or agreed set of tactics. Only when the whistle blows do we discover that some of our players have deserted overnight.

For want of a better name we call this chaotic condition "Freedom of Action" and enjoy noble it this we are.

At best it leads to a long stalemate in which a dive, divided house as in Cyprus, Ceylon, Indonesia, Indo-China, South Africa French Africa, Venezuela and Formosa.

At worst it leads to defeat as in China, costly loss as in Egypt, economic and political paralysis as in Iran, the dangerous potential indifference as in Scandinavia, Britain and Australia by visit India, lack of majority in the United Nations.

The slippery slope grows steeper, until now we find ourselves unconcerned as having to threaten force, massive force, where its use would be only suicide; yet short of the use of it we are almost bound to suffer ignominious defeat by democracy.

What real victory has Western Democracy won at home or away, since 1935?

Yet we find it unthinkable that we will not win the final battle!

This last week should be enough to confront us all with the realization that democracy may lose the final battle by never being able to fight it.

Teen-Ager Drove Well

Oshawa Times-Gazette

The other day while driving with a definite destination, we caught up to an older car being driven by a young man in his teens. In the car were four other lads of like age. The driver was holding the 50 miles an hour speed limit right on the nose. And he was about the only other driver going at that way at that time who was. We refrained from joining the line and passing him. And during the next 10 miles or so we found out his steady speed was indicative of his general care in driving. When we found it a stop sign crossing another highway he very definitely slowed down, but both ways then proceeded. When he went to turn he held out his hand to let the oncomers were having a good time but there was no "horsing around" in the car.

He was not the first teenager we have seen driving very sensibly along the road, taking all precautions and considerate of every care. In fact there is plenty of evidence that there are many very good teenage drivers.

Complaints have been received from people in various parts of the city and something will have to be done to relieve the nuisance. The police will probably be exterminated in the speediest and most humane way possible.

TRUE GREATNESS LASTS

As I sat down to my typewriting this morning, I glanced at a row of books directly on a level with my table. They dealt with the lives and accomplishments of St. Francis of Assisi, David Livingstone, Robert Louis Stevenson, Wesley, and Abraham Lincoln.

I began to think of these lives, being since dead, and yet, in a way, still vital, vibrant, influential in the world. Who is not touched by the career of perfect self abnegation lived by the little Francis. To this day, men of all creeds speak, in reverence of David Livingstone and the humanitarian, scientific and religious work he did in darkest Africa. Savanrola lived, denounced, died a martyr. J o h n Wesley found one kind of an England living in the 18th. century, and left another, a changed England, a new life, and at the end of his life left it a nation, still busy, sinful, and struggling, but possessed of a new religious spirit and upheld by a strong Christian force, against the revolution. Wesley is accorded by historians as having had something large to do with keeping his native England on a firm footing.

All over the world men ponder the life of Lincoln, look into h i s deep, lonely, little read but thrilling letters, listen to his simple, profound utterances and thank God that a man of great soul and gentle spirit came upon the stage of history when men's hearts were torn with bitterness.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The standard of living in t h e United States has got so high that it is a great strain, and it is impossible to get a redcap at a railroad station.

The young fellows who ought to be redcaps are out being junior executives, and the redcaps are members of vocel quartets.

It is a harrowing experience for us low-standard Canadians to set forth from the average Canadian city railway station with our six suitcases, three rod cases, 1 w o golf bags and a hat box and have to change trains at a high-standard city like Chicago or St. Louis.

I am told on the best authority that they do have redcaps at these stations. But I have never been one, myself. And then I saw six, all in a bunch, pushing an empty hand truck along t h e platform on the way to and from the train.

Then, I staggering by under my vast load of luggage, hailed them, they eyed me with shocked surprise and went right on showing their empty hand truck.

They are very casually mannered, paid by the railways to impersonate redcaps for old time's sake. Ornaments to their trade.

In a high standard of living society, why carriage like luggage?

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

WITH PROPER CARE, CIRRHOSIS OF THE LIVER CAN BE SLOWED DOWN

The liver is one of the most versatile organs of the body. It does a lot of jobs. It works steadily. When you recognize how much it does, and how complex the jobs are, it makes you wonder, not that the liver sometimes has troubles, but that it causes so little trouble.

M.M. and others have recently asked for some information about cirrhosis of the liver. It is one of the three or four principal causes of trouble.

The liver converts foods we eat to chemical forms that we can use. It stores energy (if we eat nothing for a day, the liver does a good job of supplying stored energy without drawing on other reserves.) The liver filters out or changes some poisons so they lose their ability to harm us. It creates various blood components, such as fibrinogen, which is required for stopping bleeding. Some liver cells destroy bacteria. The liver created bile to digest food, it also stores up nourishment made of foods which are used if, for some reason, we do not have an adequate volume of food.

The foregoing gives you a general idea of how many things the liver does for us. Now when cirrhosis sets in, there is a growth of fibrous tissue which, in turn, crowd down the normal size of the useful areas of the liver. There are two kinds (types) of cirrhosis, and many minor varieties and I don't think it would be either useful or interesting to go into these technical subdivisions.

HOW TO TREAT IT

For practical discussions, cirrhosis simply means that the liver is encountering general interference with its job of living an adequate volume, all the things it had to do. From the standpoint of treatment, (1) avoid anything that will increase the degree of cirrhosis, and (2) follow the well-known rules of good health and avoid contaminating the liver's possible ability to take care of ordinary problems.

Cirrhosis is known as a "drinking man's disease," but it is a fallacy. Plenty of people (I feel sure) some factors that we don't know about yet, can cause the disease in people who have never touched a drop of alcohol. Likewise the hard drinker often is careless about his eating, so his liver is damaged by the lack of food rather than from elbow-bending.

But it is true, beyond any doubt, that too much alcohol also contributes directly to the trouble by encouraging too much alcohol to enough fats.

So drinking can be (but not always is) a contributing factor, even when one has cirrhosis, he should quit drinking. I didn't say cut down. I said quit.

Aside from the general slowing up of the various tasks of the liver, there may be accumulation of fluid in the abdomen, which may require draining or "tapping." Occasionally, they may also be serious internal bleedings. Or other consequences.

Thus, in general, from this disease the liver "hardens" on you; its ballast ability to work. The damage may be slight or it may be huge. In either event, the patient should know that he has to be careful to live healthful, sensible life and follow his doctor's orders explicitly. Cirrhosis is something we can cure. But it is a disease that, with proper care, and proper use of the body of the liver, can be slowed down. The patient who laughs in the face of "important" is a fool. The patient who assumes that "nothing can be done," and gives up hope, is just as foolish.

Note to Mrs. R. C.: There is no connection between a spinal fluid test and varicose veins. I have two suggestions: First, this is probably too soon after the birth of the baby to get any conclusions — three weeks! And second, you didn't tell us anything about your weight. If you've gained quite a bit, look at that as undoubtedly a main contributor to the varicose veins.

Mrs. W. H.: No, your daughter's trouble is not worms. It does not have nothing to do with cancer.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet "Ten Ways to Overcome Constipation." Just copy write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover mailing.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SIMPLIFY

Simplify, simplify! That is what Thoreau was forever telling us. But within the ears of all to whom he wrote. He was the big example of all his wide influence for good. And for that alone millions of intelligent people have risen to become his followers. But he was a no experimentalist! Such a w i s dom as Thoreau's is the kind that he could have dropped his experiments — and no one would have noted, for his cry was for simplicity, and simplicity again a n d again.

How we rest and fume o v e r nothings! William James wrote about inner joy. It was the spirit that Stevenson did, explains that Whitman, too, carried that inner joy about with him. James's kindly criticisms of noted people contain much wisdom that is most interesting. Of Kipling, in 1891, he said: "Much of his power is a coarseness and jerkiness is youth only, divine youth. But will it vouth?" And then he said: "On the whole, bless him."

I note that in New York City all the great high buildings being erected are most simple in design. They are not gingerbread on short places, but business structures aimed at efficiency, comfort, and simple beauty. The day of t h e flagrant orate is over. As to our churches and public buildings, why shouldn't they be works of art? Henry Ward Beecher once said that no couldn't make a church too beautiful.

We are simplifying our work each day and tried to get others to do the same, what a new look would come over the face of many, and that of others. Too much confusion goes on, and there is too much noise! There are not enough happy faces in the world.

Keen Competition At Jr. Farmers' Field Day

On Saturday, in spite of rain and wind, the Quinte District Junior Farmer field day was held at the Morrow Park, Picton, Prince Edward County. This year, for the first time, Ontario County Juniors participated and showed the district that they are not to be taken lightly, for they won most of the coveted awards.

Hastings County Juniors were represented and made an excellent showing and helped to make the competition very keen. The County Junior Farmers soft ball team, which had the Madoc team as its nucleus played a very close game with the Ontario County Juniors. However, the Ontario boys eliminated them and went on to win the championship over the Peterborough team.

The County Girls soft ball team, with the Rawdon girls forming the main frame work with some of the other Juniors helping gave a fine display of team work. With Patsy Dafoe as pitcher they eliminated the Peterborough and the Prince Edward teams and lost by two runs to the Ontario County girls.

In the track and field events the Hastings Juniors were always very close but were unable to win many of the top awards.

That evening in the Memorial Centre, Hastings County was well represented in the square dance competition by the Sidney Junior Farmers square dance group. The teams competing were Prince Edward, Northumberland, Peterborough, Durham and Hastings. Peterborough and Prince Edward dance groups did well and the judges gave a tie decision.

Mr. Jim Needham, vice-president of the Junior Farmers Association of Ontario presented the Junior Farmer trophy which is awarded to the county winning the highest score in the field day events, to Bert Pearson, president of the Ontario County Junior Farmers who received it on behalf of their county.

Deseronto
LEGION JAMBOREE

DESERONTO — The recent Legion Jamboree was held in the town park despite some adverse weather. On Thursday night, when the games opened, the crowd was small because of the extreme coolness and on Friday night everything was just getting into full stride when a downpour of rain brought a sudden halt to the effort. However, on Saturday night, a large crowd gathered in the park and one and all seemed to be having the time of their lives.

The merry-go-round was in constant demand by swarms of children and all the booths were busy on the jump. The most popular of course were the hamburg and hotdog booths and the sale of hot coffee was tremendous.

Play continued until after 11.00 o'clock when the draw was made for the prizes offered on the grounds. The prize winners were; basket of groceries — Mrs. N. Dimmell; doll — A. E. Hill; children's swings — William Miller; electric corn popper — Mrs. Charles Dimmell.

AMPA Plans Fine Program For Weekend Camp at Lyndhurst

BROCKVILLE — Camp Hyanto at Lyndhurst Ontario will be occupied by the Anglican Young People's Association over the August holiday weekend.

The Diocesan Council of the AYPA announced here recently that the Rev. Peter M. Test, St. George's Church in Trenton will be the director for the camp. He will have as his assistants the Rev. Harry Robinson, Church of the Good Shepherd, Kingston as Camp Chaplain and Miss Marion Sheppard of Kingston as Camp Registrar and Handicrafts Instructor.

Young people from the Diocese of Ontario will start to invade the camp beginning Friday evening August 1. They will stay until Monday afternoon. A varied program of handicraft instruction, sports, swimming and guest speakers has been arranged for the campers. A dance has been arranged for the youth as well as a fine program of movies.

One of the highlights of the camp will be the installation of the new Diocesan executive. A new president will be elected at the camp to be installed along with the other members of the executive elected in Brockville during the Diocesan Spring Conference held in May.

Other members of the new executive to be installed include First Vice-President Peggy (M.) Sargent of Belleville who moves from her present post of secretary, second Vice-President Don Wood of Cardinal, returning Treasurer Barbara Hunter of Kingston and Secretary Beverly Easton of St. Peter's Brockville. Miss Easton was recently elected president of her home branch. The Rev. Peter M. Test will assume the duties of Diocesan AYPA Chaplain from the Rev. Harry Robinson of Kingston.

The former executive is composed of President Brian Swayze, first Vice-President Ron Nisbet, second Vice President Gordon Jackson and Leadership Training Convener Paul Jackson all of Brockville along with Jackie Watson of Belleville, Wider Horizons Convener, Lois Chatreau of Cardinal, the former Missionary Projects Convener and Ron Green, Publicity Convenor.

Paul Jackson will be in charge of the sports program at Camp while Ron Nisbet will be in charge of plans for the social activities. Gordon Jackson will be in charge of Movies.

R. B. Bennett, Kingston, dean of the Camp Hyanto teaching for swimming competition will again be on hand to run off the swimming contest. Races will be run off in free style, back stroke, butterfly, crawl and distant classes. The trophy went last year to St. Peter's AYPA of Brockville who swept all of the races. The life guard will again be Miss Jane Wallbridge of Belleville.

Information concerning the camp may be obtained from Miss Marion Sheppard c/o Camp Hyanto Lyndhurst, Ontario. Registrations should be sent in immediately.

The camp is situated in a beautiful setting of tree-shaped cabins and tents beside Lake Lyndhurst. Every young person is invited to attend Camp Hyanto which will be run in cooperation with the executive of the Anglican Young People's Association Diocesan Council and the Diocesan Board of Religious Education.

Campers may reach Camp Hyanto from highways 29 and 42 out of Brockville, 32 North out of Gananoque and 15 northeast out of Kingston.

Madoc Youth Chosen Ontario 4-H Delegate

Grant Ketcheson, Madoc, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Ketcheson, this week won the Wm. H. Danforth 4-H Club Leadership Training Scholarship and so will be the first club member to represent the 4-H boys of Ontario at Camp Minwanca, Stony Lake, Oceana County, Mich., on August 11th to August 26th.

Wm. H. Danforth, founder of the Ralston Purina Company for many years was very much interested in 4-H club work, and character developing the leadership capacities of outstanding young people. Each year he offered scholarships at the American Youth Foundation Leadership Training Camp, Stony Lake, to each state 4-H Organization and this year the scholarships have been extended to Ontario.

After being picked as the 4-H boy to represent Hastings County, Grant was chosen by a selecting committee at O.A.C. Guelph, as the 4-H member to represent Ontario. Since the American Youth Foundation Camp is built on the principle of four-fold balance, (physical, mental, social and religious development) the committee chose the boy whom they felt had the best balance in sports, scholastic standing, leadership. Weddings

HYKAWAY — SNIDER

TWEED — St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Denbigh, was the setting for a wedding of unusual interest when Miss Mary Ellen Arleen Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Snider of R.R. 1, Cloyne, was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. William Snider, to Mr. Morris Paul Hykaway, of Winnipeg, Manitoba. The ceremony was performed by the pastor Mr. R. Prettler, and Mr. Alfred Glaser presided at the organ. Bouquets of orange blossoms and red petunias adorned the altar.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white nylon over satin with lace top and lace jacket with lily-point sleeves. The skirt was fashioned with four tiers of net, deep bordered with rows of lace. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion with lace edging fell from a tiara of pleated nylon net with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a bouquet of red roses with fern and lily-of-the-valley.

Her matron of honor was her sister, Lenrabel, (Mrs. John Miller) of Toronto, who was attired in a dress of yellow nylon organdy over bounced net and taffeta with matching bolero and gloves. She wore a yellow-nylon tiara headdress and carried a bouquet of yellow and red carnations.

Miss Evelyn Kellar, of Hardwille, Bridesmaid, was gowned in waltz-length, pale blue nylon net over taffeta with skirt of flounced tiers of lace, matching bolero and gloves. She wore a pink nylon tiara headdress and carried a bouquet of white and pink roses with lily-of-the-valley and fern.

The bride's mother was dressed in printed silk jersey and wore matching accessories with a corsage of pink roses mingled with fern and lily-of-the-valley. Mr. Elwood Snider, brother of the bride, was best man. An other brother, Mr. Amphlen Snider, was usher.

The wedding dinner for the bridal party and relatives was held at the home of the bride. The public reception took place in the Denbigh community hall, where a large company of friends and acquaintances honored the young couple.

For the wedding trip to points in Southern Ontario, and the United States the bride chose a blue suit and blue hat with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink roses with fern and lily-of-the-valley.

Their residence will be in Manitoba.

Guests attended the wedding from Napanee, Tweed district, Toronto, Kingston, Camp Borden, Hardwood Lake, Bruceton, McArthur's Mills, Selby, Denbigh and Matawachan.

PARKS — WOOD

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle on Saturday afternoon, July 19th at 4 p.m. when the Rev. Gordon Pierce united in marriage Jean Audrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Wood, of Frankford and Douglas Grant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Parks of Belleville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a gown of white lace and nylon net with tiered back and seed pearl trim, pointed sleeves to the wrist and finger-tip veil with white sequins and headdress. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Her maid of honor, Miss Vivian Wood, of Hornepayne, sister of the bride, wore a gown of rainbow blue organza, with pill box headdress with sequins and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and white mums. Her bridesmaids, Miss Connie Wood, of Toronto, sister of the bride and Mrs. Shirley Lott sister of the bridegroom, wore gowns of pink organza with matching bolero jackets and mitts and pillbox headdress trimmed with sequins. They carried bouquets of blue carnations and white mums. The flower girl was little Miss Linda Andrews, wearing a blue nylon frock with blue accessories and carrying a nosegay of pink rosettes and mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Wayne Parks, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Alfred Lott of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Mr. Gerald Wager of Belleville.

The traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Doug Flood. Soloist was Mr. Reg. Solmes, of Bowmanville, who sang "Because", "The Lord's Prayer" and "Together With Jesus".

The church was decorated with white madonna lilies and pink gladioli and ferns.

The reception was held in Frankford community hall with 70 guests in attendance. The bride's mother received in a medium blue nylon crepe dress with lace bodice and white accessories and corsage of pink roses and white mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a foswood tone gown and white accessories with corsage of yellow roses.

The bride's home was decorated with Astella daisies and bridal roses.

For the wedding trip to Georgian Bay and northern points, the bride chose an aqua silk cotton ensemble with white accessories and rhinestone trim and corsage of pink roses and white mums.

Out-of-town guests were present from: Toronto; Bowmanville, Hornepayne, Belleville, Madoc Actinolite, Cataraqui, Campbellford, Foxboro and Trenton.

The happy couple will reside at 29 Dundas St., Belleville, Ontario.

Prior to her marriage, Jean was the recipient of lovely gifts at two miscellaneous showers given by friends in Belleville. Also a church shower was held on July 17th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Andrew in her and the bridegroom's honor in Frankford.

GAINER — KNOX

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, was the setting for a recent pretty wedding when Audrey Isobel Knox, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Isobel Knox and the late Wilfrid Mervin Knox, became the bride of Richard Joseph Gainer, of Tweed, son of Mrs. Edward Gainer and the late Mr. E. Gainer. The Reverend J. J. V. Buckley officiated and the bride wore a floor length gown of white nylon net over taffeta with matching veil of silk illusion was held by a circlet encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of dark red roses with stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. John (Joan) Bradden, as matron-of-honor, wearing turquoise silk organza over net and taffeta skirts, made on princess lines, the skirt pointed toward the wearer's knees. She wore a white picture hat, matching mitts and carried a nosegay of yellow roses and white 'mums.

Mrs. Gerald (Shirley) Batchelor, and Mrs. William (Vera) Sharpe, sisters of the bride, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in shrimp silk organza over net and taffeta, fashioned on princess lines, similar to that of the matron-of-honor. They wore matching mitts, and carried nosegays of yellow roses and white 'mums. White picture hats completed their costumes.

Mr. William Buckley, of Tweed, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. John Bradden of Trenton and Mr. Edward Gainer, of Toronto, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Belleville, where the bride's table was prettily arranged with white damask, the traditional wedding cake, and flanked with lighted candelabra, orange blossom and the bridal bouquets.

The bride's mother received, gowned in pale blue nylon with white accessories and corsage of white carnations. She was assisted in the receiving line by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy blue nylon with white accessories, and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Gray Rocks Inn, in the Laurentians, and Montreal, the bride wore a peacock blue sheath with matching duster coat, white picture hat and accessories and corsage of four yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Gainer will reside in Tweed.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained by Mr. Clifford Simpkins of Toronto, at a miscellaneous shower.

Finds Firms Leary About 'Miss Engineer'

OTTAWA (CP)—Precedent and tradition still shadow the lifeblood of male industry, Miss Diane Hallamore, an engineering business student at the University of Toronto, made a small survey and found that most industrial concerns would hire women engineers if they were available.

But she still came up with this conclusion:

"Despite the apparent acceptance of women in engineering, prejudice and tradition are still existent."

A brief item on the Toronto student's survey—made as part of her thesis, The Future Role of the American Woman in Engineering—appears in the current issue of Engineering Digest, monthly publication of the federal labor department.

Miss Hallamore received 33 replies to 75 questionnaires she sent to firms in the United States and Canada.

As to whether the firms would hire women engineers, 24 said they would if women were available; five said they would not hire women. Other firms replied with either an enthusiastic—or a reserved"yes" to the question.

Polio Victim Paints With 'Teeth Brush'

CALGARY (CP)—Mrs. Bertha Watmough, 37, picked up the brush and dashed swift, decisive streaks of oil paint on the canvas. An autumn mountain scene began to take shape.

"I enjoy working with bright yellow colors," she said.

Mrs. Watmough has never had a public exhibition, but there can be little doubt her work will gain special recognition. Because Mrs. Watmough paints not with her fingers, but with her teeth.

The painting started after she was stricken with poliomyelitis five years ago. She lost the use of both her arms and her legs.

She has developed her own techniques and mixes her own paints. She has a collection of instructive books and studies the work of her favorite artists, among them Ronald Gissing.

She works from her wheelchair in Bethany Chronic Hospital. The petite brunette's paintings are the centre of attraction in the hospital; its inmates, her nurses are Mrs. Watmough's most severe critics.

SPREAD CHEESE

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP)—Women's auxiliary of a service club here will distribute Christmas cheer on Thanksgiving Day, the second Monday in October. They reached this decision because needy families receive gifts from several organizations at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. James Mumby, formerly of Belleville, will be graduated from the Watchtower Bible School of Gilead, South Lansing, New York, on Sunday. The graduation program will be held in Yankee Stadium, New York City, at an international convention of Jehovah's Witnesses which runs from July 27 to August 3 inclusive.

Mr. Mumby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mumby, R.R. 2, Belleville. He was raised here in the city and attended Belleville Collegiate.

He entered the ministry as one of Jehovah's Witnesses in 1948. Since that time he has served in Nova Scotia, Quebec and parts of Ontario and during the past two years prior to entering the school he was travelling minister in charge of 21 congregations in Southern Ontario.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

DIVORCEE SHOULD USE CORRECT FORM OF NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

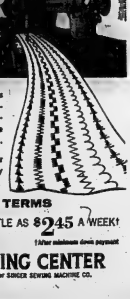
I am a woman in business, 41 years of age, and recently I applied for a divorce. Until several years ago I lived and worked in a large city, then my company opened a branch in this smaller city and promoted me to general manager of this branch. I married here, have continued in my position, and have continued to use my maiden name in my business life: For example, Miss Catherine Clark. In all social contacts I have used (for example) Mrs. John Leighton.

Now comes my problem about the form of name to use after my divorce. I detest the form "Mrs. Catherine Leighton," but this, unfortunately, is the form used by most of the divorcees here. I want to use the form I know is correct, my maiden surname with my married surname (Mrs. Clark Leighton), but I don't want to seem ostentatious, "high hat," in using this form of name.

On the other hand, it doesn't make sense to me to conform to the general custom here and use a form of name most distasteful to me. This is an important dilemma to me. I do need your advice, and thank you, so very much. — Divorcee-to-be

I completely understand your point of view, and my firm advice is that you forthrightly and correctly use Mrs. Clark Leighton after your divorce. Since you know that this is the correct form of name for you to use, you would be most uncomfortable to use the incorrect form. Even if this isn't the form generally used in your community, it's correct because you make a ceremonious little bow to the person.

WHO PAYS FOR COSTUME OF JUNIOR BRIDESMAID. FLOWER GIRL?



Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My niece is to be married in the Fall, and she has invited my 13-year-old daughter to be her junior bridesmaid, and my little 5-year-old daughter to be her flower girl. Yesterday she told me she had chosen their dresses at the same time she chose the dresses of her six bridesmaids and maid of honor, and that she would tell me later when the girls are to meet her to try on their dresses. When I take the girls to meet her at this department store, should I say anything about payment for these dresses, or simply take it for granted that the bride's family pays for them? I'm so glad I can ask you about this, as I've had no experience along this line. — Mother

And I'm glad you did ask me about this, so I can say quite straight about your responsibility . . . otherwise the situation in the department store meeting might be very awkward. The parents of the junior bridesmaid and the flower girl pay for their costumes, and since the bride-to-be apparently made no mention of this question-of-payment, I am sure she takes for granted that you know this also. Take your daughters go for the try-on, you should make arrangements for the payment with the saleswoman, who is accustomed to this procedure.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Bennett K. — I want to be a philosopher.

Mr. L. K. — We won't support him in that.

* * *

Bennett K. — I am 18 and planning to enter college in the fall. My parents have always wanted me to be an engineer and I always went along with them on it — until recently.

After reading several books on the subject I became very interested in philosophy. I think it is unusual for a boy of my age with no training to be able to understand as much about these books as I feel I do.

I would like to be a philosopher, but if I can't I would like to teach the subject.

The school program is entirely different for prospective engineers than it is for the regular liberal arts students, so must make my choice and stick to it. My parents say they don't want even to help me through college if I major in philosophy.

Mr. L. K. — We don't know how Ben got this crazy notion into his head, but we're pretty sure it will go the way of all crazy notions if he just gives it time. The trouble is that he may realize too late how foolish he has been.

We have given Ben a lot of advantages only by sacrificing our own pursuits. Naturally, we aren't looking for any return. All we want is that he do the best thing in his own interest: We want him to be able to make a decent living. He isn't the kind of person who likes to walk around in baggy pants scouting philosophy. He likes good clothes, new cars and lots of money in his pocket when he goes out on a date.

If Ben wants to be a philosopher, I say go ahead — start now, but don't expect help.

The Council: Mr. L. K. is far too rigid in what he feels is a proper concern for Ben's best interest. Ben's "notion" may or may not be a crazy one. It is impossible to tell at this stage. If he is discouraged before he has put his ideas to any sort of test, Ben will not be able to enter any of his studies with the necessary enthusiasm.

The fact that up until now Ben has shown a keen interest in clothes, cars and money in his wallet is no indication that he wouldn't later enjoy life best in baggy pants. He might even find a way of wearing good clothes and being a philosopher at the same time — if this is what he really wants.

Young people do need guidance and sometimes direction in choosing careers, but insistence is neither guidance nor direction. Mr. L. K. should try to enter into Ben's way of looking at things if he wants to be of real help. A flat no closes the subject instead of opening it.

Most colleges give their students a year or two of making a definite choice of a major. Ben should avail himself of this opportunity. He should take some courses that lead to the engineering degree and some in the philosophy department, and try to give both studies his full interest.

It is quite possible that his teachers will help him arrive at a decision by giving him a measure of encouragement or words of warning about his potential abilities. Even if he loses a year or so by experimenting with his program, it will be worthwhile for Ben to find what he really wants and to enter that field wholeheartedly.

Notes From Paris

by Mary Moore

Some of you have visited Paris will remember that we were entertained by Jaques and Antoinette Geurin-Desjardins when we were there in the summer of 1955. These hospitable have kindly taken on Pete and Ben and Pete has written glowingly: "We enjoyed lunching with the Geurin-Desjardins today. Jacques seriously has a fine mind and is most interesting, he seems to be educated on just every topic — arts and music and travel included. We enjoyed his wife too and talked in French most of the time — what do you think of that? For lunch she served noodles with mushrooms, bacon and cooked green olives and chopped parsley all together — quite delicious. Followed by chicken salad, cheese, strawberries and raspberries with thick cream, then coffee — ten times stronger that the strongest coffee I ever make. It was lovely. They also had a rosy wine."

In a later letter: "This morning we met Jacques and he spent 2 hours with us showing us around. It was a real treat. That man is just wonderful! Walking briskly we toured a museum, the remains of a Roman bath, Notre Dame and the chapel which is part of the Pal-

Two cups flaked cooked, Gaspe salmon (you could substitute drained canned salmon and omit salt), 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup medium white sauce (2 tablespoons each flour and butter and 1 cup milk), 2 eggs, 2 tablespoons each finely chopped mint, parsley and chives, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, scant 1-8 teaspoon pepper and 1-2 teaspoon paprika. The flaked salmon was examined for bones and then added to the hot white sauce, then the beaten eggs were stirred in along with all remaining ingredients. It was cooked in a greased pyrex dish at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes. They served it with French fried potatoes from Tuesday's party and my sister worked her magic on it!

No Country Has More Promising Future Than Canada Says Financier

By EDNA USHER

TORONTO (CP)—A female financier is lingering Canada's economic pulse and finds it close to normal.

"After the enormous expansion of the post-war period it is not surprising that Canada should now be experiencing a recession," said Dr. Lucy Morgan. "We may have to look forward to a few years of less rapid growth, but no country in the world has brighter long - term prospects than Canada."

Dr. Morgan heads a Bank of Nova Scotia team of economists engaged in assessing Canada's prospects and development.

IN CLOSE TOUCH

"My job keeps me in touch with every phase of Canadian life—from wheat and oil to the retail trade," she said.

From an office eight floors up in downtown Toronto, she edits a monthly pamphlet reporting on anything from farm problems to bank interest rates, and prepares reports on particular aspects of Canadian life for bank chiefs, branch managers, businessmen and students.

"To the man-(or woman) in-the-street, who wants a loan from the bank, the work of my department means that he will get the best service possible from the branch manager he sees," said Dr. Morgan.

"Branch managers study reports from the economics department which help them to advise customers about business. We work on the basis that good business for our customers is good business for us."

Dr. Morgan, who prepared a report on the Canadian steel industry for the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects, is not a qualified economist.

GIFTED STUDENT

"I studied English and French at university and obtained my doctorate in English," she said. "Since then I've studied economics, but never took a degree in it.

Grey-haired, blue-eyed, and 55, Dr. Morgan in private life is the wife of Lorne F. Morgan, professor of economics at the University of Toronto.

She was born in Bottineau, N.D., but went to Lethbridge, Alta., as a child, studied at the University of British Columbia and at the University of California.

She came to Toronto after she married and joined the bank in 1942 as assistant in the department she now heads.

Her hobbies are camping, fishing, owning a bulldog, and growing bulbs.

"Maybe I'll develop a new type of bulb when I retire, but right now I'm too busy," she said.

ECONOMIC EXPERT

Dr. Lucy Morgan, 55, is supervisor of the economic department of the Bank of Nova Scotia and editor of the bank's "Monthly Review." A native of Bottineau, N. D., she came to Canada in 1926 and joined the bank in 1942. (CP Photo) 1958 (Ashley and Crippen).

Old Country Schools Train Domestic Help

OTTAWA (CP) — Schools set up to maintain and improve the status of domestic help are operated in the United Kingdom.

A report on the schools, with emphasis on those operated by Scotland's National Institute of Housekeepers, is published in the current issue of the Civil Service Gazette, monthly publication of the federal civil service department.

The report says a primary aim of the Scottish institute is to encourage women to take up domestic service as a profession and to properly fit them for the task.

The institute's curriculum includes house management, health education, first aid, home nursing, cooking, home laundry work, needle work, simple dressmaking, social studies and English language studies.

Graduates get a diploma of efficiency from the institute, which since its founding in 1946 has become a recognized authority on domestic work in institutions as well as in private homes.

The organization also has a daily housekeepers service in 11 centres for housewives who need part-time help.

FINE GROVE W.I.

MARSH HILL — The July meeting of Fine Grove W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Bert Searles with 12 members, 4 visitors and 3 children present.

The president, Mrs. William Slater opened the meeting with a reading, "The Spirit and the World".

Mrs. Frank Finkle reported on Home and Country.

A donation is to be made to "Care".

An invitation to have a social evening at the home of Mrs. Gladys Campbell, Belleville, on July 30, was accepted and Mrs. Harry Coulter is to be convener of the program.

Current events were given by each member. Mrs. Grace Bartindale, convener of resolutions convened the following program: a poem, "Hello" was read by Elaine Lidenfield; several members read humorous quotes; "If Only" was read by Mrs. G. Searles.

Mrs. Bartindale read the resolutions report from the winter Home and Country 1958. Sixty resolutions were presented for consideration at the annual F.W.I.O. Board meeting.

An article on "Too Many Babies Die in Ontario" was read and Mrs. Bartindale closed with a reading, "Mistrust Becomes Trust".

Mrs. Albert Clare, local public school teacher, gave an interesting talk on "Education".

A contest was conducted by Mrs. Bartindale which was enjoyed by all, followed by refreshments.

St. Andrew's WMS, LA., Hold Joint Meet

IVANHOE — St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.A. and Ladies' Aid held the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Wallace.

The president, Mrs. Harold Thompson, presided and opened the meeting with a poem "Stir Me, Oh Lord."

The Scripture lesson, Luke 19: 1-10 was read by Mrs. John McInroy.

A short business session followed. The offering was presented by Gordon Sills. Mrs. H. Thompson gave the offertory prayer.

PROGRAM

The children of the church presented the following program "Friendship Song," C.O.C. group; recitation, Janet Donnan; duet, "Father, We Thank Thee," Jimmy Hagaweir and Garry Thompson; recitation, "World Friends," Gordon Sills; duet, "Let It Shine," Jack and Janet Donnan; piano solo, Garry Thompson; recitation, "The Black Sheep," Jack Donnan; story of Japan, Nancy Fargey; chorus, "Little Feet Be Careful." A story of "The Missionary's Well," was read by Mrs. Barton Haggerty.

Presbyterial children's department secretary, Beatie M. Fleming, spoke briefly, commending the leaders, Mrs. M. Shaw and Mrs. L. Sills and the children for presenting the fine program.

An executive meeting will be held in the near future to plan for the children's rally to be held the second Saturday in September in St. Andrew's Church, West Huntingdon.

Handwork in relation to the study of Japan was displayed.

A Bible contest was enjoyed.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The roll call was answered by 13 members and there were eight children present.

Midseason Suit

BY TRACY ADRIEN

Just right for this time of year is this town and travel suit, cool and comfortable even on warm days.

It is made of a new, lightweight yarn that is colorfast and washable yet gives the appearance of a very light wool. The suit has a long-torso semi-fitted jacket, push-up sleeves and a slender skirt.

CHILD WORKER

John Clare, England's "peasant poet" who died in 1864, was employed on a farm at age seven.

NORMAL LEVEL

Body temperature of a human being in good health is 98.4 degrees Fahrenheit.

Long Jackets Short Skirts Fashion Decree

LONDON (Reuters)—London's fashion designers today showed women's suits with longer jackets and slim, short skirts.

Jackets tend to dip down at the back and skirtwaists raise Empire-fashion to within an inch or so of the bosom in front. Feather hats were everywhere.

Cavanagh named his collection Sky High, explaining that "after a year of almost total concealment, the new woman emerges blossoming skyward, once again revealing the allure of her feminility."

Bells reached the armpits, jackets lifted in front, fullness flowed down the back from the shoulder blades instead of the waist—and skirts were shorter than ever.

Towering skyward, too, went evening headdresses — huge curled Prince of Wales feathers, tall, pale-blue plumes sprouting from a tiny diamond coronet.

Mother's Helper

SENDING your children to their rooms when play becomes too overstimulating on sizzling days need not be punishment. Make the separation a treat, with a friendly attitude on your part, plus a suggestion for something different to do while they cool off—alone. They'll (ecretly) welcome the change.

Four Women Held Perfect Bridge Hands

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) Ladies Day at the Frankfort Country Club may never be the same.

The odds against it, so mathematicians say, are two octillion, 200 sextillion to 1.

It began when Mrs. Ernest Wainscott started dealing a hand of bridge. Mrs. John Darnell, Mrs. Earl Senff and Mrs. E. J. Scott, her companions, casually looked at their cards. Then came the shrieks.

Each of the ladies was dealt all 13 cards of the same suit.

Furthermore, the cards fell in order. Mrs. Wainscott had clubs, bridge's lowest — ranking suit. Then, in order around the table according to suits, the other three players drew all the diamonds, hearts and spades each.

Mrs. Scott won, naturally, since she held all the spaces.

"We know it can't happen," 600,000,000,000,000 to 1, Mrs. Wainscott said. "But it did." In case you're curious, 2 octillion, 200 sextillion is one in 2,200,000,000,000,000,000,000,000.

STIRLING

Hold Shower For Couple Recently Wed

Neighbors, friends, relatives, and Institute members gathered at River Valley School Friday evening to honor newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cairns. The bride is the former Betty Bailey, of Roslin.

Mr. Hadley Richardson presided over the program which opened with a sing-song, led by Mrs. George Hearman and Mrs. Harry Morrow. Readings were given by Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Percy MacMullen. Miss Linda Ann Morrow contributed a couple of vocal selections.

Mr. William Cairns, Stirling, father of the groom, showed a large selection of colored slides. The main feature was the recent wedding at Roslin. There were also hunting and fishing scenes and lovely views of several lakes in Hastings County, and local scenes in the Stirling area and along the Trent River where they have recently built a new winterized home.

The bride and bridegroom were given seats of honor and Miss Grace Hearman read an address of appreciation.

Messrs. H. Richardson, E. Carr, and J. R. Donohoe made the presentation of a tri-light floor lamp, coffee table, and matching step table.

Ted and Betty graciously expressed their thanks for the lovely gifts and invited their friends to visit them in their new home in Stirling.

The ladies served refreshments and the group extended their personal best wishes. Guests attended from Roslin, Wallbridge and Stirling.

RAWDON

Bridal Shower Given for Bride-to-Be

Mrs. Clayton Thompson, Seymour, entertained about 30 ladies on Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Phyllis David, bride-to-be. The group included former school mates, old friends, and former neighbors when the David family resided at Mount Pleasant Rawdon.

The home was beautifully decorated with vases of roses. The dining table was decorated with a large tiered imitation wedding cake, and pink and white streamers cascaded from ceiling to table.

The afternoon was spent in compiling a Bride's Book, which created fun and merriment. All enjoyed a sing-song and Mrs. Thompson read an address which was written in the form of poetry.

The novel presentation of a steam-iron and ironing board came as a real surprise to the guests.

Refreshments were served with the bride's mother, Mrs. Herb David, Stirling, and Mrs. Charles Hoard, mother of the hostess, presiding over the silver tea service.

Phyllis expressed grateful thanks for the party and gifts.

N.Y., was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Able Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett Brant, of Syracuse, N.Y., spent the weekend visiting relatives on Tyendinaga Reserve.

Mrs. R. Surridge and daughter, Kucille, moved last weekend to Burlington where they will reside in the future.

Mr. Ernest Brant, of Toronto, spent the weekend as the guest of Mrs. Frank Brant, Jr.

Chantrey Inlet Eskimos Termed Brave, Ingenious

BACK RIVER, N.W.T. (CP)—The Eskimos of this area on Chantrey Inlet, 1,200 miles north of Winnipeg, are among the north's most isolated and healthiest.

An annual central Arctic medical survey has never disclosed a case of tuberculosis in the small Back River group nor any dental decay.

The tribe has only four contacts with the rest of the world. They are a priest at Baker Lake; a Hudson's Bay Company trader from King William Island; the medical survey team, which visits once/a year; and the RCMP, whose visits are not as frequent.

MEAT, FISH EATEN RAW

Back River Eskimos eat fish, seal and caribou raw and do not even heat their igloos with seal oil lamps. Few wear the white man's cloth parka, choosing furs instead.

X-rays and physical examinations this spring were made as usual in an igloo on the banks of Back River.

Complications arose when the x-ray machine began melting the six-foot high roof of the igloo but technician D'Arcy Lidstone managed all the same. Because there is no place in a snowhouse to call a cassette, or film holder, Lidstone had the Eskimos hold them against their chests while shooting on a bench.

Short and powerfully built, the Back River Eskimos often had to turn the cassettes sideways to get their whole chest into the x-ray picture.

Doctors on the survey team class the Eskimos here as ingenious and brave, with exceptional stamina.

RESOURCEFUL HUNTER

This was borne out in the case history of Pallak, a 56-year-old hunter examined this spring.

Thirty years ago, while hunting with his brother, the brother's rifle discharged, shattering a bone in Pallak's left leg.

For seven help, Pallak, aided by the brother, amputated his mangled leg at the knee with a hunting knife. He stitched the stump with sinew, then returned to the main camp.

When the wound healed, Pallak fashioned a new limb from three pieces of driftwood. One formed a peg; the others clasped it. A pad of musk-ox horn on the bottom prevented the peg from wearing away.

Dr. L. E. C. Davies, head of the survey team called the operation a "neat job of amputation and a perfectly - serviceable artificial limb, good for years to come."

Mr. George Hopkins has been busy working to complete his house. Mr. Hopkins works in Frankford with the Lightfoot company.

Mrs. J. B. Patterson is spending a few days with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. D. Williams, and girls, who have a cottage at Oak Lake.

Mrs. S. Dafoe spent Sunday with Mrs. Millie Reynolds.

Miss Carolyn Thompson returned home on Sunday from Toronto much improved in health.

The Cook family reunion was held on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Dafoe spent Sunday afternoon at Mrs. Zutelly in Stockdale.

Several girl guides are camping at Bass Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wilmore spent a day recently at Coe Hill.

The W. I. held their picnic on last Thursday at Oak Lake with a good attendance.

FOR THE PRINCESS

STRATFORD (CP) — An old favorite of Princess Margaret, Duke Ellington, will bring his 17-piece band to Stratford July 31 to play for her. Firing of Federal Employee By Harkness Brings Clash In Commons With Chevrier

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons ran through a contrasting variety of business Wednesday headed by agriculture and charges of political patronage.

The House gave final approval to two farm bills and heard Agriculture Minister Harkness say he had fired a part-time Montreal employee of his department for both Liberal party election campaign activity and possessing contraband.

Mr. Harkness clashed with Lionel Chevrier (L — Montreal Laurier) on the question of firing a part-time agricultural checker at Montreal identified as Walter Mitchell. Mr. Chevrier angrily declared that some of Mr. Harkness' information was "totally inaccurate" and later sought more information.

Mr. Harkness said he has proof that Mr. Mitchell — a seasonal employee for some years—had been an election campaign worker for Mr. Chevrier. He said an investigation showed Mr. Mitchell was found in possession last Nov. 20 of contraband liquor and cigarets. Mr. Harkness said the man admitted having obtained them from vessels arriving in the Montreal harbor.

No charge had been laid because publicity was not deemed desirable at the time by the department.

Mr. Harkness promised Mr. Chevrier that further details would be provided.

Two amending acts were pushed through third reading by Mr. Harkness. One broadened the scope of the Prairie Farm Assistance Act and Mr. Harkness said protected drought - relief payments may turn out to be lower than expected on the Prairies because of recent rains.

A record payment of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 under the act had been contemplated at one time, he said.

The other bill gives final Commons approval was a boost in compensation payments for cattle and sheep slaughter under mass-eradication steps against tuberculosis and brucellosis. Payments under the purebreds would be raised to $140 from $100 and to $70 from $40 for lower grades.

Western Crops Make Comebacks Following Rains

WINNIPEG (CP) — Question marks dotted the western crop picture Wednesday although scorching grain fields had made remarkable comebacks after being hardhit by drought.

Saskatchewan still appeared to be in the deepest trouble, with areas of poor crops spreading across both its eastern and western borders into Manitoba and Alberta.

As cooler weather moved eastward from the heat that had gripped the Prairies for several days, plant industry director R. H. McKenzie of the Saskatchewan government in Regina reported that the heat had been kind to crops.

Recent rains improved conditions and there still were some good crops on summerfallow, he said.

Agricultural officials in Alberta reported there are prospects of bumper yields and good quality crops in the western half of the province. However, crops have deteriorated due to drought in the eastern section.

A spokesman for Manitoba pool elevators in Winnipeg said the crop situation is ideal where there is ample moisture because hot weather was needed for development. However, a strip along th western border of the province and a few pockets else where cannot take too much heat or moisture.

The fodder situation is still bad in all three provinces.

Defence Minister Pearkes scrambles into a helicopter at the navy's Shearwater base near Halifax as he makes a whirlwind tour of military installations in the area. Although he is 70, Mr. Pearkes is a hard worker, often starting his day at 6 a.m. (CP from National Defence).

BUSY MINISTER

Fully Agrees to Macmillan's Proposals as to Conference Khrushchev States in Reply

LONDON (AP) — Here is the text of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's message to President Eisenhower, as broadcast Wednesday by Moscow radio:

Mr. President, I have received your reply to my letter dated July 1. I have also received your replies from Mr. Nehru and Mr. Macmillan and Mr. de Gaulle to my letter of the 19th July.

At present we do not wish to discuss the reasons which created the tension and danger to peace in both the Near and Middle East. The views of the Soviet government on all these matters were summed up in my letter of 19th July.

I would only like to reject strongly the allegations in your letter that the Soviet Union supports the forces of expansion and aggression in the world. Now, and particularly after the armed intervention of the U.S.A. in the Lebanon and Britain in Jordan, no one should have any doubt as they ever had any as to who is, in fact, following a policy of expansionism and aggression, who is threatening peace and the security of the peoples.

The Soviet government considers that the world peace at present has reached a dangerous level, so much so that no time should be lost in arguing, which cannot but delay the period of reaching agreement on the adoption of all possible and immediate steps to prevent the outbreak of a world conflict.

We cannot afford to belittle the danger of this situation because there are certain forces which wish to widen the area of aggression, and which are planning a military attack on Iraq.

PROPOSED CONFERENCE

In an attempt to avoid the possibility of world dispute, we propose a conference of the heads of the Soviet, British, French and Indian governments, to be attended by the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

We wish to point out with satisfaction that the proposal of the Soviet government, concerning the convening of a meeting of the governments, found a positive response in your letter.

Mr. Macmillan the head of the British government, de Gaulle, the head of the French government, and Nehru, the head of the Indian government, expressed a desire for such a summit conference, a thing for which we thank them.

We fully agree to the considerations expressed by Mr. Macmillan in connection with the holding of a summit conference within the framework of the United Nations Security Council. In its letter dated 19th July, Soviet government pointed out that the UN Security Council should not be ignored.

And, as it was pointed out, to take speedy measures for the settlement of the crises we are regard the way in which the meeting of the heads of the governments take place at the present moment of decisive importance.

What is important is that this conference should be held as soon as possible so that solutions which would help to protect and strengthen peace and security be discussed in a speedy manner, with a view to eliminating danger in the Near and Middle East area and reducing world tension.

AGREES TO AGENDA

We also agree to the agenda of this special session of the Security Council—the agenda which the United States Senator Lyndon Johnson also agree that the participants in this special session of the Security Council may submit any resolutions which are not contained in the agenda suggested by the Secretary-General, and the aim of the session is to conclude an agreement not to record the differences through voting.

The Soviet government also thinks that the heads of governments should be able to conduct joint consultative talks in an unofficial manner so that constructive suggestions — speedy ones — might be passed in the fairest of protecting and strengthening peace.

The Security Council should discuss the very important questions of the protection of peace and security, and no current ordinary issues. Therefore, we consider that, in this case, it would be useful that India should take part in the work of the Security Council. India is a large well known Asian country, known by all the peoples of the world as a state struggling for the strengthening of peace.

The participation of India in the work of the Security Council would be, in fact, very useful—even more useful than the participation of some of the so-called permanent members, who in fact do not represent anyone. We consider it essential that the representative of India be present at the meeting of the Security Council and Nehru, who has consented to participate in a summit conference.

Mr. President, you said in your letter that if all wished to hold a special meeting of the Security Council the U.S.A. also would join in the measures to be agreed upon.

So far as the Soviet Union is concerned, it has already consented by its premier. It is natural that the governments of the Arab countries concerned should participate in the discussion of the issues—in the Security Council jointly with the heads of the governments of the above-mentioned states.

The Soviet government wishes to know, as quickly as possible, the opinion of the U.S. government regarding the date of the proposed meeting of the Security Council.

For our part, we may suggest that the Security Council should begin its work on 28th July in Geneva.

(Signed) Khrushchev. Moscow, 23rd July.

CCF Gives Consideration To Possible Hook-Up With Canadian Labor Congress

MONTREAL (CP)—The CCF national convention today got down to consideration of a possible hook-up with the Canadian Labor Congress.

Before it was a resolution, that if approved, would formally authorize CCF officials to discuss with the CLC, interested farm organizations and other like-minded groups what action to take, by vote of a "people's political movement."

The national convention of the CLC last April in Winnipeg passed a similar resolution that Stanley Knowles, a vice-chairman of the CCF and a vice-president of the CLC, has said informed discussions between the two groups have already been held.

The convention Wednesday worked on resolutions ranging from the current Middle East crisis to agriculture problems.

It also indicated clearly a strong desire that M. J. Coldwell stay on as national leader for two more years, until the party's next national convention.

And Mr. Coldwell later told The Canadian Press "I think that probably I may have to change my opinion."

He has been saying for months that he definitely would be retiring from the post he has held since 1942. Speaking to the convention Wednesday, the 68-year-old leader again expressed his "wish to retire."

But he added that he had agreed to request from the national council of the party to defer a definite decision until Friday.

Among resolutions approved at Wednesday night's convention session was one recommending revision of the Canada Elections Act by a House of Commons committee. It suggested, among other things:

1. A permanent register of voters to replace the present practice of preparing an eligible voters before every election.

2. A system of absentee voting be established so that candidates' party affiliations appear on the ballot.

3. That the $200 deposit currently required from a candidate be increased or a requirement that at last 100 electors in a constituency sign a candidate's nomination paper.

In a discussion on agriculture no two women braved the opposition to speak. Opponents of the resolving it would be unrealistic for the party to take too protective an attitude toward maintaining family farms.

"We as farmers will have to move with the times," said Mrs. Nellie Peterson, a farmer's wife, from Saskatchewan. "If small farms into one large unit proved the most efficient way to operate then this must be accepted.

"The convention accepted her view and it is now on record as favoring development of large co-operative farms.

Croll Protests Loan and Trust Bill Is 'Rigged'

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Senator David Croll Wednesday said that government legislation to authorize loan and trust companies to increase their borrowing powers "appears to be rigged."

"It gives an impression that powerful lobbies have pulled strings," the Ontario Liberal senator said in the Senate Canada Loan Companies Act and the Canada Trust Companies Act.

The bills received final reading after a motion proposed by Senator Jean-Francois Pouliot (Lauzon-Quebec) to return them to committee for further consideration was defeated on a voice vote. They now go to the Commons.

Mr. Croll said that the borrowing limit of trust and loan companies should be "their authorized capital. The acts now limit this to 10 times authorized capital.

They would also enable the companies, he said, to practice amortized values instead of market values for the worth of securities held by the companies. The Bank of Canada and chartered banks now use the amortized basis. The amortization system spreads out discounts or premiums over the life of the bonds.

Federal Govt. to Take Over CPR Ferries on West Coast

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal government legislation to force strikebound west coast CPR Steamships to resume operation was expected to receive fast hashing in the Commons today.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, presiding personally over the emergency legislation Wednesday, expressed the hope the eight steamships will be back serving British Columbia coastal and Vancouver Island harbors by Saturday. The CPR ships have been tied up since May 16.

The unprecedented legislation would allow the government to take over temporarily the service and to have a specially appointed administrator operate it while disputants settle every issue.

Labor Minister Starr indicated the government has a man in mind for the administrator's job but did not identify him.

The ban would keep striking members of the Seafarers' International Union (CLC) an immediate eight-per-cent increase in wages pending final settlement. The CPR has agreed to the eight-per-cent increase, but the sailors were holding out for 16 per cent.

DECLINE COMMENT

SIU officials in Vancouver declined to comment on the proposed legislation.

It would order the men back to work, and Prime Minister Diefenbaker said disobedience of the law would bring the same general penalties facing anyone breaking a federal statute.

The bill provides for voluntary arbitration of the dispute and if compulsory arbitration would be imposed. The government slapped compulsory arbitration on a dispute only once—during the 1950 strike of 140,000 non-operating employees of both the railways and the bakers—a government legislation ordered them back to work. The union complied.

The cabinet's action in the current case takes a different course in that the government actually takes over the service through the Canada Shipping Act, which in 1950 it did not take over.

The administrator would be regarded as an agent of the CPR for the purpose of carrying out business. Mr. Diefenbaker said. His duties would continue until a new company — union agreement has been signed or until the legislation has been ended by cabinet decision.

Meanwhile, the administrator would have full authority for the service.

"Just a Second"

"I drank a whole bottle of suntan lotion and I'm still not brown!"

Frost Urges Canada Build More Pipelines

WELLAND (CP) — Premier Frost has urged Canada to make every possible move to become self - sufficient in oil and its derivatives.

He said Wednesday he would like to see as many pipelines as possible constructed in Canada to take full advantage of the country's natural resources.

"Fifteen years ago we were largely dependent on the Middle East for supplies. We have many worries now over the political situation there, but it is comforting to know that today 60 per cent of our needs in oil and its derivatives are supplied by the West."

Frost officially opened a $500,000 addition to Welland waterworks facilities.

Bonus on Bonds Not Taxable

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister Nowlan said Wednesday additional payments to holders of wartime victory bonds who exchange them for the new Canada development bonds are not taxable.

He was replying in the Commons to Mrs. Lloyd Crouse (PC—Queens-Lunenburg). Mr. Nowlan said, however, that the element of accrued interest in the payments is taxable. This represents the difference between the victory bonds until they are converted into longer-term bonds effective Sept. 1.

Defence Minister Pearkes' Stamina Is Prodigious for 70-Year-Old War Hero

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes, VC, DSO, MC, Croix de Guerre, is 70 years old.

To watch him operate, you'd never know it. His stamina is prodigious.

Take Dominion Day this year, for instance. Mr. Pearkes was up at 6 a.m. to fly in the RCAF's Comet jetliner from Ottawa to Fredericton to open Camp Gagetown officially.

QUICK JUMP

When the plane arrived, a puddle of water lay between the foot of the aircraft ramp and the terminal. Mr. Pearkes didn't walk around it. He leaped over it like a schoolboy.

He made a speech opening the camp. He reviewed a guard of honor. He stood for more than 3 minutes to take the salute in a march - past of 2,000 soldiers. Standing in a jeep, he then reviewed the troops and made another speech.

He attended a luncheon and reception. While most members of his staff sagged into chairs, he toured the camp. He wouldn't rest at all that he wanted to by car and foot, he used a helicopter.

He had just time to change before attending a special party for the camp commander, at which he made another speech.

At the airport, ready for the return flight, he stood at the ramp and called out cheerily: "All aboard the lugger."

While his officials dozed on the homeward flight, Mr. Pearkes worked on papers or walked around and talked with those pals of yours still awake.

The plane reached Ottawa at midnight. Mr. Pearkes, who was in his office the next morning at 8:30. He works every night until 10 p.m.

During the day, he attends various meetings if the cabinet and of his senior officials, sittings of the Commons and meetings of House committees before which he is testifying.

Recently, Mr. Pearkes entered a committee on time at 11 a.m. and supply information on army appropriations. He quietly fumed while the committee waited 16 minutes for a quorum.

Unfortunately for the committee, the first question had to do with army desertions. Mr. Pearkes said absenteeism in the army—308 absent without leave out of 47,300 personnel at May 31 —compared favorably with attendance at the committee and the House.

A few committee member protested in vain. Mr. Pearkes replied in an his words and he was still chuckling about his sally the next day.

At the committee's first meeting, Mr. Pearkes outlined government defence policy. He stood for more than two hours and never faltered for a word or a statistic.

The cabinet usually meets in the Privy Council chamber on the second floor of Parliament Hill's East Block. Mr. Pearkes sounded in action five times in the First World War, never walks the distance if it isn't handy. He runs up the stairs.

As a cabinet minister, he has to attend many social functions, both at noon and in the evening. He doesn't usually takes an occasional drink. If he attends a dinner-dance function, he returns to the office to work from 9 to 10 p.m.

English - born Mr. Pearkes served 2½ years in the RCMP and 30 years in the army. He joined the army and went to Victoria Cross at Passchendaele in 1917. After the armistice, he commanded a division and later Pacific Command duties, he became MP for Nanaimo. He was elected to the Commons in 1945 and became defence minister in June, 1957, when the Progressive Conservatives took office.

The minister not long ago attended a track meet in Montreal. He kept saying he would like to jog around the track himself. His aides finally dissuaded him—for the sake of appearances rather than stamina.

First Four 'Life' Peeresses Appointed to House of Lords

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen has created Britain's first four "life" peeresses—the first women ever privileged to sit and vote in the hitherto exclusively male House of Lords.

The announcement Wednesday also created 10 male life peers—barristers whose titles will end with them instead of being handed down to their descendants.

For British women, the announcement climaxed a century-old struggle to penetrate the 850-strong list of hereditary peers in one of the world's most exclusive clubs.

The four new baronesses are: Dame Katherine Elliot, 55, former chairman of the National Union of Conservatives and widow of Walter Elliot, late Conservative elder statesman.

Stella, Gowan Archbishop of Reading, who has been a prominent public figure and associated with many public causes.

Mary Irene, Baroness Ravensdale, 56, who already is a baroness in her own right by inheritance, and is also a prominent public figure.

Mrs. Barbara Wootton, 61, a prominent educationist and former professor of social studies at the University of London.

Among the new baronesses are Sir Robert Boothby, 58, Conservative member of Parliament and well-known television personality, and Sir Edward Twining, 59, former governor and commander-in-chief for Tanganyika, East Africa.

The creation of "life" peers follows a decision of the Conservative government to reform the upper chamber, where Socialist governments outnumbered it in more democratic.

The life peers are expected to inject more life into the house, many of whose members are "backwoods" peers who show up two or three times in a lifetime.

FOREST FIRE HAZE

WINNIPEG (CP)—Smoke from forest fires in the Yukon and Northwest Territories is causing haze conditions over much of Manitoba and extending southward into the Dakotas, the Winnipeg weather office said Monday night.

Senator Voices Alarm Over Canal Tolls

WASHINGTON (CP) — Senator Pat McNamara, Democrat from Michigan, Wednesday expressed alarm over Canadian proposals to collect tolls on the Welland Canal and questioned its propriety.

In a speech in the U.S. Senate, McNamara urged the Senate foreign relations committee to study the Canadian proposal and determine whether use of tolls on the Canadian-built canal, which connects Lakes Erie and Ontario, is "consistent with the letter and spirit of the seaway treaty."

He stressed that it is vital for the U.S. to maintain "sound" relations with Canada, to St. Lawrence Seaway as well as other matters, and said the controversy "should be studied with a view to clearing up any misconceptions or misunderstandings."

Tolls for the canal, constructed by Canada in 1932, are to be included in proposals agreed to by the toll committees of both the Canadian and U.S. seaway agencies. Separate hearings on the proposals will be opened in July by the Seaway Authority of Canada and the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

Canada would receive all of the Welland tolls in contrast to a split of 30 per cent for the U.S. and 71 per cent for Canada on the tolls for other segments of the seaway.

"The excuse for this," McNamara said, is the spending by Canada of $27,500,000 to enlarge the canal for ocean going vessels.

He noted that the U.S. is spending $12,000,000 to deepen connecting channels between Lakes Huron and Superior with no proposals for tolls.

Because of this, McNamara argued, "a serious question arises over the propriety of Canada's charging tolls to reimburse herself for deepening the Welland Canal."

McNamara's arguments against the toll proposal echoed those raised last Saturday by Senator Charles E. Potter (Rep. Mich.), who urged State Secretary Dulles to protest the tolls to Canada. However, McNamara did not repeat Potter's suggestion that the U.S. retaliate by imposing tolls on other waterways.

Bankers' Body Rewards Four Montreal Cops

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Bankers' Association Wednesday rewarded four policemen 19th July. They were given the highest traditions of the Montreal police force" in three bank holdups during the last year. Robert Roberge, president of the association, presented gifts to police and cheques for $1,000 each to the Montreal Police Benevolent and Protective Association.

The four police officers were Det. Sgt. Arthur Lamarche, Det. Sgt. Jeremie Manzerolle, Constable Marcel Chamartin and Det. Sgt. Lee Boisjoly.

Mr. Roberge expressed regret that Det. Sgt. Chamartin and Det. Sgt. Boisjoly were wounded in the incidents.

All but Det. Sgt. Boisjoly received $500 merchandise purchase orders. Det. Sgt. Boisjoly, recovering from critical wounds, was offered "improvements of your own choice" to his home and a vacation trip with his family to St. Gabriel de Brandon.

Diefenbaker Denies Threat To Have CBC Workers Fired

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker has been asked in the Commons about published reports that he had threatened to have some CBC employees and actors in Ottawa fired because of a mix-up in connection with a recent TV broadcast by himself.

He replied Wednesday that there was no substance to any suggestion that I have anything to do with the jobs of employees in the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation."

A lumberjamper was reported Tuesday to have given trouble in the CBC's Ottawa studios the evening of July 14, when Mr. Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming went onto the largest television network ever set up in Canada to speak in support of the government's new conversion loan.

Mr. Diefenbaker was reported to have said that if the telecast is not to record the differences through voting.

The Soviet government also thinks that the heads of governments should be able to conduct joint consultative talks in an unofficial manner so that constructive suggestions — speedy ones — might be passed in the fairest of protecting and strengthening peace.

The Security Council should discuss the very important questions of the protection of peace and security, and no current ordinary issues. Therefore, we consider that, in this case, it would be useful that India should take part in the work of the Security Council. India is a large well known Asian country, known by all the peoples of the world as a state struggling for the strengthening of peace.

The participation of India in the work of the Security Council would be, in fact, very useful—even more useful than the participation of some of the so-called permanent members, who in fact do not represent anyone. We consider it essential that the representative of India be present at the meeting of the Security Council and Nehru, who has consented to participate in a summit conference.

Mr. President, you said in your letter that if all wished to hold a special meeting of the Security Council the U.S.A. also would join in the measures to be agreed upon.

So far as the Soviet Union is concerned, it has already consented by its premier. It is natural that the governments of the Arab countries concerned should participate in the discussion of the issues—in the Security Council jointly with the heads of the governments of the above-mentioned states.

The Soviet government wishes to know, as quickly as possible, the opinion of the U.S. government regarding the date of the proposed meeting of the Security Council.

For our part, we may suggest that the Security Council should begin its work on 28th July in Geneva.

(Signed) Khrushchev. Moscow, 23rd July.

CBC Workers Fired

"Were I to try to reply to all the speculative articles that appear in the press, I'd be scratching like the sign on the wall of Abraham Lincoln's office. It read: "If I were to answer all the attacks that are made on me, and all the speculative stories about me, this shop might just as well shut down."

"Certainly there is nothing in the suggestion that I have anything to do with jobs in the CBC."

NEW TYPE OF OCEAN SAILBOAT

Although this is the age of space ships, the old-fashioned sailing ship, with a few changes, may soon make its return. - This interesting bi of the new type of sailing ship designed by a Scots engineer. It has two rigid, airfoil-type sails, which the designer claims are more efficient than canvas sails. The craft is incorporated on four pontoons, and cabins and holds are in the sailing section. Fins on the wings are to improve efficiency, and the tail is the rudder. The dome on top is the crow's nest.

The sound of power saws on a Guelph, Ont., street brought citizens running to the rescue of trees, which, they say are the most beautiful in the city. Men and women formed a cordon around the trees and Russell Daly, centre, told the workmen to do their sawing elsewhere. A couple of aldermen arrived and when they saw the cordon of citizens, the workmen were called off with only one tree demolished. The trees were ordered cut to give a better view for motorists.

Bail Is Granted In Swindle Case

TORONTO (CP) — Meyer Rush, arrested Tuesday night with an Ajax, Ont., woman in connection with an International horse racing swindle, was granted $20,000 bail Wednesday despite the objection of Crown counsel J. B. Galbraith.

Rush, 36-year-old Toronto advertising executive, was arrested along with his bookkeeper, Marjorie Harvard, 22, and charged with conspiracy to defraud in a swindle in which wealthy New York residents say have lost more than $120,000.

Mr. Galbraith objected when Magistrate Hugh Foster decided to free Rush because "of the large amount of money involved in this matter."

Magistrate Foster admitted the case before him was serious but he said he felt $20,000 bail was satisfactory.

NEUTRALS

The secretary-general thus is virtually ignoring the council deadlock and relying on the authority of his office to provide acceptable action which would give the American and British governments the opportunity to pull their forces out — their places to be taken by an international body — without appearing to retreat.

STATES IN DECLINE

The private opinions mentioned earlier generally follow the line that the U.S. and Britain acted reluctantly in bolstering the present Lebanese and Jordanian governments when neighboring Iraq's pro-Western regime was overthrown July 14 by an Arab nationalist revolutionary movement.

The big Western powers had to take the first step to reassure their friends in the Middle East. But the feeling is growing that the friends of the West in that boiling area are the representatives of a declining state of affairs.

Since Egypt's President Nasser emerged in 1956 as the champion of a new wave of Islamic nationalism, there has been a waning of Western influence in the Middle East except in Israel—a state whose establishment after the Second World War was regarded as anathema by the Arabs.

WEST SHOULD ACCEPT

And Britain and the U.S. have thus been accused of supporting regimes unacceptable to the masses of their own people, which has given Russia its best propaganda plum in Moscow's efforts to spread the gospel of communism throughout the world.

One view now expressed at the UN is that it is inevitable that the Jordan and Lebanese regimes will succumb to the nationalist pressure eventually, even though they now are backed by British and American bayonets.

But why shouldn't the West accept this if Western interests are protected and there is no outbreak of atrocities such as occurred at the outset of the Iraqi revolt resulting in the deaths of King Faisal and his prime minister, said neutral sources.

POOR FRIENDS

Iraq now is in apparent stability and the new government has assured Britain and the U.S. that it will not interfere with the Western-owned oil establishments in that country. Jordan and Lebanon have virtually no oil and represent only a political Western field of influence.

So, say the neutralists, let the U.S. and Britain step aside and let nationalism take its course. Russia hasn't taken any active steps beyond benevolent support for Nasser, so let the West move their armaments out and have the UN take over as a token force against disorder.

Some kind of big-power agreement along this line is what a substantial body of opinion at the UN is hoping for as a result of the summit conference.

Rotary Hears Talk on Recreation

CAMPBELLFORD — The speaker at the Monday meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club was Don Maddocks, recreational director for the Department of Education, Province of Ontario, east central region.

Mr. Maddocks stated that the aim of the Provincial Department of Education in assisting financially in recreation programs for young and old is to "assure that adequate opportunity for all to have the sort of leisure time pursuit he/she requires."

Out of 900 communities in Ontario, about one-third have recreation committees and about 100 have full time recreational directors. Since the plan of organized recreation subsidized by the province is not an old one, this is a most creditable showing.

RECREATION FORMS

Thes various forms of recreation approved for government help include almost every conceivable hobby for older persons as well as sports, arena and coaches for the young leadership training for the area comes under Camp Quin-Mo-Lac near Madoc, when this year about 130 were trained to be supervisors of the young.

Advisors employed by the province to assist municipalities and recreation committees are available at all times and are qualified to assist in such fields as art, citizenship (instruction on to new Canadians), social recreation, weaving, pottery, leather work, rural activities, music, puppetry and senior citizens' activities.

Mr. Maddocks encouraged any recreation committee to avail itself of the facilities offered by the Department of Education along these lines.

He was introduced by Roy McLaren and thanked by Don Meyers.

... Number of Newspapers Used Increased 70%"

PROPER EYE CARE SOLD BY DAILY NEWSPAPER

One year ago, for the first time, Kahn Optical Company, suppliers to the optical professions, chose daily newspapers as the medium to inform as many Canadians as possible of the vital need to conserve good eyesight. The response exceeded all expectations!

Take full advantage of the flexibility and low cost concentrated sales impact daily newspapers offer in the markets you want to reach. Contact your daily newspaper advertising managers for full information.

MR. A. R. LADDON
President of Kahn Optical

had this to say:

"So well received were our Eye-Care advertisements placed in daily newspapers during 1956, that we have now increased the number of newspapers by 70% for 1957. Every indication is that the majority of newspaper readers are reading . . . and heeding these educational messages."

KAHN OPTICAL COMMENDED

Here are two of the commendations:

"The program of public-spirited advertising which Kahn Optical has placed in many Canadian daily newspapers is very commendable and we endorse your effort."

S. E. Matthews, President, The Opthalmic Dispensers of Manitoba

"Vision is man's most priceless possession and the fact that Kahn Optical has chosen to stress eye-sight conservation, in a series of daily newspaper messages, is certainly public service of the highest order."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

An ominous note sounded by an overseas sportswriter covering the British Empire Games in Wales reveals there may be trouble ahead for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Allan Cup winners and Canadian representatives the Belleville McFarlands.

Andy O'Brien, writing from Cardiff says: "While nobody here seems alarmed over the Russian Bear's latest lethal-of-war growls from the Middle East, there is a Brain growl threatening which could make a shambles of our Canadian hockey hopes in the 1959 world tourney at Prague."

O'Brien said the Dunlops copped the cup at Oslo last March "thanks to the big punch supplied by three reinstated professionals, Sid Smith, Connie Broden and Jean Lamirande."

This trio, he says, played, thanks to some stretching of the International Ice Federation rule re qualifications of an amateur. It specifies that reinstatement can take place only the season following the one in which the federation received notice of reinstatement. It also specifies that a pro may re-qualify three years after ceasing to be a professional.

O'Brien writes that newsmen covering the tourney last year shrugged off the rule-stretching because of the weird outlook nations, such as Russia, entertains re amateurs. Their players play hockey, and little else. They are soldiers who never soldier. It would be hard to apply to the Russians but the Canadian team is openly on the limb.

He says that Federation president Bunny O'Hearne confesses to uneasiness over Russ rumblings of protest and adds that protests could be most embarrassing.

He said the Russians did not protest at Norway because after their impressive Canadian tour they thought they could win and did not want the propaganda effect lessened by removal of Canadian key men through protest.

That also explains, O'Brien points out, why the Reds did not go after high-scoring wins over the weaker teams like the Germans. Reds would decide in case of a final tie but the Russ did not want to weaken the effect of their propaganda triumph through ill-will among the tramp'ed.

However the Canadians won and are champions to beat behind the curtain of carmine hue in Czechoslovakia next year.

"And we know," opines O'Brien, "without reinstated pros we won't stand a chance. And we would lose face by refusing the play because the federation rules aren't stretched for us. Indeed, it looms as a pretty kettle of fish for the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to anticipate in plugging."

While there is no point in crossing bridges before arrival, O'Brien may have something. Thus far no report of protests of reinstated pros on the Canadian team has reached Canada or even burns into publicity overseas as far as we can gather.

It is definitely sure the CAHA has not heard of any such protest since its top brass met the management of the Belleville McFarlands in camera here a few weeks ago to discuss the question of players eligible to augment the McFarlands on their overseas junket.

According to hearsay reports of the meeting several names, among them pros, were tabled but no action was taken.

O'Brien and Ahearne do not elaborate on the alleged protest and it might turn out to be a tempest in a pale, although the wily Russians are nobody's fools when it comes to achieving their own ends.

Whether the Reds mean they will protest pros as augmented players or to include them already on the roster of the Nats is not known. If they take in past and present it will include such players as Ike Hildebrand, Bep Guidolin, Wiener Brown, Barton Bradley and Gordie Bell. What would the McFarlands be without this quintet?

This protest business may be somebody tilting at windmills, but usually where there is a lot of smoke you will find traces of fire... And when people like Ike Freedman president Ahearne express concern there might be more than a scintilla of truth in it.

The Russians do not take defeat lightly, and the setback at the hands of the Dunlops last March was a severe jolt to the Red ego. They will do everything in their power to minimize the chances of the opposition and to magnify their own.

Anyway it is something to mull over these warm summer evenings.

Vicious 15-Rounds Assault Fails to Blast Challenger; Lane Had Victory in Grasp

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Screwy little Joe Brown swarmed after Kenny Lane, the tough Michigan farmboy, for 15 vicious rounds every night and won a close but unanimous decision in defence of his world's lightweight championship.

Brown didn't fulfill his boast that he would knock out the thick-legged boy from Muskegon but he cut his eye, bloodied his nose, cut his mouth and twice knocked his mouthpiece flying with savage uppercuts.

A capacity crowd that jammed Sam Houston Coliseum, with many fighting to get in, greeted the decision with mixed reactions.

Lane had fought a courageous fight, taking everything the hard-hitting Brown could hand out and often coming back when it seemed he should be curling up.

But Brown never could hit Lane solidly enough to put him down.

WILL TAKE REST

Brown now plans on taking a rest.

"He is the only champion to defend his title three times in eight months," said Brown's manager, Leo Viecual. "He deserves a rest."

It was the first time the 32-year - old champion had been taken to the second round since winning the title two years ago from Wallace (Bud) Smith. He had fattened the challenger's face and the experts figured he's give Lane the same treatment.

He didn't even come close. The fight was so close that Lane thought he had won as he raised up in the final round. Had he prevailed the fight then a new champion might have been crowned.

Here is how the official scoring went as the 25-year-old Lane sought to become the first south-paw champion in the lightweight division:

Referee Ernie Taylor scored it 143-142 for Brown under the 10-point must system. Judge Bill Cornelius had it 144-143 for Brown, Judge Jimmy Webb favored Brown 145-141. The Associated Press card was 144-138 for Brown.

CUT HIS EYE

Blood oozed from Lane's nose in the 12th round when he took one of Brown's smashes. His mouthpiece was jarred loose by a left uppercut in the 12th with about a minute left in the bout. Lane spat the mouthpiece and smiled into the champion.

Brown admitted that Lane's lefthanded style bothered him.

"That's what kept me from knocking him out," said the champion. "I was trying to get him with a hook and a right. I could get in the hook but not the right."

He had words of praise for Lane.

"He's a real good strong, clever man. I think he deserves another chance at the title!."

The champion appeared unmarked except for a slight cut on his left eye and a scratch on his elbow.

Lane protested that he had won. He said he had been "robbed." Jack Kearns, Lane's co-manager, had the same opinion.

Lane said his style of counter-ing Brown's strong right wasn't accidental.

"I kept him from setting me up. He's not the puncher he's supposed to be. I hurt him several times. I got him good with combinations of straight jabs, straight lefts and back with a right. Some uppercuts shook him up pretty good a few times, too."

Americans Win Majority Heats In Henley

PORT DALHOUSIE (CP)—United States oarsmen and scullers dominated opening day events, most of them heats, in the 7th annual Royal Canadian Henley Regatta Wednesday.

Of 20 races, 12 were won by Americans. St. Catharines, however, managed to roll up 10 points for a tie with New York Athletic Club for the lead in point standings.

The regatta continues until late Saturday, the day on which senior final events are scheduled.

Behind St. Catharines and New York were Philadelphia Vespers with five, Minnesota Boat Club of Minneapolis with three, Toronto Argonauts with 2.5, Hamilton Leander with 1.5, and Philadelphia Bachelor Barge with .5.

DOMINATE EVENTS

The point championship, which Buffalo West Side Rowing Club and St. Catharines have dominated for the last nine years, does not include high school events.

Two finals—the junior 155-pound singles and 135-pound single-sculls—run off today, a final high school event—the singles — was completed. Today's schedule includes finals of the junior fours with coxswain, junior singles junior 145 - pound doubles and fours, junior 135 - pound eights, junior 125 - pound coxed eights and high school fours with coxswain and eights.

Cornwall Joins Quebec Union

MONTREAL (CP) — Cornwall has been accepted as the fourth team in the senior section of the Quebec Rugby Football Union for the 1958 season, it was learned Wednesday.

The other teams are Montreal Ordons, Verdun and Trois-Rivieres.

The Cornwall entry, to be coached by John Bove, was admitted at a special executive meeting of the league.

The senior QRFU season is tentatively scheduled to open Aug. 17 with Trois-Rivieres playing at Cornwall.

It was the second Cornwall application for entry into the senior QRFU. The first application was withdrawn for lack of financial backing.

The gate was $59,203, a record for Texas. Television added $45,000 to the pot. Brown will get $42,400, 40 per cent of the gate. Lane will draw $31,200 with his 30-per-cent cut.

Kings Blast Toronto 17-0; Royals Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tony Pacheco the new manager of Havana Sugar Kings of the International League is hopeful of getting his club out of seventh place. The former chief scout for the Sugar Kings took over from Nap Reyes who was fired Wednesday.

He made his debut as the Sugar Kings blasted the Toronto Maple Leafs 17-0.

Nine Enders also collected five safeties. Orlando Pena went the route and gave the Maple Leafs eight hits in recording his eighth victory against as many defeats.

Havana's offensive made it three straight from Montreal Royals and Columbus Jets beat nightcap of a doubleheader after losing the opener 4-1.

Woody Held made his name with two away in the eleventh inning gave Miami Marlins the victory. It was the seventh straight setback for the league leaders. Solly Drake who tripled scoring off the third inning for Montreal and later scored was the first man to reach third base on Warren Hacker in his three starts. The run was the first in 31 innings off the Cincinnati Leaguer. He left the game after the inning after yielding only four hits.

Chelly Naranjo scored his first victory in his last eight starts to give Joe Jay a split of the two games. In the opener Gary Blaylock went the route for the Red Wing victory.

ROUGHIES TANGLE

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Frank Clair watches from the press box atop the Lansdowne Park grandstand tonight as Ottawa Rough Riders play their annual intra-squad game. All members of two squads—the Whites and the Reds—some 55 candidates will on hand at the Riders training camp will battle it out for regular positions with the Big Four team.

English Lassies Blast Aussie Swim Domination

Annex 8 Medals, Three Gold In Greatest One-Night Bag; Canadian Wins Silver Award

By JAC KNELLWOLF
Canadian Press Staff Writer

CARDIFF (CP) — The Australian duo's "very" British Empire Games swimming. Five English lassies started Saturday. English swimmers, ably supported by fifteen Scots, Colin and David Tarsey, won eight—three gold, two silver and three bronze for cheer—while the seven, even with the Australians.

Ian Black, 17-year-old Aberdeen student, battled in on the Australian heels for a silver medal in the men's 440 freestyle. The Australies sent Murray Rose against Black, confident they'd finish one-two-three.

But Black, an unknown when the Games started, managed to snag a medal behind Australia's John Konrads, the crewcut youngster who holds nine freestyle world records.

ONLY THREE MEDALS

The Australians were limited to two gold and a bronze medal, an exceptional effort for the sun-browned mermen. Canada won second place and a silver medal in the team standings on the performance of Bill Patrick of Calgary, New Zealand copped a bronze.

England is well out in front in the seven of all unofficial points standings as Canada trails Australia and New Zealand. England has 300 points, Australia 246 and Canada 230. The fourth spot is deadlocked with St.

Canada is third also in the summer of swimming. England has a total of 30, Australia 23 and Canada 22.

Swimming was the highlight of an otherwise slow day in the Games. Archery, boxing, lawn bowlers, weightlifters, cyclists and fencers competed from early morning until late evening in competitive sessions.

Trackmen had an open date. A sellout crowd of almost 32,000 jammed Cardiff Arms Park today when eight track finals will be run off.

ENGLISH WORLD BEATER

Records exploded all over the pool but by far the biggest pleasing to the crowd, which has shown a tendency to boo whenever Australia or New Zealand, went to Judy Grinham, 19-year-old pretty London clerk from Surbiton for her world-record breaking dash in the women's backstroke.

She washed out a 34-hour record of 1:13.3 set by Margaret Edwards of Australia in the first-leg dash of England's women's 440 relay team.

Miss Grinham clipped four-tenths of a second off the record with a clocking of 1:11.9. She also broke the heart of 17-year-old Australian girl Sonni Temple to watch her peak when the gold medals were all in sight.

In the 1956 Olympics, Miss Grinham touched off the relay for the London student teacher to win the gold medal in the 100 metre event.

Phillippa Gould of New Zealand took second place and a bronze medal. Sara Barber of Brantford, Ont., finished fourth in 1:16.4.

Australians Anne Nelson and Gerpsyvia Sechert filled the last two gold.

WINS 220

The swimmer was Anita Lonsbrough, a 17-year-old Yorkshire lass in the Games record time of 2:53.5. Irene Service of Vancouver was fourth behind two other English swimmers.

The Australians got some measure of revenge in the final event of the night when Terry Gathercole, 22-year-old plumber, whipped the field in the men's 220 breaststroke.

Canada picked up a second silver medal Wednesday from heavyweight weightlifter Doug Bell of Wavhmount, Que. Three Australian boxers, losers in their semi-finals, will get bronze medals when the upper placings are decided.

Baillie took the silver in the heavyweight division by repeating his second-place finish in the 1954 Games. Winner was Ken McDougall of Scotland.

In boxing, the three remaining Canadian fighters entered the semi-final matches. Ring officials announced that Games officials would not stage a fourth lightweight final. There would be awarded a bronze medal to avoid the possibility of a repeat of the third-place position for the Canadians semi-finalists Robert Tyrau of Windsor Mills, Que., Jimmy Walters, the Vancouver light - middleweight, and light-welterweight Ray Galante of Hamilton.

STANLEY TO MARRY

TIMMINS (CP)—Boston Bruin Hockey player Allan Stanley will wed Miss Beatrice Bowie in a ceremony at St. James Parish Church, Blind River this Saturday.

Pete Rademacher Folley, Friday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Boxing fans get their first view of Pete Rademacher, former ruler of the world amateur heavyweight, on television Friday night. It should be something to see.

Big Pete created a sensation last year when, in his first match as a professional, he landed and lost a title bout with champion Floyd Patterson.

He was almost as cheery in defeat, though, as the second fight as a pro. He meets Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., who climbed the Eddie Machen the role of No. 1 challenger on Patterson's crown.

Folley's encounter, billed for 10 rounds, goes on at 10 p.m. EDT). It will be televised by the NBC.

Folley, 26, has not been beaten since he was stopped here by young Jack Johnson in 1955. He is the betting favourite at about 7 to 1.

CUBANS FIRE REYES

HAVANA (CP) — Napoleon Reyes was fired Wednesday as manager of Havana's Sugar Kings after the Montreal Royals farm club was replaced by Tony Pacheco, Reyes, one of the Cuban baseball's most colorful figures in a career that spanned 24 years, was also fired as manager of the Cuban national team.

Big Question Who Will Sign Harry Sinden?

There's a cold war going on between Kingston and Belleville scouts for the services of Harry Sinden.

The prize is star defenceman Harry Sinden of the Whitby Dunlops, who it is reported is leaving the Intermediate ranks next season.

Whitby manager Wren Blair spent last night here with McFarlands manager Dunny Desjardins and the making of Sinden.

The McFarlands manager stated today that he and Blair had been negotiating a trade involving Joe Lepine for Sinden.

"Nothing definite has developed as yet", Denyes said, admitting negotiations have been carried on "there are a few wrinkles to iron out yet."

Another angle in the situation way, manager wally Brahan and playing coach Bun Gagnier in Belleville Intermediate view last evening made no bones about the fact they were after Sinden. The starry defenceman, by the way, is a Kingston native and was reported to be working in Kingston.

Announcer Max Jackson took it more or less for granted that Sinden was in the Kingston bag. In a late telecast he said he had been informed by Belleville's Drury Denyes via telephone that the Mans had signed Sinden.

"Maybe he pulling my leg" Jackson added.

"We're keeping the pot boiling and giving Kingston something to do, worry about" smiled Denyes.

House Members Defeat Staff In Softball

OTTAWA (CP)—The memory of Lionel Conacher, the famous Big Train of professional Canadian sport, hung over Parliament Hill baseball park tonight.

The reason: A revival of exhibition softball games in which members of Parliament take part.

A rejuvenated MP team, made up of new faces that were not around when Conacher led four years ago, defeated House of Commons staffers 13-5 in the six-inning exhibition.

The last exhibition game was played in 1954, when Conacher collapsed at third base, clutching his heart, and died of a-heart attack. At the time the MPs played members of the parliamentary press gallery and Conacher was Liberal Commons member for Toronto Trinity.

Commons Speaker Roland Michener pitched the first ball of the game with Prime Minister Diefenbaker catching and Opposition Leader Pearson, a former semi-professional baseball player, batting.

The first pitch was wide, but Mr. Pearson was unable to reach for a clean single. Then they retired to the sidelines and watched their MPs play.

Ernest Campbell, Progressive Conservative catching and Opposition Leader Pearson, a former semi-professional baseball player, batting.

The MPs were coached by O. Walter Dinsdale, federal member for Waterloo North, whose baseball career ended when he lost a leg in the Second World War.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen shaded Oakville Oaks 6-6 Wednesday night as the two clubs continued their see-saw struggle for top spot in the senior intercounty Baseball League standings.

The Dutchmen lead the Oaks by just half a game. Closest rivals are the two leaders are also close back.

The Oaks suffered an additional blow as well as losing their precarious hold on first place. It was only the second time this season they have dropped a contest before the home fans.

In other action Listowel Legionnaires dumped Guelph Merchants 11-4 at Guelph as Ted Wilson, Ted Lowell, Brantford and Hamilton trail in that order.

Joey Jay Hurls Two-Hitter Hoists Braves Back in Lead; Yankees Again Maul Tigers

By KD WILLES
Associated Press Sports Writer

Joey Jay has one mother his own with a two-hitter that hoisted the Braves back into the National League lead.

Jay blanked St. Louis Cardinals on two singles Wednesday night as the 1957 world series champions moved a full game ahead of San Francisco Giants. The Giants, after winning six in a row, slipped to second with 5-2 and 5-0 defeats by Philadelphia Phillies. The first was a completion of a June 23 suspended game and marked Eddie Sawyer's return as manager of the Phils, who moved from sixth to within .001 of the fourth-place Cardinals.

Cincinnati Redlegs defeated Chicago Cubs 6-6 in 10 innings and Pittsburgh Pirates plunked Los Angeles Dodgers into the cellar with 11-3 and 6-3 twilight victories.

Jay, a big righthander, faced only 29 batters. He walked none and struck out seven. There he retired 13 in a row. The only Cards who hit were Ken Boyer in the fifth inning and Don Blasingame in the ninth.

MAKE HITS PAYOFF

The Braves tagged loser Larry Jackson (6-6) for two runs in the first inning on Hank Aaron's second on Wes Covington's single and Ed Mathews' second — a homer.

The Phils trailed 1-0 with two out and two out in the sixth inning when the Jues 32 curlew singled, Wednesday night. Jerry Lumpe, Jim Landis and Norm Siebern. It was No. 25 for Mantle, returned to the Yankee lineup after a two-day absence while nursing a bruised arm, and No. 16 for Jay.

Art Ditmar, without a shutout in almost two years, had the Tigers handcuffed on five hits until the ninth inning, when he needed relief help from Bob Grim.

The Athletics beat Red Sox rookie Bill Monbouquette in his first major league decision after an unearned run in the first inning. Jim Gilliam's pair of two-run singles and Bob Cerv's sacrifice fly.

HOMERS, SINGLES.

Joe Ginsberg, who earlier counted Don Larsen's perfect game homer, singled home the first run of the rally. Jack Harshman's eighth victory over Bob Boyd's two-run double won it for Yankee George Zuverink (3-1).

Russ Nixon drove in three runs for the Indians with a homer and two-run double in a seven-run inning rally. Gary Geiger hit his first major league homer in the rally.

Jim Grant, who had shut four in a row, got the fourth victory from the Senators with a five-hitter for a 9-6 record.

BLUES DOWN GOLDS

WINDSOR (CP) — Wayne Robinson's homer defeated Joe Zalesky's Golds 2-1-13 Wednesday night as the defending western Ontario champion Blue Bombers held their first intra-squad game of the 1958 season.

Canucks, Yanks Split Honors In Canadian Amateur Golf

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian amateur golf championship, already short of the defending champion, went straight down the middle today by the international line with eight Canadian and eight American still left.

The big excitement of Wednesday's two rounds, which whittled the field from 64 to 16, was the first two-round victories for 1957 champion Nick Weslock of Windsor by 39-year-old Eric Hanson of Toronto. It was a two-up decision against the champion.

Jack Penrose of Miami Beach, Fla., one of two veteran Americans who had high pre-tournament ratings, fired a hole in one but passed out of the tournament three holes later.

Marty Stanovich, 46-year-old Winnipegger, bowed out to Doug Sajus of Vancouver 4 and 2.

ELIMINATES VETERAN

Wilf Homenuk of Winnipeg disposed of veteran Ed Meister of Willoughby, Ohio, at the 20th hole and then in the afternoon 4 and 4 over Gary Cowan of Kitchener, former Canadian junior champion.

Cowan won his opening round match by edging Gerry McDougall Detroit one up.

It was the extra hole Homenuk called Meister for teeing up his ball ahead of the marker after Meister had driven. Meister apologized and drove again. They halved the 19th and at the fourth short 20th Meister was in a little gully with his tee shot and took a five to Homenuk's par three.

Wilf met Cowan in the afternoon round and at the first hole Cowan marked his ball without being requested. Wilf objected and later on Cowan had also cleaned his ball.

COULD STIMIE HOLE

Wilf said he told Cowan the hole could be claimed but he chose to wish to play. Since Homenuk did not request a ruling at the time, no decision by the rules committee was necessary but Homenuk said he was told, after reporting the incident later, that he was correct.

Homenuk today faced Gene Christensen of Minneapolis in the third round. The fourth round of the tournament was carded for the afternoon.

The American-Canadian division for the third round came out even. There were six international matches and one out-throat for each country.

Homenuk today call on some remarkable golf shots to best Weslock. A 60-foot wedge shot from the edge of the pulpit twice came to his rescue when he climbed the hill through carpet grass from well off the green.

Weslock cut a two-hole deficit at ten with a desperate cut-the-corners drive at the 17th but lost the 18th to Hanson's 10-foot birdie putt.

Ti-Cats Play Squads Game Before 11,000

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League played their annual and final game of the season Wednesday night with Jack Jacobs' Golds defeating Ralph Sazio's Blacks 17-16 before 11,000 fans.

Gold touchdowns went to Skip Snesrud, Ron Howell, Joe Sardo and Maurice Bassett. Canadian quarterback Bob Cameron booted touchdown passes to Howell and Sardo while Glancenelli and Bassett scored seven close to Gerry McDougall scored three converts.

Steve Mosciuk kicked a convert and a 15-yard field goal. Ron Stegall made a touchdown plunge and Pierre Desaulniers passed 15 yards for the losers' points.

Richmond Hill Rink Winner Lawn Bowling Zone Finals

Under ideal weather conditions and on greens in perfect condition, the zone finals of the Provincial Lawn Bowling Association was held at the local greens on Wednesday. The winners in Singles, Doubles, Singles and Colts from districts 13, 14, 15 and 16 were in attendance and after the firing had ceased, Richmond Hill rink skipped by Perkins, A. Clarke, R. Lynett with Al White as skip will represent the zone in the Provincial finals to be held in Brampton on August 2nd.

A Cooper and Free Bell of Cobourg will represent the zone in the Doubles, while V. Foxhall also of Cobourg will contest the Singles, a rink skipped by J. Warnica of Barrie will represent the Colts, they being players with five years or less of bowling experience.

All the competitions were round-robin affairs with Belleville, Otawa, Cobourg and Richmond Hill being in the rinks competition. A Belleville rink of Ken Ashley, Claude Tice, Garn Dobby with Jerry Hyde as skip was beaten in the 21st draw by Ottawa 22-12, in the second draw the rink lost to Richmond Hill, 20-8, being defeated on the last end. In the third draw they defeated Oshawa 19-12.

Cobourg, Markham, Prescott and Campbellford competed in the doubles, while Cobourg, Trenton, Aurora and Ottawa were in the rinks. There were only three Colts rink attending and on each draw one rink had a bye. The bowlers were greeted by Mayor Hyde and he also added his welcome for the bowling club. The district chairman, Angus Putnam of Campbellford, also added his welcome, while Fred M. Rutherford, group chairman conducted the draw.

At the conclusion of the games, a delicious turkey dinner was provided by Mr. Mc-Evoy and his staff.

The results of the draw were:

Julie London Stars in Film On Artificial Insemination

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —In the search to find film subjects that will attract customers, the movie makers have come up with one on artificial insemination.

This is no sexation - packed quickie, but a top-flight production made in England and starring Julie London and Anthony Steel. Back here again, Julie talked about it.

"The title was A Question of Adultery," she explained, "but the censor's office won't let us use that title in America. I suppose the title here will be The Seventh Commandment."

The story, she related, was a composite of several cases that have happened in the British Isles. A husband and his pregnant wife are involved in an auto accident that causes her to lose the baby and him to become sterile. They have a test tube baby.

After the wife gives birth to the child, the marriage breaks up and the husband sues to have the child declared illegitimate. Two such cases have been tried in England and Scotland, Julie said. In one instance, the husband won, in the other he lost.

Julie admitted she had some qualms about doing the picture. She recalled how a somewhat prudish old daughter picked up the script and asked what the "adultery" meant. "It's a funny feeling to be making pictures your own children can't see," she sighed.

Julie's return to the screen set the pattern for her new acting career. She played a man-hungry, bottle-weary doll in The Great Man for Joe Pyne's film. She has done four films in a row with only one week's vacation between the films. The roles have called for her to get slugged and drugged, booted variously around.

"I can't understand it," she said.

She also has become the sultry star of western sagas. She just finished Man of the West with Gary Cooper. Before that, she did Saddle the Wind with Robert Taylor.

"I hate westerns," she admitted tiredly. "You stand out in the hot sun for hours at a time, wearing leather bobbesocks. And the blowing in your face and the light reflected off the rocks can really squint up. That's for cowboys."

Minors Form Player Body

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Players in the triple-A International League have formed the first player organization in minor league history and seek a pension plan, a representative said Wednesday night.

Tom Lasorda, Montreal Royals pitcher-coach, displayed a copy of a letter from a New York lawyer to league President Frank (Slug) Shaughnessy.

The letter from James P. Durante read in part:

"Please be advised that we represent the players of all eight International League baseball clubs.

"We have been retained by each of the duly elected player representatives to discuss with you and any other person you deem necessary various matters affecting the interest of the players."

It requested a conference with Shaughnessy by Aug. 4.

Lasorda said "Our main objective is trying to get a league pension plan in this and other triple-A leagues, similar to what they have in the majors.

"We feel that such a pension plan would encourage players and managers to stay in baseball even though they don't stick in the majors the five years necessary for a pension."

Tennessee Ernie's Fordisms Help Make Him Top TV Star

By GARBER DAVIDSON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tennessee Ernie Ford was asked if he planned any changes in his television shows this fall. He didn't say yes or no or maybe. He said: "No sir Ringling, I'm sticking to got a boatload of fish."

That's a Fordism. Ernie is not a simple yes or no man. When the occasion calls for it he comes out with a country-style metaphor to fit. And usually it fits very nicely.

Asked for a few typical Ford phrases he came up with a hefty list, some of Tennessee origin and others colored by Ernie.

TYPICAL FORDISMS

Here they are, mostly self-explanatory:

"I'm tired as a two-pound hen that's laid a three-pound egg."

"Thicker than fleas on a dog."

"Colder than a beaver's belly in a bucket of ice water, you may as well milk."

"Nervous as a long-tailed cat in a roomful of rocking chairs."

"I feel like I been rode hard and put away wet."

"She's built like a sackful of doorknobs."

"Redder than a gander's feet in a huckleberry patch."

"It's as useful as a milking stool under a bull."

"It caused as much talk as a new sweater in the hen house."

HE'S DOING WELL

Ford is doing very well in television and television is his mainstay. Unlike many other performers, he does not make movies or go out on night club dates, although he does appear at state and county fairs. His other entertainment activity is making records.

He is a strong believer in the relaxed, comfortable school of television.

"Bringing a show into the home is altogether different from the theatre or a night club," he commented. "I've learned remembering that I am being watched in the living room, where people are relaxed—where pop is in his shirtsleeves, and where there is no fancy dress that they can change the channel at any moment."

RELAXED SHOW WANTED

People who are relaxing at home want an easygoing, cheerful, relaxed kind of show, he said.

Ford said he doesn't think people at home go too much now for the big, energetic, frantic shows with the big scenes. "The atmosphere has changed," he said. "It takes a type of entertainment where you (the entertainer) are as comfortable as he (the viewer) is."

Maybe the hillbilly singer has got himself a pretty good formula. At any rate, while his network (NBC) was retreshing and

Hampton Pool Just Impressed With Argo Show

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts played only their first intersquad game Wednesday night and coach Hamp Pool was only mildly impressed by the progress of his Big Four Football League team.

The Blues, handled by guest coach Sam Boyd from Baylor University, rallied for a touchdown in the last quarter to defeat the Whites, 28-23. Coaching the losers was Wayne Hardin, the head coach at Annapolis, also a guest coach.

Dick Shatto, a contender for the quarterback position, scored two touchdowns for the Whites, passed to end Art Powell for another and booted three converts. The Whites scored two more points on a safety touch.

Touchdown scorers for the Blues were Dave Mann with two, Jackie Parker and Don Peller. Bart Moll added the four converts.

Hamp, along with 6,659 fans in Varsity Stadium, was alternately pleased and dismayed by what he saw.

A major item in the Argonaut quarterback sweepstakes between holdover Shatto, former University of Buffalo signal-caller Parker, homebrew Gerry Doucette and new import Ken Ford from Hardin-Simmons College.

Shatto completed 10 of 20 passes in directing his team to a total of 27 first downs compared with 20 for the winning Blues guided by Doucette and Ford. Doucette connected on six of 12 passes while Ford clicked on five of 15 and had four intercepted.

Tells of Experience in Relieving Rundown Condition, Weak Upset Stomach and Headaches.

To people suffering from tired, rundown conditions, indigestion, nervous irritability, backache or rheumatic pains, Syntona Herbal Compound offers surprisingly fast and effective relief.

Mr. Sam Kimble, R.R. 1, St. Thomas, Ontario, said in a recent statement:

"In my opinion there is nothing like Syntona. If you are rundown, feel tired out and seem to have no pep, it's really surprising how quickly it helps you to make a change for the better. Besides, at the same time it relieves sick stomach disturbances such as gas, indigestion or heartburn. Many times I've noticed that way my periods was upset by headaches and irritation and Syntona has quickly put me right again."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan the Druggist.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Lily Anderson was hostess to 10 members of the Rylstone Women's Association, the Rev. H. E. Beare, and several children. The president, Mrs. Ray Stewart, was in charge of the meeting and opened with the theme song, "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me", followed by prayer by Mr. Beare.

The hymn "Saviour Like a Shepherd Lead Me", was sung and the Scripture reading Ephesians chapter 5:5-12 was read by Mrs. Ray Stewart. A reading "I Thank Thee Lord", was given by Mrs. Will Rutherford, and Mrs. Bob Spencer read the 95th Psalm. Another reading "To be Thoughtful is to be Thankful" was given by Mrs. Will Rutherford, and the hymn, "All The Way My Saviour Leads Me", was sung. A reading "Help" was given by Marilyn Stewart and Mrs. Sanford Meikiejohn read a history of Rylstone Church from its beginning in the Nineteenth Century. There was some discussion on the decoration of the present church, and the meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Thomson. Conveners will be Mrs. Bob Spencer and Mrs. Fred McKeown.

Anniversary services will be held at Rylstone United Church on Sunday, September 14, with the Rev. J. R. McCrea of Carlinton as guest speaker. There will also be special music.

On Sunday evening the Women's Institute held the third in the series of Community concerts at Crowe River Bridge, following is the program: theme song — "Church in the Wildwood"; marimba solo — "Pass Me Not O Gentle Saviour", and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise", by Marshall Sills, of Campbellford; community singing — "What a Friend We Have in Jesus", "Stand Up for Jesus", and "Will Your Anchor Hold", led by a quintet of men, Wills and Ernest Irwin, Aaron Anderson, Bob Spencer and Gordon Osborne; tape recordings of part of a previous concert, by Harry Bourne; vocal solos "He'll Understand, and Say Well Done", and "Amazing Grace," by Mrs. Dan Stewart, with Mrs. Ellis Jones at the organ: bag-pipe solo — "He Ledeth Me", "When He Cometh", and "Shall We Gather at the River", by Bob Spencer; vocal by the quartet — "O God Our Help In Ages Past", marimba solo — "Aloha Oe" and "Waiting for the Robert E. Lee" by Marshall Sills, of Campbellford; National Anthem.

There wil be another concert on Sunday evening July 27th. A local pipe band will be in attendance, and another good program is being planned.

Dennis Gray was injured while playing in the barn last week. While jumping off a beam onto a load of hay one of his playmates accidentally jumped on his leg, breaking it. He is in Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordie Sutherland and family, of Stirling, and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thomson and family were Sunday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. William Thomson and Andrew, 12th line.

Mrs. Ira Simpson, of Braudon, was a Saturday caller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Meikiejohn and family.

Stirling

STIRLING — Miss Susan Smith, Ottawa, spent the week-end with her grandmother, Mrs. H. C. David, in the village, and attended the shower for her aunt on Saturday.

The Scottish Home and Country reports that for the past nine years a rural Women's Institute group in Scotland has gathered heather from the Mormund Braes and sent it to their Friendship Link Institute in Regina Sask. There it was sold and the proceeds used to purchase two ambulances for the use of crippled children. The Institute in Scotland feel their heather collection has forged a friendship link that will never be forgotten.

Mr. Thomas Spry observed his 84th birthday last Thursday.

Mrs. Walter Barker is holidaying with friends at Cobourg.

Mr. Clayton Richardson is ill at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morley Richardson in the River Valley district.

Miss Gladys Bly, Toronto, is camping at the Rosebush Landing, Trent River.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson have returned to the village to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clendenning, Toronto, are visiting her father, Mr. Sam Hatton.

Industrialist Pleased With Rockies Studies

VANCOUVER (CP) — Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren said Wednesday studies made by his group in the Rocky Mountain trench area of British Columbia have yielded "even more than we expected."

He said on his arrival here for planning talks that he anticipates no difficulty raising capital for the huge power development and industrial empire his organization hopes to establish in the area.

Dr. Wenner-Gren said in an interview the North American business recession has not changed his plans.

Final reports on power surveys for the B.C. project will be ready in a few weeks. Work is likely to start in 1960.

Dr. Wenner-Gren and other company officials probably will meet Premier Bennett and the provincial cabinet to discuss developments. Plans call for a power-house which would be the world's largest single hydro-electrical installation, a monorail railway linking cities and industrial plants in the area and establishment of a number of industries which would use part of the power output.

Fall From Tree Onto Hydro Line Proves Fatal

STREETSVILLE, Ont. (CP)— Thomas Roberts, 16, of Streetsville district was electrocuted Wednesday night when he fell from a tree onto a hydro wire.

Police said Roberts had gone to visit a friend, Carol Hayward, 14, but had not found her home. He climbed a tree overlooking the farm where she lived, hoping to spot her.

Linda, 9, Carol's sister, said she saw the youth fall from the tree, hit the wires and bounce to the ground.

Volunteer firemen in this village 18 miles west of Toronto worked without success for an hour in an effort to revive the youth.

Cypriots Stage Protest Strike In Main Towns

NICOSIA (Reuters) —Greek-Cypriots staged a general strike in the island's main towns today in protest to the arrest of 1,459 Cypriots by British security forces.

The walkout started shortly after the lifting of a government curfew order which halted normal life in Cyprus for 48 hours.

Workers drifted back to their jobs but returned to their homes after the strike order was passed from mouth to mouth. Soon the shops which had just reopened for the first time since Monday clamped their shutters shut again.

Governor Sir Hugh Foot imposed the drastic curfew after savage fighting between Greek and Turkish residents.

After the curfew had lifted, a 70-year-old Turkish shepherd was found shot to death in northern Cyprus. The killing brought the death toll here in the last 13 days to 56.

Vicious retaliation between Greeks and Turks — hopelessly divided over the political future of the island—has taken 100 lives since the beginning of June.

Co-op Formed To Support Wheat Price

CHATHAM (CP)—An incorporated company to be known as the Ontario Wheat Producers' Co-operative Ltd., has been formed by the Ontario Wheat Producers' Market Board, it was announced here Wednesday.

The co-operative has appointed United Co-operatives of Ontario, grain division, Chatham, as its agents to enter the market and to buy and sell wheat on behalf of the Wheat Producers' Co-op.

President of the new co-op, R. J. Myers, Chatham, said the function of the new organization is to purchase wheat at any time the market prices fall below $1.45 f.o.b. track, for No. 2 Ontario wheat or better, 14 per cent moisture.

"It is the intent of the co-operative to export the wheat it buys and at a loss if necessary," Mr. Myers said. "The loss will be paid out of the fund being created from the collection of a nine-cent equalization levy on every bushel of wheat sold in Ontario."

Mr. Myers said the balance of the fund would be refunded to the producer equally at the end of each crop year—June 30—on the basis of the number of bushels sold.

Secret UN Talks Smoothing Way For Summit Meet

Representation of Iraq One of Thorny Issues

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secret consultations are going on at the United Nations to settle the thorny issue of Iraqi representation in advance of a possible Security Council summit meeting.

Qualified sources predicted today the outcome will be the seating of a representative of the new revolutionary regime on the 11-nation council.

UN diplomats are anxious to avoid any East-West ruckus the outset of a summit meeting. That could happen if the council got bogged down in an argument over Iraqi representation.

STILL FROM OLD REGIME

Up to now the council has not decided whether Hashim Jawad, here to represent the revolutionary regime, should take the place of Abdul Majid Abbass who has been occupying Iraq's seat. Abbass' credentials were signed by Fadhil Jamali, former foreign minister now in jail in Baghdad.

If the revolutionary regime is recognized, the representative is expected to be invited by the council member—the only Arab nations that took part in previous council debate on the Middle East crisis.

It's an open question whether the other Arab nations in the UN —Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Libya and Sudan—would be invited to take part.

There is also a speculation whether Israel will bid for an invitation. Foreign ministry sources in Jerusalem said Thursday there was no move so far to get invited, But Israeli delegates at the UN say they won't be surprised if word comes through to seek an invitation for Premier David Ben-Gurion.

In addition, President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil has informed Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold that Latin - American countries ought to be represented at the summit conference if it is held outside the UN.

78,000 FARMERS VOTE TODAY ON HOG MARKETING

Co-operative Scheme Depends on Result

TORONTO (CP)—The future of the co-operative hog marketing system in Ontario rested today in the hands of more than 78,000 farmers.

Their votes in a plebiscite will determine whether the plan of compulsory marketing of hogs through assembly yards will be maintained and extended.

Polls are open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at 620 township polling stations in 40 counties. The weather outlook was sunny and warm, followed by evening thunderstorms.

Unofficial results are expected tonight but the official results will not be available until Monday or Tuesday after the returns are mailed by township clerks to the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board.

TWO-THIRDS MAJORITY

Agriculture Minister Goodfellow ordered the vote three months ago. He stated that a two-thirds majority is required to keep the program in operation. Defeat would mean a period of direct sales between farmer and packer although the new program might be introduced.

The $100,000,000-a-year co-operative marketing plan, operated by the Ontario Hog Producers Co-operative, has been evolved during the last 17 years, a period marked by controversy and court actions.

Supporters of the plan contend it has meant orderly and progressive methods in farm marketing systems. Gordon Greer of Orkney, president of the United Farmers Federation of Agriculture, said earlier this week opponents of the plan "apparently want farmers to go back to the horse and buggy days."

Producers opposed to the system contend that shipping their hogs to yards instead of direct to packing plants resulted in higher handling costs and weight losses among hogs.

Initially 95 per cent of the producers voted for collective action. In 1953, following lengthy negotiations with the packers, the Ontario Hog Producers' Association was set up sole marketing authority. Two years later the co-operative was organized to handle the job and it started its form assembly yards in 1956.

NOW IN 40 COUNTIES

By last September the co-operative had extended its compulsory marketing system to 40 counties. If the program wins the necessary majority, co-operative officials say the assembly yards will be extended to all 42 counties.

About 18,000,000 to 19,000,000 hogs marketed annually in Ontario now are moved through the yards. Packers buy them under a system of competitive bidding.

Hog producer Theodore Parker of Schringville, near Stratford, went to the Supreme Court of Canada last year in an effort to maintain his right to sell on a traditional independent fashion. The court upheld the plan in general but the special amendment was forced to make some amendments to it.
